Amend the bill, as and if amended, SECTION 1, by striking Section 61-4-50(D)(1) and (2) and inserting:

(1) Whenever any person who has not previously been convicted of any offense under this section, pleads guilty to or is found guilty of a sale in violation of this section, the court, without entering a judgment of guilt and with the consent of the accused, may defer further proceedings and place him on probation upon terms and conditions as it requires provided that one such condition must be that he complete the merchant education program described in subsection (C). Upon violation of a term or condition, the court may enter an adjudication of guilt and proceed as otherwise provided. Upon fulfillment of the terms and conditions, the court shall discharge the person and dismiss the proceedings against him. Discharge and dismissal under this section must be without court adjudication of guilt and is not a conviction for purposes of this section or for purposes of disqualifications or disabilities imposed by law upon conviction of a crime, including the additional penalties imposed for second or subsequent convictions. However, a nonpublic record must be forwarded to and retained by the South Carolina Law Enforcement Division for the purpose of use by the courts in determining whether or not a person has committed a subsequent offense under this section. The South Carolina Law Enforcement Division must produce this record upon subpoena or court order. Discharge and dismissal under this section may occur only once with respect to any person.

(2) Upon the dismissal of the person and discharge of the proceedings against him pursuant to item (1), the person may apply to the court for an order to expunge from all official records, other than the nonpublic records to be retained as provided in item (1), all recordation relating to his arrest, indictment or information, trial, finding of guilt, and dismissal and discharge pursuant to this section. If the court determines, after the hearing, that the person was dismissed and the proceedings against him discharged, it shall enter the order. The effect of the order is to restore the person, in the contemplation of the law, to the status he occupied before the arrest or indictment or information. No person as to whom the order has been entered may be held pursuant to another provision of law to be guilty of perjury or otherwise giving a false statement by reason of his failure to recite or acknowledge the arrest, or indictment or information, or trial in response to an inquiry made of him for any purpose, except when the person is providing sworn statements or giving testimony under oath. A conditional discharge granted pursuant to this section does not preclude a person from availing themselves of subsequent pre-trial diversion options provided by law.

(2) a person identified in a court order, if the Attorney General receives a court order that specifically orders the disclosure of a particular program participant's address and mailing address and the reasons stated for the disclosure.

(F) A program participant's application and supporting materials, and the program's state email account, are not public record pursuant to Chapter 4, Title 30, the Freedom of Information Act, and must be kept confidential by the Attorney General.

(1) make reasonable attempts to provide notice to persons affected by the disclosure of information; and

(D) A nonprofit victim assistance organization providing services of domestic violence, dating violence, human trafficking, stalking, harassment, or sexual offenses may share:

(1) non-personally identifying data in the aggregate regarding services to their clients and non-personally identifying demographic information in order to comply with federal, state, tribal, or territorial reporting, evaluation, or data collection requirements;

(F) Nothing in this section prohibits reporting by individuals who are mandated reporters under Sections 43-35-25 or 63-7-310.

SECTION X. Chapter 11, Title 19 of the S.C. Code is amended by adding:

(F) Any information submitted to the data system that is subsequently required to be expunged by the laws of the member state contributing the information shall be removed from the data system.

Section 40-75-1010. (A) The commission shall promulgate reasonable rules in order to effectively and efficiently achieve the purpose of the compact. Notwithstanding the foregoing, in the event the commission exercises its rulemaking authority in a manner that is beyond the scope of the purposes of the compact, or the powers granted hereunder, then such an action by the commission shall be invalid and have no force or effect.

(B) The commission shall exercise its rulemaking powers pursuant to the criteria set forth in this section and the rules adopted thereunder. Rules and amendments shall become binding as of the date specified in each rule or amendment.

(C) If a majority of the legislatures of the member states rejects a rule, by enactment of a statute or resolution in the same manner used to adopt the compact within four years of the date of adoption of the rule, then such rule shall have no further force and effect in any member state.

(D) Rules or amendments to the rules shall be adopted at a regular or special meeting of the commission.

(E) Prior to promulgation and adoption of a final rule or rules by the commission, and at least thirty days in advance of the meeting at which the rule will be considered and voted upon, the commission shall file a notice of proposed rulemaking:

(3) All hearings will be recorded. A copy of the recording will be made available on request.

(4) Nothing in this section shall be construed as requiring a separate hearing on each rule. Rules may be grouped for the convenience of the commission at hearings required by this section.

(J) Following the scheduled hearing date, or by the close of business on the scheduled hearing date if the hearing was not held, the commission shall consider all written and oral comments received.

For the purposes of this provision, an emergency rule is one that must be adopted immediately in order to:

(1) meet an imminent threat to public health, safety, or welfare;

(2) prevent a loss of commission or member-state funds;

(3) meet a deadline for the promulgation of an administrative rule that is established by federal law or rule; or

(4) protect public health and safety.

(N) The commission or an authorized committee of the commission may direct revisions to a previously adopted rule or amendment for purposes of correcting typographical errors, errors in format, errors in consistency, or grammatical errors. Public notice of any revisions shall be posted on the website of the commission. The revision shall be subject to challenge by any person for a period of thirty days after posting. The revision may be challenged only on grounds that the revision results in a material change to a rule. A challenge shall be made in writing and delivered to the chair of the commission prior to the end of the notice period. If no challenge is made, the revision will take effect without further action. If the revision is challenged, the revision may not take effect without the approval of the commission.

Section 40-75-1020. (A) Oversight:

(1) The executive, legislative, and judicial branches of state government in each member state shall enforce this compact and take all actions necessary and appropriate to effectuate the compact's purposes and intent. The provisions of this compact and the rules promulgated hereunder shall have standing as statutory law.

(2) All courts shall take judicial notice of the compact and the rules in any judicial or administrative proceeding in a member state pertaining to the subject matter of this compact which may affect the powers, responsibilities, or actions of the commission.

(3) The commission shall be entitled to receive service of process in any such proceeding and shall have standing to intervene in such a proceeding for all purposes. Failure to provide service of process to the commission shall render a judgment or order void as to the commission, this compact, or promulgated rules.

(B) Default, technical assistance, and termination:

(1) If the commission determines that a member state has defaulted in the performance of its obligations or responsibilities under this compact or the promulgated rules, the commission shall:

(a) provide written notice to the defaulting state and other member states of the nature of the default, the proposed means of curing the default and/or any other action to be taken by the commission; and

(b) provide remedial training and specific technical assistance regarding the default.

(C) If a state in default fails to cure the default, the defaulting state may be terminated from the compact upon an affirmative vote of a majority of the member states, and all rights, privileges, and benefits conferred by this compact may be terminated on the effective date of termination. A cure of the default does not relieve the offending state of obligations or liabilities incurred during the period of default.

(D) Termination of membership in the compact shall be imposed only after all other means of securing compliance have been exhausted. Notice of intent to suspend or terminate shall be given by the commission to the governor, the majority and minority leaders of the defaulting state's legislature, and each of the member states.

(E) A state that has been terminated is responsible for all assessments, obligations, and liabilities incurred through the effective date of termination, including obligations that extend beyond the effective date of termination.

(F) The commission shall not bear any costs related to a state that is found to be in default or that has been terminated from the compact, unless agreed upon in writing between the commission and the defaulting state.

(G) The defaulting state may appeal the action of the commission by petitioning the United States District Court for the District of Columbia or the federal district where the commission has its principal offices. The prevailing member shall be awarded all costs of such litigation, including reasonable attorney's fees.

(H) Dispute resolution:

(1) Upon request by a member state, the commission shall attempt to resolve disputes related to the compact that arise among member states and between member and nonmember states.

(2) The commission shall promulgate a rule providing for both mediation and binding dispute resolution for disputes as appropriate.

(I) Enforcement:

(1) The commission, in the reasonable exercise of its discretion, shall enforce the provisions and rules of this compact.

(2) By majority vote, the commission may initiate legal action in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia or the federal district where the commission has its principal offices against a member state in default to enforce compliance with the provisions of the compact and its promulgated rules and bylaws. The relief sought may include both injunctive relief and damages. In the event judicial enforcement is necessary, the prevailing member shall be awarded all costs of such litigation, including reasonable attorney's fees.

(3) The remedies herein shall not be the exclusive remedies of the commission. The commission may pursue any other remedies available under federal or state law.

Section 40-75-1030. (A) The compact shall come into effect on the date on which the compact statute is enacted into law in the tenth member state. The provisions, which become effective at that time, shall be limited to the powers granted to the commission relating to assembly and the promulgation of rules. Thereafter, the commission shall meet and exercise rulemaking powers necessary to the implementation and administration of the compact.

(B) Any state that joins the compact subsequent to the commission's initial adoption of the rules shall be subject to the rules as they exist on the date on which the compact becomes law in that state. Any rule that has been previously adopted by the commission shall have the full force and effect of law on the day the compact becomes law in that state.

(C) Any member state may withdraw from this compact by enacting a statute repealing the same.

(1) A member state's withdrawal shall not take effect until six months after enactment of the repealing statute.

(2) Withdrawal shall not affect the continuing requirement of the withdrawing state's professional counseling licensing board to comply with the investigative and adverse action reporting requirements of this act prior to the effective date of withdrawal.

(D) Nothing contained in this compact shall be construed to invalidate or prevent any professional counseling licensure agreement or other cooperative arrangement between a member state and a nonmember state that does not conflict with the provisions of this compact.

(E) This compact may be amended by the member states. No amendment to this compact shall become effective and binding upon any member state until it is enacted into the laws of all member states.

Section 40-75-1040. This compact shall be liberally construed so as to effectuate the purposes thereof. The provisions of this compact shall be severable and if any phrase, clause, sentence or provision of this compact is declared to be contrary to the constitution of any member state or of the United States or the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person, or circumstance is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this compact and the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person, or circumstance shall not be affected thereby. If this compact shall be held contrary to the constitution of any member state, the compact shall remain in full force and effect as to the remaining member states and in full force and effect as to the member state affected as to all severable matters.

Section 40-75-1050. (A) A licensee providing professional counseling services in a remote state under the privilege to practice shall adhere to the laws and regulations, including scope of practice, of the remote state.

~~Indicates Matter Stricken~~
Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 10:30 A.M., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

I Samuel 17:4

This story we all know well: "A champion named Goliath, who was from Gath, came out of the Philistine camp. He was over nine feet tall."

Let us pray: O holy, mighty God, clearly, all of the elected members here in this body -- as well as each one of these dedicated staff members -- very logically might well feel that they have been fighting giants throughout this entire legislative session. Indeed, all of these servants of our State have faced and battled with frequently overwhelming issues, tackled many seemingly insurmountable obstacles and worked diligently to solve problems of all sorts. And they have addressed each of these challenges on behalf of the good people they've been called to serve. How grateful we all should be for those serving here in this Senate: for their faithfulness and their sense of responsibility. Therefore, we ask You, O Lord, to bless these dedicated individuals. May they be well aware of our gratitude. We pray this in Your glorious name, Lord. Amen.

The PRESIDENT called for Petitions, Memorials, Presentments of Grand Juries and such like papers.

Remarks by Senator McLEOD

Thank you, Mr. PRESIDENT. Wow, this day is finally here. Before I speak briefly, I have to recognize my family who has traveled from far and near to be here today. I also want to thank my colleagues for all of their well wishes, and all of their words -- every sentiment that was expressed today -- thank you. I want to thank the first sister Senator who I was elated to see, Senator Maggie Glover. Thank you for being with us today. You are family. I'm not going to cry today. I am not a crybaby. I could not do what I do without my babies. I still call them my babies, my sons, BJ and Cam. Cam couldn't be here for this, but he will be home today for Mother's Day. I'm super excited about that -- my sisters Tracey and Erica, my sister cousin. See, I didn't just come up with sister Senators, I came up with sister cousins, too! My sister cousin, Susan Coaster, who like Senator TEDDER, is also from Durham, North Carolina -- drove here this morning to be with us -- my Uncle Gary, as all of you know -- my parents are no longer here. My dad's brother, Gary, is here with us. Uncle Gary, I'm so glad that you could be here. My other sister, my line sister Amelia, former Richland Two school board member and best friend, is also here. I'm glad I'm standing down here because I get to see all of my other family members, who didn't make it down here in time, but are here, and that means everything. Thank you, guys, for being here. I know some of you had to travel as well. Ms. Mary and Ms. Valerie drove from Conway, South Carolina. I don't know where Senator

RANKIN is right in this moment but thank you for being here. Thank you for the love, the prayers and the support from all of you.

They say…well-behaved women rarely make history. I guess that's why I'm a history maker, many times over. Some have actually referred to me as a troublemaker. An angry black woman, unruly and a few other names I probably shouldn't repeat from the well. The adjective unruly is defined as disruptive. Not amenable to discipline or control. That would be me. The late Congressman John Lewis characterized the unruliness of status quo disruptors like me as, good trouble. I love that. Anne Helen Peterson said to be an unruly woman today is to oscillate between the postures of fearlessness and self-doubt. Between listening to the voices that tell us we're too much, and our own voices whispering and yelling, "I'm already enough, and always have been".

While serving in this Chamber over the last eight years, I've listened much more than I've talked. I've observed some things that have uplifted and inspired me and other things that quite frankly, I wish I could unsee. I've called out hypocrisy on both sides of the aisle. Shared some truths about my own journey that I never imagined I would share publicly. It was while serving in this Chamber that I disclosed that in 2015 after the Mother Emanuel massacre, and losing my granddaddy, I suffered a stroke. I believed that the stress of serving in the House at the time was likely to blame. So, after six years of service I was planning to not run for reelection. But my sister Tracey often reminds me that if I want to make GOD laugh, tell him my plans. So, when the Senate seat came open, I was months into physical therapy and frequent doctors' visits. Yes, I knew the people needed my voice, but I didn't feel physically strong enough to run for the Senate. So, I prayed. I asked God to show me, and as always, he did. I was elected to the Senate in the 2016.

Coming into this calm, deliberative body, was very different from the environment that I was accustomed to in the House. Senator TEDDER and I were just talking about that yesterday. I used to joke that I basically had to unlearn everything I had learned over there. The rules were different. The people were different. The process and the politics were different. Yet the challenges facing the people of House District 79, and Senate District 22 both originally swing districts were the same. Senator SABB, Senator KEVIN JOHNSON and Senator TOM CORBIN were all members of my freshman class in the House, and they seem to have adjusted pretty well over here in the Senate. So, I thought okay, I can do this. Little did I realize, I would meet new friends, and sisters for life in this Body. Although I was part of a great freshman class here in the Senate, that includes Senator FANNING -- all of you know I affectionately refer to as my BFF here in the Senate, because he is. I'm truly going to miss you. You will not make me cry at this well today. Another very special member of my freshman class is my sister Senator, Senator SENN, who I had heard was feisty, just like me, and I actually took it as a compliment. I think it was meant, considering the person who told me, to be a compliment. Now I see that all five of us are feisty. Well now, all six of us are feisty.

I was somewhat familiar with Senator SHEALY from my years in the House where I served on the Joint Children's Committee, and worked with her on issues that impact children and families that both of us are extremely passionate about like domestic violence and teen dating violence. I didn't know my other sister Senator, Senator BRIGHT MATTHEWS at all back then. So that changed when I got sworn in. I had a swearing-in ceremony that November before session began in January. I was looking back at my swearing-in program and reminiscing yesterday. That was the day that a beautiful spirit drove all the way from the low country just to meet me and welcome me into this Body. So, what you may not know is that I actually have two BFFs in this Body. My other Senate BFF is Senator MARGIE BRIGHT MATTHEWS. Since that day we have truly been sisters, almost inseparable. No matter what, I know that the two of you will always have my back.

In 2018, when an outpatient knee surgery left me with blood clots in my leg and traveled to my lungs, my Uncle Gary, who is standing in the back of the room today, looked at me in my hospital bed and gently said, "This is it, right? We're not running any more, right?" I said, "Yes", but again, God had other plans. What I learned from that near-death experience was that obedience is far, far greater than sacrifice. So, I ran for the Senate again in 2020 and two years later for Governor. And if a DVT and a pulmonary embolism didn't kill me, there are no politics or politicians that could. I realized that if God was for me, then who could be against me?

Then in 2020 Senator PENRY GUSTAFSON was elected. I think I was still on crutches then because I had been for about a year and a half. I was feeling better and stronger than ever. It didn't take the five of us sisters long to get to know one another, because of all the time we've spent talking, laughing and venting, often in our own sister Senator chambers, aka the ladies' room, shopping and eating and even traveling some together, and not necessarily in that order. The five of us have come to know, understand and support each other because as different as we are personality wise and politically, our fights as women and for women is the glue that binds us.

After winning the JFK Profile in Courage Award® last year, a global honor for the five of us that only sixty people in the world have received -- I can't even begin to describe how it feels to be recognized for political courage with the same award and distinction, that US Senator John McCain, Congressman John Lewis, President Barack Obama, Congresswomen Liz Cheney and Gabby Giffords and my mentor and friend, former South Carolina Governor, David Beasley received. So yes, today is bittersweet. Because I'll miss all of you, on both sides of the aisle. I know you might not believe that Senator MASSEY, but you too, right? Senator CORBIN, I had to listen intentionally yesterday to remember that you -- your real name in this Body Senator CORBIN and not Lieutenant, and that's our private joke. We don't -- let's just say, you know, we don't agree on much. Okay, okay, we don't agree on anything politically. What I love, love about you, Senator CORBIN, is that a few years ago you stood up for me on the floor, on this Senate floor. And it may not have meant as much to you, but it meant the world to me. I will never forget it. What I also appreciate about you Senator CORBIN, is that when you give your word, you keep it -- that matters.

Mr. PRESIDENT, Senator ALEXANDER, it occurred to me a few weeks ago during our Joint Assembly to elect judges that your job has gotten a lot harder lately. I would dare say it is probably because of Richland County. What I love about you, Mr. PRESIDENT, is that you try to be fair. You're consistently kind and respectful and you're not afraid to lead.

Senator PEELER, Chairman PEELER -- I don't serve on Senate Finance, but your door has always been open to me, and even after I announced that I wasn't running for reelection you kept my budget request in the budget. I so appreciate that. I appreciate you. I'm going to miss you. Senator HUTTO, our Minority Leader -- you came to me on the day I announced I was leaving the Democratic Party and invited me to continue to caucus with the Senate Democratic Caucus and I have. Thank you. I will miss you and members of our caucus a lot. Senator JACKSON, in 2020, you did something I haven't seen anyone else in our caucus do in the eight years I've been here. You were the ranking Democratic member of our Medical Affairs Committee, and gave up your seniority and your seat, so that I could serve on the committee and have an even bigger voice on the issues that I care so deeply about. I give you a hard time, and you deserve it, but I thank you from the bottom of my heart. Senator VERDIN, he went out of his way just few weeks ago to be supportive and helpful to me. He made sure that my Senate Resolution was immediately adopted and ready to read when my guests arrived here in the Senate gallery. I appreciate that. Senator RANKIN, my Chairman of the Judiciary Committee -- I'm definitely going to miss serving on the Judiciary Committee and you always say or do something to make me laugh. No matter how tough my day has been.

Senator GROOMS, I recently made my way back to your committee, the Transportation Committee. Just this week you made sure that my Gamecock Women's Basketball License Tag Bill was adopted here in the Senate, twice, I think. Which allowed me to be the primary sponsor of all three National Championship License Tag Bills that are no -- that have now become -- South Carolina law and adopted by both Chambers in 2017, 2022 and 2024. Thank you.

I have enjoyed serving on Senate Medical Affairs, Judiciary, Transportation, Corrections and Penology and Family and Veterans' Services for a while. Rules, although I would like to change some of the rules -- that's another story for another day, Senator MASSEY. I appreciate all your leadership and your service. Senator DAVIS, thank you for just your ability to explain things in such great detail -- for always being prepared, always going the extra mile to prove your case, here in this Chamber, I've learned so much from you. I appreciate the support and your friendship over the years, That's not everybody. I can't get to everybody today but before I take my seat, I want to thank Jeff Gossett, our Clerk, Ken Moffitt, Assistant Clerk and all of our Senate Clerk's staff -- all of our committee staff, all of our Senate staff.

Amanda, Amanda, Amanda, we've been together a long time -- longer than this Senate but I love you and I will miss you terribly. Melanie, Kalisha, Nia and Moses thank you for always, always having our backs and giving us the support we need to do what we need to do. Thank you. Richard asked me earlier when I got here, he said, "You're going to say good things about me when you do your farewell? You're going to play it up a few notches, right?" I said, "Of course." Chuck, Richard, Ronnie, Wayne and Chip I probably have bugged you all the most. I love all of our Sergeant at Arms team, especially you guys. I've never asked anything of you that you hesitated to do. I just appreciate you all so much for everything. Thank you. It doesn't mean I don't love Jackson, Lawrence, Aaron, Ryan, Jose, Sheldon, Justin, Kelly and Michael. I hope I didn't leave anybody out -- oh, Turquoise and Jessi. We see you and we're glad you're here.

Shari, Shari is my assistant, who I love. I can't thank you enough for all you do to take good care of my suitemate, Senator REICHENBACH and me and our constituents. I love and appreciate you for answering my call and having the faith and courage to say "yes" to a totally new position and a totally different and sometimes crazy environment than the one you were accustomed to at DNR. I hope you don't regret it.

Mr. Reading Clerk, I could not take my seat because I remember the day you took the stairs. I was sitting in the gallery because of Covid, and you took three flights of stairs during the height of the pandemic just to let me know that although my opponent's TV ads used a clip of you calling the roll and they pointed to my empty chair and used my name as an acronym to say I was missing in action -- you wanted me to know that you saw me here in this Body every day. I may have been late, but I was here and I thank you. You have no idea what that meant to me -- what it meant to me that you cared enough to do that. I'll never forget you or your kindness and compassion to me in that moment.

I'm not sure if Chaplain St. John is still here, but I want to thank him for always taking the time to engage in conversations with me, for his kind and thoughtful notes of encouragement and for bringing God's word to life every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday to remind all of us of why we're here and how we should treat one another inside and outside of this Chamber.

It was at this well that I shared publicly for the first time, that I know the pain and the trauma of being sexually assaulted. At a time when there were forty-one men in this Chamber and only five of us. Some male colleagues meant well, but they wondered why I felt the need to share my pain publicly -- knowing that not one heart, not one vote would change. In that moment, I wasn't even sure myself why God led me to share it. But before I could even leave this Chamber, God showed me why. It was to liberate others as well as myself. Not just others who are outside of this State House. That day, I became acutely aware that there are many among us, female and male, who know my story all too well because it's their story too.

When I think about the legacy I want to leave, several words come immediately to mind. Among them, courage, principles, leadership and service. Why courage first? Because it takes courage to lead. It takes courage to stand on our principles and speak truth to power. It takes courage to put the interests of others above our own. Truth is -- courage, hope -- always costs us something. My prayer for all of us in this room and under the sound of my voice is that we will always be willing to pay the price -- always choose courage. To my sister Senators, you are stuck with me for life. I'm sorry, there's nothing you can do. We are bonded for life. I love each and every one of you. That won't change. To my brother Senators, I love y'all, too. I appreciate the opportunity to serve and lead from this Body and I hope and pray that in the future, we will all choose courage -- always. Always choose courage. I love you.

RETURNED TO THE HOUSE WITH AMENDMENTS

S. 112 -- Senators Allen, Hembree and Shealy: A BILL TO AMEND THE SOUTH CAROLINA CODE OF LAWS BY AMENDING SECTION 34-11-90, RELATING TO JURISDICTION FOR OFFENSES INVOLVING CHECKS AND PENALTIES, SO AS TO PROVIDE A METHOD TO EXPUNGE CONVICTIONS; AND TO AMEND SECTION 17-22-910, AS AMENDED, RELATING TO APPLICATIONS FOR EXPUNGEMENT, SO AS TO ADD MULTIPLE MISDEMEANOR OFFENSES OF CHECK FRAUD TO THOSE OFFENSES ELIGIBLE FOR EXPUNGEMENT.

The House returned the Bill with amendments.

The Senate proceeded to a consideration of the Bill, the question being concurrence in the House amendments.

Senator HEMBREE explained the House amendments.

