AGENCY’S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

The 1890 Research and Extension Program at South Carolina State University promotes an organized research and extension system that addresses quality of life opportunities for limited-resource communities and provides effective stakeholder outreach programs and services in the area of extension, agriculture/natural resources, family life, health and nutrition, youth development, community economic development, education and technology. The term limited-resource focuses on minorities and socially disadvantaged individuals who lack education, knowledge to resources, equipment or money to invest in various resources. The limited-resource farmer makes less than $10,000 a year in farm income. The organization values the integration of research, teaching and public service. The program continues to address the quality of life opportunities for the citizens of South Carolina with a special emphasis on the underserved communities. The programmatic focus continues to evolve based on the needs identified by the citizens as the emerging issues impacting their communities. With the SC State PSA funding, many vital self-sustaining and economically enriching programs/activities are delivered and administered to the residents of South Carolina.

Underrepresented and underserved populations in the state will continue to be a source of stakeholder input. There will continue to be a focus on providing educational programs to improve the well-being of the family structure within limited resource communities; to promote change in the lives of youth and to strengthen family values through youth development programming. Leadership programming will be provided to assist limited resource communities with leadership development education programs and tie leadership development to community economic development initiatives with communities. Technology will also be an area of focus to help individuals gain skills utilizing features of software programs.

The 1890 Research and Extension Program raises the educational consciousness and awareness of national issues that impact the residents of South Carolina, in order to improve their quality of life. The 1890 Program invests in faculty whose proposed studies aligns with the targeted research areas, which show promise in providing solutions to various complex challenges that impact communities in the state and nation that advances the overall research capacity of the university. During the 2015-2016 reporting period, twelve (12) faculty members participated in research efforts. There were fourteen (14) presentations made throughout the United States informing people of the research going on at South Carolina State. Five documents were submitted for publication. At least twenty (20) articulation agreements with external agencies were established. The 1890 Researchers worked to combat obesity among youth, enhance bioremediation technology and improve food safety and security. In addition, research was conducted on preventing the effects of noise induced hearing loss and high blood pressure among South Carolina farmers and agricultural workers; as well as looked at the dynamic linkages among capital investment, exports, agribusiness, education and quality of life variables in South Carolina.

With the science-based information, 1890 Extension implemented educational programs in targeted county clusters across the state. The 1890 Extension Program provided life-long learning opportunities that helped rural and urban participants improve their quality of living. The Small Farm Program offered four major outreach projects to all farmers in South Carolina with more emphasis on small scale landowners, limited resources, socially disadvantage farmers and ranchers. The Small Farm Program was implemented in five 1890 Extension Cluster Areas and surrounding counties across the state. The four outreach projects were Animal Production System, Vegetable Production System, Sustainable Agriculture Production (IPM) Practices and Risk Management Education. One of the underlining objectives of the outreach was to equip all farmers with sound management practices as a must for farming enterprises success and sustainability. They are business men and women and their operations should be considered an integral part of their county/cluster rural economic development. The number of acres affected by the Integrated Crop Management (ICM) was 21,950. Four hundred sixty-six farmers were educated on the importance of soil/nutrient management through soil testing. Over one hundred forty-three producers reported increased dollar returns per acre or reduced costs per acre.

The Adult Leadership and Community Development Program provided communities with the leadership training, financial management, business and job development, family and consumer education and child development capacity that creates opportunities for continuous and sustained growth. The program helps depressed communities build the potential to enhance their own resource development capacity from the inside out. Activities were offered in community education and community outreach. The Community Education Catalog was distributed across the state, which outlined various courses offered by 1890 Extension personnel. Several SMART (Strategies in Math and Reading using Technology) Academy summer camps were held. Exhibition booths at county fairs and expos were conducted in Columbia and Charleston, SC. Approximately 2,560 individuals were reached through the program.

