I. Agency Snapshot

A. Glossary of Terms

1. Glossary of agency terms.

Term, Phrase or Acronym	Meaning of the Term, Phrase or Acronym
SCSL	South Carolina State Library
DayByDaySC	The South Carolina Day by Day Family Literacy Calendar is designed to be a tool that families, caregivers, educators, and librarians can use at home and in the classroom to further develop early literacy skills that help young children become prepared for, and to do better in, school. The Calendar is a project of the South Carolina State Library, working in partnership with many agencies and organizations, and primarily funded by a Library Services and Technology Act grant from the U.S. Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS).
DISCUS	South Carolina's Virtual Library is the "information place" for all South Carolinians. Discus, which stands for Digital Information for South Carolina Users, provides free access to an electronic library that is available 24/7. Discus is a collection of subscription databases with an array of resources ranging from books and magazines to maps and videos. This collection of databases provides high-quality publications in an easy to navigate format for students and teachers alike. Discus allows students to safely search for up-to-date information without sifting through advertisements and non-educational results found in search engines such as Google. Among the top reasons to use subscription databases is it prepares young students to find credible sources for later academic achievement.
TBS	Talking Book Services
ILL	Interlibrary Loan
IMLS	U.S. Institute of Museum and Library Services
Literacy 2030	Literacy 2030 addresses South Carolina's literacy efforts through improved community collaboration. The South Carolina State Library leads the Literacy 2030 initiative with many allies who develop community partnerships, align services, advocate for increased literacy, and build capacity to move the literacy rate in South Carolina towards 100 percent. This partnership is designed to support libraries in becoming a convening voice in the state around literacy, uniting stakeholders under an admittedly challenging, yet important goal. We believe in the power of collaboration to change lives. We believe that by 2030, we will see our state transformed.
Read-In	The Read-In is SC's Premier Children's Reading Event, sponsored by the South Carolina State Library and the South Carolina Association of School Librarians, that lets students show why kids who read succeed. Students parade from the State Library to the Statehouse. This year the Read-In will take place Thursday, April 2, 2020.

ReadSC	Also known as the South Carolina Center for the Book. Starting in 1984, the Center for the Book in the Library began to establish affiliate centers in the 50 states. Today, there is a State Center for the Book in all 50 states, as well as the District of Columbia and the U.S. Virgin Islands. These Center for the Book affiliates carry out the national Center's mission in their local areas, sponsor programs that highlight their area's literary heritage and call attention to the importance of books, reading, literacy and libraries. Affiliates must submit an application to become part of -- and retain -- their Center for the Book status, which is renewable for a three-year period. The Center for the Book has established guidelines for creating affiliates and for programming activities.
REG	Read Eat Grow - SC Read Eat Grow is an initiative started by the South Carolina State Library in an effort to increase information regarding and access to healthy food. Over the last year, we have been gathering information to combine cross-disciplinary resources from health, wellness, safety, family literacy, learning, reading exercise, cooking and community outreach to build a comprehensive Food Literacy Program for the state of South Carolina. An initial pilot program called SC Plants the Seed combined food education and family wellness services through a partnership with state agencies and a farmer at the public library. "Read Eat Grow" is a new initiative under the umbrella of food literacy to include training and outreach all year long.
SC Plants the Seed	The goals of SC Plants the Seed are to promote early literacy and lifelong learning, to increase awareness about locally farmed produce, to provide lower income and rural populations the chance to buy healthier foods, and to educate residents about safe food preparation and storage.
SCLENDS	South Carolina Library Evergreen Network Delivery System
South Carolina State Documents Depository	The South Carolina State Documents Depository provides access to publications produced by state agencies and state-supported academic institutions. These publications provide citizens with crucial information about state government, including statistics, annual accountability reports, and data on a wide variety of topics related to the state. Items in the State Documents Depository include both print publications and "born digital" documents often originally published on agency websites.
StudySC	This website is loaded with web resources for K-12 homework help, projects, and more. It also provides teachers with lesson plans and other content to support classroom activities. Created by the South Carolina State Library, StudySC is arranged by grade level and subject area

	and it meets South Carolina-specific curriculum standards. Whether students are looking for artist biographies or Native American tribes and Civil War timelines, they can find the information they need quickly.

D. Successes and Issues

9. 3-4 agency successes.

Briefly describe 3-4 agency successes.

Broadband

The South Carolina State Library has been a leader in the broadband issue. We have been extremely focused on addressing the equity issues related to connectivity in our state and broadband extension intensely for the last three years. Our Information Technology Department has assisted thirty county libraries with issues ranging from technology infrastructure assessments to onsite implementation. We have physically rewired, reconstructed, and created in many instances, infrastructure to support broadband. We believe that equal access creates opportunity. Without internet access children across our state cannot access reliable resources to do research, homework, or classwork. Equal access to information provides people with the ability to compete – compete for college admittance, compete for jobs, etc. Our goal was to have every library at 100Mbps and we reached this goal when we brought Hardeeville, Cheraw, Newberry and Whitmire up to 100Mbps. We worked with economic development offices, and vendors – some of whom we had to convince to go into areas like Darlington County where a railroad line was a barrier to access, but we got it done. Every library in South Carolina now functions at 100Mbps. Libraries are community hubs. They are the spaces where people can go to look for jobs, apply for jobs, do homework, research items of interest, and engage in their community. Many libraries are even hubs for SCDEW. A major point of focus has been on assisting public libraries with taking advantage of Federal E-Rate funds for network infrastructure improvements. We assisted Chesterfield, Dillon, Newberry, Saluda, Marion, Cherokee, Sumter, Greenwood, Allendale-Hampton-Jasper, Georgetown, Darlington, Orangeburg, Williamsburg, Colleton, Horry, and Spartanburg library systems with filing for Category 2 E-Rate funds for the first time. Funding applications totaled $1,271,159.42. We provided technical lead assistance for the Aiken, Bamberg, Barnwell, and Edgefield (ABBE) Regional Library System during the AT&T ASE migration. Staff worked with AT&T and SEGRA to migrate 14 branch locations to AT&T's ASE Network. Assistance included hands-on reconfiguration of network infrastructure that saved the library system thousands of dollars. Our staff members acted as the technical lead for the Chesterfield Library System to address poor network performance between branch locations, which greatly hindered the library system efforts to serve their communities. Working with network service providers, SEGRA and Sandhills Telephone Co-op, staff helped solve issues that had plagued the library system for years. We provided technical assistance to the Marion Library System to work with their vendor to identify and implement the best solutions to address the library system's troubled phone and network infrastructure. Staff provided guidance, recommendations, and product specifications. We also collaborated with a vendor to provide a Security Awareness pilot training program to the Charleston, Kershaw, and York County Public Library systems.

