AGENCY’S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

The South Carolina Department of Commerce (S.C. Commerce) experienced unprecedented success during Fiscal Year 2023, making great progress toward helping South Carolina achieve sustainable, long-term economic growth that will increase opportunities for citizens for years to come. In January 2023, S.C. Commerce reported that calendar year 2022 marked the single largest year in state history for announced total capital investment. Several key project wins related to electric vehicles, between October and December 2022, contributed to the total capital investment of $10.27 billion, including:

- Redwood Materials, December 2022 ($3.5 billion – Berkeley County)
- BMW Manufacturing, October 2022 ($1.7 billion – Spartanburg County)
- AESC, December 2022 ($810 million – Florence County)

The record investment figure represents 120 projects won and 14,083 announced jobs (3,588 slated for rural counties). While securing any capital investment takes a team of agency staff, the responsibility of recruiting new companies to the state and encouraging existing companies to expand here primarily falls to S.C.

Commerce’s Global Business Development (GBD) division. Over the last fiscal year, GBD:

- Increased 2022’s foreign direct investment in South Carolina, 371% over 2021.
- Secured $5.5 billion in announced capital investment and 9,500 announced jobs (2,495 slated for rural counties) between Jan. 1-June 30, 2023, putting the agency on track to exceed 2023’s investment goals.
- Beat out 74 sites across the country in March 2023 to land Scout Motors, the state’s third major original equipment manufacturer in the automotive sector. The $2 billion investment will create 4,000 jobs at the Richland County location.

Key to achieving new economic development within the state’s borders is the ability for S.C. Commerce to serve as a trusted partner throughout the business life cycle for companies that operate here. To function as a trusted partner, S.C. Commerce’s Business Services Division (BSD) provides services designed to help businesses navigate various areas such trade and innovation.

During FY 2023, to serve hundreds of businesses with South Carolina operations, BSD:

- Conducted 493 company visits with existing industry companies, including visits focused on recycling and trade, and visited 22 of the agency-identified Key Existing Industry Accounts.
- Facilitated more than 250 small business referrals for establishing operations, securing financing, and developing sales and marketing.
- Planned and executed more than four business-to-business events for the automotive and manufacturing industries, which allowed suppliers to connect with original equipment manufacturers regarding supplier opportunities.
- Enrolled 57 companies in the Export Incentives Program designed to assist small- and medium-sized businesses entering new markets or wishing to increase export activities.
- Utilized community events with educators and companies, as well as school visits, to promote workforce and career opportunities with students. Through these efforts, the agency reached 68,573 students, 12,482 educators and 10,792 parents, while partnering with more than 18,000 business partners and community representatives across the state.
- Collaborated with the South Carolina Department of Employment and Workforce (DEW) to prepare for and execute the transfer of the Regional Workforce Advisors and the Coordinating Council for Workforce Development from S.C. Commerce to DEW, as outlined in Act No. 67 of 2023 – the Statewide Education and Workforce Development Act.

- Awarded more than $4.2 million in grant funding to entities and institutions involved with stimulating innovation and applied research activities throughout South Carolina.

To further expand opportunities for all South Carolinians, S.C. Commerce’s Community Development and Incentives division solely focuses on rural/community development through awarding grants to help establish or improve local infrastructure needed to assist low- and moderate-income (LMI) populations and, ultimately, increase the competitiveness of these communities in attracting new businesses. The bi-annual grants program awards aid to eligible municipal governments for the purpose of improving economic opportunities and meeting community revitalization needs. In the fall of 2022, the agency awarded 20 South Carolina communities, representing 86,904 residents, more than $8.2 million in Community Development Block Grants and in the spring of 2023, awarded nine South Carolina communities, representing 5,690 residents, more than $8.4 million in Community Development Block Grants.

Economic development is increasingly competitive between states, and especially among Southeastern states. The ability to differentiate what South Carolina has to offer prospective companies will be vital to achieving future success in the economic development arena. To that end, S.C. Commerce worked with a vendor to review state incentives and collected feedback and shared that feedback, which pertained to updating incentives to better meet future industry needs, with a legislative Ad Hoc Committee. Agency leadership, along with stakeholders appeared before the Ad Hoc Committee to provide data and background information, as well as answer questions related to incentives.