Senator HEMBREE proposed the following amendment (SEDU-112.DB0012S), which was adopted:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, by striking all after the enacting words and inserting:

SECTION 1. Section 34-11-90 of the S.C. Code is amended by adding:

(f) notwithstanding another provision of law, if a defendant receives multiple convictions within a three-year period of time in magistrates court for a violation of this section, the defendant may, after ten years from the date of the last conviction, apply or cause someone acting on his behalf to apply, to the court for an order expunging the records of arrest and the multiple convictions. This provision does not apply to any crime classified as a felony. If the defendant receives no other convictions during the ten-year period following the last conviction under this section and full restitution has been made on all checks that are the subject of the convictions, the court must issue an order expunging the records. No person may take advantage of the rights permitted by this subsection more than once. Neither the application for nor successful expungement of a qualifying applicant's record as authorized by subsection (e) precludes application for and expungement of a qualifying applicant's record under this subsection. After the expungement, the South Carolina Law Enforcement Division is required to keep a nonpublic record of the offense and the date of its expungement to ensure that no person takes advantage of the rights permitted by this subsection more than once. This nonpublic record is not subject to release under Section 34-11-95, the Freedom of Information Act, or any other provision of law except to those authorized law or court officials who need this information in order to prevent the rights afforded by this subsection from being taken advantage of more than once.

SECTION 2. Section 17-22-910(A)(1) of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

(1) Section 34-11-90(e), first offense misdemeanor fraudulent check or Section 34-11-90(f), multiple misdemeanor offenses of fraudulent check;

SECTION 3. Chapter 1, Title 17 of the S.C. Code is amended by adding:

Section 17-1-43. (A) Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 17-1-40, not later than one hundred eighty days after an investigation by a law enforcement or prosecution agency reveals that a person was arrested as a result of mistaken identity, the law enforcement or prosecution agency with appropriate jurisdiction shall destroy the arrest records of that person made as a result of mistaken identity. The law enforcement or prosecution agency, as appropriate, shall establish a review process for verifying that a person's arrest records relating to mistaken identity in which no charges were filed have been destroyed as provided in this section. Neither the law enforcement or prosecution agency may charge or collect a fee for the destruction of arrest records pursuant to the provisions of this section.

(B) Law enforcement and prosecution agencies shall retain the arrest and booking record, associated bench warrants, mug shots, and fingerprints of the person under seal for three years and one hundred twenty days. A law enforcement or prosecution agency may retain the information indefinitely for purposes of ongoing or future investigations and prosecution of the offense, administrative hearings, and to defend the agency and the agency's employees during litigation proceedings. The information must remain under seal. The information is not a public document and is exempt from disclosure, except by court order.

SECTION 4. This act takes effect upon approval by the Governor.

Renumber sections to conform.

Amend title to conform.

Senator HEMBREE explained the amendment.

The question then was the adoption of the amendment.

The amendment was adopted.

The Bill was ordered returned to the House of Representatives with amendments.

The Senate proceeded to a consideration of the Bill.

Senator M. JOHNSON proposed the following amendment (SJ-3865.MB0012S), which was adopted:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, by adding appropriately numbered SECTIONS to read:

SECTION X. The effective date of Act No. 56 of 2023, which enacted the "Law Enforcement and Personal Privacy Protection Act" and the "Judicial Privacy Protection Act", is delayed from July 1, 2024, until July 1, 2025.

SECTION X. The General Assembly finds that the sections presented in this act constitute one subject as required by Article III, Section 17 of the South Carolina Constitution, in particular finding that each change and each topic relates directly to or in conjunction with other sections to the subject of coroner's responsibilities and duties, including proper handling of records and certificates, as clearly enumerated in the title. The General Assembly further finds that a common purpose or relationship exists among the sections, representing a potential plurality but not disunity of topics, notwithstanding that reasonable minds might differ in identifying more than one topic contained in the act.

Renumber sections to conform.

Amend title to conform.

Senator M. JOHNSON explained the amendment.

The amendment was adopted.

However, the signature of the owner of real estate is not required for a sublease agreement involving real estate if the lease allows for subletting. Licensees not associated with the listing brokerage firm may advertise real estate owned, in whole or in part, by another person only if they have written authorization from the listing brokerage firm and acknowledge the listing brokerage firm in the advertisement in a clear and conspicuous way. Authorization may be contained and obtained from the owner through the listing agreement.

The advertising and marketing of real property is to be distinguished from the advertising and marketing of a contractual position in a sales agreement to purchase real estate. An advertisement that markets a contractual position to acquire real property from a person with either equitable or legal title and does not imply, suggest, or purport to sell, advertise, or market the underlying real property is permissible under this section.

~~Indicates Matter Stricken~~
Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 11:00 A.M., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Psalm 139:23-24

Perhaps speaking for each one of us, we read that the Psalmist says: "Search me, O God, and know my heart; test me and know my thoughts. See if there is any offensive way in me and lead me in the way everlasting."

Join me now as we pray: O Most Glorious and Ever-blessed Lord, how often do we discover that Your Holy Word clearly seems directed straight toward each one of us. And of course, in this instance it is, as we find ourselves tested and challenged over and over, often day by day. So, we do call upon You today, O God, to grant these Senators wisdom and courage. Help them and their staff members to follow Your leading as they strive to do what will best benefit the good people of this State. And in the process may it be You, O Lord, who is truly honored. Likewise guide the many other women and men who also serve in positions of leadership throughout South Carolina, Lord. May they, too, strive always to follow Your way in all that they say and do. So we humbly pray in Your gracious name, dear Lord. Amen.

Statement by Senator ALEXANDER

I commend the May 23, 2024, Supreme Court decision upholding South Carolina's congressional redistricting plan. As I have said throughout this process, our plan was meticulously crafted to comply with statutory and constitutional requirements, and I was completely confident we would prevail. With its decision, the Supreme Court affirmed the hard work of South Carolina Senators and the product they produced as constitutional.

Remarks by Senator HUTTO

Senator HUTTO made remarks honoring the service of Senator McELVEEN.

Remarks by Senator McELVEEN

Senator McELVEEN rose to make brief remarks regarding his service in the Senate.

Remarks by Senator McELVEEN

Mr. PRESIDENT, brothers and sisters in the Senate, our world-class Senate staff, so many good friends from the South Carolina House of Representatives, and our visitors today, who also include my family members, and some very close friends. Wow. I can't believe this day has arrived and I didn't think this would be hard until I got up here. Usually, it's not hard to come to this well, Senator HUTTO, but when you did what you did right before I walked up here, it's made it tough.

First of all, I've got a feeling that this is going to be a more difficult speech than the very first one I gave from this well back on January 8, 2013. But it wasn't easy back then either -- as the youngest State Senator and as a first-time public office holder at the time, I suddenly found myself among giants whose careers in the Senate I'd read about and followed for years. Some of those giants are still here -- Senator

PEELER, Senator JACKSON, Senator HUTTO and Chairman RANKIN, to name just a few. And I'm certainly honored and humbled to be leaving this Chamber with one of the tallest giants of them all -- one of the greatest gentlemen and statesmen that South Carolina has ever known. That's Senator NIKKI SETZLER -- the longest serving State Senator in South Carolina history and the longest currently serving State Senator in these United States. I will never forget the friend and the mentor you have been to me since before I ever set foot in this Chamber for the first time. You are and always will be a South Carolina legend.

Because of the relationships that have been built in this Chamber and on these capitol building grounds since I started here on that second Tuesday in January back in 2013, and because of the work that I've enjoyed doing with all of you for a dozen years, I have known for a while that saying "goodbye" would be much, much harder than it was to say "hello." And now I look around this room and I see so many people I care about so much. My parents are here; my almost-perfect children; my sister, Kate Price, and her husband, Nick Price; and my only niece in the world, Martha Kate, who is a year old. I see my uncles, I see an aunt, and maybe a cousin's here, too, that I've missed. Not you, Senator MARTIN -- a different cousin. Some of my closest friends, and you, the people that I have been blessed to work with in the General Assembly. Even my friend, my brother and my suitemate for eight years, the former Senator from Charleston, Senator MARLON KIMPSON is here. And it is my great pleasure to inform each and every one of you, just in case you were wondering, he just got back from the White House. He really did. I've seen the pictures. I've seen a lot of pictures. So, I was telling the Senator for the children, Chairwoman SHEALY, just last week that she better not make eye contact with me this morning, because I really want to get through these farewell remarks in one piece. That rule goes for a lot a lot of you, because there are so many people who are so special to me in this room, and so many people who I'm really going to miss. So please bear with me as I'm going to do something that I don't do a whole lot. I'm going to read a lot of this speech -- even though we're not supposed to read from the podium, so I guess I'll break one more rule, Mr. PRESIDENT. My final remarks from the well of the Senate are going to be centered around the two words in the English language that are not used nearly enough on a daily basis. The two words that we should all use way more in our daily interactions. At least I know I should. And those two words are "Thank you." Thank you. And as I glance back, not only at my twelve years in the South Carolina State Senate, but also at the forty-six years that I've spent on this earth so far, the truth is that I have so much to be thankful for. We all do. The truth is that I've been blessed beyond my wildest imagination and dreams.

So, first of all I want to say "thank you" to my parents, Joe and Kathy McElveen, who are here today. And they were here the first day that I came into this Chamber. They've been there for everything. I have been so fortunate to have so many positive influences in my life growing up and even as an adult -- men and women -- and it starts with my family. My grandfathers, Burke Watson and J.T. McElveen, were purple heart World War II veterans who came back and did as much for our community as they did serving their country. My grandmothers, Jeanne Watson and Elizabeth McElveen, were amazing in their own right -- their work ethic and their philanthropic and service-minded pursuits were only exceeded by their love for their God and their love for their families. My own parents have set a pristine example of what a marriage should look like, what parenting should look like and now -- maybe in the roles in which I enjoy them most -- of what grandparenting ought to look like, for their four grandchildren. Mom and Dad, I love you and you will never, ever know how much I really appreciate you. Thank you. And I'll stop with that, right there. My three wonderful children are here. Adelaide, who you've met before, is a ten-year old who's a rising fifth grader. She's a straight A student and always has been, and excels at sports, especially softball. Joe is six and is headed to first grade -- just graduated kindergarten. He's a lefty like me and shares my love of the outdoors. And Buck, that strapping young toddler you see over there, turns three next month. This is his first time coming to the Senate; I'm not sure how that happened, but I'd like to welcome him, also. The three of them haven't known anything besides my service in the Senate since they've been alive, but I want to come back and talk about them in just a little bit. I have made them promise not to say anything derogatory about Clemson today, Chairman PEELER. I have tried to explain to them that the ink is still far from dry on our budget process. And on daddy's budget projects, Representative WEEKS. Senator MARTIN, Uncle Mike is here, and I thought he brought Cousin Hunter, but maybe he didn't make it today -- and so are Uncle Burke and Aunt Robin. I'm so glad y'all were able to make it, and for the endless support y'all have always given me since day one. I know I'm your favorite nephew, but you don't have to tell anybody else. As you all know, unless you are independently wealthy, retired or self-employed, it makes it almost impossible to serve here in the Legislature. I can promise you I am neither of the first two things, but I am self-employed -- and if I didn't have law partners and some of the best legal staff in the State who were doubling down to make things happen at the Bryan Law Firm these last twelve years while I was in session and doing the things that we all have to do, I don't know where I'd be. No one has given more effort and sacrificed more time with family and doing things that he enjoys doing than my partner John Moorman, who's here today. John has been one of my best friends for the past twenty-five years and my law partner for about seventeen years. We have had an amazing run at our firm, and I can't wait to get back to spending more time at the only place where I've ever practiced law -- at the Bryan Law Firm in Downtown Sumter -- to continue expanding and building upon the great successes that John and I have had for our clients these last seventeen years as partners in our statewide practice. I've always been proud to be a trial lawyer, and I always will be. Moorman, again -- thank you.

I want to say "thank you" to my amazing predecessor who served thirty-two years in the Senate. Talk about a giant. In addition to his years of service and the combat missions that he flew as a fighter pilot in defense of our country, and that's Senator Phil Leventis, who's here today. Senator Leventis has been beyond gracious to me from the very start to the very end. He and his wife, EV, and their family are truly wonderful people, and I am thankful for them. Senator, thank you. I want to say "thank you" to my cousin -- not you, not yet, Senator MARTIN, but my other cousin, the great former Senator from Williamsburg, Senator Yancey McGill, and to Marie Waller, for originally welcoming me into Suite 508 in the Gressette Building and for breaking me in as a brand-new Senator. I don't know that I could've landed in a better spot after you left that office, Senator RANKIN, and that's where I've stayed ever since. I had the great fortune to spend time with Senator McGill and the former Senator from Fairfield, Senator Creighton Coleman, in our office suite before an eight-year run with Senator Kimpson that I wouldn't trade for anything. And this year I've been so thankful to share space with the new Senator from Charleston who is the youngest State Senator among us. There he is back there. Senator TEDDER, Senator, you are already a savvy and veteran lawmaker with such a bright future ahead of you in this Body. I don't want to sound like a Taylor Swift song, but I'm thankful we got this year together, and I want to tell you that you did not run me off from that office. You did not run me off from this Senate. It's not your fault. It's me; it's not you. But we are never ever getting back together, okay? Ever. And to Carole Collins, our do everything and more office manager -- this is hard. You originally came to our office after retiring from an illustrious career with DNR where you ended your service as a deputy director of the agency. When you had to leave our office on a temporary basis because they needed you back at the department several years ago, you came back to our office, and you've been there ever since. I know I'm a handful, I'm all over the place, I'm often disorganized and probably not the easiest to work with. John will tell you that. Sometimes I didn't know why you were so willing to continue with us for as long as you have, because it certainly wasn't for the pay, and it wasn't because you had to. But I do know now why you stayed. It's because you have always believed in the work we were doing. And of all of your many gifts and talents, I think your greatest is your ability and your natural inclination and desire to take care of other people. Constituent service is one of my favorite things about holding public office -- helping people to navigate government and to at least try to connect them with the services or information they need is our highest calling as public officials. And our office has been very good at constituent service -- and that's not because of me; it's because of you. You made it look easy even as you tried to keep our breakneck schedules straight whether it was job related or in our personal lives. You are a treasure, and you are a treasured friend and confidante. You are family. Thank you.

To the very large Senate Class of 2012, the Freshman Class of 2012 -- there were ten of us -- we literally turned the Senate over in one fell swoop when we arrived. Not only did we immediately account for over a fifth of the membership of the Senate -- we had a woman among our ranks who was the only woman serving at that time with forty-five men in the Senate. The crazy thing is nine of us in that freshman class are still serving today, a dozen years later. That number will definitely go down to eight after this year, and I sure am sorry for that, but I would point out that the two of us who have left the Senate -- myself and my former desk mate, the former Senator from Charleston, Senator Paul Thurmond -- did so voluntarily and on our own terms. To my remaining brothers and sister from that Class of 2012 -- Senator ALLEN, Senator BENNETT, Senator CORBIN, Senator HEMBREE, Senator K. JOHNSON, Senator SHEALY, Senator TURNER and Senator YOUNG -- I can't imagine a better group to have arrived here with. It seems like just yesterday that Senator HEMBREE, who ended up being the President of our Freshman Class, was getting us organized and on the same page before that freshman orientation where Jeff Gossett taught us how to be Senators. I've enjoyed working with you and have enjoyed spending time with each and every one of you over the years. Of course we don't always agree on everything, as it is with politics, but what I do know is that each and every one of you are entirely representative of your home communities and your districts, and that you do an outstanding job of representing the values of your home communities and your districts here in Columbia. For those of you who have opposition this month or this fall, in my humble opinion, your constituents would do very well to send you back here again in 2025. While I'm sorry there will only be eight left when y'all come back in January, and I know that you will, I thank you for your service these past twelve years and for the leadership roles you will take on and the work you will continue to do in the future. Thank you. I only got to serve on a local delegation with one person from our Freshman Class -- and that's Senator K. JOHNSON. Senator, I'll never forget at the 2012 Sumter County Democratic Party Convention when your predecessor, Senator John Land, pulled us together and told us both that we'd be sitting next to each other in the South Carolina Senate the following year. I didn't believe him; maybe you did. But he was right. At the time, I could not have imagined how wonderful you would be to work with, or what a true friend and brother you would become. THANK YOU. Thank you for what you have done for my home county of Sumter, and the other counties of your district. You have never once wavered when we've asked you for help -- not once, ever. We have been fortunate in Sumter to have you as an instrumental part of our team, and we are going to need you even more in the future. THANK YOU to you and your family, again, for your enduring friendship. And while I'm on the subject of local delegations -- and I see some of mine here today -- I see some of the people who I've served with locally in Sumter County, Kershaw County, Lee County and even Richland County, Representative Bernstein is here today. I was very fortunate right from the start to begin serving with a great group of veteran lawmakers who were already in place from this area. And looking back, most of the time that made life a whole lot easier for me. In my home community of Sumter, for example, people like now Speaker of the House Murrell Smith and Representative David Weeks had already been in the Legislature for a dozen years. These are gentlemen who I've known for a very long time, and I am so proud of the work we have done together over these past three terms to bring so much more to our home community. The members of the Kershaw Delegation over the years -- both old and new -- certainly helped me to adjust and to feel right at home in Kershaw County. It's a place I'm really going to miss serving, Representative Mitchell. And of course, Senator MALLOY from Darlington and I have been serving together on the Lee County Delegation now for twelve years, where there has always only been the two of us plus either former Representative Grady Brown or current Representative Will Wheeler, another long-time friend with whom I got to serve on THREE legislative delegations. And Senator MALLOY, THANK YOU for the wisdom that you bring to this Body and for your untouchable ability to navigate our rules. Of course, next year you will take on perhaps your most prestigious legislative role to date -- you will become a member of the Sumter County Delegation. Congratulations -- which takes me back to the Sumter County Delegation for a minute. Y'all know how proud I am to be from Sumter. Just like every single one of you, I love my home. And the ways that I have seen my home community change for the better over these past twelve years has been nothing short of miraculous. I won't get into all the details because I could go all day and I don't want to be accused of filibustering a Supreme Court election, especially not while Senator Leventis is here, but we've made things happen in Sumter because we've worked together. Plenty of politicians say things like "we have to work together" or "let's focus on bipartisanship." That's nothing new and it's not always sincere. But we walk the walk in Sumter County -- "Team Sumter" has been a real concept for a long time, where almost every horse pulls in the same direction for the greater good of our community: from the city council to the county council, through the private and philanthropic sectors of our community, to our legislative delegation. And that's because the goal for most has never been to be the biggest Democrat or Republican; it's been to improve things like median incomes, unemployment rates, education and access to recreation and better quality of life -- by working together. When you're a smaller county, you better work together as a cohesive unit, because if you don't, you'll end up with very little or nothing. Of course, lately it certainly hasn't hurt that one of the Republicans on our delegation has been Chairman of Ways and Means and now Speaker of the House -- Representative Murrell Smith, and that we've had an outsized representation on the Senate Finance Committee, Senator K. JOHNSON, and the House Ways and Means Committee, Representative Weeks, for a number of years now. But I want y'all to know that our Sumter County Delegation has either been six Democrats and one Republican or four Democrats and two Republicans ever since I've been in office. And those things haven't mattered one bit when we are back at home; in fact, at one point the six Democrats elected the lone Republican to be our delegation chairman. We've ridden around together on election days to thank poll workers. We've shown a united front at home. We communicate, we've stayed on the same page, and we have delivered real results. How many other county legislative delegations have you seen collaborating like that? My home county is too small for us not to work together. Our State is too small a place for us not to work together. Our late former Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Senator Leatherman, once told us from this very well that we are neither Democrats nor Republicans; we are Senators for the State of South Carolina. THANK YOU to the members of this Body, on most days, for holding fast to that idea. THANK YOU to those of you who will continue here, for your efforts to maintain that attitude, which flies in the face of everything we see coming out of Washington, D.C. and other state capitols. We've been at our best, ladies and gentlemen, when we've come together -- whether that was in the impossibly trying weeks that followed the murder of one of the very best among us, or when we came together to pass legislation that would save the infrastructure of a rapidly growing State, or when we delivered, Senator PEELER, perhaps the largest tax cut in our state's history -- which included exempting our veterans' military retirement from our state's income tax. That last one was an initiative that our Sumter Delegation had worked together on for well over a decade, and what a day that was when Governor McMaster came to Sumter to celebrate the passage of that initiative to help not only our very deserving veterans, but also the development of our work force. Those are just a few examples; and there are so many more -- but it's a beautiful thing when the South Carolina Senate comes together around compromise and consensus after the robust and spirited debate and deliberation which are the historic hallmarks of this Body. THANK YOU for not throwing that away; THANK YOU for preventing this place from becoming the legislative racetrack that it was never meant to be.

Ladies and gentlemen, I believe that in some ways one of the biggest positives, but in other ways maybe the greatest threat and challenge to our State both today and in the days ahead, is growth; the growth that's already here and the growth that's on the way, Senator CAMPSEN. THANK YOU, for some of the things we've done to prepare for that growth -- like a better education system with the support we've given to initiatives like four-year-old kindergarten and an emphasis on taking care of our technical colleges, along with more recent steps to mitigate and to freeze the unsustainable rising costs of higher education which make it out of reach for a lot of South Carolina families. There's still much work to be done, and it should start with a long-term, sustainable and dedicated funding stream for counties in this State that need help and will never be able to take care of their crumbling public schools by themselves. Now that I'm leaving, please consider the Education Infrastructure Bank Bill that I've filed for two or three straight sessions now along with my longtime friend, Senator SABB. I know a lot of y'all like the idea, along with the past two Superintendents of Education. Representative Neil Collins here -- I think you'd probably like it too if you read it. It's not perfect, but it's a fiscally responsible and sustainable concept that would be a great start to addressing a major challenge that's only going to get drastically worse for a lot of counties and communities in this State over the next ten to twenty years.

THANK YOU for the overwhelming emphasis on providing funding and a plan that we now have to get our roads and our bridges up to 21st century standards as the population of our State balloons. We were playing from way behind when we passed that Bill in 2017, but we had to start somewhere, and the progress toward decongesting our highways and making our roads and bridges safer is real, and it's palpable -- but it can't be completed overnight after being neglected for so many decades.

THANK YOU for making conservation an issue that has become less and less partisan, whether it's the land we've protected due in part to the Conservation Bank, or the wild species -- even including native snakes and turtles -- that we've protected by being diligent and deliberate with our fish and game laws. THANK YOU, to conservation leaders like Senator CHIP CAMPSEN and Senator STEPHEN GOLDFINCH. Chairman CAMPSEN, there is nothing here that I've taken more personal satisfaction from than serving with you on your Fish, Game and Forestry Committee. I've said it before and I'll say it again -- there is no person here who is more suited to chair a committee based upon his or her personal experiences and knowledge, given the subject matter, than you. A lot of people have no idea how fortunate we are to have you at the helm of a committee that takes up issues that are so important to so many South Carolinians. Having my friend, the Senator from Georgetown, Senator STEPHEN GOLDFINCH, at your right hand on that committee is an added benefit for the sportsmen of South Carolina. THANK YOU for being the conscience of the Senate when it comes to protecting and conserving God's creation in South Carolina.

While we are on the subject of conservation -- and Senator SEAN BENNETT, you knew I was going to say it at some point in time -- let's not forget our waterways, our swamps, our lakes, our streams and our ponds -- and even the very water we drink -- that we have managed to keep relatively clean and pure by maintaining careful watch over places like the Pinewood Landfill that is situated in my Senate district near the shores of Lake Marion. THANK YOU, to Chairman HARVEY PEELER and Chairman DANNY VERDIN, who several years ago allowed us the resources to take a deep dive on the Pinewood Site, which resulted in capital improvements to keep a dangerous place a little bit safer, and created increased awareness of the threat that this hazardous waste dump poses among a newer generation of Legislators. I know this is something I've talked about a whole lot over the years -- my predecessor was the same way, he fought it to the very end -- but I'm not Chicken Little and this is not a problem that's ever going to go away on its own. That landfill is a ticking time bomb that this Legislature is going to have to stay on top of and prevent it from causing harm to citizens in my part of the State, downstream from the Santee Lakes, and likely in your parts of the State as well. THANK YOU for remaining diligent and deliberate when it comes to environmental challenges such as the Pinewood hazardous waste site. Economic investments come and go, jobs come and go and development will be ever-present in this State -- but we only get one crack at protecting the things that make South Carolina the unique paradise that it is -- things we take for granted like clean air, clean water and a million different beautiful places and opportunities for recreation in our State. Once we allow these treasures to be damaged, the harm can and will be irreparable. As our State continues to grow, THANK YOU for the steps we have taken and that you will continue to take to protect our unique and abundant national heritage -- it's our moral responsibility and our duty to future generations of South Carolinians to remain vigilant in this pursuit.