National Outreach

The South Carolina State Library has contributed in many areas on a National scale. We frequently consult with other State Libraries and share our plans or projects for implementation in other states.

- a. We were the first State Library to have a Library Development Consultant who focused on equity, diversity, and inclusion in library services. We also have an Inclusive Services Center. The center features a variety of assistive technology and accessibility tools, as well as a circulating collection of materials related to equity, diversity, and inclusion in library services. The collection includes fiction for children and youth from diverse backgrounds, professional resources for library staff working with all ages, and materials in accessible formats, such as braille and sensory books.
- b. Our Day-by-Day literacy calendar has been replicated in 12 states across the nation. The Day-by-Day Literacy calendar has a direct impact on literacy comprehension, family engagement, and child readiness for school and achievement.
- c. Our Homework Help Center project expanded internet connectivity for the purpose of providing students with devices that allowed them to access online resources, providing them with the ability to complete school assignments and access afterschool homework assistance. Devices were deployed to students who had been identified by their school as in critical need either because of access or academic issues. No student should be placed at a disadvantage due to their circumstances and investing in after-school internet connectivity is vital to the success of children in South Carolina.

State's Document Depository

The South Carolina State Library's is the state's document depository. We have worked diligently to digitize state documents. The South Carolina State Documents Depository currently provides access to 27, 742 State document items. During the FY19, these collections had 284,111 page views, a 45% increase from FY18. The State Library collaborates with many state agencies to digitize items of interest or request. During FY19, we scanned and created metadata for the Colin J. McRae Papers collection for the South Carolina Confederate Relic Room and Military Museum; 100 documents are now online and available. Other projects include:

- a. Sandlapper Magazine, Images magazines from the South Carolina State Museum;
- b. South Carolina State Board of Health annual reports;
- c. Record of the Minutes of the Paul Hayne Circle in Oconee County;
- d. State Parks newsletters, as part of a collaboration with Clemson University Libraries;
- e. Transcription work for the Abstract of Voter Registrations to the Military Government, 1868, which provided assistance to Barnwell and Williamsburg Counties.

Compliance

The South Carolina State Library's mission, vision, strategic directions, and goals are in alignment with our financial budget structure, planned projects, and agency objectives. All goals and objectives have been met, all external audits have been successful and the agency is considered in compliance with all best practices.

10. 3-4 agency challenges.

Briefly describe 3-4 agency challenges and preparations, if any, to address these issues.

Personnel Costs

The staff of the State Library are experts in their field. Their commitment drives our ability to provide quality resources for our patrons. We are finding it increasingly difficult to compete and retain qualified staff, due in large part to the increasing costs associated with employee benefits and retirement contribution and the lack of funding available for increases to salary. This has left us with an inability to hire and retain qualified personnel, resulting in an inability to provide quality programs and resources. It would be helpful to place a cap on the costs associated with employee benefits and retirement contribution will attract potential applicants to the State of South Carolina. Additionally, the ability to compensate staff at a higher rate will allow the State to recruit and retain the most qualified employees.

Statewide Consortia Purchases

The State Library is fiscally responsible: we diligently negotiate multi-year purchases that will provide the largest statewide impact. While Discus is the primary learning tool for students statewide, we regularly identify additional resources that could be of value to teachers and the K-12 community. However, funding limitations prevent us from procuring and sustaining the necessary resources. This leads to disparate resources in the state and will continue to leave the most vulnerable and in-need South Carolinians without the essential resources to be successful in school and the work environment. Encouragement of partnerships with other state agencies with similar missions could reduce the cost burden of electronic resources through negotiation of consortia purchases. By pooling our resources, we could provide equal access to additional shared resources for the entire state, not just certain areas of the state that are well funded.

Parking

The State Library has limited parking and there are limited options for parking in the surrounding capital complex area. Research and procurement by the Department of Administration should be done to address this issue.

11. 3-4 emerging issues. Briefly describe 3-4 emerging issues anticipated to have an impact on agency operations in the upcoming five years and preparations, if any, to address these issues.

Authorization

Lack of appropriate authorization to hire additional staff to handle growing business.

Parking

Lack of appropriate parking.

II. Agency Records, Policies, and Risk Mitigation Practices

A. Records and Policies Management

12. (A) Agency's records management policy and the position or division responsible for managing this policy.

The South Carolina State Library follows the records management and retention policy set forth by the South Carolina Department for Archives and History for state records and the policy set forth by the National Archives and Records Administration.

The designated Records Officer for the South Carolina State Library is the Deputy director of Library Resources and Services.

(B) Agency's status in regards to compliance with the records management policy and explanation for non-compliance, if the agency is non-compliant.

The South Carolina State Library is actively compliant and regularly submits destruction forms and transfers records both in print and electronically to State Archives for permanent retention.

13. Agency's schedule for regularly reviewing and updating, as necessary, all agency policies and explanation for lack of a schedule, if the agency does not have a schedule.

The agency specific schedule for the South Carolina State Library was created in conjunction with the South Carolina Department of Archives and History in 1982. Although remaining in compliance, the State Library has not formally reviewed the schedule for updating. Once the Deputy Director of Library Resources and Services assumed the duties of Records Retention Officer after the retirement of the previous officer, the Deputy Director is in the process of reviewing the agency specific schedule in coordination with a Records Officer from Department of Archives and History to revise and bring the schedule up to date. Once that process is completed, a regular annual review of the records policy and schedule will take place.

14. (A) Agency's status in regards to compliance with S.C. Code Ann. §1-23-120(J) that requires agencies to conduct a formal review of its regulations every five years.

This is done nearly every year with the staff from both the House and the Senate.

(B) Last time the agency conducted a formal review of its regulations.

2019

(C) Last time the agency submitted new or revised regulations to the General Assembly.

2015

15. How the agency collaborates with other agencies to seek funding (e.g. grant and federal funding).

The South Carolina State Library understands and values collaboration and the power of consortia purchasing. We are fully committed to working with other entities to include state agencies, universities, and non-profits to deliver services to South Carolinians at the lowest price possible. The State Library is a founding member of the SCLENDS (South Carolina Library Evergreen Network Delivery System) consortia, which consists of collaboration of 20 county libraries and the State Library. Consortium members enjoy a shared catalog of books, audio, and video materials, and membership remains open to interested libraries: SCLENDS currently serves almost one-half of the state's population. Any South Carolina resident in a SCLENDS member county may obtain a card for access to 2,729,934 items. The State Library maintains the integrity of the catalog and provides technical support for member libraries.

