State Expenditure

This bill expands the scope of practice for certain advanced practice nursing professionals (APRNs) without the requirement for direct or general medical supervision. APRNs include nurse practitioners, certified nurse midwives, and clinical nurse specialists. Examples of the expanded scope include the authorization to provide non-controlled prescription drugs at facilities that provide free medical services to indigents, authorization to certify that a student is unable to attend school but may benefit from bedside instruction, authorization to refer patients to other treatment providers, authorization to certify that an individual is handicapped for purposes of obtaining a handicapped license tag, and authorization to pronounce death and sign death certificates. APRNs diagnosing and prescribing may deliver services via telehealth and must operate within a collaborative practice arrangement. The bill amends definitions to conform to these changes.
