AGENCY'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

Building on its rich history and proud South Carolina home, the University of South Carolina is a public university that pursues excellence in five areas: educating the thinkers and leaders of tomorrow; assembling and supporting a world class faculty; spurring innovation, creative expression, and community engagement; building inclusive and inspiring communities; and demanding institutional excellence. These strategic priorities support the primary mission of the University: The education of the state's citizens through teaching, research, creative activity, and community engagement.

Educate the Thinkers and Leaders of Tomorrow

The strategies and objectives centered on the education of tomorrow's leaders and thinkers focus on the achievement of measured growth of a highly competitive and diverse student population; the improvement of student retention and on-time graduation; the delivery of robust, relevant, innovative, and collaborative academic programs; and the encouragement of high-impact experiential learning. USC Columbia is committed to starting our students' journey off strong with impactful orientation, a focused first year advising process and an award-winning freshman seminar. Our students will be primed for success by an increase in need- and merit-based scholarships; this funding will provide access via affordability to the world-class education offered in South Carolina's capital city.

Leaders at USC Columbia recognize the challenges facing students when their college path takes longer than expected. Therefore, USC Columbia is dedicated to improving freshman-to-sophomore retention rates, improving four- and six-year graduation rates, maximizing flexible student scheduling, and expanding living-learning communities. Increasing our summer course offerings and implementing a new three-week winter session gives our students more option to graduate on time. Our student-centered mission is reflected by the 88.5% of freshmen retained to their second year and the over 77% of students that graduate within six years. More impressively, in during the 2018-19 academic year, nearly 6,000 Baccalaureate degrees were awarded at the Columbia campus alone.

Because a USC Columbia degree is more than just a piece of paper, the University is committed to delivering robust and relevant academic programs that will last our students a lifetime. Innovative and collaborative, our degree programs receive support from a strong general education program, the Carolina Core. Although general education assessment has long been a part of university culture, this goal has recently grown. USC has developed academic arenas that synergize our strengths across related academic programs, research, residential living/learning communities, and academic majors, giving students a path to related disciplines such as health sciences or computing, information and design. In years past, USC Columbia set itself apart with the development of the Graduation Leadership Distinction program, encouraging students to engage in related in-class and outside-the-classroom activities and integrate those experiences in their senior year. In a second step, the plan will expand in a new focus on high-impact experiential learning that includes undergraduate research, internships, service learning, study abroad opportunities and peer mentor and leadership opportunities. All students will engage in at least one of these high impact experiential learning opportunities. USC wants its students prepared for life after college, and our commitment to student career readiness and graduate school placement includes over 3,400 students served by the Career Center during the 2018-19 academic year.

The University of South Carolina Columbia is also dedicated to learning excellence on the graduate level. Our commitment to excellence in graduate education includes an increase in scholarships and stipends, increased support for graduate student travel and collaborations, and increase in number of doctoral degrees conferred.

Assemble and Support a World Class Faculty

With just over 5,800 first-time, full-time freshmen enrolling in Fall 2018, a world class faculty is an essential component. USC Columbia continues to maintain a low student: faculty ratio of 17:1, ensuring students receive quality, personalized attention and support. USC supports its faculty selection and retention efforts with a campaign to assess and improve faculty salaries to better align with national standards; the dedication of resources to attracting and retaining internationally recognized faculty; and the improvement of faculty mentoring opportunities and professional development. The New Faculty Academy is a year long series of seminars designed to launch new faculty on a positive and productive trajectory. High-quality teaching will be further encouraged via the Center for Teaching Excellence, which saw enrollment in multiple workshops reach nearly 13,000 during the 2018-2019 fiscal year, and by the Office of the Vice President for Research, which announced 278 million dollars in sponsored awards during the same period.

Spur Innovation, Creative Expression, and Community Engagement

USC Columbia continues to increase its scholarly productivity and research. With faculty are nationally and internationally known for their research activity, USC continues to maintain the top ranking of the Carnegie Foundation as an institution with "Highest Research Activity" (R1). For the fourth year running, the University of South Carolina has set a new record for research activity and sponsored award funding, garnering $278 million in the 2018-2019 fiscal year and making a significant impact on the economy of the state.