In an additional effort to enhance the state’s competitiveness, S.C. Commerce secured, through the state procurement process, a South Carolina-based vendor to execute, through the direction of the agency’s Marketing and Communications Division, a rebranding of the agency and what it means to do business in South Carolina. In collaboration with the agency, the vendor conducted qualitative and quantitative research to measure the attitudes of existing and potential investors (both domestic and international), as well as stakeholders within the state (industry, education, regional alliances, research and development, etc.). More than 400 people took part in the qualitative research and 51 took part in the quantitative research. From the research, the vendor:

- Identified existing brand attributes and those that should be enhanced to guide the new brand development.
- Defined and designed visual concepts and taglines for the new brand and began conducting target testing of the concepts.
- Developed an initial, phased media plan that will allow for evangelism of the new brand within South Carolina and create brand awareness in targeted markets across the U.S. beginning in 2024.

To support the brand launch, the Marketing and Communications Division developed and deployed a project plan to host the state’s first economic development summit scheduled for January 2024. This event, designed to target stakeholders, prospective companies and site consultants, will mark the public launch of the new brand as well as the results of another impactful effort S.C. Commerce undertook during FY 2023 – a strategic planning process.

Secretary Harry Lightsey and Deputy Secretary Ashely Teasdel led a nine-month strategic planning process to develop a clear and flexible roadmap for S.C. Commerce to strategically drive the state’s economic development efforts for the next three to five years. The process included engaging agency leadership and 75 key stakeholders and business leaders, executing two Strength, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Threats (SWOT) analyses – one on the agency and the other on overall economic development across the state – and utilizing labor and industry research.

AGENCY CODE:	P320	SECTION:	50

Through this process, the agency identified three target sectors to guide the state’s next steps for economic development designed to achieve sustained, long-term success for both companies and citizens. The target sectors include advanced energy such as small modular reactors, life sciences, and headquarters and Fortune 500 companies. Agency leadership then defined objectives and goals for advancing each target sector and established teams to execute those objectives and goals. To ensure S.C. Commerce makes regular progress toward meeting those goals, IT staff built a strategic framework hub utilizing collaborative space on the agency’s intranet to track and measure. The hub will be deployed during the first quarter of FY 2024.

To facilitate an internal understanding of the strategic direction, S.C. Commerce developed and deployed a communications plan that utilized three mechanisms for communicating the high-level strategic plan to all agency employees by the end of FY 2023. The communications mechanisms included delivery of a virtual town hall where executive leadership presented the gathered research, methodology, a strategic action framework for the agency to utilize when making decisions, and target industry sectors. The town hall presentation, a copy of the study and a one-sheet, high-level explainer were housed on the agency’s intranet to provide continual access to employees.

S.C. Commerce devoted significant time to creating efficiencies in processes and further developing employees to increase the agency’s effectiveness in accomplishing its mission. Human Resources facilitated succession planning through a divisional management and senior leadership meeting to discuss succession planning and developing career paths in preparation for retirements and potential exiting employees. HR also created division sections with junior and senior level positions, ensuring each division has at least one deputy to build bench strength for succession planning. Additionally, the agency’s Leadership and Organizational Development Director organized and offered 21 monthly employee trainings to align with the Commerce University 101 training structure to include schools of leadership, business and industry, culture, economic development, personal development and support services (IT, HR and Finance/Procurement). Every agency employee participated in at least one training with several employees attending multiple trainings, accounting for a total of 438 class hours during FY 2023. Specific training classes included Commerce and Economic Development 101, Management Building Sessions, DEI Sessions – Workplace Belonging and Workplace Inclusion – Workplace Safety, FMLA, Paid Parental Leave, Compensation 101, Position Description, and IT software.

To provide clear and consistent direction for executing specific tasks, the agency established and deployed its first, defined processes for Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) Requests, Communications Approvals, the Economic Development Project Life Cycle, and Internal Dissemination of the South Carolina Department of Employment and Workforce Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notifications. These processes:

- Facilitate timely and appropriate FOIA responses.
- Require review and evaluation of all major internal and external communications for message consistency.
- Provide a defined hand-off of an economic development project from the GBD to the BSD.
- Notify agency staff when a company announces major staffing changes due to closure or relocation of operations.

