c. Brief description of the program and its content:

Richland County Government located in the heart of the Midlands of South Carolina is proud to announce the 10th Annual Richland County Neighborhood Planning Conference "Striving for Happiness: Celebrating 10 years of Neighborhood Improvement and Planning." The intent of this conference, in part, is to fulfill the vision of the Richland County Neighborhood Improvement Program (NIP).

"Our vision is a healthy and happy community of high performing schools, quality infrastructure, parks and trails, and viable, thriving neighborhoods and business corridors. Sustaining this desired quality of life requires coordination between many facets of the community: neighborhood organizations, businesses, schools, local government, etc. Thus, NIP's mission is to coordinate and empower citizens with the resources necessary to achieve and sustain healthy and happy neighborhoods.”

In addition, this conference will offer significant and relevant training opportunities at no cost to certified planners in the region. At this conference participants will be inspired and motivated to return to their local jurisdictions empowered with the tools to face the challenges of your community. Abraham Goldberg, Ph.D., an Assistant Professor of Political Science at the University of South Carolina Upstate, will deliver the Keynote Address. His research offers empirical and practical support to the idea that residential quality of life can be directly influenced by the built environment of urban areas and the conditions of the public sphere. Dr. Goldberg’s publications can be found in the Urban Affairs Review, Urban Design and Planning, and the Journal of Urbanism. Co-authored with Kevin Leyden and Philip Michelbach, his article “Understanding the Pursuit of Happiness in Ten Major Cities” received international attention from leading scholars and popular media outlets. Most recently, he is completing the “South Carolina Civic Health Index” (SCCHI) through a partnership with the National Conference on Citizenship and the Center for Information & Research on Civic Learning and Engagement, (CIRCLE) at the Tisch College of Citizenship and Public Service at Tufts University. His presentation will be complimented by sessions that cover topics for professional planners, professional architects and citizens that attend. The topics covered in the sessions are as follows:

- University planning;
- Local school district planning;
- Environmental sustainability in local communities; and
- Community and local government partnerships.

Conference participants are sure to gain insightful knowledge on currently relevant topics, while also taking away the tools and motivation to implement new techniques. Recently in 2013, this conference received national acclaim from the American Planning Association (APA), County Planning Division (CPD) and its sister organization, the National Association of County Planners (NACP), with the receipt of a County Planning Project Award. The Richland County Neighborhood Improvement Program was the recipient of an Award of Merit in the Grass Roots Initiative category for the 8th Annual Neighborhood Planning Conference having featured Mitchell J. Silver, AICP, past President of APA. The Richland County Council and the Planning and Development Services Department have made it a priority to address the struggling nature of urban communities and rural neighborhoods throughout the County and created the Neighborhood Improvement Program to address those challenges head-on. “The Neighborhood Planning Conference” emerged from this effort as a grassroots level conference that extends beyond the traditional scope of planning, broadens public understanding of the planning process, provides neighborhood outreach initiatives and fulfills unique educational programs designed for special populations. The 8th Annual Neighborhood Planning Conference provided an unparalleled service to over 200 participants. Other notable keynote speakers from recent past conferences include:

- Dr. Ellen Dunham-Jones, AIA, Board of Directors for CNU and the Executive Committee of the Atlanta chapter of CNU, a registered architect, Associate Professor and Director of the Architecture Program at the Georgia Institute of Technology and co-author of “Retrofitting Suburbia: Urban Design Solutions for Redesigning Suburbs; and
- Joseph Minicozzi, AIA, AICP, Executive Director for the Asheville Downtown Association and Principal of Urban3, a subsidiary of Public Interest Projects, Inc. (PIP).

It is the intent of the Neighborhood Improvement Program to continue this award winning effort with the Keynote address from Abraham Goldberg, Ph.D., entitled “The Pursuit of Happiness.”

Mr. Gruner has 24 years of experience in Master Planning, Programming, Architectural Design and Construction Administration for University, Corporate, Institutional, Athletic and Historic Preservation and Adaptive Reuse projects.

Mr. Gruner, a former Principal in a Columbia architectural and engineering firm, holds a Bachelor of Architecture degree from the College of Architecture and Urban Studies at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Local School District Planning Panel

This session will provide a panel of staff from Richland and Lexington County School Districts, discussing their efforts, challenges and success in planning schools/facilities within the County. The panel will provide further detail regarding their individual roles in long- and short-term facilities planning, planning for capital improvements, measuring the adequacy of existing and proposed future facilities, as well as ongoing maintenance issues.

