The Senate began debate on H. 3516, commonly called the roads bill, and adopted the Senate Finance Committee amendment. The committee amendment increases the motor fuel user fee two cents per year over six years. When fully implemented, the legislation is estimated to generate about $792 million for road repairs.

The bulk of this week was spent allowing senators to prepare amendments and outline their individual visions for the roads bill. Next week, expect significant debate on those amendments as the Senate works toward a final bill that can become law. The bill remains in interrupted debate, a priority position on the Senate's calendar, pending second reading.

Additionally, H. 3726, was ratified this week and sent to the governor for approval. The goal of the legislation is to make the retirement system financially solvent and make sure the benefits promised to state employees are provided.