I'm also particularly proud of the decade of work we have done to improve conditions at the Department of Social Services, which has led to better outcomes for our state's most precious resource of all -- our children. THANK YOU to Senator KATRINA SHEALY and to Senator TOM YOUNG, and to former Senator Joel Lourie, for your committed, meticulous and resilient work on the DSS Oversight Committee. It has been a pleasure and an honor working with you on that subcommittee for all of these years, and the work we have done has not only improved lives, Senator YOUNG, it's saved lives. THANK YOU. And while we are talking about oversight, I want to say THANK YOU to this Body for taking that oversight role very seriously. It's not the sexiest work; it's not the easiest work; but it's some of the most important work that this General Assembly is supposed to do. Senator from Berkeley, Chairman LARRY GROOMS, you have led our Constitutional Subcommittee of the Finance Committee both deliberately and fearlessly, especially over these past eighteen months. The members of our subcommittee -- you, Senator YOUNG, Senator BRIGHT MATTHEWS, Senator GOLDFINCH, Senator FANNING and yours truly -- have managed to uncover so much over the past year and a half, thanks in large part to the tireless, brilliant and never-ceasing work of our staff. THANK YOU, Senator GROOMS, for your commitment to ensuring that questions about our state's finances WILL be answered, that our state's dollars WILL be managed appropriately, and for safeguarding things like our state's pristine credit rating, of which we are rightfully proud. Chairman PEELER, THANK YOU for giving this subcommittee the necessary resources and a very long leash to perform this work which is so vital to our state's long-term financial stability. You all WILL not only get to the bottom of it, you'll lead the way in making the necessary changes that will fix these problems and WILL prevent these irregularities from ever happening again. THANK YOU. And just for the record, this retiring Legislator has no interest in being appointed Comptroller General, or Treasurer, or dog catcher, or anything else right now, so please don't even ask!

Chairman PEELER, I also want to say THANK YOU again for the many opportunities you've allowed me on the Finance Committee over just a few short years. I can't tell you how much I've enjoyed the work I was able to do with Senator JACKSON'S Transportation Subcommittee, more recently with Senator GROOMS' Constitutional Subcommittee, and even more recently with the Senator CROMER'S Higher Education Subcommittee. I wish I could have spent more than one year. THANK YOU for taking steps to restore our state government's historic support of and investment in our state colleges and universities. Serving on the Finance Committee has been one of the most awesome responsibilities and some of the most enjoyable work that I've done here, and I'm really, really going to miss it.

The Family and Veteran Services Committee is another place that has been extraordinarily special to me. A big reason for that is because it's chaired by one of the most extraordinary and special people among us, and that's Chairwoman SHEALY. And let me stop there to say that I have been beyond inspired and grateful for the work that Senator SHEALY and our other Sister Senators, Senator BRIGHT MATTHEWS, Senator McLEOD, Senator SENN, Senator GUSTAFSON and now Senator DEVINE were doing way before they ever won that prestigious Profile in Courage Award© last summer. Your collaborative efforts and willingness to ignore silly things like party lines are not only a great example for our State -- they are a great example for a country that really needs to get away from divisiveness that's brought on by divisive people. Your service and your mere presence in this Senate continue to make the South Carolina Senate a much better place. But Senator SHEALY, you were the first to make sure that this Senate regained the much-needed voice of a woman, and Senator SHEALY'S voice has been mighty, especially when it comes to the welfare of children and vulnerable adults who have been in need of a voice. Candidly, Senator SHEALY has taught me one of the most valuable lessons that I've learned in politics -- and that's never to judge a book by its cover. When we first came to the Senate, quite frankly I didn't want to like Senator SHEALY. I imagine a lot of you felt the same way when Senator HARPOOTLIAN got here. I really didn't want much to do with Senator SHEALY at that time, at all. All I really knew -- or thought that I knew -- at the time was that our politics didn't exactly match up and that she was pretty tight with our former Governor, and that was a Governor who had come into my backyard, Representative Weeks, in Sumter and personally attacked me on multiple occasions during that first campaign in 2012. Uncle Mike, she should have known better. Perhaps like many of you, I did not know Senator SHEALY's heart back then, but I'm confident that all of us know it now. She is one of the most extraordinary people I've ever met, and her friendship is one that I will always cherish immensely. And Senator SHEALY, you gave me the opportunity to Chair the Veterans Affairs Subcommittee, which is one of many things for which I'll always be indebted to you. That might not seem like a big deal to a lot of people up here at the State House, but it's been a big deal to me and to my home community, which is also home to Shaw Air Force base -- right down the road from McEntire and Fort Jackson, and which boasts a robust veteran population. You certainly didn't have to share that position with a member of the minority caucus, but you did, and working with you and Mason Thomas to pass so many great, if underappreciated, pieces of military and veteran friendly Legislation has been a true highlight of my career here. THANK YOU. Going forward, I'm going to miss the work that we do here. But I am going to miss the people and the wonderful relationships up here so much more. As I said, if you can get past politics and personalities -- WHICH EVERYONE SHOULD -- you can find a friend in what you might have thought was an unlikely place. A friend who might help you pass a piece of Legislation or a friend who might buy you lunch, Senator HARPOOTLIAN. While I won't get much of a retirement out of this place, I have gained many friends and I have even gotten a new cousin out of my service up here, Senator MARTIN. And ladies and gentlemen, it's no secret that this past year has been a tough one for me, but it has made me so immensely thankful for so many of you in this room. Senator KIMBRELL, you simply coming by and asking, "How are you?" on so many occasions over the past few months has been a true blessing to me, whether you knew it or not. There are so many of you who have gone out of your way just to check in, and that goes beyond just the members of the Body. Mr. Reading Clerk, John Wienges, I appreciate you. I don't think I've ever been more happy or felt more fortunate to be a part of this Senate family as I have this past year, which is my last. THANK YOU. So, while I won't be up here three days a week, six months out of the year anymore, I do hope there will be more days ahead of shooting quail and going to Guns N' Roses concerts with you, Senator HUTTO. Senator HARPOOTLIAN, I'll have much more availability for lunch -- especially when you're buying. Senator YOUNG, I hope we get to drink a beer at the beach together this summer. Or if you feel more comfortable, you can watch me drink beer at the beach this summer. Senator SABB, my knees hurt too bad to play basketball, and you and I are not allowed to hit the town together anymore since that one night in 2019 that we won't talk about here, but we will figure something out. Senator JACKSON, I will also still look forward to your annual yet unrealistic optimism about the Los Angeles Lakers. I hate to break it to you, but J.J. Reddick isn't gonna be able to save them, either. I could go on -- Senator BENNETT, I'm still waiting on that invitation to a Braves game -- I could go on, I could go on and on and on, but the point I'm trying to make is that I'm so thankful for the experiences that I've shared with each and every one of you, and with our former colleagues who have gone on from the Senate. I even saw Coach Floyd Nicholson, Senator Nicholson, here somewhere. It's great to see you, Coach. My life has been truly enriched by those experiences, and I'll treasure them forever. So if I'm so positive about my time here, then why am I leaving? I think most of you already know the answer to that question. You know how I feel about my family, and especially those three children of mine who are right over there. But I'm not going to feed you the old cliché line that, "I'm leaving politics for my family." In fact, my precocious 10-year-old daughter told me recently that she'd rather me stay in the Senate and stop practicing law, if I was going to quit something, Richard Webb. One day she will understand why it couldn't quite work that way.

As I mentioned, I didn't have any children when I got here, but I thank God I have three of them now. They have given me not only an entirely new outlook and perspective, but they've given me new purpose. And being their dad will always be the greatest title that I'll ever have. Ladies and gentlemen, I don't want to give him a big head, I really don't, but it was the farewell speech that I heard from Senator Kimpson, about this time last year, that first got me thinking about leaving this wonderful Body. Senator, one phrase that you said has remained in my head and in my heart ever since the minute you said it -- and that was "TIME IS LOVE." Time is love. I have found myself thinking about those words and repeating them over and over again. As an older parent to younger kids who I am watching grow up way too fast, those words really resonate. It is true -- time is love, but time is also a relentless thief, and the time has come for me to start giving more of my time to the people who have given so much of theirs, in support of my years of service here -- to my family, to my work family and to my friends who have always been there for me. But to my children especially, THANK YOU. Your daddy is immensely proud of you, and always will be. To some of my friends who are here, Marion Moses, Stephan Ardis and his daughter Harper Ardis, even West Columbia City Councilman Trevor Bedell, Senator SETZLER -- THANK YOU -- especially for the unwavering support you have shown to me in these recent months. I'll never forget it; I just hope I can find ways to repay it. As I wrap up, I also want to say THANK YOU to the people of Senate District 35 in the best counties of Sumter, Kershaw, Lee and Richland. You took a chance on a young Senate candidate who was an unknown commodity in a competitive swing district back in 2012. I hope you noticed that it never mattered to me whether you were a Democrat, a Republican or anything else when I asked you for your vote, or when you asked me for help. You have allowed me the honor of a lifetime, and I have loved serving you here. My reverence for this place is as strong today as it was the first time I wandered into this historic building -- right after I got lost in the parking garage. With every ounce of sincerity that's in me, THANK YOU. Finally, ladies and gentlemen, I was asked recently what's next. My answer was and is, "I don't know." My plan is to sit still for a minute and to see what happens. But Senator McLEOD, it's been said from this podium many times before, "if you want to make God laugh, tell him about your plans." What I do know is that sitting still isn't my strong suit or something I'm real interested in. There's still a lot of gas in my tank and there's plenty of fight in this dog. I don't know what's next, but I do know and have complete faith that God will open the next doors for me and my family, simply because of the fact that He always has. Ladies and gentlemen in this Senate, brothers and sisters, if I can ever be of service to any of you in this Body or in this room in any way imaginable, let me know and I promise I'll try. I'll still be right down Highway 378 on the same street I grew up on, and like Coach Prime, Deion Sanders, once said, "I ain't hard to find." Thank you. And may God continue to bless each and every one of you, always.

Elections

Expression of Personal Interest

Senator SHEALY rose for an Expression of Personal Interest regarding the service of Senator McELVEEN.

Remarks by Senator SHEALY

I will be brief -- y'all hear that all the time, don't you? Before we left in such a rush, Senator McELVEEN got up and said his goodbye address. I made him promise not to make me cry and he made me promise not to make him cry. I wanted to say a few nice things about Senator McELVEEN. I didn't know he didn't like me when he first met me. Like Nikki Haley, on our first freshman event it was Thomas and his wife and Beth Bernstein and her husband and Jimmy and I that were at the table. If he thinks that he felt odd, he should have been me there with the table full of Democrats. I felt odd. But anyway, I've enjoyed getting to know Thomas and we have probably become better friends with him being a Democrat and me being a Republican. I can't tell you the difference when people are Republicans and Democrats. I don't get to know people that way. I get to know you as a person, and Thomas has been a good friend. We have talked about a lot of things. He always asks me how Mr. Jimmy, the grandkids and the donkeys are doing. Thomas is just an all-around good guy and I am going to miss him. I'm going to miss seeing his happy face over there smiling back at me. I'm going to miss him on the Family and Veterans' Services Committee. I'm going to miss his dedication to the Senate. I'm just going to miss you, I've got to tell you, I'm going to miss you! I'm trying to make you cry, you know that don't you? No, not really. I just wanted to say that the Senate is losing a great Senator in you. I would like for you to stay another twenty years because I think you're the right person at the right place at the right time. But I know you have obligations at home, and I understand. When you decide to come back, we'll be here for you. Thank you.

On motion of Senator DAVIS, with unanimous consent, the remarks of Senator SHEALY were ordered printed in the Journal.

Dear Members of the General Assembly:

Enclosed is the Judicial Merit Selection Commission's Report of Candidate Qualifications. This Report is designed to assist you in determining how to cast your vote. The Commission is charged by law with ascertaining whether judicial candidates are qualified for service on the bench. In accordance with this mandate, the Commission has thoroughly investigated all judicial candidates for their suitability for judicial service.

The Commission's finding that a candidate is qualified means that the candidate satisfies both the constitutional criteria for judicial office and the Commission's evaluative criteria. The attached Report details each candidate's qualifications as they relate to the Commission's evaluative criteria.

Judicial candidates are prohibited from asking for your commitment until 12:00 Noon on Wednesday, May 22, 2024. Further, members of the General Assembly are not permitted to issue letters of introduction, announcements of candidacy, statements detailing a candidate's qualifications, or commitments to vote for a candidate until 12:00 Noon on Wednesday, May 22, 2024. In summary, no member of the General Assembly should, orally or in writing, communicate about a candidate's candidacy until this designated time after the release of the Judicial Merit Selection Commission's Report of Candidate Qualifications. If you find a candidate violating the pledging prohibitions or if you have questions about this report, please contact Erin B. Crawford, Chief Counsel to the Commission, at (803) 212-6689.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,
Senator Luke A. Rankin

Dear Fellow Members of the General Assembly:

This letter is written to call your attention to issues raised during the December 2003, Judicial Merit Selection hearings concerning a judicial candidate's contact with members of the General Assembly, as well as third parties contacting members on a candidate's behalf. It is also to remind you of these issues for the current screening.

Section 2-19-70(C) of the South Carolina Code contains strict prohibitions concerning candidates seeking or legislators giving their pledges of support or implied endorsement through an introduction prior to 48 hours after the release of the final report of the Judicial Merit Selection Commission ("Commission"). The purpose of this section is to ensure that members of the General Assembly have full access to the report prior to being asked by a candidate to pledge his or her support. The final sentence of Section 2-19-70(C) provides that "the prohibitions of this section do not extend to an announcement of candidacy by the candidate and statements by the candidate detailing the candidate's qualifications" (emphasis added). Candidates may not, however, contact members of the Commission regarding their candidacy. Please note that six members of the Commission are also legislators.

In April 2000, the Commission determined that Section 2-19-70(C) means no member of the General Assembly should engage in any form of communication, written or verbal, concerning a judicial candidate before the 48-hour period expires following the release of the Commission's report. The Commission would like to clarify and reiterate that until at least 48 hours have expired after the Commission has released its final report of candidate qualifications to the General Assembly, only candidates, and not members of the General Assembly, are permitted to issue letters of introduction, announcements of candidacy, or statements detailing the candidates' qualifications.

The Commission would again like to remind members of the General Assembly that a violation of the screening law is likely a disqualifying offense and must be considered when determining a candidate's fitness for judicial office. Further, the law requires the Commission to report any violations of the pledging rules by members of the General Assembly to the House or Senate Ethics Committee, as may be applicable.

Should you have any questions regarding this letter or any other matter pertaining to the judicial screening process, please do not hesitate to call Erin B. Crawford, Chief Counsel to the Commission, at (803) 212-6689.

Sincerely,
Senator Luke A. Rankin
Chairman

INTRODUCTION

The Judicial Merit Selection Commission is charged by law to consider the qualifications of candidates for the judiciary. This report details the reasons for the Commission's findings, as well as each candidate's qualifications as they relate to the Commission's evaluative criteria. The Commission operates under the law that went into effect on July 1, 1997, and which dramatically changed the powers and duties of the Commission. One component of this law is that the Commission's finding of "qualified" or "not qualified" is binding on the General Assembly. The Commission is also cognizant of the need for members of the General Assembly to be able to differentiate between candidates and, therefore, has attempted to provide as detailed a report as possible.

The Judicial Merit Selection Commission is composed of ten members, four of whom are non-legislators. The Commission has continued the more in-depth screening format started in 1997. The Commission has asked candidates their views on issues peculiar to service on the court to which they seek election. These questions were posed in an effort to provide members of the General Assembly with more information about candidates and the candidates' thought processes on issues relevant to their candidacies. The Commission has also engaged in a more probing inquiry into the depth of a candidate's experience in areas of practice that are germane to the office he or she is seeking. The Commission feels that candidates should have familiarity with the subject matter of the courts for which they offer, and feels that candidates' responses should indicate their familiarity with most major areas of the law with which they will be confronted.

The Commission also used the Citizens Committees on Judicial Qualifications as an adjunct of the Commission. Since the decisions of our judiciary play such an important role in people's personal and professional lives, the Commission believes that all South Carolinians should have a voice in the selection of the state's judges. It was this desire for broad-based grassroots participation that led the Commission to create the Citizens Committees on Judicial Qualifications. These committees are composed of individuals who are both racially and gender diverse, and who also have a broad range of professional experiences (i.e., lawyers, teachers, businessmen, bankers, and advocates for various organizations). The committees were asked to advise the Commission on the judicial candidates in their regions. Each regional committee interviewed the candidates from its assigned area and also interviewed other individuals in that region who were familiar with the candidate either personally or professionally. Based on those interviews and its own investigation, each committee provided the Commission with a report on their assigned candidates based on the Commission's evaluative criteria. The Commission then used these reports as a tool for further investigation of the candidate if the committee's report so warranted. Summaries of these reports have also been included in the Commission's report for your review.

The Commission conducts a thorough investigation of each candidate's professional, personal, and financial affairs, and holds public hearings during which each candidate is questioned on a wide variety of issues. The Commission's investigation focuses on the following evaluative criteria: constitutional qualifications, ethical fitness, professional and academic ability, character, reputation, physical health, mental health, and judicial temperament. The Commission's investigation includes the following:

(1) survey of the bench and bar through BallotBox online;
(2) SLED investigation;
(3) credit investigation;
(4) grievance investigation;

(5) study of application materials;
(6) verification of ethics compliance;
(7) search of newspaper articles;
(8) conflict of interest investigation;
(9) court schedule study;
(10) study of appellate record;
(11) court observation; and
(12) investigation of complaints.

While the law provides that the Commission must make findings as to qualifications, the Commission views its role as also including an obligation to consider candidates in the context of the judiciary on which they would serve and, to some degree, govern. To that end, the Commission inquires as to the quality of justice delivered in the courtrooms of South Carolina and seeks to impart, through its questioning, the view of the public as to matters of legal knowledge and ability, judicial temperament, and the absoluteness of the Judicial Canons of Conduct as to recusal for conflict of interest, prohibition of ex parte communication, and the disallowance of the acceptance of gifts. However, the Commission is not a forum for reviewing the individual decisions of the state's judicial system absent credible allegations of a candidate's violations of the Judicial Canons of Conduct, the Rules of Professional Conduct, or any of the Commission's nine evaluative criteria that would impact a candidate's fitness for judicial service.

The Commission expects each candidate to possess a basic level of legal knowledge and ability, to have experience that would be applicable to the office sought, and to exhibit a strong adherence to codes of ethical behavior. These expectations are all important, and excellence in one category does not make up for deficiencies in another.

Routine questions related to compliance with ethical Canons governing ethics and financial interests are now administered through a written questionnaire sent to candidates and completed by them in advance of each candidate's staff interview. These issues are no longer automatically made a part of the public hearing process unless a concern or question was raised during the investigation of the candidate. The necessary public record of a candidate's pledge to uphold the Canons is his or her completed and sworn questionnaire.

This report is the culmination of lengthy, detailed investigatory work and public hearings. The Commission takes its responsibilities seriously, believing that the quality of justice delivered in South Carolina's courtrooms is directly affected by the thoroughness of its screening process. Please carefully consider the contents of this report, which we believe will help you make a more informed decision. Please note that the candidates' responses included herein are restated verbatim from the documents that the candidates submitted as part of their application to the Judicial Merit Selection Commission. All candidates were informed that the Commission does not revise or alter the candidates' submissions, and thus, any errors or omissions in the information contained in this draft report existed in the original documents that the candidate submitted to the Commission.

This report conveys the Commission's findings as to the qualifications of all candidates currently offering for election to the South Carolina Supreme Court.

SUPREME COURT
QUALIFIED AND NOMINATED

The Honorable Blake A. Hewitt
Supreme Court, Seat 3

Commission's Findings: QUALIFIED AND NOMINATED

(1) Constitutional Qualifications:
Based on the Commission's investigation, Judge Hewitt meets the qualifications prescribed by law for judicial service as a Supreme Court justice.

Judge Hewitt was born in 1978. He is 45 years old and a resident of Conway, South Carolina. Judge Hewitt provided in his application that he has been a resident of South Carolina for at least the immediate past five years and has been a licensed attorney in South Carolina since 2005.

(2) Ethical Fitness:
The Commission's investigation did not reveal any evidence of unethical conduct by Judge Hewitt.

Judge Hewitt demonstrated an understanding of the Canons of Judicial Conduct and other ethical considerations important to judges, particularly in the areas of ex parte communications, acceptance of gifts and ordinary hospitality, and recusal.

Judge Hewitt reported that he has not made any campaign expenditures. Judge Hewitt testified he has not:

(a) sought or received the pledge of any legislator prior to screening;
(b) sought or been offered a conditional pledge of support by a legislator;

(a) From August of 2005 to July of 2008, I served as a judicial law clerk and legislative liaison to the Honorable Jean H. Toal, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of South Carolina.

(b) From July of 2008 to August of 2009, I served as a judicial law clerk to the Honorable Joseph F. Anderson, Jr., United States District Judge for the District of South Carolina.

(c) From August of 2009 until November of 2019, I was in private practice with the same law firm. When I joined the firm it was Bluestein Nichols Thompson & Delgado. When I left, it was Bluestein Thompson Sullivan. My primary area of practice was appellate litigation but I was routinely involved in work at the Circuit Court and District Court level as either lead counsel or consulting counsel.

(d) From January of 2018 to May of 2018, I was employed by the University of South Carolina Law School as an Adjunct Professor teaching Appellate Advocacy.

(e) From January of 2020 to the present time I have been honored to serve the people of South Carolina as a judge on the Court of Appeals.

Judge Hewitt reported the frequency of his court appearances prior to his service on the bench as follows:

(a) Federal: Fairly infrequent. Five to ten percent of cases.

(b) State: Regularly. Multiple oral arguments each year with various other in-court appearances.

Judge Hewitt reported the percentage of his practice involving civil, criminal, domestic and other matters prior to his service on the bench as follows:

(a) Civil: 80%;
(b) Criminal: 10%;
(c) Domestic: 10%;
(d) Other: 0%.

(a) 30% settled prior to trial;
(b) 2 cases went to trial and resulted in a verdict;
(c) 8 cases went to trial and resolved after the plaintiff's or State's case;

(d) 0 cases settled after a jury was selected, but prior to opening statements.

Judge Hewitt provided the following regarding the past five years prior to his service on the bench and counsel roles:

Most of my work in Circuit Court, District Court, and Administrative Agencies (specifically, the Workers' Compensation Commission) involved merits-based motions and hearings for which I had chief responsibility. Prior to being elected as a judge in 2019, my most recent criminal trial was as co-counsel in a murder case that was tried to a jury in January of 2014. My most recent civil trial was as co-counsel in a bench trial in June of 2017.

The following is Judge Hewitt's account of his five most significant litigated matters:

(a) Marshall v. Dodds, 426 S.C. 453, 827 S.E.2d 570 (2019). This case analyzes how the statute of repose for medical malpractice actions applies in the situation where there are multiple breaches of the standard of care over an extensive period of time.

(b) Rhame v. Charleston County Sch. Dist., 412 S.C. 273, 772 S.E.2d 159 (2015). This case holds that the Workers' Compensation Commission may entertain petitions for rehearing. It overrules three previous decisions that had incorrectly suggested otherwise and brings the comp commission's practice in line with that of other administrative agencies.

(c) Ranucci v. Crain, 409 S.C. 493, 763 S.E.2d 189 (2014). This case correctly holds that the pre-suit notice of intent statute for medical malpractice cases (section 15-79-125) completely incorporates the affidavit statute from the Frivolous Civil Proceedings Sanctions Act (section 15-36-100), reversing a decision to the contrary by the Court of Appeals.