We are extremely proud of the partnerships that we have cultivated over the last ten years and have utilized those partnerships on a variety of projects. Some of our partners include the following:

- South Carolina State Museum
- South Carolina Arts Commission
- South Carolina Archives and History
- South Carolina Development of Employment and Workforce
- South Carolina Human Affairs Commission
- South Carolina Department of Health and Environmental Control
- South Carolina First Steps
- University of South Carolina
- South Carolina Commission for the Blind
- South Carolina Parks and Recreation
- South Carolina Department of Education
- South Carolina Division of Information Technology
- South Carolina Confederate Relic Room and Military Museum

- South Carolina State Board of Health
 - Clemson University
 - South Carolina Voters Registration
 - South Carolina Department of Agriculture

The above is by no means a complete list of partners; however, it does highlight our proactive desire to collaborate with a focus on service and fiscal responsibility.

17. (A) Agency's internal audit process and/or other risk mitigation practices.

Staff members continuously review the agency's fiscal processes and procedures to ensure that the State Library acts in the most fiduciary responsible way possible to leverage all funds. The agency uses an internal financial dashboard that tracks each expenditure to the project, category and agency mandate level.

A separation of duty procedure and process exists for each level of purchasing.

VII. Feedback (Optional)

Agency feedback

23. (A) Other questions that may help the Committee and public understand how the agency operates, budgets, and performs

The South Carolina State Library’s mission is to develop, support, and sustain a thriving statewide community of learners who are committed to making South Carolina stronger. We serve the people of South Carolina by supporting state government and libraries in order to provide opportunities for learning in a changing environment. Our operating principles are innovation, collaboration, participation, and preservation.

Questions:

- How does the South Carolina State Library support libraries?
- What resources are available to the General Assembly through the agency?
- What resources does the agency supply that support teachers, and students?
- How does the agency support and/or partner with other state agencies?
- Talking Book Services patrons
- What is the agency’s role with regards to state documents?
- What resources are available to the general public?
- Explain the agency’s budget process and accountability.
- Explain the agency’s approach to employee performance reviews and employee feedback.

(B) Best ways for the Committee to compare the specific results the agency obtained with the resources the agency invested

Compare the financial process and accountability with results achieved by each action.

(C) Changes to the report questions, format, etc., agency representatives would recommend.

The calculation method used to account for employee time is complicated and leads to inaccuracies. It is also extremely difficult to achieve an accurate number if an agency does not track work time by deliverable.

(D) Benefits agency representatives see in the public having access to the information in this report.

The funds and resources used by each state agency are public funds and should be transparent, easily traced and easy to understand.

(E) Two to three things agency representatives could do differently next time (or it could advise other agencies to do) to complete the report in less time and at a lower cost to the agency.

The agency representatives were professional, polite, and helpful. No recommendations for interactions or directions regarding the agency representatives.

The deliverables piece of this document is significant. We identified 206 specific deliverables for our agency; for a small agency of 48 staff, documenting and detailing to the level required is an extreme undertaking and required weeks of work. We currently track each project that we work on, and have an internal financial dashboard that we use to track expenditures. If we had not already done those two things, this task would have been nearly impossible. There is a concern for agencies who do not have such internal tracking mechanisms in place; the ability to achieve accurate results seems compromised.

It would be helpful if instead of documenting each deliverable, documentation could be given for an overall goal or project. For example, Discus is the state's electronic library open 24 hours a day and accessible to any person in South Carolina. Three people are assigned to that project, with a total budget in excess of $3M. We identified 23 separate deliverables for this one project that required documentation. The funds however are not spent based on 23 separate deliverables, many are packages ranging from kindergarten to 12th grade. Staff time is not spent based on 23 separate deliverables, as deliverables cross over.

(F) Other comments or suggestions from the agency.

This is a worthwhile exercise for each state agency. However, if training was shared on the front end of expectations in advance an agency could begin tracking information in a manner they could accurately report. This would require a four year lead time if the information being collected is three consecutive years. The accountability report in its previous format of 2007-2011 contained much of this same information for each agency and would be a helpful guide. The previous version of the accountability report contained much more information that when completed accurately and used correctly would provide significant in-depth information for the General Assembly and general public. The previous version of the accountability report was approximately 50 pages with detailed agency information, whereas the current version is 10 pages and is more closely related to an overall synopsis of basic information.

The rate of application for public librarian certification increased significantly after we implemented an online application form in February 2019. Few of the smaller counties require certification for their staff, but the larger systems which employ more MUS-degreed librarians encourage or require staff to apply for certification as part of their hiring/onboarding process. The certification process does not require any ongoing continuing education or credit hours, but looks at library-related work experience and completion of the MUS degree.	This work began in December 2017 when the Inclusive Services Consultant was hired.

10		Deliverable description	Impact Grants - Sumter County - $7,280.35 - Make Station: The Make Station at the Sumter County Library is a place where people in the community can come together to tinker, collaborate, design, investigate, and create. In partnership with the Salvation Army Boys and Girls Club, the library will host a series of Tech Playground programs which will allow children to solve STEM challenges collaboratively. The library will also partner with the Shepherd's Center of Sumter to offer monthly craft programs for seniors in the Make Station. Members of the general public will also be invited to create with us during our Crafty Folks programs and at Saturday Crafternoon workshops. In addition, throughout the year the library will host craft and technology programs for teens. The hands-on, creative, social programs at the Make Station will add a new dimension to the Sumter County Library's mission to promote life-long learning.	Impact Grants - Greenville County - $8,650.00 - G Suite Learning Circles: Using an effective programming model called a learning circle, which combines online learning with lightly facilitated, in person meetings led by library staff, we will conduct seven-week, offsite technology skills trainings for underserved adults who are unemployed or who have low income. In order to effectively engage with our target audience and make our project services more accessible to those experiencing certain barriers, we will purchase and deploy Chromebooks and wireless internet hotspots in order to strategically host our learning circles at partner facilities in or near economically challenged communities in Greenville County. We will engage partner organizations to leverage their connections with our target audience, aid us in promotion and evaluation of the project, and create pathways for learning circle participants to access workforce services, additional training opportunities, and other resources. Our goal is to equip our customers with foundational, readily applicable digital skills that will support their personal and professional success.	Impact Grants - Sumter County Library - $9,581 STEM Adventures Project: The Sumter County Library offered a wide variety of science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM) programs to elementary and middle school students through the STEM Adventures LSTA grant. The library partnered with the Salvation Army Boys and Girls Club to help serve populations typically under-represented in STEM fields. The library also offered programs at times when interested families are likely to be able to attend. Most programs took place at the Main location, with several events at the Wesmark and South Sumter locations, and programs ran throughout the school year as well as into the summer. Sumter County Library's goal was to inspire confidence and an interest in STEM fields, helping young people in Sumter County develop 21st century skills such as critical thinking, teamwork, creativity, and problem-solving.