USC Columbia is one of relatively few universities that has been awarded both the top Carnegie Research designation and the Carnegie Community Engagement designation. The University strives to give back to its community through both the education of its members—USC boasts a 76% post-graduation employment rate—and its many projects and programs. The University offers a variety of undergraduate service learning courses to develop service leaders during the college years. During the 2018-19 academic year over 80 service learning courses were offered, with over 1,600 students enrolled. The University offers many service opportunities and programs not only for students, but for faculty to grow professionally as well. Numerous faculty members participate in these activities each year.

Build Inclusive and Inspiring Communities

USC Columbia strives to be a destination of choice for top faculty, students, and staff from a variety of backgrounds, races, cultures, and creeds. In order to recruit and retain high-achieving and high-quality faculty, staff, and students, the University recognizes that the quality of life on the University campus must be welcoming, inclusive, and encouraging. In addition to the development of programs that promote inclusion, USC Columbia strives to continue to increase its six-year graduation rate for under-represented minority students (74.50% for the 2013 cohort). The University is also committed to maintaining diversity on campus through the recruitment and retention of under-represented minority students, faculty, and staff. The University currently employs over 21.10% underrepresented minority faculty and 31.50% underrepresented staff, and nearly 19% of the first-time freshmen admitted for Fall 2018 were underrepresented minority students.

Achieve Recognized Institutional Excellence

The University values the contributions made by those who work, teach, study, graduate, and learn at the institution and strives to recognize and show appreciation for those contributions and talents. The University is nationally and internationally recognized for numerous reasons, such as the number one undergraduate International Business major, number one International MBA program, one of the nation's best Public University Honors Colleges, and one of the nation's best first-year experience programs. One key metric includes the US New and World Report rankings, in which the University ranked 104. A summary of additional favorable ratings and honors can be viewed on our website at http://www.sc.edu/about/south_carolina_at_a_glance/index.php.

Discussion

USC Columbia's reach across and impact within South Carolina is significant, and the University is proud of the students, faculty, and alumni who live and work here. Through its strategic planning process, the University has articulated a variety of valuable and measurable objectives that will help the University continue to remain a rich source of education, research, and service to the state and nation. The University is making great strides toward reaching the objectives outlined in the attached plan and is truly fulfilling the mission that it "has a profound relevance, reach, and impact on the people of the state."

