- Foster Care
- Adoption
- Domestic Violence Services
- Independent Living

Child Protective Services

- Serves children 0 to 18 years old
- Child Protective Services receive and investigate reports of child abuse and neglect. These services, provided or coordinated by DSS, are designed to maintain children safely in their own homes when possible, reunite the family as soon as possible or place the children with relatives or in foster or group care, when necessary.

Child Protective Services

Law enforcement has the sole authority to remove children and place into emergency protective custody, or a Family Court Judge can issue an ex parte order for the removal of the child. The Family Court system determines whether children are placed in DSS custody due to abuse or neglect and if termination of parental rights is warranted.

Adult Protective Services

APS – Adults 18 years old and up

Adult Protective Services protect the health and welfare of elderly and disabled adults. These services are provided to individuals who are 18 or older and are victims of actual or potential abuse, neglect or exploitation. This mistreatment may be caused by others or it may be self-inflicted. DSS is authorized to investigate all reports and provide services to meet the adults' basic needs and ensure their safety.

Foster Care

Foster Children – Children 0 to 21 years old

Foster care provides temporary services for children removed from their families because of abuse, neglect or exploitation by a parent or guardian. The SCDSS recruits and licenses temporary foster homes and group care for children, while plans are implemented for permanent placements.

DSS also has specialized treatment and support services for children in foster care who have emotional and behavioral problems through the Intensive Foster Care and Clinical Services Office (IFCCS). When a child is identified with emotional/behavioral problems, DSS arranges for an interagency staffing on the child, to determine whether the child needs services through the Interagency System for Caring for Emotionally Disturbed Children (ISCEDC), and to identify the most appropriate services that can best meet the individual child's needs.

Adoption

DSS facilitates adoption for the children in its custody who are unable to be returned to their homes. Adoption services include assessment and preparation of children for adoption, recruitment of adoptive families, placement of children in adoptive homes, and financial subsidization of the costs of the adoption proceeding.

A large number of children available for adoption are older, from ethnic minorities or racially mixed backgrounds, have physical or emotional handicaps or are members of sibling groups.

Domestic Violence Services

DSS partners with other state agencies such as the Department of Public Safety and the Department of Health and Environmental Control in an effort to develop and maintain best practices in domestic violence prevention and works closely with shelter programs and batterer intervention providers by providing technical assistance related to policy and best practices development.

Independent Living

Independent Living is defined as an array of services provided to adolescents ages 13 to 21. The purpose of the Independent Living program is to provide the developmental skills necessary for foster adolescents to live healthy, productive, self-sufficient and responsible adult lives. The program's overall goal is to provide foster adolescents with opportunities to learn needed independent living skills and increase the likelihood of their successful transition from the foster care system.