10		Deliverable description	Impact Grants - Beaufort County Library - $23,194 - Kajeet Smartspot Education Broadband Project: For this project the Beaufort County Library partnered with Verizon, Kajeet, Beaufort County and the Beaufort County School District to provide free mobile hotspot coverage to students and their families from middle school through high school in the rural areas of Northern Beaufort County. This project was designed to increase services to families and expand the reach and benefits of free access to the internet to underserved youth who do not have a broadband internet connection at home. The library attempted to move beyond the classroom to enable anywhere, anytime learning with these four goals in mind: 1) To increase household access to at home broadband internet 2) To raise digital exposure and confidence 3) To increase engagement with library and school learning resources and 4) To establish a scalable public model for tackling the national digital divide.	Impact Grants - Georgetown County Library - $28,000 - 21st Century Skills for Eco-Literacy: This project was awarded to stimulate the environmental literacy of local youngsters aged 6 to 18 through the development of 21st century skills based on interactive usage of technology throughout the library system along with actual site visits involving scientific fieldwork and digital video productions at local environmental education destinations. This project can be used as a model of how public libraries can be innovative by incorporating elements that not only provide a learning opportunity for the children but prepare them for the future job market and a deeper understanding of technology. The key areas identified in this project were: 1) Role-playing and problem-solving games, 2) Game design and graphical-design work, 3) 3D scanning and printing methods, 4) Digital-video productions, 5) Drone-technology usages, 6) Model-making with robotics components, and 7) Environmental field studies. They have successfully produced 18 practice videos, conducted 16 site visits to Eco sites around Georgetown County which include Sandy Island and produced 6 short films based on the young people's experiences "out in the wild". Here's an actual link to one of the short films they produced:	Impact Grants - Greenwood County Library - $7,019 - Mi-Fi Education Project: The Ware Shoals Community Library, a joint school and public library collaborated on a Mi-Fi Education Project to loan selected students in grades 9-12 a mi-fi kit that included a hotspot, tablet and a month's subscription of internet service. This project was implemented to assist students that didn't have computer or internet access at home to help complete homework assignments and complete projects, have access to Discus, and research through technology. Another objective of this project was to provide Internet and computer access to families that may have younger children that can obtain access to early literacy programs and collections through the State Library. Adults in the family could also take advantage of this project by taking online classes/training to assist with job searches and other employability skills.

10		Deliverable description	Impact Grants - Kershaw County Library - $12,000 - Bringing Access to Life: Assistive Devices for Anyone: This project was designed to provide assistive technology to improve the functional capabilities and quality of life for patrons with a physical impairment. Assistive technologies included a broad range of devices from magnifiers to weighted spoons to large keyboards. This project was selected to enhance the library's mission of removing barriers to achievement for library patrons. A variety of devices were made available for lending from the library to meet community needs by offering new ideas for solutions for common functional problems, while supporting the ongoing pursuit of a better quality of life.	Impact Grants - Richland Library - $25,000 - Literacy to Life: This project sought to improve, expand and increase access to library services by offering instructional sessions on vocational preparedness skill sets and life skills strategies for detainees at the Alvin Glenn Detention Center, and to provide access for the detainees to individualized social services assistance and resources. This facility offers very limited programming and detainees have little access to information and few opportunities for skill building or character development. Instructional sessions were provided by the library, which promoted core literacy skills including, but not limited to, reading, goal setting, vocational preparedness, and emotional literacy. The intent was to improve positive decision making, bolster employability and reduce recidivism. This project utilized the expertise of a trained social worker who served as the project coordinator to strategically support detainees and prepare them for re-entering society.	Impact Grants - Union County Library - $16,405 - Empowering Union County through Community Centered Access: The Union County Library project consisted of taking library resources beyond the walls of the public library facility by creating outreach kits for library staff to go out in the community and provide programs and services. The target audience for this project was disabled adults, pre-schoolers, and families in rural areas who lack the ability or means to get to the public library. This project promoted strong partnerships with other agencies and non-profit organizations in the community to share resources and to create new learning resources to capture more library users.

10		Deliverable description	Summer Reading Grants to Public Libraries - Summer Reading Grants to Public Libraries - The State Library coordinates the Summer Reading Program for South Carolina public libraries annually using the theme provided by the Collaborative Summer Library Program. Each South Carolina library plans and conducts its own program and activities and is encouraged to use the manual and materials created by the collaborative. These grants were made to enable the county libraries to offer programs that are locally interesting that meet local needs, and that entice more children and families to the library. Sub-grants were made to 42 public library systems last year to fund summer reading programs. Primarily the Youth Services departments of each library conducted programs, and some grant-funded programs included teen and adult audiences. Last year's theme was "A Universe of Stories" and grantees partnered with community agencies, local businesses, 4-H groups and other youth support organizations. Grant funding was used to hire speakers/performers, to purchase theme-related books and other materials for library circulating collections, and to purchase program supplies. The public libraries hired space ambassadors, authors, artists, performers	Read To Succeed Summer Camps Book Awards to Public Libraries - The State Library piloted a program to give high-interest paperback book collections to ten different Read to Succeed summer camps around the state, through their local public libraries. Enacted by the state legislature in 2014, these summer camps are mandated for children who are not reading at grade level. The State Library saw this as an opportunity to build a stronger collaboration with the Department of Education and put books into the hands of students who need them the most. This pilot program strengthened public library interactions with striving readers, and many of the children took the books home, creating larger home libraries and influencing family reading habits in a positive way.	SCSL Talking Book Services (SCLTBS) - This program is a free braille and talking book library service for people with temporary or permanent low vision, blindness, physical disability or cognitive impairment that prevents them from reading or holding the printed page. It is a sub-regional library of the National Library Service (NLS) of the Blind and Print Disabled governed by federal laws and rules set forth under the auspices of the Library of Congress. Strict NLS directions are outlined in a manual made available to all Regional Directors, who are then charged with following these edicts as well as their specific state laws and legislation.

