AGENCY'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

Founded in 1961, the University of South Carolina Aiken (USCA) is a comprehensive institution with a strong liberal arts and science focus. The institution functions as part of the University of South Carolina system, combining the advantages of a more personalized education afforded by a mid-sized institution with the resources of a major research university. USCA offers bachelor's degrees in over 30 areas, including several online bachelor's degree programs, and selected master's degrees designed to enhance and serve our region's advanced workforce needs. With record-breaking Fall enrollments of over 4,000 students in both 2024 and 2025, USCA focuses on personal attention, deployment of engaged learning pedagogies, quality teaching, and an active campus environment. Small classes are taught by professors rather than teaching assistants and afford students one-on-one relationships with experienced faculty, individual advisement, and research opportunities, all of which support the institution's commitment to helping students achieve academic success. USCA has strong ties with the community and offers a diverse non-credit program, including certificate programs and continuing education for members of the surrounding area. U.S. News & World Report ranks USCA among the top Public Regional Universities in the South. Colleges of Distinction has also recognized the university for its continued dedication to High-Impact Educational Practices that influence both student learning and student success. Our Veterans and Military Student Success Center continues to receive national attention and various accolades with multiple national rankings. USCA is a member of the Council of Public Liberal Arts Colleges (COPLAC), the only institution in South Carolina with that designation. This designation shows a commitment to the critical thinking, communication, and analytical skills necessary to be successful in today's workforce.

USCA's small and active campus environment gives students numerous opportunities to be involved in campus life. Student involvement offerings include community service, Greek life, intramural and club sports, leadership development programs, and more than 90 clubs and organizations – truly something for everyone. On-campus housing can accommodate almost 1,000 students, providing opportunities for students to enjoy the traditional college experience. Our student-athletes, the Pacers, compete in NCAA Division II sports as part of the competitive Peach Belt Conference in baseball, men's and women's basketball, cross country, golf, men's and women's soccer, softball, and volleyball. Through campus programming, a wide range of activities from comedians to cultural events are planned for students, by students, based on their interests.

As we continue our new Strategic Plan: Educate. Innovate. Inspire., USCA continues to strive toward academic excellence with goals and objectives that support delivery of high-level programs and enhancement of initiatives that support student success, retention, progression, and degree attainment. USCA also focuses on increased student engagement in and out of the classroom, on campus, and throughout the community. We aim to align research and new degree programs to meet the needs of our region and support local industry. We are beginning the ninth year of the Aiken Scholars Academy, a high school for high-potential students on the USCA campus, offering a unique and engaging educational structure that will introduce students to, and immerse them in, the collegiate environment. Since launching in 2018, the Aiken Scholars Academy has enrolled over 300 dual enrollment students at USCA. Of those, over 70 matriculated as degree-seeking students at USCA; twenty of which have now graduated with a bachelor's degree from USCA.

Eighty-seven percent of the University's student body is from the state of South Carolina. The population is racially diverse with over 40% from under-represented racial and ethnic groups and closely mirrors the racial makeup of the state. However, our student body also spans from 37 different states. Thirty-one percent of our undergraduate degree-seeking students are the first in the family to attend college, and 43% are Pell-eligible. We are proud to support the social mobility of our students and have been recognized by US News & World Report for our ability to do so. The size of the student body at the University has grown in recent years, primarily due to enrollment at the master's level. Our graduate online business program enrollment remains strong and remains at an enrollment of over 500 students. Our undergraduate enrollment has been on a slow downward trend over the last decade as we approach the national "enrollment cliff" caused by decreasing birth rates years ago. However, in the last 2 years, our undergraduate enrollment has increased, a trend which we hope continues through realization of a strategic enrollment management plan. Despite the approaching peak of the enrollment cliff, we had our largest freshman class in 2024. We then had a dip in freshman enrollment in 2025 but are looking forward to possibly breaking our freshman class record this upcoming Fall. Our newest undergraduate and degree programs – designed to serve local industry – continue to grow. We began offering undergraduate certificate programs in 2023. These certificate programs serve as micro-credentials that will help support and expand the education students receive from their bachelor's degree programs. Thirty-six students have now earned 45 undergraduate certificates in conjunction with their bachelor's degree.