(d) Bone v. U.S. Food Service, 404 S.C. 67, 744 S.E.2d 552 (2013). This case resolves a long-standing conflict between the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals about immediate appealability in administrative cases. This conflict historically resulted in a substantial amount of waste for litigants and for the court system. The rule is not perfect, but Bone correctly forces everyone to examine appealability in administrative cases through the lens of the Administrative Procedures Act.

(e) Ex Parte Brown, 393 S.C. 214, 711 S.E.2d 899 (2011). This case holds that when an attorney is appointed to represent an indigent defendant, the takings clause of the Constitution requires that the attorney receive reasonable compensation for his services. This was a break from prior precedent. I was deeply honored to represent the South Carolina Bar which filed a brief as a friend of the Court.

The following is Judge Hewitt's account of five civil appeals he has personally handled:
(a) Traynum v. Scavens, 416 S.C. 197, 786 S.E.2d 115 (2016);
(b) Roddey v. Wal-Mart, 415 S.C. 580, 784 S.E.2d 670 (2016);
(c) McAlhaney v. McElveen, 413 S.C. 299, 775 S.E.2d 411 (Ct. App. 2015);
(d) Skipper v. ACE Property & Casualty Ins. Co., 413 S.C. 33, 775 S.E.2d 37 (2015);
(e) Lewis v. LB Dynasty, 411 S.C. 637, 770 S.E.2d 393 (2015).

The following is Judge Hewitt's account of five criminal appeals he has personally handled:
(a) State v. Sims, 426 S.C. 115, 825 S.E.2d 731 (Ct. App. 2019);
(b) State v. Torrence, Op. No. 2013-UP-152 (S.C. Ct. App. filed Apr. 10, 2013);
(c) State v. Whitesides, 397 S.C. 313, 725 S.E.2d 487 (2012);
(d) State v. Jennings, 394 S.C. 473, 716 S.E.2d 91 (2011);
(e) Ex Parte Brown, 393 S.C. 214, 711 S.E.2d 899 (2011) (represented amicus curiae).

Judge Hewitt reported that he has held the following judicial office(s):
I was elected by the General Assembly to the Court of Appeals in February of 2019. I did not begin serving until after the Honorable Paul Short retired the following December. My service began in January of 2020. I have served continuously since that time and am grateful beyond words to the General Assembly for my reelection last year.

The Court of Appeals predominantly has appellate jurisdiction and performs the first stage of appellate review for the vast majority of appeals that are filed in the unified judicial system. The only exceptions are the seven categories of cases (the six listed in Rule 203, (d)(1)(A), SCACR, plus "certificate of need" cases pursuant to the recent amendments to that law) that skip the Court of Appeals and proceed directly to the Supreme Court. In addition to its appellate jurisdiction, the Court of Appeals hears pretrial motions to suppress wire, oral, or electronic communications under the "South Carolina Homeland Security Act" if there is a claim the communications were illegally intercepted.

Judge Hewitt provided the following list of his most significant orders or opinions:
(a) Fairfield Waverly, LLC v. Dorchester Cnty. Assessor, 432 S.C. 287, 852 S.E.2d 739 (Ct. App. 2020);
(b) Arcadia Lakes v. S.C. Dep't of Health & Env't Control, 433 S.C. 47, 855 S.E.2d 325 (Ct. App. 2021);
(c) Est. of Jane Doe 202 v. City of N. Charleston, 433 S.C. 444, 858 S.E.2d 814 (Ct. App. 2021) affirmed in result 441 S.C. 131, 893 S.E.2d 319 (2023);
(d) Encore Tech. Grp., LLC v. Trask, 436 S.C. 289, 871 S.E.2d 608 (Ct. App. 2021);
(e) State v. Williams, 437 S.C. 100, 876 S.E.2d 324 (2022).

Judge Hewitt reported no other employment while serving as a judge.
Judge Hewitt further reported the following regarding unsuccessful candidacies:
In 2012 I ran unsuccessfully for the South Carolina House of Representatives, District #105. For a brief period in May, I was the Republican nominee for this office, however I was disqualified as a candidate as a result of the Supreme Court of South Carolina's decision in Florence County Democratic Party v. Florence County Republican Party, which invalidated the filing directions that the South Carolina Election Commission issued to all candidates. I pursued a petition candidacy following this decision and was certified by the Election Commission as a petition candidate for the November 2012 general election. I did not win the general election. I filed my final financial report in April of 2013.

In 2014 I ran unsuccessfully for the Court of Appeals, seat 7. This vacancy was created when Judge Danny Pieper retired. I was deeply honored to be found qualified and nominated by the JMSC. I withdrew from the race a week before the election, which Judge Stephanie McDonald won.

In 2017 I ran unsuccessfully for the Court of Appeals, seat 9. This vacancy was created by Judge James Lockemy's elevation to Chief Judge. I was deeply honored to again be found qualified and nominated by the JMSC. I withdrew from the race the morning of the election, which then-Judge (now-Justice) Gary Hill won.

(c) City of Conway Downtown Alive;
(d) Compleat Lawyer Award (Silver), USC Law School.\

Judge Hewitt further reported:
I have written this before, but it remains true that any good qualities I possess are the result of the many strong and positive influences in my life. I was blessed to have parents who loved me and invested in me heavily. I was also fortunate to have several people outside of my immediate family show interest in me and help shape my development by serving as mentors. My greatest professional goal has always been to honor these wonderful individuals. I know that any success I experience will be the result of them lifting me on their shoulders.

We all draw from wells that we did not dig; we are all stewards of the investments that others made in us. I hope that I have gone about my service as a judge in a way that reflects the lessons of hard work and humility that so many people gave and modeled for me.

(11) Commission Members' Comments:
The Commission continues to be impressed with Judge Hewitt's demeanor. In addition, his prior experience and outstanding reputation as an appellate lawyer, as well as his service on the Court of Appeals, would be beneficial should he ascend to the Supreme Court.

She gave the following account of her legal experience since graduation from law school:

(a) Judicial Law Clerk for the Honorable G. Thomas Cooper, Jr., 2004-05 – For approximately the first half of my clerkship year, Judge Cooper served as Chief Administrative Judge for the Court of General Sessions in the Fifth Judicial Circuit. Therefore, my job duties included conducting research on criminal and constitutional questions as well as observing a variety of criminal procedures. I also assisted with the evaluation, trial (which ultimately became a guilty plea), and sentencing in a death penalty matter. During the remainder of my time with Judge Cooper, he began to hear civil cases as well. I assisted him by preparing jury charges and verdict forms, researching important issues, preparing Orders, and communicating with counsel. While I handled certain administrative matters (such as scheduling), no financial management was involved.

(b) Assistant Solicitor in Richland County, 2005-07 – I served under then-Solicitor W. "Barney" Giese, acting as lead (and often sole) prosecutor for a variety of misdemeanor and low-level felony crimes. I tried cases and presented guilty pleas in both Summary and Circuit Courts. I also participated as co-counsel in several serious and most serious felony cases, including murder, arson, and armed robbery. No financial management of any kind was involved.

(c) Associate Attorney at Richardson Plowden & Robinson, P.A., 2007-2015 – From 2007 until mid-2008, I worked in the "Lobbying and Governmental Affairs" practice group as a registered lobbyist. I also represented both plaintiffs and defendants in litigation and administrative matters related to governmental regulation. Beginning in 2008, I moved to the firm's litigation practice group and began doing insurance defense work. At that time, I represented defendants in matters concerning personal injury, construction defects, civil rights violations, and real property. I also did a limited amount of criminal defense work and served as appointed counsel in Family Court and Post-Conviction Relief actions. In this position, I did not handle administrative matters; and although I reviewed billing statements to be sent to clients, I did not participate in collection of monies or have any role with the firm's finances.

(d) Attorney at The DeQuincey Newman Law Firm / JT Newman, LLC), 2015-16 – During this time, I represented plaintiffs in personal injury actions as well as defendants in criminal matters, both in Summary and Circuit Courts across the State of South Carolina. This career move began as a joint venture but soon became a solo practice. During this time, I maintained a trust account and an operating account. Both accounts were open for approximately four months only and were closed soon after my election to the bench.

(e) Circuit Court Judge, 2016-present – Since that time, I have served as Chief Judge for Administrative Purposes for General Sessions (2017) and for Common Pleas (2019, 2022, and July 2023-present). No financial duties are involved.

Judge Newman reported the frequency of her court appearances prior to her service on the bench as follows:

(a) Federal: several times a year;
(b) State: weekly.

Judge Newman reported the percentage of her practice involving civil, criminal, domestic and other matters prior to her service on the bench as follows:

(a) Civil: 90%;
(b) Criminal: 5%;
(c) Domestic: 5%;
(d) Other: 0%.

Judge Newman reported the percentage of her practice in trial court prior to her service on the bench as follows:

(a) Jury: 50%;
(b) Non-jury: 50%.

Judge Newman provided that during the past five years prior to her service on the bench she most often served as sole counsel.

The following is Judge Newman's account of her five most significant litigated matters:

(a) King v. American General Finance, Inc., 386 S.C. 82 (2009) – In this case, I represented the plaintiffs, each of whom had obtained loans from Defendant American General Finance, Inc. Plaintiffs alleged that Defendant violated the "attorney preference statute" (S.C. Code § 37-10-102) by lending money but failing to determine the borrower's preference for legal counsel to be involved in the transaction at the time of the loan application. This case was significant in that it lent judicial interpretation to the "attorney preference statute" and established that the law requires that such preference be determined contemporaneously with the credit application. The appellate court also reversed the trial court's decertification of the case as a class action.

(b) Kelly v. White, 2011 WL 939015 (not reported in F.Supp.2d) – In this action, I represented the defendants, all of whom are employees of the South Carolina Department of Corrections ("SCDC"). Plaintiff, an inmate, filed this action pursuant to 14 U.S.C. §1983, alleging that his civil rights were violated by the use of excessive force against him. This case is significant in that the court's decision turned on its determination of whether equitable tolling should apply to the statute of limitations. The court determined that where prisoners attempt to exhaust all available administrative remedies within SCDC, yet SCDC fails to respond to their written requests, the statute of limitations will be equitably tolled for only one hundred fourteen days – the total length of SCDC's internal grievance procedure when properly used. Thus, "the 114-day rule" was established in prisoners' civil rights actions involving SCDC.

(c) State of South Carolina v. Alphonso Simmons (not reported) – I represented the State of South Carolina as an Assistant Solicitor in this action. The defendant was charged with approximately 60 offenses at the time, both in Richland and Kershaw Counties. We elected to try him on 14 of those offenses – 5 counts of armed robbery, 8 counts of kidnapping and 1 count of grand larceny. This case was significant in that there were significant disputes about the relevance, introduction, and suppression of certain evidence, all of which arose because the defendant was on a "crime spree" throughout Richland and Kershaw Counties.

Therefore, much of the evidence related to the case being tried was discovered at other crime scenes, and the introduction of that evidence could potentially infringe on the defendant's presumption of innocence and his right to remain silent. Ultimately, the case was tried to jury, and a guilty verdict was rendered on all 14 charges.

(d) Crusader v. Thomas Robinson, 2009-CP-18-2300 (not reported) – In this trial I represented the plaintiff, a rent-to-own company who filed a claim and delivery action against the defendant in Magistrate's Court. The defendant filed several counterclaims, which moved the case to Circuit Court. The case was tried over a seven-day period in the Dorchester County Court of Common Pleas. This action was significant to my legal career because I was able to win a directed verdict on my case-in-chief. In addition, the remainder of the trial involved a wide range of legal issues, including the authentication of evidence, impeachment of several witnesses, a witness's misconduct during trial, opposing counsel's absence from trial, opposing counsel's improper statements during opening statements and closing arguments, and many, many other issues. The jury's verdict (in favor of the plaintiff on the defendant's counterclaims) rested on the distinction between liability and damages. Post-trial motions were filed and argued regarding the potential impropriety of the jury's findings and whether the court should grant an additur – all of which were denied.

(e) Barnhill v. Barnold, 2007-CP-40-2358 (not reported) – In this case, I represented the defendant, a corporation owned by the ex-wife of the plaintiff. The plaintiff had done work for the company without pay since its inception in the 1980's. After the parties' divorce, the plaintiff sued for 25 years' worth of wages. This trial was significant in that it was an equitable matter tried in the Court of Common Pleas with an advisory jury – an uncommon occurrence in litigation. The advisory jury returned its verdict along with a note to the court explaining how they arrived at the verdict. Despite his request for the advisory jury, the plaintiff disagreed with its decision and petitioned the court for a judgment far more than that which was awarded by the jury. Ultimately, the court entered a judgment identical to the one advised by the jury.

The following is Judge Newman's account of the civil appeal she has personally handled:
Herron v. Century BMW, 387 S.C. 525 (S.C. Sup. Ct. Apr. 19, 2010).

The following is Judge Newman's account of the criminal appeals she has personally handled:
I was employed as an Assistant Solicitor for the Fifth Judicial Circuit from 2005 to 2007. During that time, I represented the State of South Carolina in several appeals from the summary courts. I am unsure of the names of any of those cases and do not believe that any of them were reported.

Judge Newman reported that she has held the following judicial office(s):
I was elected to the Circuit Court, South Carolina's court of general jurisdiction, on February 3, 2016. I took the oath of office in February 2016 and have served continuously since that time.
Judge Newman provided the following list of her most significant orders or opinions:

(a) Freddie Eugene Owens v. Bryan P. Stirling, No. 2021-CP-40-02306, Order Granting Declaratory and Injunctive Relief (Sep. 6, 2022) – In this matter, the Court heard significant testimony concerning the State's newly-enacted death penalty statute. I issued an order in which I found the subject manners of execution to be unconstitutional. This, in some respects, began a chain reaction which ended in the General Assembly passing important "shield law" legislation.

(b) Robert Durden Inglis v. The South Carolina Republican Party, No. 2019-CP-40-05486, Order Denying Plaintiffs' Motion for Injunctive Relief (Dec. 11, 2019) – This case resolved the issue as to whether the South Carolina Republican Party was required to conduct a presidential preference primary when the party's nomination of Donald J. Trump was a foregone conclusion. I ruled that much like when the Democratic Party nominated Barack Obama without conducting a primary, the Republican Party was not required to.

(c) State of South Carolina v. Hykeem Dontavious Golson, No. 2017-GS-40-01921 – In this matter, I accepted a guilty plea and imposed sentence on Defendant, who burned a puppy in a church parking lot, ultimately causing its death. This case drew the largest number of spectators of any case I have handled and was of particular interest to animal rights activists and media outlets even outside the State of South Carolina.

(d) State of South Carolina v. Rickey Dean Tate, No. 2018-GS-46-03992 – I presided in the trial of this case, where Defendant was charged with several drug offenses. The forty-one-year-old was convicted only of possession with intent to distribute crack cocaine. However, that conviction was the third of "three strikes," with both other convictions being drug offenses. This was the first and only time that I sentenced someone to serve life without the possibility of parole.

(e) State of South Carolina v. William S. Crump, Jr., No. 2018-GS-24-00386 – I presided in the trial of this case, where Defendant was accused of sexually abusing and neglecting his minor children. Despite both children giving credible testimony, Defendant was acquitted of the sexual abuse charges. While speaking to the jurors afterwards, I learned of jurors' strong need for forensic evidence and was reminded of the difficult undertaking that is jury duty.

Judge Newman reported the following regarding her employment while serving as a judge:

Since March 2023, I have been employed as an adjunct professor at Benedict College. I have taught only one course, "The Court System," an online, self-paced course for undergraduate students. Because of the nature of the course, my only responsibilities have been grading students' assignments for approximately six weeks in Spring 2023 and another six weeks in Spring 2024. My direct supervisor is Lisa Taylor, Interim Chair of the Criminal Justice Administration and Social Sciences Department.

Judge Newman further reported the following regarding unsuccessful candidacies:

In August 2012, I was a candidate for Circuit Court Judge. JMSC found me "qualified, but not nominated." The same occurred when I ran for Circuit Court Judge in August 2014.

(9) Judicial Temperament:
The Commission believes that Judge Newman's temperament has been, and would continue to be, excellent.

(10) Miscellaneous:
The Midlands Citizens Committee on Judicial Qualification found Judge Newman to be "Qualified" in the evaluative criteria of constitutional qualifications, physical health, and mental stability; and "Well-Qualified" in the evaluative criteria of ethical fitness, professional and academic ability, character, reputation, experience, and judicial temperament. The Committee had no related or summary comments.

Judge Newman is not married. She does not have any children.

Judge Newman reported that she was a member of the following Bar and professional associations:
(a) South Carolina Bar, Member
(b) John Belton O'Neall Inn of Court, Member
President, March 2024-present
President-Elect, 2022-2024
Treasurer, 2014-2016
(c) American Bar Association, Member

(a) Commission on Judicial Conduct
(b) South Carolina Bar's ADR Commission
(c) South Carolina's Criminal Justice Act Task Force
(d) South Carolina Delegate for the National Courts and Sciences Institute
(e) Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc.
(f) American Mensa

Judge Newman further reported:
My life has been enriched by my time on the Circuit Court bench, and I have grown in ways that I could not have imagined. I look forward to the opportunity to continue that growth and positive contribution to the South Carolina Judicial Branch.

(11) Commission Members' Comments:
The Commission commented that Judge Newman has a wide range of experience from her time in private practice, in addition to her time serving as a Circuit Court judge. The Commission further commented that she is a rising star within the Judiciary.

One affidavit was filed against Judge Newman by Ms. Rhonda Meisner. The Commission thoroughly reviewed all documents while carefully considering the allegations and the nine evaluative criteria provided in statute. At the public hearing, the Commission heard testimony and questioned the complainant, and allowed Judge Newman to reply to the allegations.

After thoroughly reviewing the complaint and hearing testimony at the public hearing, the Commission does not find a failing on the part of Judge Newman in the nine evaluative criteria.

(12) Conclusion:
The Commission found Judge Newman qualified, and nominated her for election to Supreme Court, Seat 3.

The Honorable Letitia H. Verdin

(a) Office of the Thirteenth Circuit Solicitor, Assistant Solicitor, 1997-1998

Prosecuted cases in the Traffic Unit and General Crimes Unit

(b) Office of the Eighth Circuit Solicitor, Assistant Solicitor, 1998

Prosecuted all juvenile cases in Family Court and prosecuted all General Sessions child abuse and neglect cases in Greenwood, Abbeville, Newberry, and Laurens Counties

(c) Office of the Thirteenth Circuit Solicitor, Assistant Solicitor, 1999-2000

Prosecuted violent crimes, criminal domestic violence cases, and criminal child abuse and neglect cases; served as the Family Court Unit Head

(d) Clarkson, Walsh, Rheney & Turner, P.A., Associate Attorney, 2000-2005

Litigated cases in areas of government liability defense, insurance defense, and commercial litigation, criminal defense, and family law

(e) Office of the Thirteenth Circuit Solicitor, Assistant Solicitor, 2005-2008

Prosecuted violent crimes, criminal domestic violence cases, and criminal child abuse and neglect cases

Judge Verdin reported the frequency of her court appearances prior to her service on the bench as follows:

(a) Federal: Occasionally
(b) State: 1-2 times per week

Judge Verdin reported the percentage of her practice involving civil, criminal, domestic and other matters prior to her service on the bench as follows:

(a) Civil: 35%
(b) Criminal: 50%
(c) Domestic: 10%
(d) Other: 5%

Judge Verdin reported her practice in trial court during the five years prior to her service on the bench as follows:

(a) 100% , including those matters that settled prior to trial;
(b) Approximately 15 cases went to trial and resulted in a verdict;
(c) 1 case went to trial and resolved after the plaintiff's or State's case;
(d) 0 cases settled after a jury was selected, but prior to opening statements.

Judge Verdin provided that during the past five years prior to her service on the bench she most often served as sole counsel.

The following is Judge Verdin's account of her five most significant litigated matters:

(a) State of South Carolina v. Patel and the companion divorce action, Patel v. Patel -This was a criminal defense matter in which I was involved while in private practice and its companion divorce action. The wife was charged with Arson and Assault and Battery with Intent to Kill for setting fire to her husband's hotel room while he was inside. I assisted in the criminal defense of the wife and represented her in the divorce action. She was sued for divorce on the ground of a single act of extreme physical cruelty. It was necessary that I protect her rights in the divorce action while ensuring that she did not jeopardize her criminal defense.

(b) State of South Carolina v. Ricky Sanders – This defendant was charged with Criminal Sexual Conduct with a Minor 1st Degree for sexually abusing his girlfriend's daughter. This case was significant for me because it was the first time our office was successful in having a Forensic Interviewer qualified as an expert witness in the Court of General Sessions. The interviewer's testimony, coupled with the testimony of the child, was instrumental in securing a guilty plea from the defendant during trial.

(c) Barnes v. Kevin Matheson, Anderson County Sheriff's Department, the City of Clayton Police Department, and the Rabun County Sheriff's Department – This was a case while I was in private practice. The case involved allegations of excessive use of force and other Section 1983 claims against law enforcement officials. I represented Deputy Kevin Matheson and the Anderson County Sheriff's Department. The case involved an escapee, who when eventually surrounded by officers, attempted to run over an officer. Deputy Matheson shot and killed the woman in order to save the officer's life. The case involved numerous constitutional law issues, including that of extra-jurisdictional pursuits. Our motion for summary judgment was granted as to all claims against Deputy Matheson and the Anderson County Sheriff's Department.

(d) In re: R.M. – This was a case in which a juvenile shot and killed her uncle with whom she resided. Our office had a policy at that time of petitioning the Family Court for waiver to General Sessions in every murder case in order for full evaluation by the court. The juvenile had been abandoned by her mother, her father was deceased, and defense experts testified that they believed the child was the victim of sexual abuse by the uncle, a fact much later confirmed. The judge in this matter applied the Kent factors and determined that the juvenile was not appropriate for waiver to General Sessions Court. This case is significant to me because it was at the beginning of my Family Court career and it illustrates the integrative and rehabilitative goals of juvenile justice. Though technically a loss for the prosecution, it was a win for the system. While the juvenile's crime was horrific, she spent the remainder of her adolescence and early adulthood in the Department of Juvenile Justice receiving intensive services, and after a transition period, it is my understanding that she has become a productive, law-abiding adult.

(e) State of South Carolina v. Shad Shepherd – This was a case that I prosecuted in which the young father shook his four month old baby violently causing permanent brain damage and partial blindness. This matter was not only significant because of its facts, but also because it was one of the earlier shaken baby syndrome cases successfully prosecuted by our office. The case also necessitated very sophisticated medical evidence and expert testimony in order to establish that the child had not been accidentally dropped thereby causing her injuries.

The following is Judge Verdin's account of three civil appeals she has personally handled:
(a) Cox and Rider v. City of Charleston, Rueben Greenberg, Joseph Riley, Captain Chin, Charleston Police Department, Officer Davis, City of Travelers Rest, Mann Batson, and Timothy Christy, Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals, July 26, 2005, 416 F.3d 281
(b) North Greenville Fitness v. Daimler Chrysler, South Carolina Court of Appeals, Jan. 2, 2004, 2003-UP-00737
(c) State Auto Property v. Wild Turkey Holdings, South Carolina Court of Appeals, dismissed on June 3, 2004 after briefs were filed pursuant to settlement

Judge Verdin reported that she has not personally handled any criminal appeals.

Judge Verdin reported that she has held the following judicial office(s):
(a) Elected to the Family Court, Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, 2008-2011
(b) Elected to the Circuit Court, Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, 2011-2023
(c) Elected to the Court of Appeals, 2023-present
Judge Verdin provided the following list of five of her most significant orders or opinions:

(a) Vista Del Mar Condo. Ass'n v. Vista Del Mar Condominiums, LLC, 441 S.C. 223, 892 S.E.2d 532 (Ct. App. 2023), cert. pending.

The Court of Appeals affirmed the circuit court's order quieting title to a 2.58 acre tract (the Property). The court of appeals held (1) the master deed of a horizontal property regime authorized the developer to remove unimproved property from the regime during what the deed termed the Transition Period; (2) the Transition Period had not ended when the developer removed the Property from the regime; and (3) the removal of the tract from the regime did not violate section 27 31 70 of the Horizontal Property Act because the Property had not vested in the unit owners at the time of the removal. The court also affirmed the circuit court's findings concerning an easement, citing the two issue rule.

