I was fortunate to be raised in a good Christian home. From the time I could speak, my parents both insisted and demanded that I be courteous, polite and respectful to all people. When I was a teenager, my father required that I work on our family tobacco farm each summer. From this I learned to appreciate hard work as well as the importance of communicating and working daily with people from all walks of life.

My college experience was where I began interacting with people other than ones from my hometown. By joining a fraternity and serving in the student body Senate, I began to appreciate the value of what my parents and community had installed in me.

Since graduating law school, I have participated in numerous volunteer efforts in my home town of Kingstree. I have been active in the political arena and have always strived to exercise professionalism when facing the most difficult or adverse situations. I believe my parents and community installed a humble and hard working attitude in me that is commonly found in small towns across this state.

With the understanding that learning is a lifelong process, I would like to use my experience and these values to ensure a fair, equitable and meaningful remedy in any matter that may present itself before me.