USCA's efforts to support veteran and military students earned a Top 100 ranking on the Military Times Best for Vets: Colleges list for 2025-2026, a Military Friendly Gold rating, and national recognition from Military Friendly as a Top 10 school for military spouses. The USCA ROTC Detachment commissioned 5 Army Lieutenants in Spring 2026: 2nd Lieutenant Gazzelli, 2nd Lieutenant Hernanadez-Cruz, 2nd Lieutenant Malcolm, 2nd Lieutenant Robinson, and 2nd Lieutenant Samaha. Seven of the program's 16 active USC Aiken cadets are slotted to commission as 2nd Lieutenants in the U.S. Army during the 2026-2027 academic year. The program has also expanded its outreach to include JROTC programs across Aiken County, where USCA cadre and cadets provide training and workout support while promoting USC Aiken ROTC as the local option for students to complete a degree and begin a career in the US Army.

The USCA LIFE (Learning is for Everyone) program launched in Fall 2023. USCA LIFE is a four-year program designed to support students with intellectual disabilities by offering support in academics, independent living, employment, and social engagement. Students live on campus in dorms. There were 29 students enrolled in Fall 2025. In Spring 2026, ten students achieved the PACER (Promoting Academic, Community, & Employment Readiness) credential. Eight of those graduating students are continuing in the program to earn a second credential.

With changing generational approaches to education and increasing competitiveness for students, undergraduate recruitment and retention have faced many challenges. As mentioned above, our freshman enrollment has been increasing despite these nationwide challenges. We had a large drop in first-year student retention with our 2020 cohort and it has slowly been climbing back up with a variety of targeted efforts to improve the freshman experience. The Student Success Committee continues to work to identify and reduce barriers to student progression and retention. Recent Student Success efforts have included: General Education redesign, early alert progress reports, the addition of Wait Lists to streamline course registration, changes to incoming freshman student course scheduling, availability of summer advising for incoming freshmen, creation of major curriculum maps to aid in planning and advising, consolidating professional academic advising efforts into a single department, and College/School-level Student Success committees. Some of the departmental-level initiatives include the Nursing PASS (Peer Ambassador for Student Success) program, which assists students in foundational nursing classes by integrating peer-led study sessions to clarify class concepts, discuss readings, and develop academic skills, such as time management. The mathematics department implemented curricular changes to one of the foundational math courses to improve success rates. The School of Education implemented a peer mentoring program. And Academic Affairs and Student Affairs collaborate to set up a "Got questions?" table the first 2 days of classes to serve as a resource for new students.

As part of our accreditor's required Quality Enhancement Plan, the University created a centralized advising center staffed with professional advisors to serve first-year students. The new Office of Academic Advising had its comprehensive launch in Fall 2022. We are continuing to see gains in retention due to the increased engagement with our new freshmen. In addition to enhanced support provided via academic advising, our EAB Navigate software has provided the ability for faculty to submit alerts on students who are missing class or struggling academically. In 2024-25, the Office of Academic Advising began an Advisor Academy to enhance the advising skills of the faculty and developed a handbook for faculty to use when advising. Ten advising workshops were offered to faculty advisors during the 2025-26 academic year. Over 30 individual faculty members participated in the 10 offered workshops and 8 of those faculty attended at least 5 of the workshops to earn a certificate. The Office of Academic Advising and broader Student Success Center work together to connect students to the resources they need, whether it's advising, tutoring, counseling, or the many other support resources we offer on campus. In 2025, an IT Help Desk opened in the Student Success Center to provide more centralized and comprehensive resources for students. We look forward to continued gains in student success, retention, and graduation rates with these more engaging practices.

USCA continues its long tradition of working closely with our regional businesses, industry, and other entities to leverage the strengths of our partnerships. We continue to partner with institutions overseas for study abroad opportunities and student exchanges. The university has also continued to partner with various entities of the surrounding community including Aiken Regional Medical Center, Aiken County Government, Aiken County Public Safety, and the City of North Augusta in programs focused on preventative and rehabilitative services, community-based instruction, and other initiatives. Our Ruth Patrick Science Education Center continues to offer support to the K-12 educational system. Serving an average of over 70,000 visits per year, the Ruth Patrick Science Education Center is a major contributor to increasing STEM education in K-12 in our region. USCA has continued exciting partnerships with the Department of Energy (DOE) and the Department of Defense (DOD) which include new facilities to be constructed on USCA's campus. Construction on the Advanced Manufacturing Collaborative (AMC) concluded last year and a ribbon-cutting was held in August 2025. The AMC will house some facilities for the DOE's Savannah River National Laboratory and the university's ABET-accredited engineering programs and related computational programs. The DOD's South Carolina National Guard Readiness facility and Cyber Integration Center is now scheduled to begin construction in early 2027. This facility, which will be built using federal and state funds, will be the new home of USCA's cybersecurity programs.