(b) Anderson v. State, Op. No. 6051 (S.C. Ct. App. filed February 21, 2024) (Howard Adv. Sh. No. 7 at 19).

The Court of Appeals reinstated the defendant's magistrate's court conviction of driving under the influence (DUI). The court clarified the corpus delicti rule as set forth in State v. Osborne, 335 S.C. 172, 516 S.E.2d 201 (1999), and held the State presented sufficient independent evidence to corroborate the defendant's statements to the police, and that independent evidence, taken together with the statements, allowed a reasonable inference that the crime of DUI was committed.

(c) Woodruff Road SC, LLC v. S.C. Greenville Hwy 146, LLC, 2017 WL 74856 (Ct. App. 2017). This matter was before me on a declaratory judgment action to determine the scope of an easement granted to S.C. Greenville Hwy 146, LLC. I determined that S.C. Greenville Hwy. 146, LLC could use the easement as part of a drive-thru for one of its tenants, Starbucks. Woodruff Road SC, LLC appealed my decision, and the Court of Appeals affirmed my decision in an unpublished opinion.

(d) Proctor v. Whitlark & Whitlark, Inc., 414 S.C 318 (2015). I sat as an Acting Justice with the South Carolina Supreme Court in this matter. We held that gambling statutes, and not the South Carolina Unfair Trade Practices Act, provide the exclusive remedy for a gambler seeking recovery of losses sustained by illegal gambling.

(e) In re: Campbell, 379 S.C. 593 (2008). I sat as an Acting Justice with the South Carolina Supreme Court in this matter. This was an appeal that originated in the Probate Court wherein a daughter challenged the dismissal of a petition she filed for appointment as conservator of her mother's assets. We held that the statute governing court appointment of a physician to examine a person subject to a conservatorship action does not require that the physician be disinterested, only unbiased. We further held that the Court-appointed physicians who acted as the mother's expert witnesses were not unbiased.

Judge Verdin reported the following regarding her employment while serving as a judge:

I taught a course at the Charleston School of Law each summer during the years 2013-2017. My employment as an Adjunct Professor was part-time and contractual. My supervisor was Andy Abrams, Dean of the Law School.

The Commission believes that Judge Verdin's temperament has been, and would continue to be, excellent.

Member, 2012-2021
Chairperson, 2019-2021

(h) Appellate Judges' Association

Judge Verdin provided that she was a member of the following civic, charitable, educational, social, or fraternal organizations:
(a) Trinity Presbyterian Church
1) Elder
2) Co-Chair of Personnel Committee
3) Interim Youth Director
(b) Green Valley Country Club
(c) Liberty Fellowship

Judge Verdin further reported:
I have thoroughly enjoyed serving as a Family Court Judge, Circuit Court Judge, and Court of Appeals Judge for more than 15 years. I have found these positions challenging and rewarding. I was honored to serve as the Chairperson of the Advisory Committee on Standards of Judicial Conduct, on the Circuit Judges Advisory Committee, and as President of the Circuit Judges' Association. I have also had the opportunity to sit as an Acting Associate Justice of the South Carolina Supreme Court on several occasions.

When I was elected to the Circuit Court, I had mixed emotions. I was honored and excited to serve on the Circuit Court, but I knew that I would miss the Family Court greatly. I felt the same about leaving Circuit Court when I was elected to the Court of Appeals. I have enjoyed learning from and working with the other members of the Court of Appeals. If I were elected to the Supreme Court, I know I would miss the Court of Appeals. However, I would hope to bring to that new position the experience I have gained in both trial courts and the appellate court. I would approach the Supreme Court with the same enthusiasm I have had when serving on the Family Court, Circuit Court, and Court of Appeals and would always be mindful of the enormous trust the Legislature had placed in me.

(11) Commission Members' Comments:
The Commission consistently receives outstanding feedback on Judge Verdin from members of the SC Bar. Her reputation, character, and temperament are beyond reproach. In addition, the Commission noted her service and experience gained as a Family Court judge, a Circuit Court judge, and a member of the Court of Appeals, and concluded that Judge Verdin would be well suited to ascend to the Supreme Court.

(12) Conclusion:
The Commission found Judge Verdin qualified, and nominated her for election to Supreme Court, Seat 3.

On May 13, 2009, I was elected Chief Administrative Law Judge and re-elected to this position February 5, 2014 and February 6, 2019.

As an Assistant Attorney General, I did not have any significant administrative and financial management. As an Administrative Law Judge, I did not have any legal obligation regarding administrative and financial management but was occasionally assigned those duties by the Chief Judge. As Chief Administrative Law Judge, I am responsible for the administration of the court, including budgetary matters, assignment of cases, and the administrative duties and responsibilities of the support staff. See S.C. Code Ann. § 1-23-570. Also, section 1-23-660 of the South Carolina Code (Supp. 2017) provides "The chief judge is solely responsible for the administration of the [Office of Motor Vehicle Hearings], the assignment of cases, and the administrative duties and responsibilities of the hearing officers and staff.

Afterwards, Georgia sought his extradition in an attempt to convict him under the death penalty. Starrett's challenge to the Attorney General's Office authority to hold extradition hearings was denied.

(d) State v. Herbert Pearson and Terrance Singleton - The Defendants in this case were accomplices in the armed robbery, attempted murder and murder of attendants at a gas station in Sumter, S.C.
(e) State v. William Keith Victor - After the Defendant was convicted of murder and kidnapping, he was given the death penalty. His case was later reversed on appeal and I assumed the prosecution. The prosecution, under difficult

Primary Responsibilities: legal research, preparation of jury charges, preparation of Orders, scheduling of motions, all tasks required to prepare the Judge and myself for trials/hearings during the term and all other daily tasks as required by the Judge that ensured the smooth operation of Court.

(b) McFarland and Associates, Attorney, October 1990 through March 1996. Trial practice focusing on the following areas: Domestic Relations, Civil Litigation (all types), Probate Law, Real Estate Law, Business Law and Criminal Law.

(c) Resident Family Court Judge, Ninth Judicial Circuit, Seat 5, elected to serve February 14, 1996 through June 2001.

(d) 0 cases settled after a jury was selected, but prior to opening statements.

Judge Jefferson provided that during the past five years prior to her service on the bench she most often served as sole counsel.

The following is Judge Jefferson's account of her five most significant litigated matters:

(a) Blake v. County of Charleston. This case involved complex (federal) civil rights litigation. It was tried for two (2) weeks and involved many motions and other complex legal issues relating to evidence and the new federal rules. The case also resulted in a mistrial and was later tried a second time for one (1) week. I tried this case with two (2) other lawyers, both of whom had been practicing more than eighteen (18) years. During this process I was treated as an equal and an integral part of the litigation team. I was entrusted with a great deal of responsibility which included arguing motions, examination of witnesses, preparation of motions, and preparation of jury charges. This case challenged many current practices within the Charleston County Police Department. This case caused the Charleston County Police Department to evaluate and change many of their policies and practices.

(b) Hymes v. Khoury. This case was a simple auto accident which I did not think would be successful. This case taught me the importance of the strategic application of the civil rules of procedure and case law. Although this case took one (1) day to try, the jury deliberated for two (2) days and returned a verdict in favor of my client.

(c) In Re: The Estate of Joseph J. White, Jr., et. al. This was a probate court case. The central issue in this case involved the paternity of a two (2) year old minor child of the victim of an automobile fatality. The case involved an intense three (3) day probate trial. The trial involved approximately forty (40) witnesses. It also involved a unique question of law concerning the jurisdictional conflict between the probate and family courts. A favorable ruling was returned by the Probate Judge and the Circuit Court on appeal. In addition, I handled the wrongful death cause of action on behalf of the minor which resulted in a substantial recovery for the minor.

(d) Ashby v. Ashby. In this case I represented the plaintiff/husband who sought custody of his three (3) children. The Court applied the primary caretaker doctrine in awarding custody to the father. The case also involved issues of equitable distribution, adultery, child support and attorney's fees.

(e) Thompson v. Polite. This case involved a hotly contested issue of visitation between the plaintiff/husband and his minor son. The defendant/wife was adamant in her refusal to allow visitation. My client was awarded reasonable visitation at the Temporary Hearing of this case. Prior to the Final Hearing the parties submitted to mediation. Through this process they were able to come to an amicable agreement regarding visitation and the rearing of their child. This case reinforced my belief in the value of alternative dispute resolution (mediation) as a method of improving the efficient use of court time and resources.

Judge Jefferson reported she has not personally handled any civil or criminal appeals.

Judge Jefferson reported that she has held the following judicial office(s):

(a) Resident Family Court Judge, Ninth Judicial Circuit, Seat 5, elected February 14, 1996. April 1, 1996, through June 2001. Elected by the General Assembly. "Judge Jefferson is imminently qualified to serve as an Associate Justice on the Supreme Court. She has over 25 years of experience, first as a family court judge and now as a circuit judge. In her expansive experience, she has dealt with every conceivable issue in family, civil, and criminal litigation, and is acquainted with all areas of the law. She has a keen intellect, being genuinely interested in the legal issues before her. She is a "worker." She is not predetermined on the matters that come before her and fully studies novel or unusual issues before ruling on them. She is fair and does not play favorites.
Judge Jefferson is innovative and takes initiative. To help alleviate the backlog of criminal cases caused by the pandemic, she made arrangements with the Sheriff for Charleston County for a temporary courtroom at the County jail, to hear bond matters. With this system, the detained did not need to be transported to the County courthouse but could be processed quickly and effectively.

She is well balanced and affable with the consummate judicial temperament. She is well regarded and liked by jurors and attorneys. Judge Jefferson further reported:

I served as law clerk to the Hon. Richard E. Fields of the Circuit Courts of South Carolina. During my time with him I had the unique opportunity to observe and participate in dozens of trials and hearings and observe a "master jurist." He taught me the importance of "people skills." I learned the role of judge is central to the lawyers and the litigant's perception that the system afforded them a fair trial/hearing. In addition, my legal research and writing skills were refined during this process. These skills were further refined during my time on the bench. I count myself fortunate to have found my vocation in life and attempt to walk worthy of that vocation. It is a rare privilege to have been allowed to serve the citizens of South Carolina as a Family Court Judge and Circuit Court Judge for the past twenty-eight (28) years. The last twenty-eight (28) years have been enjoyable, rewarding and intellectually challenging. I have learned much about the law and human nature. I was taught that the position of a judge should be a continual growth process. I believe that I have continuously grown in my judicial perspective. I still have the same enjoyment for my work as the day I began twenty-eight (28) years ago. The Circuit Court has one of the largest caseloads within the judicial system with over approximately four thousand (4000) filings per judge. I believe that I have been a productive member of the Court. My potential election to the Supreme Court will create the opportunity for continued intellectual growth while allowing my continued contribution to the court system and the welfare of this state.

(d) State v. Brown: death penalty case
(e) US v. Troy Rolle: interstate drug trafficking case

Judge Kelly further reported that he has held the following judicial offices:
SC Circuit Court Judge, 2013-present. Elected by the General Assembly. The jurisdiction of the Circuit Court is defined by Article V, Section 11 of the SC Constitution and Title 14, Chapter 5 of the SC Code of Laws, as amended.

Judge Kelly provided the following list of his most significant orders or opinions:

(a) Catawba Indian Nation v. State of South Carolina, 407 S.C. 526, 765 SE2d 900 (2014). The Indian tribe brought a declaratory judgment action against the state to determine the effect of the Gambling Cruise Act on certain gambling rights. The Supreme Court held declaratory judgment action was not precluded by collateral estoppel; the action was not precluded by res judicata; but the Gambling Cruise Act did not authorize the tribe to offer video poker gambling on its reservation. I concurred in the opinion as an Acting Associate Justice.

(b) Garrard v. Charleston County School District, LLC, 439 S.C. 596 (2023). Members and coach of high school football team brought defamation action against newspaper that had published series of articles that included statements about members and coach in connection with controversial post-game ritual performed by team. The Supreme Court, Kittredge, Acting C.J., held that common law presumption of general damages did not apply, requiring members and coach to demonstrate actual injury. The members and coach were required to demonstrate actual injury attributable to articles; allegedly libelous statement involved issue of public controversy or concern and was published by a media defendant. Petitioners fell short on the element of damages. Because the allegedly libelous statement involved an issue of public controversy or concern and was published by a media defendant, the common law presumption of general damages did not apply, and it was incumbent on Petitioners to show actual injury attributable to Respondent's publications. I concurred in the opinion as an Acting Associate Justice.

(c) Garrison v. Target, 435 S.C. 566 (2022). Customers sued store for negligence, violation of Unfair Trade Practices Act, and loss of consortium after daughter picked up and was pricked by needle and syringe in store parking lot. The jury returned a verdict for Plaintiffs. The Court of Appeals held the statutory cap on punitive damages pursuant to section 15-32-530 constituted an affirmative defense that must be pled or else waived, and because Target failed to plead the cap, the Court held its application was waived in this case. Target contended the Court of Appeals erred in holding it was required to plead the statutory cap on punitive damages pursuant to section 15-32-530 as an affirmative defense, and because Target did not do so, application of the damages cap was waived in this case. The Supreme Court agreed finding the statutory cap on punitive damages is neither an affirmative defense nor an avoidance because it does not affect liability or require new matter to be asserted but instead limits the amount of damages a plaintiff can recover.

(d) State v. Daniel Spade, 2016WL3670561, (2016). Defendant was charged with Criminal Sexual Conduct with a Minor, First Degree for forcing his then seven year old daughter to perform oral sex on him during non-custodial visitation. Defendant improperly struck juror 199 because she was a grandmother and later alleged due to her age. I ruled the strike unconstitutional based on gender because only females can be grandmothers and the "dual motivation doctrine did not cure the constitutional defect. Affirmed.

(e) West Anderson Water v. City of Anderson, 417 S.C. 496, 790 SE2d 204 (2016). The Water District brought a declaratory action against the City to determine the proper service provider to supply water to Michelin's newly constructed facility. The Court affirmed my ruling determining the Water Sale and Purchase Agreement allowed the City to provide service to Michelin, enabling legislation authorized the local governing body to execute contracts extending past its members terms of office and there was no delegation of power by the district. Affirmed.

Judge Kelly reported no other employment while serving as a judge.

Judge Kelly reported the following regarding unsuccessful candidacies:
(a) 1991 SC Senate special election to fill unexpired term of Senator Horace Smith. I lost in the primary to a challenger.
(b) 2010 SC House of Representatives, District 35. I lost in the primary to a challenger.
(c) 1995 Family Court Judgeship. I withdrew from consideration.
(d) 1998 Family Court Judgeship. I withdrew from consideration.
(e) 2010 US Magistrate. I was not selected.
(f) 2016 Supreme Court. I withdrew from consideration.

(9) Judicial Temperament:
The Commission believes that Judge Kelly's temperament has been, and would continue to be, excellent.

(10) Miscellaneous:
The Upstate Citizens Committee reported Judge Kelly to be "Well-Qualified" as to the evaluative criteria of ethical fitness, professional and academic ability, character, reputation, experience, and judicial temperament; and "Qualified" in the evaluative criteria of constitutional qualifications, physical health, and mental stability. The Committee included the following comment: "Judge Kelly is an outstanding jurist. He has an outstanding reputation and is well liked by all!"

(c) Spartanburg Downtown Rotary Club (Paul Harris Plus Seven)

(d) Rotary Paul Harris Society
(e) Spartanburg Pilots Association, former board member
(f) Woodruff Investment Club
(g) The Peachtree Project (former member)

Judge Kelly further reported:
I respectfully submit that my work ethic is one of my strong suits. I worked to pay my way through college and law school. I repaid all student loans timely, and I applied myself to the practice of law and representing clients with the same work ethic. I applied myself and that same work ethic while serving our state as a Circuit Court Judge. And, I will continue to apply that same work ethic to cases before the Supreme Court.

(11) Commission Members' Comments:
The Commission commented that Judge Kelly enjoys a well-deserved, fantastic reputation in the legal community. They expressed appreciation for his excellent temperament and his commitment to punctuality in the courtroom.

(12) Conclusion:
The Commission found Judge Kelly qualified, but did not nominate him to serve as Supreme Court, Seat 3.

The Senate assembled at 12:00 Noon, the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the acting Chaplain, Senator JACKSON as follows:

I Samuel 3:19-20

Returning to I Samuel, we are told that: "As Samuel grew up, the Lord was with him and let none of his words fall to the ground. And all Israel from Dan to Beersheba knew that Samuel was a trustworthy prophet of the Lord."

Please bow as we pray: As this august Body returns yet again to its Chamber, we pray fervently, O God, for Your rich blessings to be upon all who labor here. Allow these Senators and their staff members to use their gifts wisely as they endeavor to bring about worthy results. And to achieve that goal, dear Lord, may each servant in this place be counted among Your "trustworthy prophets," showing bold concern at every turn for all of the people of South Carolina. In addition, Gracious Lord, further continue holding in Your care each of our women and men in uniform wherever they happen to be serving, May these valiant souls also know that You are with them unfailingly. We humbly pray all these things in Your loving name, dear Lord. Amen.

Expression of Personal Interest

Senator HUTTO made remarks honoring the service of Senator SETZLER.

Remarks by Senator SETZLER

Senator SETZLER rose to make brief remarks regarding his service in the Senate.

Remarks by Senator SETZLER

One of you told me yesterday, and I do not remember who, during Senator PEELER's portrait, that I always said when I came to the podium that I was going to be short. Well, guess what? I am not going to say that today. We are going to pass out popcorn and have drinks about an hour and a half in.

I will say to you, that unlike the Senator McLEOD who said she was not going to get emotional, I will get emotional. You have seen me get emotional here before.

This is a day and a time that I never believed would come. And I said I will get emotional. I absolutely love the South Carolina Senate. Probably as much or more than anybody who has ever served in this Body. Each of us is here by the Grace of God. I am an ordinary person, who has been given an extraordinary gift, opportunity, and privilege of 48 years to serve in this Body.

I have a statue on my law office desk that has been there now for 25 years, that I got when Payne Stewart won the United States Open and was killed in an airplane crash shortly thereafter. And on that statue, it has this quote, "the thing about dreams is sometimes you get to live them out." I clearly have had the opportunity to live out my dream. First, I must say thank you to God, who has given me the privilege, the ability, and the health to do what I do in this chamber all these years. To my wife Ada Jane -- we will celebrate 55 years of marriage in August and who you have so honored here today. She is an incredible partner in life and an incredible partner in this journey called public service and I thank you, Ada Jane. It has been a joint journey. And we have shared it together. My family -- I have four daughters. They are all here. Some of you know all of them and some of you know one or two of them. They are all very, very successful, independent women, who are tremendous mothers and role models. And then that special gift you get when you get older, is grandchildren. There is nothing like them. I have nine that are here today with me, and they are an incredible blessing every day. If you visit my Senate office, you will see that I have a few plaques up, but I have one wall that is just pictures of my family and me with the grandchildren. I have four sons-in-law who are like sons to me. And they have been a tremendous part of our family.

To my law office and my partners, Danny, Joe, Michelle and Richard, who has retired, thank you. You cannot do this job and practice law without partners who support you.

Thank you to Alisa Painter, who is here today, and Jane Fallow, who is not here today and who was my first administrative assistant. Alisa Painter, as I told her earlier this morning, cares more about people than you can ever imagine one individual does and works so hard.

To the present and the past members of the South Carolina Senate, thank you for letting me share this journey with you -- each of you. Even though we may have differences of opinion, you have enriched my life and made me a better person. And for that I thank you. To the Democratic Caucus, to my right, thank you for allowing me the privilege of being your Minority Leader in this Body for eight years. Senator PEELER, as you said to me one time, it was great to do it, but it sure was a blessing when you left it too.

To the staff on the desk who I spoke to individually this morning, to the committee staffers that are here and are the ones who really make this place run -- make each one of us look very good every day, you do an incredible job. Two, in particular, that I have worked with Quentin Hawkins who staffed the first subcommittee of Senate Finance that I chaired and also staffed and the last one Rick Harmon who is an incredible expert in finance.

To the Sergeant at Arms, Chuck Williams, and security, thank you. You are exemplary in what you do. One of my proudest moments was when Chuck Williams was elected as Sergeant at Arms.

To my friend who is here from Kershaw, Senator Sheheen, who has been here and was an incredible member of this Body. He gave me advice each and every day -- sometimes wanted and sometimes not asked for.

Five people, in particular, some of whom are here. I want to thank them. First is Ricky Silver, with Chernoff Newman. Ricky Silver has been "my political consultant." We ran the first State Senate TV campaign commercial that had ever been run in this State. And then he came up with a particular slogan: A Caring Conservative, and we have used it for forty-eight years. And to be candid with you, it has driven Republicans absolutely crazy for forty-eight years. It does define who I am, and that makes it even more difficult for them to deal with it.

To Randy Davis, who is sitting here, my incredible friend, I call him my brother -- he has walked the streets with me for 12 elections and been my campaign manager. To Billy Huckabee and Tom Squires who put up 4'x 8' signs for forty-eight years in twelve elections. I think that is somewhere between 4,000 and 5,000 signs that they have put up. And then to Antjuan Seawright who is a true blessing to each of us. Pastor Dow is my pastor and been a part of this journey that I have traveled in the last year and a half. I met with him concerning my decision of whether to run for reelection or not. I thought he was going to say, Nikki, you need to do this, or you need to do that. He looked at me after we talked about an hour and said, "well, there's no wrong decision. There's one that's good, and one that's better. You decide which one it is."

And my friend Reverend Charles Jackson and his wife Robin from Brookland Baptist Church who walked with me and has been my friend since the first time I ran. He started pastoring at fourteen years of age and helped me with my walk in 2012 when I was diagnosed and went through low grade prostate cancer.

To you, the current members of the Senate. This is probably where I will get emotional. I do not have the words to express to you how humbled, how shocked and how honored, I am, that you passed a resolution to hang my portrait in this chamber. Thank each of you for this incredible honor!

To my former House of Representative members and current House members, Kenny Bingham and Russell Ott, who have been tremendous partners in our representation of our district and to the House of Representatives, particularly to the Speaker of the House. While I do not always agree with the House, I have worked closely with and have a great relationship with the current Speaker and the former Speaker, as well as with the current Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. They have been tremendous.

To the lobbyists. I have said this many times. Lobbyists play a vital role in what we do. Lobbyist is not a bad word. And I appreciate everything they do.

To the pages who are here. Thank you. I started as a page, and I will talk about that in just a minute. Thank you to the support staff.

Let me take just a moment to tell you a little bit about myself. Senator MASSEY and I had this conversation when I was Minority Leader, and he was Majority Leader. When we come in here and serve, we really do not know each other in depth. Senator MASSEY and I talked about the idea of having a social where the members were together from both parties, and we could enjoy some free time with each other.

I was born in Asheville, North Carolina, moved to Cayce/West Columbia area when I was one year old, and you could not drag me out of there. It is who I am. My parents were both high school graduates. Neither one had a college education. I was an only child, and my parents were devoted to me. They ran a hamburger/hot dog drive-in restaurant for forty-four years. My father died in 1979. When he died, I ran it from 1979 to 1994, when my mother died. We then closed it. It was the icon where everybody met and went in West Columbia. It is still meaningful to everybody in the community.

My parents taught me hard work. They worked twelve to fourteen hours a day. Put me through undergraduate school and law school. They taught me hard work. They taught me honesty. They taught me commitment to the community. Four generations of the Setzler family worked in that hamburger/hot dog place -- all four of our daughters worked there.

I was fortunate enough to go to law school and be hired by the father of Harry Lightsey III, who is the current Secretary of Commerce. What an incredible man, Harry Lightsey, Jr. was. No offense to anybody in this room, but he may be the smartest man that I have ever known in my life. He could talk to the guy who was digging the ditch on the side of the road, and he could talk to the President of the United States and be at ease with either one. He went to Clemson University with all A's. He went to law school with all A's. He went to veterinary school with all A's. He was incredible. He taught me to practice law, and he was my mentor in politics. He was an influence in my life.

We struggled. Ada Jane and I struggled when I got elected to the Senate. It was tough. If you are trying to practice law, run a hamburger/ hot dog restaurant, raise two small kids, and be a Senator that is something that takes some time.