In regard to 4-H and Youth Development, the 1890 Extension Program concentrated on 4 specific planned programs, which included healthy lifestyles, citizenship, food safety and nutrition and SET (science, engineering and technology). Over 6,150 people were reached through the delivery of 4-H and Youth Development services. Approximately 1,141 youth decided to make healthy food choices after participation in the healthy lifestyles and food safety/nutrition program. In comparison to last year, there was an increase in the number of adults participating in the workshops. There was an increased graduation rate of both youth and adults. Over 283 youth reported adopting the recommended handwashing practice, which was up from last year of 44.

Over 8,800 participants gained knowledge from the offered programs and services of 1890 Extension. Two hundred forty-six (246) outreach activities were offered by the 1890 Program. Approximately 1,443 educational workshops were conducted by Extension. Eight thousand five hundred and fifteen (8,515) participants completed the educational workshops.

The Public Service Activities funding ensures compliance with the terms and conditions of the USDA/NIFE Cooperative Agreement. The agreement provides federal formula funds each year for the purpose of research and extension. The Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 (H. R. 2646) requires a 100% non-federal match annually. If the required annual non-federal match as stipulated in the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 (H. R. 2646) is not met, the SC State PSA would lose the federal formula funds, which would be redistributed to the states that met the federal match requirement. The matching fund requirements may be found in the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 under Section 7212-Matching Funds Requirement for Research and Extension Activities of 1890 Institutions.

The internal and external factors affecting the 1890 Research and Extension Program's performance in the past year, the current efforts and the associated results (referencing information present elsewhere in the accountability report) and any plans now under development to introduce additional changes for the 1890 Program will be addressed. An organizational chart has been included to show the structure and chain of command of the 1890 Program. Factors that may or may not affect internal and external performance of the 1890 Program include (1) The submission of an approved NIFA Plan of Work (POW) Report as well as an updated POW Plan Report; (2) An official and professional electronic reporting system is needed to collect and interpret data of program activities. Challenges will be encountered as it relates to finding the appropriate system for the agency and purchasing tools for training and maintenance requirements of the system; (3) Strengthening program development; (4) The availability of faculty release time to conduct research; (5) Utilizing the Mobile Technology Center (MTC) to expand the technology focus to assist counties across the state with the 1890 programs; (6) Expand the professional development training for Research and Extension staff; (7) Emphasizing the land grant tradition of public service; (8) Assisting academic areas in developing new and innovative programs/activities; (9) Building a Geographic Information Management System (GIS) within 1890 to enhance 1890 Research and Extension and better serve areas with specific concerns and needs; (10) The University's prohibition on hiring or implementation of University-wide hiring freeze regardless of the source of funds will impact 1890 Program's ability to address its staffing needs; (11) Over the years, several 1890 Facilities Projects have been on the drawing board for implementation. The success of the 1890 Facilities Projects is dependent on a fluid and consistent partnership between USDA/NIFA, 1890 Research and Extension, SC State's Finance Division and the SC Department of Administration. If there is an issue with any member of the partnership, the total project could be delayed or rejected by the approving agency or agencies. The inability to hire individuals with the proven, demonstrated skills necessary to secure external funds would interfere with the 1890 Program's ability to achieve its external funding goal; (12) Providing an opportunity to strengthen and develop more collaborations and partnerships across the state with various entities; and (13) Helping to develop an international programming focus at South Carolina State University.

Funding is the primary constraint to the 1890 Research and Extension Program not fulfilling its mission and achieving its goals. The General Assembly's perception of the stability of SC State University in regards to the 1890 Program receiving the 100% non-federal match requirement is critical and crucial. If funding is cut, the 1890 Research and Extension activities/programs would have to be limited and/or eliminated, which would be detrimental to the citizens of the State of South Carolina, particularly those in underserved communities. Furthermore, the 1890 Program would not have the ability to increase or expand new and innovative programs/activities to the limited-resource communities served by the organization. With the fulfillment of the mission and achieving the goals, the 1890 Program would have

AGENCY NAME:	SC State PSA

have an opportunity to flourish, become more visible and accessible to the constituents. With the collaborative efforts and partnerships, the 1890 Program is able to provide outreach services to more individuals across South Carolina.