As executive leadership strongly values collaboration and input from employees, the agency established a cross-functional team made up of employees from each division to provide opportunities for staff to offer feedback and suggestions for various agency activities. The team worked on a redesign of the agency’s intranet and researched and offered recommendations on workspace modifications for use during the agency renovations effort. The team also worked to enhance employee recognition through the establishment of the Employee of the Year award for each division and an update of the annual employee superlative awards.

AGENCY CODE:	P320	SECTION:	50

Executive leadership also values providing clean and consistent communication of the agency’s vision and mission statement. To accomplish that, executive leadership led three employee town hall meetings during FY 2023. In the fall, they conducted a “get to know you session” for employees to ask questions of the Secretary and Deputy Secretary. In March, they presented an overview of the agency’s strategic planning process and provided an update on the agency’s renovation efforts. The third employee town hall, held in June, provided an in-depth overview of the agency’s newly defined strategic action framework, highlighting the new, identified industry target areas. The session allowed employees to learn about the research that went into identifying the target areas and how the agency will pursue those areas while continuing to execute existing goals.

As referenced above, S.C. Commerce began a major renovation effort to better align workspaces with organizational changes made during FY 2022. The effort, which will be completed during the first quarter of FY 2024, was also executed to promote cross-division collaboration to achieve greater efficiency. Additionally, the renovated space will provide more collaborative work areas for S.C. Commerce teams to conduct planning and brainstorming sessions.

Apart from the business of recruiting and securing economic development projects and internal efforts to strengthen the agency’s ability to do so, S.C. Commerce accomplished many other vital efforts during FY 2024, including:

- Deploying, as directed in Executive Order 2022-31, the SCPowersEV.com website to provide a one-stop shop, interactive hub for automotive, EV and battery related companies interested in establishing or expanding operations in South Carolina to find information about the automotive industry and supply chain, progress on deploying EV charging stations across the state, and the number of EV owners statewide.
- Completing and releasing the 2022 Recycling Economic Impact Study. The report surveyed the major recycling firms in South Carolina and analyzed the industry’s economic impact. The study shows the economic impact of recycling now exceeds $13.6 billion in South Carolina and the number of jobs related to recycling is nearly 43,000.
- Completing the transfer of defined Naval Base Intermodal Facility (NBIF) assets to the South Carolina Ports Authority (SCPA) including all permits, contracts and non-rail-related real property. Palmetto Railways continues to coordinate with the SCPA on the development of the NBIF project.

Looking ahead to FY 2024 and beyond, S.C. Commerce always considers risk assessment and mitigation strategies when it comes to securing future economic development that will benefit the state. Industry finds itself in a time of great transformation, perhaps unlike any other time in history. Technology is rapidly changing and rapidly changing the way goods are produced. As S.C. Commerce works to continue to attract new companies to the state and to encourage existing companies to expand, it will be imperative that incentives are updated, as needed, to better meet the needs of future industry. To address this issue, the agency is encouraged that an Ad Hoc committee of the General Assembly has already engaged S.C. Commerce for suggestions and feedback. The committee’s careful consideration of those suggestions and resulting actions would help mitigate the risk of leaving incentives as they are – which would impact the state’s competitiveness with other states that have updated or modernized their incentives structure.

Another key to securing viable, long-term economic growth through economic development is having shovel ready sites, including mega sites, that provide a turnkey of sorts for today’s companies that strongly value speed to market. The state’s ability to have these types of sites, that are ready to go, will make South Carolina more attractive to companies as compared to our competitor states across the southeast. Ready sites include sufficient infrastructure and utilities. With more and more EV-related companies coming to South Carolina, the amount of energy they will need to operate is much greater than traditional manufacturing. The General Assembly's support of efforts to assess energy demands of future companies and how the state can best prepare to meet the demand will be necessary for future growth.

S.C. Commerce marked a successful FY 2023 and believes FY 2024 will bring new opportunities for sustained growth across the state. Companies from around the U.S. and the world take great interest in what South Carolina has to offer, and the agency will continue to make sure those companies understand the benefits of doing business here.