As I said, I absolutely love the South Carolina Senate. I could do it the rest of my life. My skill set and my whole human body is energized and thrives on this environment. I could have never done anything that I would have enjoyed more than serving in this Body. That being said, so how do I arrive at today? How did I get to the decision that led to me giving farewell remarks to the South Carolina Senate?

Four years ago, on the night of the election, we were in my office after the election was over. We won by nine points which is a very good win. I looked at my family and Randy, and said, I think this maybe it for me. And I thought it was. But you know how that wheel turns and you get back over here, the juice gets flowing again, and you question am I really making the right decision if I do not run again? But it did not change my mind.

About a year and a half ago, Ada Jane and I started praying about it. I went to see Pastor Dow and talked to him about it. I met with each one of my daughters individually, and we talked about it. We cried about it, and it was clear. God led me here. God told me, it is time to go home. I did not realize it at the time I made that decision and announcement. But I really reflected on it this weekend. Ada Jane and I went to the beach, just the two of us -- just to get away so we could talk and get emotionally and mentally ready for today, because it will be a life change for us. I think there were two things in my life that impacted that decision.

In 1972, Ed Saleeby beat Spot Mozingo in the Democratic Primary. And I believe, Senator MALLOY, you practiced law with Ed Saleeby, and I served with Ed Saleeby. At that time, I was working with Harry Lightsey, and the only person that the Saleeby people would talk to throughout that recount was me. They would not talk to anybody else. They wanted to talk to that young lawyer. I guess they thought they could take advantage of me. But the whole point of this story is, they sent me to the hospital to see Spot. We called him Spot, as he allowed us to do that. He was an icon in the Senate Chamber, and he was an icon as a lawyer. He was incredible. I visited with him, and he and I talked about the Senate. I went back to the office and Mr. Lightsey was there. He said, "How did it go?" I said, "He is not coming out of there. He is not going to leave the hospital." Mr. Lightsey said, "Why?" I said, "Because that's his whole life. He cannot give it up. He will not come out." About two days later, he died in the hospital.

Then several years ago, my dear friend Senator Leatherman, ran for reelection at eighty-nine years of age. I thought to myself then, that is for him, but I cannot do that. I cannot reach that point where I cannot give it up. Senator Leatherman was a wonderful friend, and we were very, very close. So those two things also impacted my decision.

We are big fans of the play, Hamilton. When I made my decision not to run again and made my announcement, my oldest daughter sent me a line from Hamilton when Washington told Hamilton that he was not going to run again and step aside and let Jefferson run. And Washington told him it was his time and he wanted to go. "He wanted to show them the importance of knowing how to say goodbye and we are going to teach them how to do it." And he did, the rest is history.

Since I made the decision to retire, which was not easy and still not easy today, I am at total peace. I do not have any regrets. I have excitement about the next phase of my life. But I will tell you I am not going to stop being active. I am not going fishing and hunting, and if I have a gun, you all better run. I don't have a license for one nor want one.

I am going to stay active in the State and in my community. I am available if you have a job you want to give out. Just call me. All joking aside, I am going to stay active. I am going to retire from elective office.

I started this journey in 1976. November of 1976, I got elected, forty-eight years ago. I did not even realize it until this weekend that when I filed for office, I was thirty years old. Think about that -- thirty years old. Married with two children both under two and a half years old. I had just opened my sole practitioner law practice, and I am running for the South Carolina Senate. I must have lost my mind is what I can tell you. On top of that, I filed against the incumbent in the primary, Jimmy Martin, who was the Senator at that time. He withdrew before the primary.

We ran in numbered seats in five counties, Lexington, Aiken, Bamberg, Barnwell and Edgefield -- 300,000 people. The general election was against an opponent who now serves in Congress, and we get along great. When you do that, there is always a story. Ms. Saunders in Bamberg who was the first person I ever told I was running for the Senate, looked at me and said, "Are you a Christian?" The night before the 1976 Election in November, I spent the night in Aiken in a motel between Aiken and Augusta. Senator YOUNG knows the area. I picked up the phone to call Ada Jane, and at that time calls were operator assisted. I called Ada Jane collect, and the operator asked the name of the caller. I said Nikki Setzler. The operator said, "Good luck tomorrow." I thought maybe we have done a little bit of good in this process. When election night came, and I think Ada Jane knows the numbers better than I -- we went to bed about 1:30 at night, and we had lost. We thought we had lost, accepted it, and moved on. About 4:45 in the morning, I get a phone call that says, "Nikki, you won." I said, "What?" They said, "You all won by about eight hundred fifty-seven votes. "I picked up the phone and called Don Fowler who told me to write then (not in two hours, not in four hours) call every sheriff in five counties and impound those boxes, which is exactly what we did. We did a recount in each county. Of course, I had lawyers in each county. In Bamberg County, Jean Toal was my lawyer. In Barnwell County, Harry Lightsey, Jr. was my lawyer, and in Aiken County we had, Henderson Johnson, who was a great lawyer. In Edgefield County, we had Joe Anderson who is somewhere up in the balcony. Judge Joe Anderson and his family represented me in Edgefield County. They were big supporters of mine in 1976. As an aside, I will share that I believe one of the real travesties in history is that Judge Joe Anderson did not get appointed to the United States Supreme Court. He deserved that. And Randy Davis represented me in Lexington County.

I paged here in 1963, 1964 and 1965. Twelve years later, I am sitting here and sworn into the South Carolina Senate. I wanted to say this for the pages' benefit. The freshman Senators elected in 1976 included 14 individuals, I think. They are projecting at least 9 new members of this Body next year. Some of those people that came in with me were Carol Campbell, Heyward McDonald. Alex Sanders, Johnny Waller, John Land, Tom Turnipseed and David Turnipseed. We were sworn in, and we told we were going to organize which was the process at that time. I am telling you these stories because I have been asked to. I realize it may not be of interest to all. I appreciate and respect that. But if you do not know where you came from, you do not know where you're going.

They put the freshman Senators, the fourteen of us, in the anteroom. The senior Senators went upstairs in the big conference room to assign committees and were going to come down and tell the freshman Senators what committees they were going to be on. We, the fourteen freshman Senators, sat down here about four minutes decided we were not going to do this. We all barreled into that room upstairs and later became known as "the renegades."

At the time when I came, political party played no interest in how the Senate operated. It was absolute seniority -- no Caucuses. If you were a Republican, you were the number one Senator in this Body. If you were a Democrat, you were number one in the Body. Nobody ever asked anybody what party you were in. I realize those days are gone, but I think it is worth noting where this Body has come from.

We went in session in January. And we were in session until October and November, continuously and all summer long. We came here three days a week with no break. We maybe had a break the week of July 4th. And that was it. The only way we got early adjournment was when Senators like Tom Smith from Florence or I put up a mandatory adjournment date in June for which we had to sit out a filibuster to get passed.

Filibusters were a common part of the process, and easily lasted all night. Rule 3B was invoked regularly where they locked those outer doors, and they sent the highway patrol to get you wherever you were if you were not here. You did not leave, and there is a story about Tommy Moore some of us know. I have been here three days and three nights continuously on a filibuster when we were locked in here. Ada Jane would bring clothes and a shaving kit.

The motion period was a free for all. There was not only one person who stood up and got recognized. It was who could holler the loudest, raise your hand and get recognized. You could make a motion on anything in the world you wanted to. Committees, particularly conference committees and even the budget conference committee -- everything was done in public. You voted on every proviso. You voted on every line in the budget. You fought it out in public. It took days, but it was done.

Senator Drummond, who sat right here and many of you knew and served with, was a renegade when he was first here. He would put up an amendment to strike every new state employee in the budget. You think that is one amendment. If there were six hundred state employees, he would put up six hundred amendments and make you vote on every one of them until you just said, "We've had enough, we'll take them out." There were telephones, where these pages sit on the side. And Carroll Campbell who came to the Senate the same year I did and later became Governor would stay on that telephone over there the entire time campaigning. Marion Gressette, the Senator for whom the building is named, ruled the South Carolina Senate with an iron hand. He sat right there. Even though I have now surpassed his time and length of service, I will unequivocally tell you, I am not any Marion Gressette. There is no comparison.

The President Pro Tempore Office was right there where the telephone room is, and, at one time, the press sat right here on benches behind you.

Now, you are talking about true transparency. That is real true transparency. The reporter for The State asked me earlier this week if I would introduce a Resolution to do that again, and I told him I might do it.

I have had the opportunity to serve with some truly outstanding people, who were committed to this State, just like each one of you. And there were also some characters. I mean true characters in this Senate in my time of service. I see several laughing as you remember serving with some of them. These individuals were committed to the State. They might have had their faults, but every day they did what they thought was right for the Senate. We had Reapportionment in the 1980's and Arthur Ravenel was here as was Dewey Wise both from Charleston. As Reapportionment came up, Arthur Ravenel would tell Dewey, I am going to run against you next time.

Finally, as we got ready to adjourn one day, I went up to him and I said "Arthur, how in the world do you know you are going to be in his district?" He said, "Nikki, I own 124 houses in Charleston. He cannot move anywhere that I do not own a house where I can live and run against him" -- Senator Jack Lindsay. I can tell stories on Jack Lindsay all day long. He sat right here. Jack Lindsay was as smart as any person I have ever served. A lobbyist would hand him one sheet of paper, and he could talk for three days. He was that good. Senator MALLOY remembers this story. We had an equal rights amendment up, one of many times, but this was the first time, I think. Senator Lindsay told his people in Marlboro County he was going to hold a referendum and vote however the referendum went. His people voted for it. As the Senate was getting ready to vote, the roll was being called. Senator Lindsay, with all his people from Marlboro County that had voted for the referendum sitting in the balcony, gets up and he says, "I lied, I lied!" He voted against it, and that is a true story.

I'll tell you one more story about Jack Lindsey and Ed Saleeby. At that time, there was no ethics, and I mean that seriously. There were no ethics laws. Senators would fly on the state airplane all the time. Senator Lindsey got on the state airplane and went to the Super Bowl. He ran into Senator Saleeby and asked him how he was getting back. He said on a commercial flight. Senator Lindsey says, "Oh no, come on with us." Senator Saleeby gets on the state plane with them. Suddenly on the way back to South Carolina, Senator Lindsay and Senator Saleeby get a call that the press is at the Columbia Airport waiting on them. The press heard the news that the state plane was at the Super Bowl. Senator Lindsay gets off first, and he walks right by the press. The press asked him about taking the state plane. Senator Lindsay says, “I didn't take the plane. Ask Senator Saleeby, he is right behind me.”

Senator John Land who I sat beside was one of the great orators of this Body, but he also had a great sense of humor, many of you served with him and will remember this. When a Senator wanted to pass a piece of statewide legislation that impacted his county, and the Senate would not pass it, he passed it on a local level. Everybody knew when he did, he was going to get beaten. I went outside and came back and sat down beside John Land, and I said, “Senator, what's he talking about?” And he said, “He is giving his farewell speech, he just does not know it yet.” Senator Tommy Moore was a great negotiator, and Senator Vincent Sheheen was an extraordinary negotiator in this Body who did so much good.

I served through the great renovation of the State House. It was closed three years. Some of you do not even know that because twenty members of this Body have been elected since 2016. Think about that -- twenty new members since 2016. We were across the street for three years, while the Senate Chamber and the whole building was renovated.

There have been incredibly difficult and tough times during my time serving in the South Carolina Senate. I was here when we voted to expel two sitting members of this Body. That was tough. I was here during the tragedy at Mother Emanuel. Senator Pinckney sat right behind me.

Senator JACKSON and I were probably the last two to see him as he got up and walked out of Finance Committee that day. Out of that tragedy, I realized a lot about the people of South Carolina. On the bus ride into Charleston for Senator Pinckney’s service, seeing the lines of citizens from all over South Carolina and out of state lining the streets, around block after block after block. It was a testament, in my opinion, to the people of South Carolina and who we are.

I was here during Hurricane Hugo. Senator PEELER, it was terrible. I was here during the removal of the Confederate flag from the State House. I was here during the Republican takeover in 2001. I was here during Operation Lost Trust, which resulted in the passing of the Ethics Bills we have now. No one would talk to anybody for fear of who they may be talking to.

I have been afforded some incredible opportunities. The visit from the Pope, working across the State to bring huge companies to South Carolina, going on educational exchange to Japan, an economic development trip with Charlie Wade and being part of the Southern Regional Education Board and the Low-level Nuclear Waste Compact.

I have been blessed to serve forty-eight years. South Carolina became a State on May 27, 1788, which was two hundred thirty-six years ago. I have served in this Body 20% of the time that this State has been in existence. What an incredible honor and what a scary thought for a lot of people. I served under eight Governors. Senator PEELER talks about being one of forty-six people who serve in this Body out of 5.3 million people. I have been blessed to be one of those foty-six for forty-eight years. I cannot say any more about what an honor that is. I would like to quote another line from Hamilton. It has a line in it, or part which says, "I wanna be in the room where it happens. Wanna be in the room where it happens. I've got to be. I've got to be in that room in that big ole room." I have been blessed to be in that big old room and inside that little room in the big old room most of my service. It is an incredible honor.

I served twenty-four years under the seniority system and twenty-four years under a partisan system. I like the seniority system, but the day of a pure seniority system is gone forever. There are only a few of us left that have been part of both. We are, in some way, clearly the old guard. I have served under both systems. Thank goodness, I have been very successful under both systems.

Extended debate through filibuster, in my forty-eight years of service, nearly every time results in better legislation. I would suggest to you not to vote cloture just because you are tired of an issue. The majority and minority have a responsibility to each other. Not just the majority to the minority, but also the minority to the majority. I do not want that to be misunderstood. That is a two-way street, not a one-way street. There are ways to break a filibuster without cloture. If you have been here during that system which Senator Peeler and I have, you know how to break them.

In either system, whether it is partisanship or seniority, I believe you have better government if you govern from the middle. If you take moderates from middle and govern not too far right or left, you have better government.

I have run for election twelve times. I have had opposition eleven of those twelve times so I am not one of these guys that got elected, and never had opposition again. I think the public has the power, some will disagree with this, of term limits every time one of us stands for re-election.

When I first ran, people who helped me raise my money told me they would help me run, but Randy remembers this, do not get involved in anybody else's race. They told me that they would help me, but that I was not to try and tell people who to vote for. I made that pledge to them. I still stand by that pledge. I have never gotten in anybody's race at any level of government. I think that is a proper position to be in. Many of you would disagree with that.

Politics is a system of addition not subtraction. Senator HUTTO is, my desk mate, my suite mate, my incredible friend, with whom I have dinner once or twice a week when in session. He is tremendously intelligent. Just so you know those of us on this side get tickled every time he stands up because we know Senator CAMPSEN is going to get up and respond. Senator HUTTO is a true friend and a man that is very effective in this Chamber but a man of few words, most of the time.

Senator ALEXANDER is my close friend. He is the resident expert in health care in this Body, and a southern gentleman who was made for the job of President of the South Carolina Senate.

Senator JACKSON, my desk mate. One of my closest friends, if not my closest friend in this Body. I will tell you that I love Darrell Jackson. He is my friend, and he is the moral compass of the Senate. I owe you so much, Senator, for what you have done for me and my family.

Senator PEELER, I got in your head at your portrait unveiling yesterday. You will be looking for that Gamecock the rest of your life. You will never be able to forget me when I leave. Those of you who were not here yesterday, we will tell you that story later. Senator PEELER is a strong leader of the Senate Finance Committee. He has been Majority Leader, President of the Senate, Chairman of the Education Committee, Chairman of Medical Affairs, Chairman of Senate Finance. The two of us have served together longer than any two people currently serving. I serve on Joint Bond Review Committee and because of Senator PEELER -- he gave me the privilege of Chairing the subcommittee of Economic Development in Senate Finance Committee. We have shared many experiences together. Some I can tell, when younger, some I should not tell. I will tell you that Senator PEELER is my friend. He has that unique understanding of people. He has a very unique understanding and knows when to use it -- how to use it with his humor and his touch.

Senator MASSEY is an incredible friend whom I respect more than you will ever know. He and I co-chaired the committee tasked with addressing the abandonment of the VC Summer Nuclear plant in Fairfield County. That is one of my most impactful times of service in the South Carolina Senate. We spent two years talking numerous times every day. His wife finally said, “Why don't you spend Valentines with Nikki instead of me?” But it was one of the most rewarding experiences. We decided at the very beginning of that process, that we were going to swear the witnesses. When we swore those witnesses, if we had not done that, all of that would have never come to light. Never. We would not have gotten to bottom of that, and you would have never seen what has come out of it. He and I served as Majority and Minority Leaders together and met every week. I trust him explicitly. He navigates rushing waters every day in this Senate.

Senator RANKIN -- some have heard me call him "Senator Chaos." He is not the Senator from Horry, he is "Senator Chaos." He gets more done by not having committee meetings. He does not talk about it. Then all of a sudden, we recall legislation from Senate Judiciary Committee, and it passes. He is a dear friend, and I could tell a bunch of stories about him from our weekly dinners.

To the sister Senators, you define courage. We are proud of you. My fellow members of the delegation, Senator SHEALY, in particular, you are invaluable. You are a true friend, and we love you.

My subcommittee of Senate Finance, Senator WILLIAMS, Senator SHEALY, Senator CORBIN and Senator GAMBRELL, I could not have asked for a better subcommittee. They were there all the time. They asked questions. They studied issues and worked closely together. We always knew when we did this, Senator WILLIAMS would get more money in the budget than anybody in the Senate. Poor man, he does not have a dime when it is all over with.

Senator HEMBREE. I will never forget when the Senator HEMBREE became chairman of the Senate Education Committee. Right after he was elected Chairman, most of you do not know this, I get a call from Senator HEMBREE in my office. I say yes, sir, I will come down. He said, "No, I am coming to your office." He walks in, shuts the door and says, "I want you to do me a favor." I said, "What do you want me to do, Senator?" He said, "I want you to be my Vice Chair of the Senate Education Committee." Having known that I Chaired the Education Committee for twelve years -- what an incredible act of bipartisan, courtesy and respect. One I will never forget.

Senator MALLOY, I could talk all day about you, but I will not. He knows the rules and is here every day sitting at his chair, just like I am.

Senator MARTIN said not to say anything about him, but he always called me the floor leader.

Senator McELVEEN -- Brave, bipartisan, effective and the State of South Carolina is losing a rising star. Senator McELVEEN, you gave your children the greatest gift you could give. You gave them your time. The most important thing any one of us can do any day in our life is give somebody our time. Your children will be forever eternally grateful to you, as tough as that decision was.

Senator BENNETT -- I told him right after he got here, and I will tell you. He is a leader on the way to the top. Inside and outside this Body.

Senator GROOMS and Senator VERDIN, we have had some fights. We had Amazon coming to Lexington County. Senator GROOMS did not want it to come. He did not like the tax breaks they were getting, so he filibustered. We were here with him filibustering, and half of Lexington County was here as well. I had just been diagnosed with low-grade early-stage prostate cancer, nobody knew it, and he would not quit talking. Senator VERDIN was counting votes for him. On Thursday morning he did not know Senator Paul Campbell called from Charleston and asked if I needed him. I was one vote short, and Senator Campbell indicated he would come and asked if he needed to bring clothes. I answered yes. He got here, and we broke that filibuster by one vote. Senator VERDIN always tells me now, that I taught him how to count.

There are so many others I could talk about. I am often asked what stands out in your service? What are you proudest of? Bringing Michelin and bringing Amazon to Lexington County, being a part of many economic development projects such as BMW, Boeing, Scout, universal 4k kindergarten which was transformational in this State, Palmetto Life Scholarships, Hope Scholarships, Needs-based Scholarships, co-chairing the Fairfield VC Summer Committee with Senator MASSEY, widening I-26 to six lanes and Exit 119 at the Calhoun County line and Malfunction Junction. The Malfunction Junction project is transformational. It is the largest road project in the history of the State of South Carolina at over $1 billion. It is larger than the Arthur Ravenel Bridge project. When they broke ground, the Chairman of Transportation Commission said, “This is “Nikki’s project.” And it was. Lexington Medical Center is near and dear. It is the crown jewel of Senate District 26, and we believe it is the best medical facility in all of South Carolina. Restructuring the Conservation Bank -- millions of dollars into our area for the expansion of the Riverwalk, for the Congaree Heritage Preserve and for the bridge across the river. Some of my most impactful work has been as Chairman of the Joint Bond Review Committee Oversight subcommittee. I submit to you, working with Rick Harmon, needs to continue. It is critical. One of the most impactful things for me, hiring Deanne Gray and Alisa Painter. Removing the Confederate Flag -- after voting to take down the confederate flag, the next election flyers against me said “No votes for turncoats.” Chairing the Senate Education Committee was a dream of my life. I loved it. Working on Higher Educations matters, USC. I do not have to tell you how much I love the University of South Carolina -- I think Coach Tanner is in the audience, Coach Staley and others are here -- Technical education system, Ports Authority and moving what was SCANA now Dominion Energy headquarters to Cayce. I met with the President of SCANA when it was located in Columbia. They were looking to move somewhere. I said come to Cayce, and he liked the idea. They moved to Cayce.

I think all of that is important. All of that is meaningful. But the most important part is every day you serve in this Body you get to change and touch the lives of somebody and make it better. What other thing could we want to do other than that?

I have had a number of people that have impacted my life. My parents, of course, being an only child. My family, my former desk mates and my constituents. I had a constituent named Glenn Poole, who was a Fire Chief in rural Aiken County, Hollow Creek. He came to me for money to help the fire department survive. He also needed a fire truck. That man worked every day for somebody else. He put himself last. Every time he called, I would go out of my way to help the man and I was able to help with the fire department, the fire truck and in other ways. He is deceased now, and it really hurt me when he died.

The teachers of South Carolina have impacted my life. I have two daughters that are teachers and my wife taught until we started having children. Teachers in South Carolina do not do it for the pay, as much as we are trying to raise their pay. They do it because of the love of children. We cannot ever forget that. Teachers see that the children have food on weekends and get the things they need that they do not get at home. They are a crown jewel in South Carolina.

Harry Lightsey, Jr., who I mentioned earlier, was a mentor of mine. He impacted my life tremendously. The late Joe Taylor of Richland County, while our politics were not the same, he was my dear friend. He was a visionary. Mayor Tem Miles, who is in the audience and from West Columbia, agrees Joe Taylor changed our side of the river with his vision. Randy Davis who has been with me for forty-eight years means more than he will ever realize. Then two people who are probably going to surprise you. I do not know if they are here, but it is Essie and Kenny. Essie came to my office yesterday and brought me this card. It says I am going to miss you. She says she loves me and Ada Jane, and she gave me her telephone number. Kenny, in the mail department, spoke words to me when my mother died that I have never forgotten.

My legacy will be my work in this Body. Each person will have to judge that. In closing, I will leave you with a couple of thoughts as you go forward. These are my thoughts. I understand you may not agree. We are elected to do our job no matter what happens internally. If you lose a committee chairmanship, subcommittee chairmanship, whatever it may be, we still have the responsibility to do our job. As I said earlier, politics and life are a system of addition, not subtraction.

As I leave, I hope that you will deal with the issue of dark money. Dark money on issues in South Carolina is a tragedy. It is going to continue to be a tragedy. I am not talking about only in political races but also in issues. Constituents get information from out-of-state special interest groups, and they do not know who they are. Nobody knows who they are. I understand the Supreme Court said you cannot regulate them. But they have not said you cannot make them report it. At least bring sunshine to it.

Charter schools, you heard me during the budget debate, I was the sponsor of Charter School legislation, but it is out of control. You need to regulate management companies, and you need to regulate the authorizers. If you do not do that, the lid will blow off. When it does, it will be ugly, and you are going to wish you had.

Also, the issue that I have mentioned is the growing divide between urban and rural South Carolina. It gets worse every day. The needs in rural South Carolina. I have been blessed for the entire forty-eight years I have served to have districts that are partial rural and partial urban. That has been a true blessing to me.

I think those are some things I hope you will address. I always say to Senator DAVIS and others, it is not about making the deal. It is about the details of the deal. You have to be sure what the details of the deal are. If you do not check the details before you do the deal, six months, a year later, you are going to get bitten. True in-depth oversight is critical.