During the next five year cycle of the Plan of Work, the 1890 Research and Extension Program has established several priority goals to accomplish. The priority goals include reconstruction of Camp Harry E. Daniels; developing a demonstration farm at Camp Harry E. Daniels; conducting economic development activities in small towns and rural communities; securing land and constructing cluster centers in target counties across South Carolina; expanding the Mobile Technology Center outreach; increasing the involvement of faculty and the number of inter-disciplinary research projects; expanding internal and external collaborations and partnerships to build the land-grant capacity; expanding support to target groups including, but not limited to veterans; and launching campus/community health initiatives to address health disparities. The 1890 Program plans to increase their external funding to support programmatic and operational initiatives.

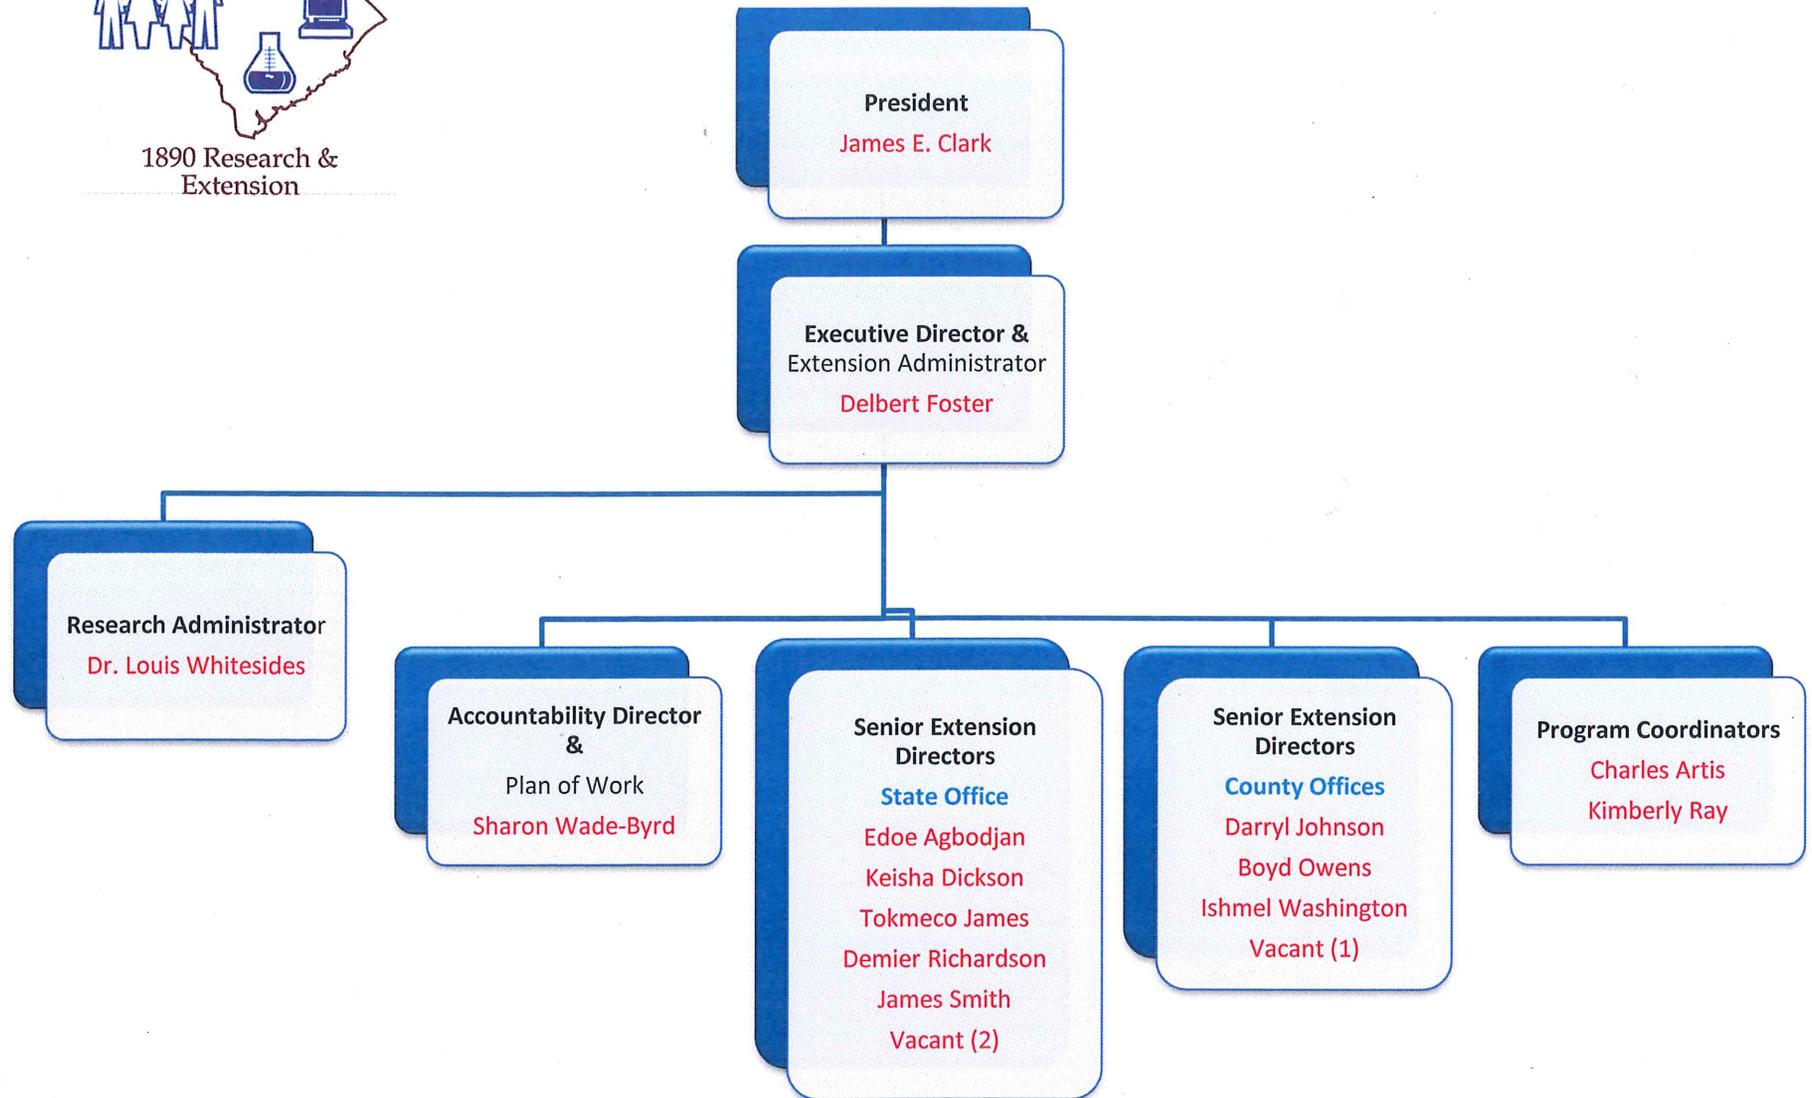

During FY 2017-18, SC State PSA will fully implement the restructuring of the Administrative Support as well as the Fiscal Affairs and Grant Management Units. The purpose of the restructuring is to provide the agency with a comprehensive and uniform method of preparing, processing, distributing and filing all internal and external documents and reports in a more professional and timely manner.

Once the restructuring is completed and everyone has been trained and crossed trained on the new procedures, the agency will be able to operate at a higher level of effectiveness and efficiency, regardless of where the personnel are stationed or the unit they are assigned. In the absence of a staff member, another person would be able to continue to represent the agency in a professional manner.
