Corrections, Department of

Agency has improved greatly since the departure of Jon Ozmint in 2010/2011. Judge Byars quickly improved both moral and productivity within the agency. He added several excellent porrgams and understood the need to rehabilitate offenders. Bryan Striling is also effective as the appointed leader of the agency. Ths true issue comes down to one point only, to be effectiev running this agency requires someone who truely understands what it is like to work in an insititution. To hear the doors slam and witness the inmates first hand as an entry level employee. Apponting attroneys to run a prison was a mistake the momemnt Jon Ozmint was appointed by a previuos Govenor. He has none of the required qualitates to truely lead this or any agency is apparent upon meeting him. Byars was a good transition appointment to lead the agency back to being effective. Mr. Stirling is an intelligent man and an effecitive leader, but being an Attorney first and a Jailer second does not alaways lead to success. The agency needs a leader who understands the complexities of running a Correctional agency.