We represent people. We do not represent parties. Last time I voted -- I have never gone in to vote where I saw a party standing there passing -- giving a registration card to vote. We run under a party label, but we represent people. We need to vote what is in the best interest of the people that we represent, not what some party tells us to. Bipartisanship, in my opinion, is the key to success and hallmark of a great public servant.

What you do at this podium is your integrity. Protect, please, the institution of the Senate. All of you know that is near and dear to my heart. The rules, traditions and customs -- it is up to you to not let Senate become the House of Representatives in how it operates. I respect the House and its leadership and get along with them, but the Senate is not the House of Representatives.

Respect every member and their views, no matter whether you agree or not. There are some of us whose views are probably 360 degrees apart, but I respect the views of others because they are elected by their people.

Listen to the person at the podium. I have tried to preserve and protect the institution of the Senate every day I am here. Part of what I say today is so you know the history. If you do not know where you have been, you do not know where you are going.

Today, that mantle of protecting the institution of the Senate falls to you, who are going to continue to be here. Together we have accomplished a lot, improved lives of South Carolinians -- education, job, health care, infrastructure, conservation. That mantle today is passing to the new Senate in November.

I challenge those who are leaving with me, whether voluntarily or involuntary, that we continue to support the members of the Senate and work together to make South Carolina the greatest State it can be. To those who will continue to serve, I challenge you to respect and build upon the work of those that have served in this Body before you. John F. Kennedy said, “Change is the law of life. Those who look only to the past and present are certain to miss the future.” Look forward, Senators, as you move forward.

I was Nikki when I came to this Body, I will be Nikki when I leave. Being a South Carolina State Senator has been an incredible journey that I have loved every minute of. But at the end of this journey, my journey on this life, my greatest accomplishment will be as a Daddy and Pop Pop. Thank you and God bless you.

On motion of Senator HUTTO, with unanimous consent, the remarks of Senator SETZLER were ordered printed in the Journal.

Remarks by Senator SHEALY

Senator SHEALY rose to make brief remarks regarding her service in the Senate.

Remarks by Senator SHEALY

Ladies and gentlemen, this may be the last time I get to come up here which is kind of sad. Twelve years ago, when I ran for the Senate, I didn't know if I was going to win or not because I had run before and, you know, I had been beaten before. Losing is never a fun thing. It's kind of like an empty feeling in your heart but I never grew up thinking I wanted to be in the Senate anyway, so, um, losing yesterday was -- it wasn't that empty feeling anymore. It was kind of like a weight lifted. But the only thing I hate is looking around this room and seeing my friends, and I'm probably going to cry some so I'll tell you that up front because I haven't cried because I only cry when I see people that I love to work with and there's some people in here I don't love to work with. I'm just going to be honest but -- I'm still a comedian -- but when I see the people I love to work with and I see the people that have helped me so much -- helped children and helped families and helped the disabled and, you know, we've helped women and we've helped veterans, and what I'm so worried about is who is going to do that now? Which one of you will step up to the plate and take over what I've been doing for the last twelve years? Because everybody in here has their little niche.

Everybody has what they work on and everybody has what they do and I know what I did and I've done a good job. My opponent spent the last six months lying about me and telling people what a bad job I've done and it's not true and I promised myself when I came to the Senate that I would never ever embarrass my family or my grandchildren. The legacy I wanted to leave here was that my grandchildren would be proud, and I wanted to make my grandchildren proud, and I've read billboards that said I was a baby killer. I would never hurt a child. I have saved more children since I have been in the South Carolina Legislature than probably anybody else, I think. I have taken children out of foster homes, out of group homes and I have literally saved their lives from being beaten to death with a window blind. I have saved children's lives and to watch what Personhood South Carolina has done to me is just cruel and unheard of. I hope the lobbyists for those groups are happy with themselves, because my grandchildren aren't embarrassed because of me. My grandchildren stood last night and said, thank God I get my Mema back. I see the people that should be most ashamed got up and left the room because they are ashamed of what they've done. And, you know, the rest of you, I love how hard you've worked for me this week and the money that some of you have put into my campaign. The caucuses worked hard for me, both sides. I'm not going to lie, my Democrat sisters and my Democrat friends and my Republican friends all of you'll have worked so hard for me, because you know what I do. You know how I stand up for people, and I just want to know which one of you is going to do it? I hope -- Senator YOUNG, you got a big job over there in the Family and Veterans' Services Committee. It used to be the other committee or whatever it was, but now it has a title, it has a job, and I'm going to call you and harass the hell out of you if you don't do it. Because I want families and veterans and children to be taken care of. I'm still going to be out there. I'm going to find some other way for me to save the world, and I'm going to do it. Somebody is going to be out there saying Senator SHEALY -- oh, my opponent who is not yet a Senator by the way, I'm going to be aggravating you, too. What are you doing for Lexington County? But I'm always going to be a Senator, Mr. Kennedy. I'm always going to be a Senator. Oh, and by the way, are those Kennedys related to the ones that you kept abusing me about?

You know, the one thing I did was look out for women. I was looking out for girls and, you know, the future of South Carolina and we weren't allowed to, um, bring our -- Profile and Courage award into the Chamber because it's too controversial. We weren't allowed to put it in the anti-chamber because it's too controversial and we weren't allowed to put it in the State House because it was too controversial. Well, let me tell you how expensive it is before I put on these white gloves. It is $36,000 -- worth of white gloves that I'm putting on to pick it up. Here it is. It's beautiful and I'm proud of it and I am proud of losing this Senate race just to get this, because I stood up for the right thing. I stood up for women. I stood up for children. I stood up for South Carolina, and for all of the sister Senators here with me. We are not ashamed to be called sister Senators. We're not ashamed of anything we did. If you don't think this says a lot, it says, "Profile and Courage award presented to KATRINA SHEALY, MARGIE BRIGHT MATTHEWS, MIA McLEOD, SANDY SENN and PENRY GUSTAFSON in recognition of their distinguished public service example they have set, of political courage in American public life October 29, 2023." By God I'm proud of it and there is nothing anybody can do to hurt me now. This is what a Senate seat costs. I'm proud of it. So somebody better do the job I'm leaving because I'm going to be watching you and I'm going to be out there saving children and families some other way, and I just appreciate all of you in here that love me and care about me and all I've done in the past and you all better suck it up and get busy is all I've got to say. Thank you.

On motion of Senator DAVIS, with unanimous consent, the remarks of Senator SHEALY were ordered printed in the Journal.

Remarks by Senator HARPOOTLIAN

Senator HARPOOTLIAN rose to make brief remarks regarding his service in the Senate.

Remarks by Senator HARPOOTLIAN

Unlike Senator SHEALY, my opponent didn't have to lie to beat me. He out worked me and to be frank he had strategy that was superior to mine. I would like to say he lied about me. I would like to blame it on something other than the truth, but the fact of the matter is I was not up to the task. I am a trial lawyer. I have tried cases for 50 years. I win some, I lose some. I am someone who does not bemoan the fact I lost.

Now, I do bemoan the fact that she lost. I think there are people like Katrina who live what they say and believe. I am not necessarily one of those people. On occasion I rise to meet that, but she does it every day. I will not be here, but if I were here I would miss her. She is the conscience of this Body and she lost because she voted her conscience. Many of us here vote what we believe to be the politically convenient position. I am going to talk about that in a minute. Let me say this before I go any further. I was sworn in six years ago. I ran for a Senate seat where the previous Senator had been indicted for public corruption. I was sworn in in November. The election had been over. I really didn't know what I was getting into and had no idea what a Senator did. I was angry with the Department of Revenue for not helping me shut down bars in Five Points. It was as simple as that. I would like to tell you I had some big plan -- that I was going to confront issues that were going to matter statewide, but I was pissed, pardon me. So, without talking to my wife or my family I announced I was running, and stranger things have happened, but I won. And so I began that January sitting in this Chamber listening to my fraternity brother of sixty years ago speak about this Chamber -- this side of that rail as hallowed ground. I thought he had broken into my college stash. I had no idea what he was talking about. I could not in any way comprehend hallowed ground. Hallowed ground is Omaha beach. How could this be hallowed ground? How could this in any way be comparable to that and yet over the last six years I learned that this is indeed hallowed ground. Things happen here that matter to millions of people, sometimes good, sometimes bad in my opinion. In those six years I am proud of many, many things I have done.

Before I get to that, before I start talking about my favorite topic, me -- I want to talk to you about the people that I have worked with here and who have helped me during this process. Somewhere up there in that balcony are Heather Hardy and Holli Miller. Stand up. Stand up because these folks are going to find this amazing. It has been thirty years with me for Ms. Miller, and twenty or twenty-five years for Ms. Hardy who working at my law office. They run my day-to-day life. Well, since my wife has been overseas, they run my day to day and nighttime life. They run my life, and make sure that I eat healthy and that I do all the things one ought to do when you are living as a bachelor, and trying to practice law, and be in the Senate, and run for re-election. So they are responsible significantly for whatever successes I have had. They are loyal, good, hard-working, and great, great, great assistants and paralegals. Holli was our paralegal on the Murdaugh case to the extent that we had any successes during that process -- not many, but to the extent we had some, she was responsible. She is the one who prepared the documents, got us the witness summaries, and did all of that which is a very difficult thing to do. Heather worked on other cases with me as well. They really do keep the shop going. Where is Javell Bynoe? Javell works in an office with me and ROSS TURNER. She has kept my Senate office going which is extraordinarily frustrating because I am not focused on constituent services. Thank you, Javell. She is great. I counted this morning how we watch people, recognize people, and present Resolutions. In six years, I have done that five times -- five times. That may be a record of the least number of times of times that has been done by a Senator. I have not really been focused on that piece of legislative service. I also want to thank WES CLIMER and apologize to his wife Marty for the insinuations in the recent Post & Courier editorial that Wes and I were closer than just colleagues. Marty, you are safe. Marty, if you are listening, you are safe. Wes and I just work very closely together. The Post & Courier said bipartisan. There are a bunch of other folks I want to thank. Let me tell you something, THOMAS ALEXANDER is the nicest guy I have ever met anywhere, anytime, in any context. He is a gentleman. He is considerate. He goes out of his way to see if he can help you in any way. I mean he is the perfect guy for this job, and I cannot tell you how lucky we are to have him here. Likewise, Jeff Gossett has gone out of his way to be helpful, kind, and considerate. I do not know if you have noticed or not, I can be a little contentious, but Jeff has guided me in a very calm voice as has Thomas to not be as confrontational as perhaps I wanted to be. There are several Senators here who have all been great pals to me. I have known DARRELL JACKSON for forty years. I have known the Chairman of Senate Finance, HARVEY PEELER, for almost sixty years. And back there is GREG HEMBREE who was an assistant solicitor with me thirty or forty years ago? We both learned a lot about ourselves while prosecuting cases and making very tough decisions in very tough circumstances. You know, he left my office, became solicitor in Horry County, and then became a state Senator. I mean he has had an extraordinary career. He is one of the brightest people that have ever worked for me, and his career exemplified that brilliance, if you will, of understanding very complicated things and digesting them and spitting them back out in a simplified way. Of course, no operation runs properly without the other person. Where is SHANE MARTIN? We do not agree on anything. I do not think. At one time he and his daughter were down in the parking garage, and he needed a ride somewhere and I gave him a ride. Shane convinced his daughter I was an uber driver. It is true. So, while we do not agree on much if anything, he has always been courteous, listened to my arguments, and rejected them most of the time, but he was kind enough to listen and express whatever his opinion was. So, again, this exemplifies what is good about this Body and why this is again, hallowed ground. Senator SETZLER, he is a man of tremendous seriousness of thought. His one word to me -- if there is one word he repeated in those six years 10,000 times, it was "patience." Patience which did not take hold much. He is what typifies a public servant. He is someone who has not only talked the talk but walked the walk. So, it has been my extreme pleasure. I did not know Nikki very well before I got to the Senate, but I am better off for having known him and his beautiful bride. The real people that run this place are back behind the rail. Alex back there who accommodated Wes and I every day getting some minion to go get us coffee. You do not have any idea how that was the high point of my day. Thank you, thank you for that. Because there was some bloviating going on in here, it is hard to stay awake. There are a number of people I have got listed here, but it is getting late and the one thing that I complained about every day we were here was how some fool got up here and went on and on and on about nothing. So I do not think my last day here ought to make me one of those fools who get up here and go on and on and on about nothing.

I do want to talk about being a Senator. You know I have been a county councilman, a solicitor, a chairman of a party, and a Senator at my age. I think my quote the morning after I lost the race was that it was a tragedy that a budding political career had been nipped so early in the bud. But at my age I can be philosophical about this. Nobody died; I lost an election. I have lost elections before. I will not lose another election, nor will I win one. I am about politicked out, and by that I mean this. I want to transition into something that is important to talk about, and this is serious stuff. It is going to offend people and I would say I am sorry, but I am not. I think these are some hard truths we ought to think about. Let me talk about something offensive to my friends first and then I will get to you guys.

Let me give you a little history. In 1986 I ran for county council At large in Richland County. No single member districts, At large. I campaigned with a guy named Willie Rogers who was a well-respected African American educator who had a daughter named Abigail. Abigail worked for me and became a family court judge, great family. Very bright guy. Much more qualified to be on county council than me. I had been an assistant solicitor, practiced law for a couple of years with Jack Swerling doing criminal law, and when Jim Barber, a friend of mine said he was not running again, I ran for the seat. We campaigned together like brothers; Willie and I did. He took me to black churches and black gatherings, and I took him to Shandon neighborhood council meetings and rotary clubs and those sorts of things. On election day, I led the ticket. There were six seats to be filled. Willie came in number seven; he lost. No black person was elected to Richland County Council that year because white people would not vote for black people. It is just as simple as that. It is just as simple as that. The Justice Department came in and decided the way to correct this was to create single member districts. The single member districts had to be majority African American to ensure the community of color had a voice in who gets elected, and we did that. We got John Scott in that class, along with Bernice Scott, and Harriet Gardin Fields. I mean a tremendous class, if you will, of African Americans. City white folks were more concerned about the art museum than we were about health care in Lower Richland or up Monticello Road where African Americans lived in impoverished conditions; that changed. Bernice educated me almost at the end of a stick about what her community needed as opposed to what did she call us, "the white wine and pate crowd". With Bernice, I saw a world I did not see in Shandon downtown. She took me down to Lower Richland. She educated me about paving roads, county roads that were dirt and when it rained you could not get an ambulance to them. It truly was needed. They were needed, these single member districts, no question about it. It was necessary they be significant African American majorities; it was a corrective remedial measure. It meant that this would transition us into a society where African Americans could get white votes. Like any remedial or corrective measure like a cast put on a leg, if you leave it on too long the leg atrophies. It is deleterious to the health of the body politic. Over the last five months as I campaigned in this race, I saw that we have two societies in South Carolina now. We have African American officials who really do not need to talk to white people in most instances, and then we have white candidates in many instances that do not have to talk to black people. Because of gerrymandering we have resegregated our society where there is no communication between the races of any meaningful sense. Now that I think about it, I attended several African American churches. I will confess I am not someone who attends church every Sunday -- my home church. I do not need anybody talking to me telling me what God says. I can talk to God directly. Many of these African American churches have no white members. I do not know about Senator JACKSON'S church, but the churches I attended in rural South Carolina -- rural Lexington County and rural Calhoun County -- have no white members. I found that the most segregated hour of the week is Sunday morning. We are not talking. By we, I mean black folks and white folks. And we are institutionalizing that by reapportionment and gerrymandering. I spoke against it when we did reapportionment. I litigated against it in 1992 and later in 2002 and I testified in a recent reapportionment case. I think it is unhealthy. I think the long-term results of that are unhealthy and I am not blaming my white Republican friends for it. A lot of the fault goes to African American elected officials who do not want a lot of white people in their district. I get it; I understand you want to get reelected. But the long-term cost of that is deleterious to the State and to this Country. I will not be here for the next reapportionment. I might can bring a lawsuit, though. Which I am thinking about.

But let me move to this side of the Chamber. The other thing I discovered, and I am just astounded by as I campaigned in this election, was that I occasionally ran into a Republican. When I say a Republican, I am saying a Republican who believes that the 2020 Election was bogus. I am very concerned about this. Everyone from Donald Trump's Attorney General to everybody that looks at it. The facts are Biden won; Trump lost. Anyone watching this that thinks that did not happen is over in the House where they put on aluminum foil hats. You are entitled to your opinion -- your own opinion. What you are not entitled to is your own facts. I would not care if you did not think we landed on the moon. I would not care if you thought that aliens are occupying the White House. I do not care about that, but I do care about when you have an opinion that sheds and shades your belief and everyone else's belief in the electoral process. You threaten our democracy. Our democracy. And that is what is going on. If I met one, I met fifteen that told me they believed that. Their facts are based on some whacko pillow salesman who posted something on the internet or was interviewed, on some right-wing show. They call themselves conservatives. They are not conservatives. Conservatives believe in the Constitution. Conservatives believe in the validity and sanctity of the electoral process. That is one problem I have, because they are challenging this democracy. We had a trial a few weeks ago and the guy got convicted. Suddenly, the judicial system is corrupt. Now, I represented this guy last year. You may have been familiar with it. His name was Alec Murdaugh. He got convicted and did we have a press conference saying this is corrupt and we know everything was fixed? No. We did not do that. What did we discover earlier this year?

The clerk of court was caught trying to fix the jury. Did we have a press conference saying it is corrupt? No. We did something. I know this sounds radical. We abided by the system. We filed an appeal, we filed briefs, and we had legal arguments, because this is a legal process. So, if you challenge the electoral process and the judicial process and you convince a majority of the people that neither one is fair and both are corrupt, what does that do? I mean the next thing is going to be when you run and you win; you fixed it. You were corrupt. It is not good once you begin debating the validity of our democracy's two major pillars, elections and the judicial system. If you honestly believe Biden did not win in 2020, then you should go out there and agree with these folks. I believe these folks are not basing their decisions on facts. There is something wrong if you believe that the way to challenge a judicial decision is to riot, or in some way indicate that you are a political prisoner. There are actual political prisoners, and those folks are not one of them. Agree with them if you want. If not, you have a moral responsibility to say, "Look, I am voting for the guy" if that is what you want to do. But the election was valid in 2020 and he has an appellate process on what is occurring in the judicial system. I am not going to sit here and placate you by saying that you are right about that. If you do that, simply deal with the facts, you will do much for this country and for this State. So, I have offended everybody here today, the goal I have had for six years.

In all seriousness, let me close by saying this. One of the major accomplishments I have had in this Body dealt with the Department of Commerce because when they sold the Panthers deal to us. I raised questions. I hired my own person to analyze the benefits of it and found out it was bogus, and it turned out to be bogus. When I asked for other information from the Department of Commerce, they would not give it to me, so I sued them. Henry McMaster and I have known each other for forty or fifty years. We used to be chairmen of opposite parties. We debated each other and even traveled together. I have a great relationship with Henry and Peggy. I think the best decision he has ever made was to get Harry Lightsey as the Chairman of the Department of Commerce; he sat down with me and worked through our issues. Now we heard Nikki talk about Harry Lightsey, Sr., who I had as a professor in law school, and was the brightest guy I have ever met. Harry Lightsey, Jr. has brought a new prospective on the Department of Commerce and a new approach to the Department of Commerce and I want to say that he is doing yeoman's work there. The Scout Project is obviously big to this county here.

Another one of my proudest achievements is the quantum computer project here in the City of Columbia. I want to thank Senator PEELER for the $15 million that he allowed to go through the budget and the Governor for signing it. I think is an investment in the intellectual capital of our State. Four kids that are using that program competed in something called a Quantum Hack-A-Thon at MIT. The number one team was from Yale and Harvard. The number two team was a group of physicists from Stanford. The number three team was from the University of South Carolina business school; they trained here using the program that we funded last year. This is a big deal. Oakridge labs in Tennessee sponsors the Hack-A-Thon. They are going to have the competition here this year, where kids and scientists from all over the country will compete by using scientific computers to solve very complicated problems. I am proud of that. There is nothing else I have done that will generate this tremendous amount of benefit to kids from South Carolina. They are working with kids from Clemson, Carolina, Allen, Benedict, and SC State. It is going to be bright kids that want to use access to quantum. Ten years from now they will not be using supercomputers, they will be using quantum computers. I could talk about it all day long, but I will not.

In conclusion -- no applause! In conclusion, I want to say, this is sort of the last thing. In losing this race, I must say I felt relieved the next day because my life became simpler. Now I can practice law. I think my wife will finally come home from Slovenia now that she knows I am not going to be running and campaigning all fall. I am going to over to see her in a couple weeks. I can enjoy life a little bit more, and at our stage, enjoying life a little bit more is probably the best thing we ought to be doing. I forgot to mention one person, SANDY SENN sitting back there, another one of the Sister Senators. She and I go way back. Sandy is a great lawyer, a good person, and she got dealt with the same way you did, Katrina -- horrible. And you know, you are one of the good guys. You are one of the people that if I wanted to come back, I would want to come back to. Without you and Katrina here, I am not sure it will be the kind of place I wanted to come back to anyway. The rest of you are just okay.

I am sort of a music aficionado and over the years I have prided myself on meeting several different rock and roll people. I am a rock and roll aficionado. I have hung out with the Allman Brothers before they were the Allman Brothers and did some things that I really do not want to admit to. I got to know several people that were in that genre. Lately I have taken to listening to Johnny Cash. You might find that shocking. But Johnny Cash did a cover of a Trent Reznor song. Trant Reznor is the lead singer of a group called Nine Inch Nails. Senator PEELER, they are not a Motown group. I was listening to Johnny Cash the other morning and he was singing this song and it sort of exemplifies how I feel leaving here. I am going to read these lyrics to you and that will be the end of this, and me. This is the last time I will appear in this Body at this podium; it is bittersweet. A little more sweet than bitter. But at the same time, I want you to understand how I feel about it. The name of the song is "Hurt". "What have I become, my sweetest friend? Everyone I know goes away in the end. And you can have it all, my empire of dirt. I will let you down. I will make you hurt." Thank you.

Remarks by Senator GUSTAFSON

By the grace of God and to his glory, I stand here today. I am honored to have served the people of District 27 in Kershaw, Chesterfield and Lancaster Counties and what a privilege to share this chamber with all of you.

When Todd and I moved to Camden on Feb. 5, 2015, there was no hint of what was to come. I was a stay-at-home mom of three, and very involved in my community helping with homelessness and other problems. The South Carolina Senate has been an adventure, and it's been an education -- like a civics lesson every day. There is always something to learn -- like graduate school for politicians. Senator SHEALY has always advised me that, "Senators don't cry," and I did not cry on primary night. I will have you know. But I did cry last night as I watched her stand with fierce, stoic resolve against an unlikely and frankly, despicable outcome.

This farewell is conflicted because I don't want to go. But no one loses 82-18% without a chunk of responsibility, so I'll claim that right now publicly and formally. But I am no martyr. I've been asked if the abortion debate was the hardest thing I've ever done. Truthfully, the answer is "no." The toughest times of my life have been punctuated by extreme hardships including financial struggles with a really hard divorce and starting over with only a car and some debt in my 30s. Then, amid all this my only brother, Troy, was murdered.

Each of us carries some kind of scar tissue from whatever your trauma has been, whatever you've gone through in life, good and bad, and you carry it. We each can build our own reservoir of courage that comes with time, effort and practice. Moral capital is built in the same way. The more you stand up and do what you say you're going to do, lead your own life, step into this arena, and take risks the easier it gets. This is true for every human alive. I promise you when that crucial moment appears, you'll be ready.

All that heartache mentioned before led to my greatest blessing who was introduced today, Todd. We have three grown children, William, Maggie and Drew. Another blessing is my dad, Tom Morgan. I have a gratifying job, a home and a country I love.

So, let's address the elephant in the room. Why did the "Sister Senators" story attract so much attention and criticism? We five decided to stand by our shared beliefs about women, about motherhood and yes, about politics. We did not compromise; we collaborated amid one of the most divisive subjects of our time.