10		Deliverable description	SCSLTBS Volunteer Program: Volunteers play a vital role in helping provide quality library services to South Carolina citizens who have difficulty using standard printed materials due to qualifying visual or physical conditions. Volunteer opportunities include: Recording & Reviewing, Community Outreach, and Machine/Cartridge Maintenance and Evaluation. The SCSLTBS Advisory Council also contributes greatly to the volunteer program. The Consumer Advisory Council serves in an advisory capacity to the South Carolina State Library Talking Book Services Division. When appropriate, this council shares with the National Library Service for the Blind and Print Disabled, of the Library of Congress, ideas on practices, policies, and goals of library services to individuals who are blind, visually impaired, or physically disabled. The Council serves as an advocate for the promotion and development of library services for individuals eligible for talking book services.	SCSLTBS Recording Program: Volunteers are recruited and trained to read and record books specific to the regional nature of South Carolina traditions and culture. Books are pre-screened by SCSLTBS staff to ensure that they fall within the guidelines set by NLS as a reasonable regional library addition. Once completed, books are uploaded to the BARD site and included into the comprehensive NLS collection potentially available for checkout to patrons nationwide. This process promotes and allows for state-specific material that might not otherwise be accessible to this patron base inside or outside of the state readily available.	SCSLTBS Talking Book Cartridge Duplication: Staff downloads titles or duplicate copies of titles currently unavailable on cartridge to ensure that patrons receive books as close as possible to 3 business days of placing their requests. Gutenberg, an NLS proprietary software, is utilized to execute this process. Strict government protocols are followed, and inventory control processes must be maintained regarding the ordering and distribution of related equipment and supplies.

This is achieved through verbal, print and electronic communication using various forms, publications and software approved by the National Library Service for the Blind and Print Disabled (NLS). Ongoing updates to these instruments and related staff trainings ensure that patron-centric service is a hallmark of the program. The exhibit highlights the artistic abilities of elementary, middle, high, and homeschooled students from across the state. Prizes are awarded in the categories listed above, with the State Librarian choosing a grand prize award as best-of-show. The artwork is then displayed in the State Library building for a designated amount of time and photographed for inclusion in an annual calendar distributed by the department.	SCSLTBS Vision Education Partnership Participation: The partnership is a consortium comprised of agencies located statewide that meet to regularly share information about their individual efforts and to collaborate to support educators specifically trained to teach the blind and visually disabled. 10		Deliverable description	SCSLTBS Assistive Technology Petting Zoo (ATPZ) : The department maintains a collection of equipment that is specifically made to enlarge, enhance or verbally read written text from existing documents. The ATPZ is taken to various events and locations and the equipment is demonstrated to attendees. While outside agencies and industries request to host the ATPZ, the underlying intention is to introduce public libraries across the state to various methods and technologies in multiple price points that can assist their respective patronages with using as much of their general and existing library collections as possible.	SCSLTBS Annual Signature Public Program - Led by Love : SCSLTBS hosted an author talk by Michael Hingson for Blindness Awareness Month. Hingson, a blind survivor of the 9/11 attack on the World Trade Center, told his life story and detailed how he and his guide dog made it out of the Twin Towers alive. As a blind man, Hingson escaped the World Trade Center by walking down 78 flights of stairs with his guide dog. Days later, America fell in love with Mike and Roselle and the special bond that helped them both survive one of the country's darkest days. He has also put his experience in a book called Thunder Dog, which is available in various formats to SCSLTBS patrons. As such, this interactive talk/presentation served as a relevant and thoughtful programming enhancement to existing services offered by the department.	SCSLTBS Summer Reading Program : An Annual Summer Reading Program is undertaken most years. Special activities and incentives are made available to patrons who set and reach prescribed reading guidelines within a specified window of calendar dates.

Day by Day Family Literacy Calendar (Online version): The online version of the South Carolina Day by Day Family Literacy Activity Calendar is designed to be a tool that families, caregivers, educators, and librarians can use at home and in the classroom to further develop early literacy skills that help young children become prepared for and to do better in school. 53% of children 3 and 4 years old are not in school. The Day by Day calendar can help them build the early skills they need to become ready to read and ready for school. The "Read to Me" section is the one most accessed each year.	StoryfestSC is the statewide summer reading program kickoff for families held in Columbia and organized by the State Library. It is a literacy-focused event exposing families to children's authors and the art of storytelling to foster an excitement for reading. Each year, two award winning authors presented on their work and their story, signed books provided for free by the State Library, and enjoyed a full day of storytelling, readers theatre, music, literacy-based crafts, and entrance into the State Museum. All of South Carolina's public libraries participate in the State Library coordinated summer reading program.

65		Agency Comments
66		Additional comments from agency (optional)	There was a change in staff and tracking of calendar distribution. We believe the 2018-19 numbers are higher but we are only able to verify what was put in the accountability report. Additionally, we have requested feedback about the calendars in a limited way (survey) and plan to have a significant survey administered in 2020 for additional feedback.	Web content is reviewed on a regular basis by librarians and educators.	StoryfestSC was retired in 2018. We held eight years of successful events placing books in the hands of children, building partnerships of various types of organizations that help this demographic, and kicking off and supporting the summer reading program statewide. We did have some feedback from attendees but not for all years.

10	Deliverable description	Homework Help Center Pilot Program: The South Carolina State Library launched a Homework Help Center pilot program in selected counties in South Carolina. Ten locations were chosen and libraries were given the opportunity to create a program that would serve students needing to complete school assignments, provide afterschool homework assistance, and expand internet connectivity, most especially in rural areas. Each library created a project related to the needs of the library and community. State Library LSTA funds were used in conjunction with a one-time grant from K-12 Technology Committee. MIFI hot spots were distributed in all of the ten counties. Services for the 150 devices was provided for the second year of the project. However, two of the counties who originally participated changed. A third year of the project will focus on consulting services from the State Library to assist with their training, marketing, and distribution needs.			Literacy 2030 This project began as a local collective and rebranded as a statewide literacy initiative in 2014 under the name Literacy 2030, signifying the move towards 100% literacy statewide by 2030. The State Library took over the administration of the project in 2014, focusing counties and communities in South Carolina and uniting stakeholders to support libraries in their efforts to be a convener and partner for literacy efforts in the state. The State Library engaged The Research, Evaluation, and Measurement (REM) Center located at USC's College of Education with lead researcher Dr. Leigh D'Amico to plan, implement, and evaluate the statewide Literacy 2030 initiative and facilitate effective planning processes to engage local libraries in key areas of literacy development. This multi-year process focuses developing a systematic, integrated approach to improve literacy in the following four focus areas: Early Literacy (Family Literacy), Grade-level Literacy, Teen Literacy, and Adult Literacy/Digital Literacy. Upon completion of the four service groups review, there will be a master plan written which can provide guidance to how we can improve the literacy rates statewide through the efforts of libraries, the State Library, and other partners.		SC Read Eat Grow - Events: South Carolina Read Eat Grow is a statewide initiative designed to assist the public libraries in offering food literacy programming of all kinds. We developed a booklet with title recommendations for all ages, several circulating kits, detailed elsewhere, and have provided workshops and other trainings to facilitate this learning. To kick it all off, we hosted a Summit on September 26th at the Columbia Metropolitan Convention Center with over 120 people in attendance. This included cookbook author Ed Lee, children's book illustrator Lizzy Rockwell, and many of our partner agencies including DHEC, the State Farm Bureau, the Lowcountry Food Bank, and Clemson Youth Extension. We highlighted a number of programs that the public libraries had done throughout the year, shared best practices, and allowed plenty of time for discussion and informal learning experiences.