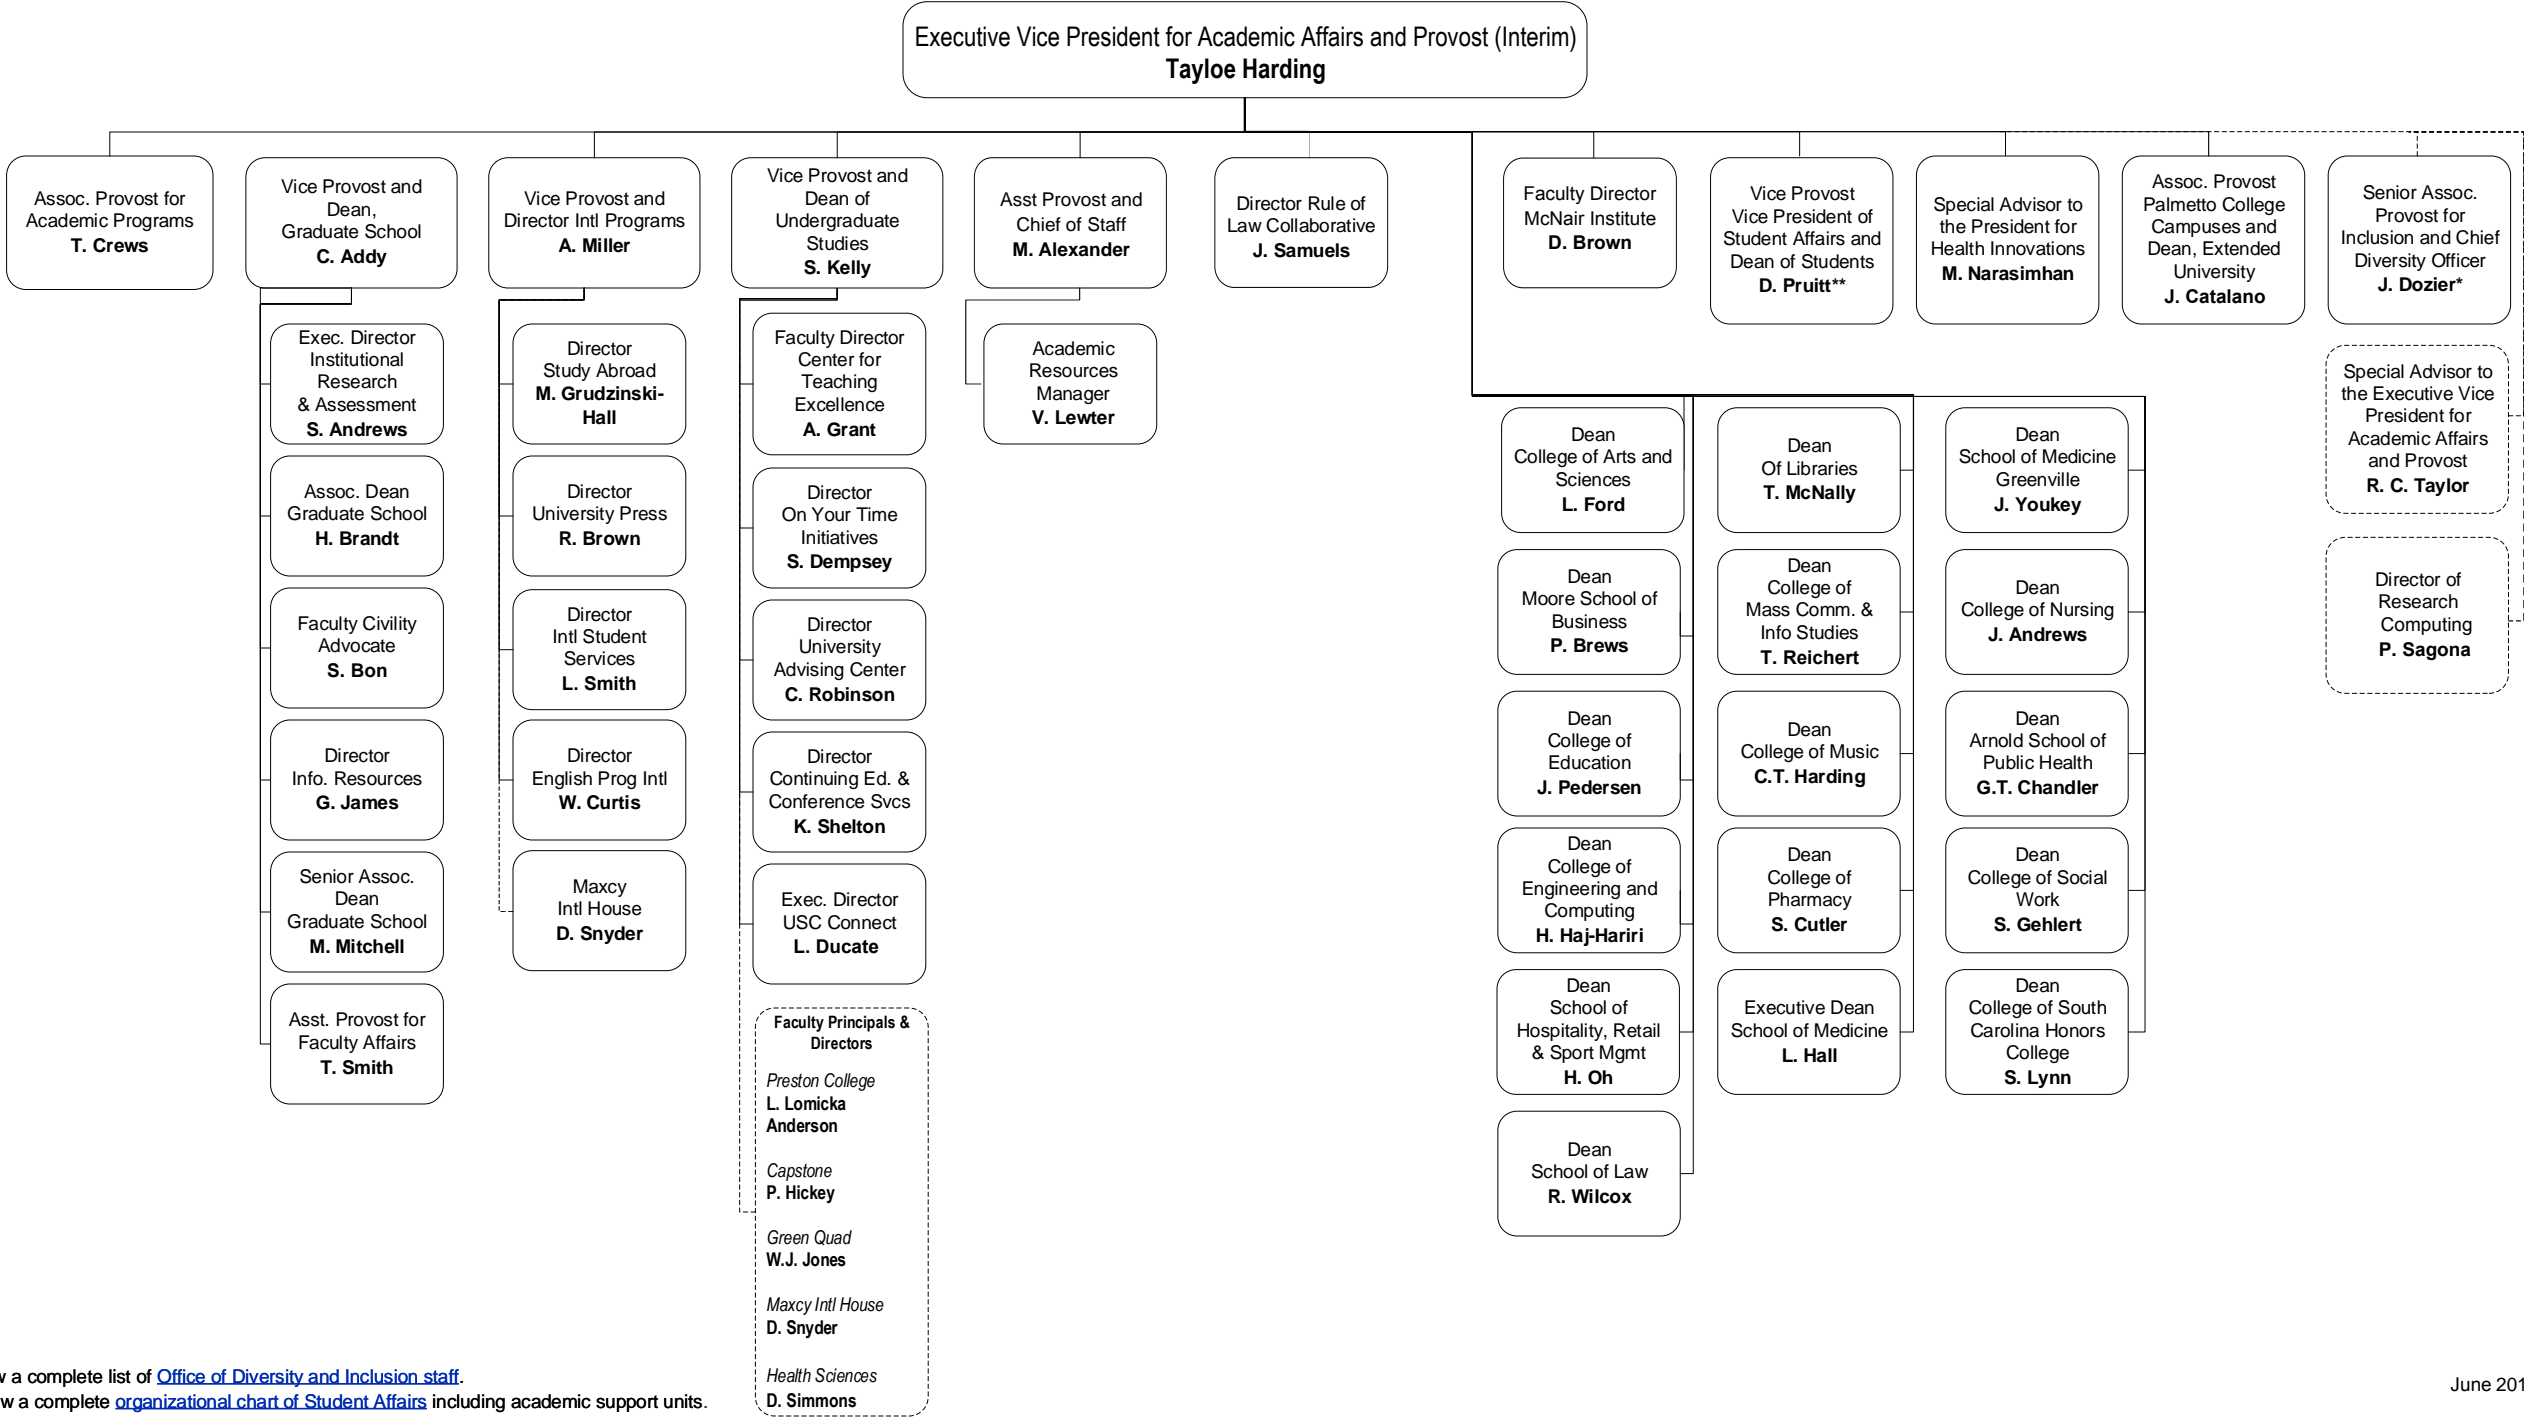

Risk Assessment and Mitigation Strategies:

The University has implemented a comprehensive Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) program which incorporates the fundamentals of risk identification, risk assessment, risk treatment, risk monitoring and review. The University has established this process using the guidance of International Standards Organization (ISO) 3100-2018 "Risk Management - Principles and Guidelines". ISO provides the principles, framework and process for managing any form of risk in a systematic, transparent and credible manner. The ERM program operates within an established University ERM committee structure to provide a detailed picture of high priority risk areas as identified by upper management. Identified high priority risk areas include: governance, legislative relations, economic decline, emergency planning, disaster recovery, business continuity, laboratory safety, student safety, crime