Numerous studies have found that engaged faculty are essential to the success of initiatives related to student success, program development, research advancement, and economic contributions. Competitiveness in the national market to recruit faculty determines the degree to which we can acquire and maintain qualified faculty, particularly in the face of growing enrollment demands. We often face difficulties in attracting and retaining faculty and staff given state pay limitations, the existence of low state appropriations that do not allow for salary increases and inequity / compression adjustments, and burnout from mandated initiatives at the federal, state, and system level. Meanwhile, current faculty have serious concerns about salary compression, the larger issue of disinvestment, and the prospects for future support of their academic work. In 2023, the USC system conducted a multi-year Compensation Project in which staff positions were reviewed and revised into new market titles and salary ranges. The final phase of the project addressed salary compression for incumbent staff; however, this project was not funded by the state or the USC system. Fortunately, USCA was able to address salary compression for many staff and faculty in 2024-2025, investing nearly $900,000 into base salary increases. However, in early 2026, the USC System again modified salary ranges for a number of positions. While this improved salaries for some, it renewed salary compression issues for many incumbent staff.

To ensure that we provide high-quality support to our incoming and continuing students, USCA continues to renovate various buildings across campus. We are thankful for state funding dedicated to deferred maintenance that has helped us address our aging infrastructure. During the past year, roof replacements and various re-paintings were completed on multiple buildings. Flooring replacements were completed in multiple student buildings. Our Athletics and recreation facility improvements included: lights for the new softball field, soccer facility completion, pool resurfacing, locker room refresh, and various improvements to the Convocation Center. The new Center for Engaged Teaching and Learning continues to be a useful and well-utilized space for meetings and trainings for faculty and staff. The Student Success Center renovations in the Gregg-Graniteville Library provide a centralized and active location for advising, tutoring, academic coaching, and math lab. This Learning Commons space also features a new centralized student success help desk. These dedicated spaces testify to the value USCA places on high-quality instruction and will enhance support of faculty seeking to further adopt and improve high impact practices. USCA values our outdoor space as well and continues to meet the standards to be recognized as a Tree Campus.

The challenges facing the University of South Carolina Aiken continue to be associated with those that are generally impacting public higher education institutions in the United States. As student populations decline, universities compete for students in ever-increasing fashion. Large research universities that can best attract out-of-state students have significant pressures applied to focus more on in-state students – the traditional and foundational reason-for-being of South Carolina's public comprehensive universities. Thankfully, with additional state funding support, USCA has been able to hold tuition flat for the last nine years. This is highly impactful for our student population, who are primarily South Carolina residents. In fact, for Fall 2025, 31% of all USCA undergraduate SC resident students paid $0 out-of-pocket for tuition and mandatory fees and an additional 38% paid under $2500. While state funding remained at 33% of our annual revenues last year, significant financial challenges remain when faced with overall national inflation, unfunded mandated raises for all employees, and increases in healthcare premiums. Students need increasing levels of support in both academic and mental health areas, and as the state incentivizes university-bound students to attend technical schools instead of universities. USCA supports the engagement of high school students as dual-enrolled students; however, financial strain on the university can arise as dual-enrolled students only contribute 15% of the normal tuition cost and further decrease the population of students who have traditionally attended university for four years. Our DOE and DOD construction projects have also required significant additional investment by USCA to move athletic facilities, upgrade engineering and computational labs, and integrate those projects into the university's campus. The confluence of these forces creates a challenging environment for our public institutions to flourish.

In the unlikely event that USCA is unable to achieve its goals and objectives, the public of South Carolina would lose high-quality public post-secondary education at the baccalaureate and master's level. The resulting economic fallout would be severe, as USCA contributes $360.5 million to the state economy, including 2,770 jobs and $140.8 million in labor income. Additionally, the availability of qualified employees entering the workforce would be significantly impacted. Further, there would be a loss of cultural and athletic events that are crucial to the region's appeal. There are several things the General Assembly could do to mitigate the risk of such a crisis. First, the General Assembly could continue to increase funding of USCA and public higher education in general to be more in line with investment levels of North Carolina and Georgia. Companion unfunded mandates should be avoided as they mute the impact of funding increases. Recent increased funding for deferred maintenance has been impactful and should be continued.

USCA continues to increase the number of degrees awarded and is committed to answering the call to credential more South Carolinians. With internal investments in student success and external partnerships bringing federal funds to South Carolina, USCA is well positioned for continued and increasing impact on the region and the state.