48	Agency Comments
49	Additional comments from agency (optional)	There are reports from each of the libraries that received grant funds from the State Library for their project.			South Carolina State Library and the Research, Evaluation, and Measurement (REM) Center within the College of Education at University of South Carolina are partnering on a multi-year approach to create awareness and support the goals of the Literacy 2030 initiative. This partnership is designed to support libraries in becoming a convening voice in the state of South Carolina around literacy. Information, resources, and support will be provided to libraries to serve as community catalysts related to four types of literacy: 1) early literacy, 2) grade-level literacy, 3) teen literacy, and 4) adult literacy. In Years 1 and 2, focus was on the development of an overarching plan related to the literacy needs aligned to library systems/programs as well as a focus on early literacy. Work in Years 1-2 included surveying library directors and key personnel, developing an interactive data website featuring key data points related to the four areas of literacy, holding regional planning meetings in four locations (Charleston, Columbia, Florence, and Spartanburg), developing Promising Practices related to the four areas of literacy, exploring IMLS funding for libraries as community anchors/catalysts, and analyzing data collected by State Library related to programming. Work in Year 3 related to grade-level literacy and included updating the Literacy 2030 website, developing and implementing a series of webinars focused on grade-level literacy, training and implementation of Harwood Institute Framework as an overarching structure for work with libraries, and development of ideas to secure additional funds to assist libraries in carrying out work related to innovative literacy strategies and practices. In Year 4 (2019-2020), the plan will move to focus on 1) improving the website to be a source of information for four areas of literacy, 2) better understanding and responding to needs related to grade-level literacy that began in Year 3, 3) piloting approaches or projects through IMLS funding or other funding sources, and 2) focusing on teen literacy as the next target area in the multi-year project.		This event took place in September 2019, technically outside the relevant fiscal year.

10		Deliverable description	SC Read Eat Grow - Training: It was important for state library staff to have the best possible training to support the new statewide food literacy initiative Read Eat Grow. Key staff who would be managing the Charlie Cart and Kitchen in a Box kits, providing food demonstrations for public library staff, and presenting at conferences, took the ServSafe Food Manager all day certification training, and have attended numerous online webinars on topics ranging from nutrition to budget cooking to food safety. These staff members have also provided safety and food demonstrations for the rest of the state library staff so they are prepared to talk about the initiative and all of the many literacy connections within the project. Staff training will continue as the project grows and changes according to the needs and interests of the public libraries and their patrons.	SC Read Eat Grow - Kitchen in a Box: to assist the public libraries in offering food literacy programming as part of the Read Eat Grow initiative, the State Library developed circulating Kitchen in a Box kits. Designed for smaller spaces where having the Charlie Cart mobile kitchen is unfeasible, these kits contain measuring cups and spoons, mixing bowls, cutting mats, and a variety of other kitchen supplies needed to host programs about healthy cooking and sustainable living. First added to the kit collection in February of 2019, the three kits circulated eight times before the end of the fiscal year.	SC Read Eat Grow - Charlie Carts: The Charlie Cart mobile kitchen unit is the key piece in the Read Eat Grow statewide initiative. This cart, designed to be used in spaces that do not have access to a full kitchen and popular in schools, farmers markets and public libraries around the nation, has been very popular across the state of South Carolina. Delivered to the State Library in October of 2018, it was used to train both state and public library staff, taken out to public libraries for staff day demonstrations, and then put on a regular circulating schedule in May of 2019. Since then the Charlie Cart has visited ten counties in all corners of the state, and been a part of at least 40 programs for library patrons. Programs provided include Cooking on a Budget, Healthy Snacks for Tweens, Corn from Plant to Tortillas, and Muffin Making for the Family. This mobile kitchen makes it possible for libraries to provide programming that is timely and relevant to their communities, and to address the real life needs of their patrons in a meaningful way.

10		Deliverable description	SC Read Eat Grow - Cooking Matters: As the Read Eat Grow statewide food literacy initiative took shape, one obvious partner was Cooking Matters from Share Our Strength. This program is administered in South Carolina through three different organizations—the Lowcountry Food Bank, Clemson Youth Extension, and the Department of Health and Environmental Control (DHEC). This program, offered in Title I communities, offers free cooking classes for families, youth, and seniors, as well as groceries to take home during the six week session and is backed by strong research to show behavioral change in the families that attend and graduate the program. Rebecca Antill was offered the opportunity to become a certified culinary instructor for the Cooking Matters program through the Lowcountry Food Bank and volunteered to teach several sessions within the local libraries, promoting a strong partnership between the Charleston County Public Library, the Dorchester County Public Library and the Food Bank that continues to thrive. Rebecca assisted with Cooking Matters family sessions from October through November 2018 in Monck's Corner, a class for seniors from January through February of 2019 in St George, and a family session in June 2019 in North Charleston.	ReadSC/The South Carolina Center for the Book: This program officially began in 1996. We celebrate our rich literary heritage, bringing public attention to the importance of books, writers, and reading.	ReadSC - Speaker at the Center / Authors of SC: Authors of SC (formerly known as Speaker at the Center) is a series hosted by ReadSC, the South Carolina Center for the Book, and celebrates South Carolina's rich literary heritage. Authors of SC provides local authors the opportunity to connect with other South Carolinians to discuss and sell their most recently published works. These events are free and open to the public taking place at libraries and cultural institutions across South Carolina.