prevention, title IX compliance, data security and privacy, institutional data reporting, capital project management/deferred maintenance, enrollment management, personnel recruiting and retention/succession planning, research compliance, and IT system implementation. As necessary, the University monitors and tracks these high priority risk areas and implements actions plans to effectively control these risks.

6	Fall IPEDS Survey Collection	Report	Institutional Characteristics	National Center for Education Statistics	Federal	Annually	October 17, 2018	Required by all currently operating Title IV postsecondary institutions in the US and other areas. The IC constitutes the sampling frame for all other NCES surveys of postsecondary institutions. It also helps determine the specific IPEDS screens that are shown to each institution. This component collects the basic institutional data that are necessary to sort and analyze not only the IC DATA, but also all other IPEDS DATAs. IC data are collected for the academic year, which generally extends from September of one calendar year to June of the following year. Specific data elements currently collected for each institution include: institution name, address, telephone number, control or affiliation, calendar system, levels of degrees and awards offered, types of programs, application information, student services, and accreditation. The IC component also collects pricing information including tuition and required fees, room and board charges, books and supplies and other expenses for release on College Navigator	http://nces.ed.gov/ipeds/
7	Fall IPEDS Survey Collection	Report	Completions	National Center for Education Statistics	Federal	Annually	October 17, 2018	Tally completers or number of students who receive degrees and other formal awards (certificates) conferred. Instructional activity data are reported in units of contact hours (sometimes referred to as clock hours) or credit hours.	http://nces.ed.gov/ipeds/