Speaker Bio:

Presenter: Keith McAlister - Director of New Design and Construction for Lexington/Richland School District Five of Lexington and Richland Counties

Mr. McAlister oversees the district's efforts in moving forward with their building program. Mr. McAlister is responsible for ensuring that all projects are completed on time, as well as utilizing a budget that will allow all projects to be completed within the financial plan while addressing facility needs. Mr. McAlister's effort in preparing long-range plans will make it clear to the community what their needs will be in the years ahead.

Presenter: Will Anderson – CEFPI, Planning Coordinator Richland School District Two of Richland County

As Planning Coordinator for Richland School District Two, Mr. Anderson is responsible for crafting the district and school level strategic plans, projecting student enrollment, redrawing school attendance lines, updating and revising the 10 year facility study, and analyzing student and district data spatially using Geographic Information System, (GIS), among other planning functions. Mr. Anderson has been with the School District for the past 6 years, has a B.S. in Geography from the University of South Carolina and is a current member of the Council of Educational Facility Planners International (CEFPI).

Presenter: Ed Carlon – CPA, CGMA, Chief Operations Officer for School District One of Richland County

Ed serves as the Chief Operations Officer for Richland County School District One. He has been with the district for over sixteen years in Finance and Budget. Throughout his career with Richland One he has been the Chief Operations Officer and Interim Chief Operations Officer for six years, Director of Budget Services for seven years, and Payroll Disbursement Officer for three years. Prior to joining Richland One, he served as the Director of Finance for the Mahoning County Auditor's Office for six years, and CPA in Cleveland for two years.

Ed is responsible for the development of the district's budgets, monitoring the activity of the budgets and providing budget assistance to all schools and departments. Ed is also over the Operations Services Division which supports students, faculty, and staff by providing a safe and healthy environment conducive with learning. He is responsible for developing and implementing a set of standards that measures the adequacy of existing school facilities, both long and short term, and planning capital improvement projects, while at the same time protecting the investment of taxpayers. In addition, Ed is over the student transportation division and is responsible for developing and implementing the district's transportation policies and procedures in accordance with applicable state and federal laws.

Mr. Carlon has a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from Youngstown State University with a Major in Accounting and a Minor in Economics. In addition, he graduated Cum Laude. He is a Certified Public Accountant (CPA) and a Chartered Global Management Accountant (CGMA). Mr. Carlon is a member of any number of professional organizations, including the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) and the Council of Educational Facility Planners International (CEFPI) among others.

Mobile Workshop: Local Government and the Community at Work Together (Crane Creek Trail Park Project)

The mobile workshop will provide an opportunity for Conference attendees to view a redeveloped neighborhood park. The park will be completed by the end of the summer, 2014. Attendees will hear from the park's architect, the Richland County Council member representing the Council District where the park is located and Richland County Planning Department Staff regarding their roles in the design, funding and completion of the park.

Presenter: Anthony Lawrence, AIA, Vice President – Brownstone Construction Group, (BCG)

Mr. Lawrence brings an impressive resume to the BCG team. Lawrence is a native of Mississippi and earned his Bachelor of Architecture degree from Mississippi State University in 1997. Active in several professional organizations, he was appointed to the South Carolina Architectural Review Board by South Carolina Governor Nikki Haley. His specialties include project management and coordination, master planning, architectural design, contract negotiations and client relations. In addition to this experience, he was project manager and senior planner for a private polo and golf community and for several large residential and mixed-use commercial developments in Abu Dhabi and Dubai in the United Arab Emirates.

Presenter: Torrey Rush – Richland County Councilman

Elected to Richland County Council in November of 2012, District 7 Councilman Torrey Rush is no stranger to public policy and has been an active member of his community for many years. He has served as the former Vice Chairman of the Richland County Board of Zoning Appeals, and as the Democratic officer for the Fairlawn voting precinct. The father of three also served on the Spears Creek Montessori School Improvement Council.

Professionally, Mr. Rush is a licensed real estate agent and the founder of the Carolina Community Development Corporation, a non-profit corporation with the mission of building quality, accessible, and affordable housing. He is also a founding partner in the Ed Rush Development firm.