10		Deliverable description	Library Cards: South Carolina residents over 18 are eligible to apply for a free library card and may borrow circulating materials from our collections and access electronic resources such as eBooks and newspaper databases. The South Carolina State Library maintains an extensive print collection of materials published about South Carolina. Some of these collections also provide access to digitized copies in the public domain. A State Library card also gives cardholders access to the shared catalog holdings of 20 SCLENDS member public library systems in the state. As a result of the libraries' partnership, State Library cardholders have access to over 2.75 million items.		LibraryVoicesSC Podcasts: The main LibraryVoicesSC podcast explores all things libraries, promotes the resources and services of the South Carolina State Library and other libraries in SC, and explores how libraries partner with other organizations in the state. Included in the podcast is an additional series called BiblioObservatory. It is a bilingual podcast and in the first episode, Caroline Smith, South Carolina State Library Inclusive Services Consultant, interviews co-host of the series, Ivette Villarreal, who searches the connection between people's favorite books or childhood stories and how those stories define their lives. Many of the episodes are also provided in Spanish. More recent episodes also have a downloadable transcript for those who are unable to listen to the podcast.	Library Signage Audits: these audits are provided as a free consulting service to public and academic libraries statewide. A library signage audit is not only an audit of the library's signs, but it may also relate to the library's internal and external image including printed materials, customer service, grounds, and community perceptions. During the signage audit, photographs are taken of most of the library's signs. Later, a visual report is created with a list of what is doing well and recommendations for what to change. The report may be used to look more closely at each library's signage and make decisions about the type of signage that may be best suited to that community's needs.

10		Deliverable description	Circulating Kits - NASA: Kits in this category, directly funded by a NASA grant, include NASA Kits #1 and #2, three circulating telescopes, a portable planetarium, and the LittleBits Base Inventor Mars Rover set. These items were purchased to support programming for the 2019 Collaborative Summer Library Program theme of "A Universe of Stories". They encourage library patrons to study earth and space science, to explore the stars, and to have a fun hands-on experience with STEM learning.	Circulating Kits - Tech: Kits in this category include items such as Robotics, Circuitry, Drones, and a LEGO WeDo Classroom set. These kits allow children of all ages to learn real world skills such as coding and computer programming. One public library brought patrons in to experience flying a drone, and discussed all the ways that drones are used in agricultural careers, thus making a connection to possible career fields. We have robotics that are appropriate for preschoolers to play with and learn concepts such as Computational Thinking, and advanced robotics for middle school students to learn coding.	Circulating Kits - Gaming: Kits in this category include an Xbox One, Nintendo Switch with Labo accessories, two PlayStation 4 with Virtual Reality accessories, and several older gaming stations. These kits encourage social emotional learning, especially among teenagers, but are also used by the public libraries for adult programs. Although we often think that everyone has this gaming equipment at home, many of our rural and low-income areas served by the public libraries do not have access to such items. Libraries who borrow these kits provide a safe and welcoming space for patrons to come together and share a learning experience, while building community and personal capacity.

10		Deliverable description	Circulating Kits – Storytime Kits in this category include three Bilingual Storytime kits, Puppets, a portable puppet stage, and kits with various movement and music props to add interactive elements to a storytime program. Many school librarians also borrow the puppetry kits and the puppet stage to use with students – the puppet stage is remarkably lightweight and easy to set up and tear down in order to move between classrooms or programming rooms. The props, such as parachutes, colored scarves, shaker eggs and color sorted bean bags, allow public library staff to add a hands’ on element for children with sensory needs, or to simply have a new experience for all.	Circulating Kits - Educational Kits in this category include items such as KEVA planks, Skill Toys, LEGOs of all sizes, and button makers. These items are frequently used in partnership with school librarians to present STEM learning in a new and interactive manner. Children enjoy building structures with the KEVA Planks or creating obstacles courses for marbles. The LEGO DUPLOs kit contains a set of “emotion faces” specifically designed to prompt conversations about feelings and other Social-Emotional learning opportunities.	Supporting Librarians’ Roles in Emergencies and Natural Disasters Librarians’ information and community services take on heightened importance during emergencies and natural disasters. Following devastating flooding and hurricanes in South Carolina and Texas, a team from University of South Carolina’s School of Library and Information Science and the South Carolina State Library has taken a more concentrated interest to provide emergency preparedness, communication, and health resources to help libraries and partner agencies better plan for various disasters. LIS programs and cooperative organizations and agencies can strengthen librarians’ abilities to respond in times of crisis. The very initial part of this project was an article on the topic after Hurricane Katrina, around 2006, and the next set of data gathering efforts took place after the historic 2015 floods in South Carolina and hurricanes in 2016-17 before the work in Houston and Hurricane Harvey.

The research team is in the process of a few different parts of the project. The first is to finish analyzing the data which we received from the Houston site visit with prior data received. The second is the submission of an article to "The Journal of Consumer Health on the Internet." The third is that sessions or poster sessions have been proposed to several conferences to present findings. The fourth item is a research grant proposal to IMLS to continue data gathering on other disasters. All of this will benefit the entire state as we continue to develop training and programming that relates to the outcomes.

10		Deliverable description	The Public Libraries Survey (PLS) examines when, where, and how library services are changing to meet the needs of the public. These data, supplied annually by public libraries across the country, provide information that policymakers and practitioners can use to make informed decisions about the support and strategic management of libraries. The survey provides statistics on the status of public libraries in the United States. Data includes information about library visits, circulation, size of collections, public service hours, staffing, electronic resources, operating revenues and expenditures and number of service outlets. The PLS is conducted every year since 1988 and all SC public libraries are mandated to complete the survey by the deadline.	Subject Guides: The Library uses SpringShare's LibGuides to provide resources and information for the library community, state government, and South Carolina citizens. These range from Black History Resources, Disaster Preparedness for Libraries, Information for Institutional Libraries, Self-publishing, and Workforce Development.	SCSLTBS Collaborative Professional Development Activities and Trainings: SCSLTBS staff regularly participate in conducting staff trainings and other professional development activities to collaborative agencies through KLAS Conferences, NLS Conferences, ALA Conferences, taskforces and special committee participation that is above and beyond general required duties of specific job descriptions. Participating in the training of staff for organizations such as SCATP and The South Carolina Commission for the Blind are also fairly regular occurrences.

10		Deliverable description	Assistive Technology Referral Process to SCATP: The University of South Carolina Assistive Technology Program (SCATP) is a government-mandated department of the institution that provides assistance to residents statewide seeking guidance on assistive technology appropriate for use across various spectrums of disabilities. Low and high-tech solutions are explored and equipment (which is often cost-prohibitive) can be checked out on a short term basis for people to try in their daily environment prior to purchase. The program also maintains catalogs and contact information for trained sales professionals. SCCLTBS maintains a relationship with the program that includes collaborative programming and training as well as referrals from SCCLTBS to SCATP of patrons requiring more extensive information on equipment selection and purchase.	SCSLTBS Annual Signature Public Programs - Kathryn Otoshi: In response to winning the 2018 Association for Library Service to Children Maureen Hayes- Author/Illustrator Kathryn Otoshi to the South Carolina School for the Deaf and Blind. Otoshi is known for several acclaimed books including Zero, One, Two, Beautiful Hands and Draw a Line. While visiting South Carolina, she recorded those books for the Talking Books Services (stalkingbook.org) and a podcast for LibraryVoicesSC with Dr. Curtis Rogers (libraryvoices.podbean.com). Prior to her visit, students from the South Carolina School for the Deaf and Blind cut out decorated handprints to be part of a spirit bird project in the school's library. In response, Otoshi said, "We can see how that commitment of doing one kind thing multiplied by many handprints, and seeing that tangible art project that they were a part of visually every day, becomes a constant reminder of how we can spread this love, compassion and connection with each other."	SCSLTBS Annual Signature Public Programs - Great American Eclipse 2017 Event: SCCLTBS hosted a free workshop on the Great American Eclipse 2017. This interactive and hands on training was specifically designed for visually-impaired individuals and those who work with visually-impaired populations, including special education teachers, early childhood specialists, teacher aides, paraprofessionals, tutors, counselors, and those in higher education. The workshop was conducted by Cynthia Hall, from the Lowcountry Hall of Science and Math (LHSM) and Dr. Cassandra Runyon, from the SC NASA Space Grant Consortium. A visually impaired student at the College of Charleston also assisted with this workshop. Service dogs were welcomed.	Attendees gained knowledge on the uniqueness of this eclipse, why eclipses occur, cultural connections, history, and safe viewing techniques. Discussion topics included: NASA, solar systems, gravity, distance and scale, and geometry. All participants received a tactile book, digital materials and training resources.

9		Deliverable description	SCSLTBS Daily Circulation Activity- Digital Book Players: Digital book players provided by NLS are circulated through SCSLTBS staff procedures and processes utilizing the KLAS ILS. Equipment is ordered from the Multistate clearinghouse, inventoried, stored and then mailed, on demand and within library rules and regulations, to patrons as Free Matter for the Blind.	SCSLTBS Rated Unrated Book (RUB) Program Participation: The Rating Unrated Books (RUB) program is a national coalition of LBPH librarians who read and provide feedback that is then entered into a shared spreadsheet and the ILS cataloging record of items rated. Patrons who indicate exclusions in their preferences tend to not want to read unrated books. Of all of the newly added books, 2/3 are entered into the ILS as unrated. This reduces the books available for patrons with exclusions by 33%. As well, many of the excluded titles are bestsellers. Once librarians complete the RUB process and enter enhanced subject search codes and other metadata, patrons with exclusions are then more closely matched with books that align with their indicated preferences. Exclusions are not a form of censorship; they are guidance for patrons, much like movie ratings.	SCSLTBS Prison Patron Program: Patrons who are incarcerated but have a qualifying condition receive service through the program. As access to technology is limited within prison facilities, cooperation and ongoing communication between facility officials and SCSLTBS staff often requires execution of provisions outside of the normal scope of daily activities for the library while also staying within the confines of NLS as well as prison rules.

10		Deliverable description	E-Rate/Universal Services Assistance for Spartanburg County Library System: Worked closely with Spartanburg Library IT Department. Preformed technology infrastructure assessments at all branch locations. Identified where E-Rate Category 2 funding could be utilized and created detailed specifications for their needs. All Spartanburg locations had older and/or limited network switching/routing technologies in place. Mostly due to budget constraints. All locations required network switching upgrades to eliminate bottlenecks and improve flexibility. A new firewall was needed at the main headquarters location. Assisted with the application process. E-Rate provided a funding commitment of $222,413.68 (Cost avoidance).	Information Technology Assistances and Support for Public Libraries: In December 2017 the K-12 Cisco Umbrella Internet Security Program was provided free of charge to South Carolina E-Rate Consortium member libraries. Cisco Umbrella replaced the physical intrusion detection sensor that was installed on library networks and monitored by the Division of Information Security (DIS). The State Library worked closely with DIS to provide Public Libraries remote and onsite technical assistance during this migration.	Information Technology Assistances and Support for Public Libraries: In FY2016/17 the South Carolina E-Rate Consortium moved to a single provider for Internet Services. All member libraries currently using AT&T had to migrate to SEGRA (formerly Spirit Communications) for Internet Services. The State Library worked closely with all stakeholders involved. Provided Public Libraries with technical assistance during this migration. Some required onsite technical assistance. This involved reconfiguring network infrastructure such as firewalls and routers.

10		Deliverable description	Information Technology Assistances and Support for Public Libraries: Chesterfield County Library System poor network services. The library system had struggled for well over a year with poor wide area network and Internet services. At times the service was so slow that Internet access was unusable. These services were being provided by the local telco company and SEGRA. Chesterfield lacked the technical expertise and budget to solve this complex issue. State Library IT worked closely with the service providers over a 12 month period to identify and solve the multi layered problem that existed on the service providers network.	Information Technology Assistances and Support for Public Libraries: Aiken, Bamberg, Barnwell, and Edgefield (ABBE) Regional Library System Wide Area Network (WAN) migration. ABBE lacked the technical experience to accomplish this on their own and requested IT assistance from the State Library. This project consisted of moving 14 branch locations to a new Wide Area Network (WAN) provided by AT&T and SEGRA. This network tied all their branch locations together. Assistance included hands-on reconfiguration of network routers and switches at each branch location. This assistance provided an estimated cost avoidance of $8,000.	Information Technology Assistances and Support for Public Libraries: Firewall replacements. State Library IT assisted Chesterfield, Darlington, Fairfield, Newberry and Union County Library Systems with replacing their old antiquated Internet firewalls. The library systems lacked the technical expertise to recognize the network bottlenecks that were being created by continuing to use the older firewall technology. We recommended replacement equipment and arranged for quotes from a State vetted vendor. Each library system procured the equipment. State Library IT setup and installed the new firewalls for each system to save them money. This assistance provided an estimated total cost avoidance of $11,250.

Performed onsite network assessment at their main Allendale location. The network infrastructure at this location also served the other 4 branch locations. Identified and removed unnecessary legacy networking equipment. Properly re-installed network and security infrastructure in rack. Installed proper cable management and followed 'best practices'. Work took approximately 15 hours to complete. AHJ lacked the technical expertise and budget to recognize and correct the issues. This assistance provided an estimated cost avoidance of $9,000.