Believe me when I say the easiest route for me was to go along party lines no matter what and just vote "yes." No matter the lack of hearings and medical testimony, no matter if Legislators would not accept facts given by their female colleagues, and no matter if the Bill was chopped up and changed dramatically before it came back to us. The pressure from all sides has been enormous, but ultimately, I voted "no" to the final Bill coming after voting "yes" to every other piece of abortion legislation (including S. 474 itself before it went to the South Carolina House).

I did not seek the media; they sought me. As a public servant, I felt obligated to answer as many requests as possible, as a Legislator and as a Senator for all people. Whoever wished to hear from me -- I talked with them. I even spoke with a Japanese news outlet, Canada and all over the country and local, of course. But by God, I dared to do an interview on CNN. I had no idea there would be negative repercussions from doing what I perceived to be yet another interview or two.

The Kershaw County Republican Party and the Chesterfield County Republican Party responded by censuring me for appearing on CNN, if you can believe that. They censured me while leaders within the state party, not speaking about the leadership in this chamber, called for the replacement of all female republican Senators. Congratulations, because we are gone now.

I want to walk out these doors with dignity and grace, like the lady I was raised to be. Really and truly, gratitude does fill my heart. Allow me to mention and say thank you to a number of people who have been very special in this journey.

The first Senators I ever knew were Senator GARRETT, Senator DAVIS and Senator SHEALY. The first time I saw the Senator from Beaufort, he was explaining medical marijuana. This was years ago, so he's been advocating a long time. I recall speaking with him after a woman's club meeting at length, and I thought, man, he cared enough to go to our little club. It was small with maybe fifteen people there that day. I have supported that legislation ever since then and still do.

Now Senator GARRETT, he's kind of different, and most people do not know why I know you so well and why you know me so well. He was my divorce attorney, and it was a horrible time. He knows more about me than anybody else in this room. Shhhhh -- just keep that professionalism, okay? You've been very good for four years; thank you for not sharing my darkest secrets. I met Senator SHEALY from Lexington at another women's republican group meeting, and she was talking about, surprise, Katrina's Kids. That was our first-time meeting in person, so I had some sort of connection with those three.

In 2018, I ran for the South Carolina House Seat 52 against an established democratic incumbent, and nobody knew me. They couldn't pronounce my name, they couldn't say my name, they couldn't spell my name, but I did get 43% of that vote that year which was encouraging. Most first-time candidates do not win. That's why I encourage anyone who wants to run for office -- better plan on running twice. So, I had planned to run for the House again in 2020 for the same job. Then, someone strongly suggested that I run for the Senate. I thought they had lost their mind! A lot of convincing by facts, figures and numbers was needed. Finally, after considering the numbers and votes, I thought I could do it. Now, please understand nobody else did. Nobody on the planet thought I was going to win that race. It must have been upsetting to the people in this body that a long-standing member would be leaving so unexpectedly. My flipping this seat over a democrat incumbent millionaire lawyer who ran for Governor twice was huge for the Republican Party and the South Carolina Senate. I have a lot more empathy than I did four years ago. In 2020, I won by less than 900 votes, but two weeks ago I had arguably the biggest defeat of any incumbent in South Carolina political history.

All my life I've made lists, goals and plans. If a plan does not work, then another is created. I usually reach the goals, but the South Carolina

General Assembly is quite different, isn't it? Everything is slow, but I've learned the system better and better every year. I've become a better Senator. Instead of tackling these items, urgent needs in my district hit me right in the face. These urgent issues are not on the republican platform, nothing sexy. We're talking water, sewer, dangerous roads, problems with funding fire, problems with our coroners, expanding law enforcement and our bursting school systems. These technical problems were unknown at my arrival, but all of this has been the bulk of my work in the district. Water and sewer capacity issues and dangerous roads where my constituents were dying took highest priority. For example, there is a new stoplight intersection at the corner of Dove Sutton Road and Love's Truck Plaza in Pageland. This may seem like a small success because you have done remarkable feats in this body. For me, that light installation was remarkable, because getting SCDOT to do it as quickly as possible was not easy. My efforts made the difference, and I am proud I was part of the solution.

Unfortunately, my views and votes have been twisted. I know, that's politics, y'all. I have thick skin; it's okay. I have been pounded for four years, but is it over? Are y'all going to continue to beat up on me on Facebook? Please stop. I'm done.

Let me set a couple of things straight. Number one, I did not kill Constitutional Carry. How many thousands received mailers of deceit? We debated two gun Bills since 2020, just two, and I voted "yes" for both of them. I also voted "yes" to send it out of committee to be placed on the calendar this year. However, my no vote on an amendment to the Open Carry with Training Bill in 2021 caught the eye of the most fervent gun rights activists. Most of us voted against this amendment proven by the fact it did not pass. The Palmetto Gun Rights group and others made sure to inform the public in a very ugly way that I was "anti 2A" and against gun rights, gun people and killed constitutional carry. They've printed it over and over again. The fact that I recognize the problems of gun violence and spoke openly about my brother's murder was held against me by extreme groups. My views have evolved, but the vote is what matters, and I was a yes vote. The NRA even gave me an "A" rating and an endorsement. Fascinating that people now say, oh, what has come of the NRA to endorse her? I just couldn't win on this topic no matter what my votes prove. Those are the facts, and I won't be talking about it anymore.

I'm also not a baby killer. Also, I am a conservative republican as proven by the votes. Party politics has been brutal, and the toxic nature of our political environment is what drew me to seek office in the first place. To solve internal problems, we are often told to step up into the arena and work from within. So, I joined my local GOP and eventually became its First Vice Chair. I even came to be an elected state delegate and a National Delegate to the RNC. Then I ran for office and ran again. I've tried my best and done as much as I can to improve from within.

There are few regrets but the yes vote for Scout Motors is one of them. There was no time to debate this multi-billion-dollar investment. After discussing the deal with Director Lightsey and lawyers, I supported this project that would be phenomenal for our State. Frankly, EVs are not going to take off the way they were expected to just a few years ago. We may be on our way to a different kind of transportation revolution, and EVs may only be a stepping stone to whatever that is. Technology moves fast.

But I am proud of legislation including over twenty-seven sponsored Bills being made into law. The Fentanyl Trafficking Bill was very important, but the Drug Induced Homicide Bill stalled in the House. I supported the repeal of certificate of need and bond reform limiting catch and release; that's something my constituents definitely wanted. All kinds of effective legislation came out of the Family and Veterans' Services Committee, of which I serve. Veterans no longer have to pay taxes on their state income, and we passed the biggest tax cut ever in 2022.

I supported and sponsored two School Choice Bills, because I believe in choice. That's yet another reason why I ran twice because there were no choices on the ballot. Nobody was stepping up to run, but I did, and I provided, if nothing else, a choice for the voting public. It is important that all incumbents have some kind of opposition, because it makes better leaders and Legislators.

I'm thankful for so many, but I'm not naming them all, because the people closest to me know who you are. Staying true to myself and living an honest and full life have been worthy goals. I promise to persist in advocating for the issues that touch our lives. It just won't be in this arena, but I do look forward to seeing where it will be. I have absolutely loved this time in the Senate and thank those who voted for me. These four years have been such an honor.

Remarks by Senator SENN

Senator SENN rose to make brief remarks regarding her service in the Senate.

Remarks by Senator SENN

I just want you to know that was very moving and I know everybody is feeling a little melancholy, I guess. I don't know what is wrong with me. I feel liberated. I just do. I love y'all. I will miss y'all. I really will. It was a gut punch to have lost by thirty-one votes, but that is thirty more than the guy needed to beat me. So just like four other Senators who have stood up here today, they have gone ahead and said, "You know what we lost…we lost." There is going to be life after losing and I really only felt gut punched for a couple of days. All these people were calling me saying I need this, we need this, remember after your election you said you would help with this. And all of a sudden, I just went -- this is not my burden anymore. It is not my burden. It will be somebody's burden and it needs to be somebody's burden.

What I do hope is that we are going to have a lot more women who are going to run for office. We have a bunch that are running now in the general election. Again, like I said to you before, I don't want any of my colleagues to feel like I want you to lose just because I want more women to run. I do however feel like we need to have more of a balance and not just women to men, but Republicans to Democrats. Because one thing I have learned is if one party is in such extreme control there is no room for negotiation and why would you? You can't make great law when there is nobody willing to negotiate.

Now I know most of you probably were not riveted sitting by your computers and your TVs when we accepted the award that we accepted. I would not have changed that for the world. But one of the things I did mention is that you have in today's environment the extreme left and the extreme right, and yet most people in this world fall somewhere in the middle, in the reasonable middle -- not in crazy chaos, election deniers. There is room for all of us to get together in the middle of all those things. So, in between chaos versus dignity, I believe I'm just going to take dignity every single time and sit back now and watch the rest of the rodeo from Abaco by the way. If anybody wants to come see me that's where I will be, in Abaco smiling and enjoying life.

I do want to thank a couple of people. First of all, Deana, my wonderful staff member. She is fantastic. All the staff members here are. My son is in the balcony and my husband, my sign warrior. Where would I have been without them? I do love them dearly.

Now, I want you to know that I don't regret a single vote that I ever took, and I would make the vote again. I would. But now the weight of the world is off my shoulders. Women, somebody else is going to have to stand up. Somebody else is going to have to come and make things right. Now I have no doubt but that we were able to hold off a total ban on abortion for a year. I am sure that there are going to be those that are going to be coming straight after -- not only a total ban on abortion, but they are going to want criminal penalties and they are going to want no exceptions. That is coming. That is not going to be my problem. It is going to be the problem, though, of others and so I do hope that we are going to find more people willing to come together in the middle -- not necessarily because they have to because you are going to have the numbers to be able to ram anything down our throats -- but because you know it is the right thing to do. And some of you who sit on the back row back there who didn't really like the way you voted sometimes, but you held your nose, and you did it anyway because it was the safe thing to do, you now no longer have us taking the bullets for you. So, if you really do feel the way I know that some of you do feel, you are going to have some tough decisions to make next year. You are going to have to figure out exactly how you're going to handle it with those of us on the front line not taking the bullets for you. We did have courage, but every single one of us in this room has had courage. Anybody that has ever put their name on a ballot has courage.

Every single one of you are wonderful colleagues, I would ask you to consider this one thing. Where is that trophy? Y'all took it away. Alright, well it was a $38,000 trophy. She belittled it. I think she said $36,000. I think it was a $38,000 trophy -- that time and accepting that award was wonderful. That is something that you know -- maybe y'all will get it, maybe you won't -- but I kind of doubt anyone else in this room is going to get that award and I think it's pretty special. For those of you who don't, I want you to think though that there are going to be a lot of women and children who do think it is special. They do think that award is special. So, for us to be told that there is not a place in the State House of honor for us to keep that trophy, is an insult. So, I do hope that at some point if it is not going to be those of you who are in office next year or maybe the following year or the year after -- that you will consider we five "Sister Senators." We will remain here in this Body forever because of the things that we did during our period of time here. That is something that whether you liked it or not -- you ought to consider it. Y'all don't like to remove statues. I mean, I don't. I think that history is history. It is what it is and maybe sure we were not John C. Calhoun or anything of that nature, but still we did something here in the South Carolina Senate. I do hope that at some point those of you who control whether a trophy, since we only have one, can be put somewhere in the State House. I hope that you will consider that in our favor. I love each and every one of you. Thank you so much.

THE SENATE PROCEEDED TO A CONSIDERATION OF THE VETOES.

May 21, 2024

The Honorable Thomas C. Alexander
President of the Senate
State House, Second Floor
Columbia, South Carolina 29201

Dear Mr. President and Members of the Senate:

I am hereby vetoing and returning without my approval R-200, S. 1166 which seeks to require prosecutors in South Carolina to dismiss all pending charges for unlawful possession of a handgun pursuant to Section 16-23-20 of the South Carolina Code of Laws, as recently amended by the S.C. Constitutional Carry/Second Amendment Preservation Act of 2024, if those charges "were nullified" by that Act.

As a former United States Attorney and South Carolina Attorney General, I have great respect and admiration for prosecutors and recognize the important role that prosecutorial discretion plays in our criminal justice system. I am therefore wary of any attempt to limit that authority and discretion. Every case is unique, and the prosecutors in our State should be permitted to evaluate each case based on the law and the facts. Some charges might warrant dismissal; other charges may warrant continued prosecution. Unfortunately, S. 1166 would universally strip prosecutors of the ability to make such individualized determinations.

I am also skeptical of, and opposed to, S. l166's mandatory, blanket dismissals of pending criminal charges for another reason: When the defendants who would benefit from these dismissals committed their alleged crimes, their alleged actions were, in fact, unlawful. To be sure, those actions might not be illegal today, but that distinction misses the critical point that such actions were illegal at the time they were committed. I have repeatedly noted by belief in the importance of upholding and adhering to the Rule of Law, which requires not only that everyone follow the law as written but also that the law apply equally to every person. If a person disobeys the law, consequences including potentially criminal prosecution-may follow, even if a person believes a law should be changed. If that law is ultimately changed, blanket dismissals are rarely the answer for previous violations of that law, and they are not the answer here.

For the foregoing reasons, I am respectfully vetoing R-200, S. 1166 and returning the same without my signature.

Yours very truly,
Henry McMaster

~~(E) A vacancy on the Judicial Merit Selection Commission must be filled for the remainder of the unexpired term in the same manner as provided for the original selection.~~

~~(G) No member of the Judicial Merit Selection Commission is eligible for nomination and appointment as a judge or justice of the state court system or administrative law judge division while serving on the commission and for a period of one year thereafter.~~

Section 2-19-20. (A) It is the responsibility of the South Carolina Judicial Merit Selection Commission to determine when judicial vacancies are to occur in the ~~administrative law judge division~~Administrative Law Court and on the family court, circuit court, court of appeals, or Supreme Court and to expeditiously investigate in advance the qualifications of those who seek ~~nomination~~the position. For purposes of this chapter, a vacancy is created in the ~~administrative law judge division~~ Administrative Law Court or on the family court, circuit court, court of appeals, or Supreme Court when any of the following occurs: a term expires; a new judicial position is created; or a judge can no longer serve due to resignation, retirement, disciplinary action, disability, or death.

(B) The commission, upon receiving notice of a judicial vacancy, ascertaining that a judicial vacancy shall occur, or receiving the decision of an incumbent judge regarding his seeking ~~re-election~~reelection, shall notify the Supreme Court of the vacancy for publication in the advance sheets provided by the Clerk of the Supreme Court at least thirty days prior to closing applications for the vacancy. The commission shall, if practicable, also notify the South Carolina Bar, other professional legal organizations it considers appropriate, and each newspaper of this State with daily circulation of the vacancy at least thirty days prior to closing applications for the vacancy. This notice must include, but not be limited to, the judicial office in which the vacancy occurs, the address to which, and the date by which interested candidates may apply.

(C) The ~~Judicial Merit Selection Commission~~commission shall announce and publicize vacancies and forthcoming vacancies in the ~~administrative law judge division~~ Administrative Law Court, on the family court, circuit court, court of appeals, and Supreme Court. A person who desires to be considered for ~~nomination~~a position as justice or judge may make application to the commission. ~~No person may concurrently seek more than one judicial vacancy.~~ The commission shall announce the names of those persons who have applied.

(D) Any person wishing to seek a judicial office, which is elected by the General Assembly, shall file a notice of intention to seek the office with the ~~Judicial Merit Selection Commission~~commission. Upon receipt of the notice of intention, the commission shall begin to conduct the investigation of the candidate as it considers appropriate and may in the investigation utilize the services of any agency of state government. This agency shall, upon request, cooperate fully with the commission.

Section 2-19-25. (A) The South Carolina Judicial Merit Selection Commission is authorized to investigate and obtain information relative to any candidate for an ~~administrative law~~ Administrative Law Court judgeship or a family court, circuit court, court of appeals, or Supreme Court judgeship from any state agency or other group including, but not limited to, court administration and any law enforcement agency, to the extent permitted by law. And, as part of the investigation, candidates for election to judicial office or reelection to judicial office must disclose any sanctions, including private reprimands, to the commission.

(B) The chairman of the commission shall notify the President of the South Carolina Bar of the judgeships to be filled and of the candidates for those judgeships no later than four weeks before the scheduled date for the public hearing. The chairman of the commission shall also request the South Carolina Bar to offer the commission an assessment of each candidate's qualifications for the judgeship sought, and the date by which the assessment must be returned to the commission. This assessment must specify the bar's finding as to whether each candidate is qualified or unqualified for the judgeship sought and the reasons for that finding. The commission may receive the bar's assessment in that form and at that time it desires but shall attach the assessments to its findings of fact in such form as the commission considers appropriate. Failure of the bar to return the assessment by the date requested is not a ground for delaying the applicable hearings or election.

(C) The commission shall forward the names of justices and judges who are at the midpoint in their terms to the committee in order for the committee to conduct midterm reviews utilizing the electronic ballot box survey polling or other forms of electronic surveys as it deems appropriate. The results of the midterm reviews must be forwarded to the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. Midterm reviews also must be provided to the commission at the next public screening of each judicial candidate.

Section 2-19-30. (A) Upon completion of the investigation, the Chairman of the South Carolina Judicial Merit Selection Commission shall schedule a public hearing concerning the qualifications of the candidates. Any person who desires to testify at the hearing, including candidates, shall furnish a written statement of his proposed testimony to the commission no later than two weeks prior to the date and time set for the hearing unless sufficient cause is determined by the ~~Judicial Merit Selection Commission~~commission for allowing the submitting individual's testimony after the deadline. The commission shall determine the persons who shall testify at the hearing. All testimony, including documents furnished to the commission, must be submitted under oath and persons knowingly furnishing false information either orally or in writing are subject to the penalties provided by law for perjury and false swearing.

(B) During the course of the investigation, the commission may schedule an executive session at which each candidate, and other persons whom the commission wishes to interview, may be interviewed by the commission on matters pertinent to the candidate's qualification for the office to be filled.

(C) ~~A~~At a reasonable time thereafter the commission shall render its tentative findings as to whether the candidate is qualified for the office to be filled and its reasons therefor as to each candidate.

(D) As soon as possible after the completion of the hearing, a verbatim copy of the testimony, documents submitted at the hearing, and findings of fact must be transcribed and published or otherwise made available in a reasonable number of copies to the members of both houses prior to the date of the scheduled election, and a copy ~~thereof~~ shall be furnished to each candidate and anyone else upon request. A charge for these copies may be made as authorized in the Freedom of Information Act.

(E) A candidate may withdraw at any ~~stage of the proceedings and in this event no further inquiry or consideration of his candidacy shall be made~~ time prior to the public hearing or after the draft report is issued to members of the General Assembly. ~~All materials concerning that candidate including his report, transcript, application, materials, and other information gathered during the commission's investigation must be kept confidential and destroyed as soon as possible after the candidate's written notification to the commission of his withdrawal.~~ The information concerning a withdrawn candidate also shall be exempt from disclosure pursuant to Chapter 4 of Title 30. However, all materials concerning the candidate must be retained and may not be destroyed by the commission.

(F) All of the commission's public hearings shall be live streamed except for the portions of the hearings conducted in executive session.

Section 2-19-35. (A) The responsibility of the South Carolina Judicial Merit Selection Commission is to investigate and consider the qualifications of the candidates for judicial office in ~~the administrative law judge division~~Administrative Law Court or on the family court, circuit court, court of appeals, or Supreme Court. Investigations and consideration of the commission should include, but are not limited to, the following areas:

(1) constitutional qualifications;
(2) ethical fitness;
(3) professional and academic ability;
(4) character;
(5) reputation;
(6) physical health;
(7) mental stability;
(8) experience; and
(9) judicial temperament.

(B) ~~In making nominations, race~~Race, gender, national origin, and other demographic factors ~~should~~shall be considered by the commission to ensure nondiscrimination to the greatest extent possible as to all segments of the population of the State.

Section 2-19-40. ~~Notwithstanding the provisions of this chapter, when~~

~~there is no known opposition to a candidate, and there appears to be no substantial reason for having a public hearing, whether or not a candidate is an incumbent, and no request is made by at least six members of the Judicial Merit Selection Commission for a public hearing, the commission chairman upon recommendation of the commission may determine that the public hearing is unnecessary and it may not be held.~~ Reserved.

Section 2-19-50. All records, information, and other material that the South Carolina Judicial Merit Selection Commission has obtained or used to make its findings of fact, except materials, records, and information presented under oath at the public hearing, must be kept strictly confidential. ~~After the commission has reported its findings of fact, all records, information, and material required to be kept confidential must be destroyed.~~ The information required to be kept confidential also shall be exempt from disclosure pursuant to Chapter 4 of Title 30.

Section 2-19-60. (A)The South Carolina Judicial Merit Selection Commission in the discharge of its duties may administer oaths and affirmations, take depositions, and issue subpoenas to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, papers, correspondence, memoranda, and other records considered necessary in connection with the investigation of the candidate.

(B) No person shall be excused from attending and testifying or from producing books, papers, correspondence, memoranda, or other records before the ~~Judicial Merit Selection Commission~~commission on the ground that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him may tend to incriminate him or subject him to a penalty or forfeiture. But no individual shall be prosecuted or subjected to any criminal penalty based upon testimony or evidence submitted or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter, or thing concerning which he is compelled, after having claimed his privilege against self-incrimination, to testify or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, except that the individual so testifying shall not be exempt from prosecution and punishment for perjury and false swearing committed in so testifying.

(C) In case of contumacy by any person or refusal to obey a subpoena issued to any person, any circuit court of this State or circuit judge ~~thereof~~ within the jurisdiction of which the person guilty of contumacy or refusal to obey is found, resides, or transacts business, upon application by the ~~Judicial Merit Selection Commission~~commission may issue to this person an order requiring him to appear before the commission to produce evidence if so ordered or to give testimony touching the matter under investigation. Any failure to obey an order of the court may be punished as a contempt ~~hereof~~. Subpoenas shall be issued in the name of the South Carolina Judicial Merit Selection Commission and shall be signed by the commission chairman. Subpoenas shall be issued to those persons as the commission may designate.

Section 2-19-70. (A) No member of the General Assembly may be elected to a judicial office while he is serving in the General Assembly nor shall that person be elected to a judicial office for a period of one year after he either:

(1) ceases to be a member of the General Assembly; or

(2) fails to file for election to the General Assembly in accordance with Section 7-11-15.

(B) The privilege of the floor in either house of the General Assembly may not be granted to any candidate or any immediate family member of a candidate unless the family member is serving in the General Assembly, during the time the candidate's application is pending before the commission and during the time his nomination by the commission for election to a particular judicial office is pending in the General Assembly.

(C) No ~~candidate for judicial office~~person may seek, directly or indirectly, the pledge of a member of the General Assembly's vote or, directly or indirectly, contact a member of the General Assembly regarding screening for the judicial office until the qualifications of all candidates for that office have been determined by the Judicial Merit Selection Commission and the commission has formally released its report as to the qualifications of all candidates for the vacancy to the General Assembly. No member of the General Assembly may offer his pledge to any person until the qualifications of all candidates for that office have been determined by the Judicial Merit Selection Commission and until the commission has formally released its report as to the qualifications of its nominees to the General Assembly. The formal release of the report of qualifications shall occur no earlier than ~~forty-eight hours~~twelve days after the nominees have been initially released to members of the General Assembly. For purposes of this section, indirectly seeking a pledge means the candidate, or someone acting on behalf of and at the request of the candidate, requesting a person to contact a member of the General Assembly on behalf of the candidate before nominations for that office are formally made by the commission. Prior to the formal release of the report as to the qualifications of judicial candidates, a person may not request that a member of the General Assembly, nor may a member of the General Assembly offer to, act on behalf of a candidate in furtherance of the candidate's candidacy in any capacity including, but not limited to, acting as a vote counter for a candidate. The prohibitions of this section do not extend to an announcement of candidacy by the ~~candidate~~a person and statements by the candidate detailing the candidate's qualifications.

(D) No member of the General Assembly may trade anything of value, including pledges to vote for legislation or for other candidates now or in the future, in exchange for another member's pledge to vote for a candidate for judicial office or as an inducement for a candidate to withdraw.

(E) Violations of this section may be considered by the merit selection commission when it considers the candidate's qualifications and until the time set for election of candidates. Violations of this section by members of the General Assembly shall be reported by the commission to the House or Senate Ethics Committee, as may be applicable. Violations of this section by nonlegislative commission members shall be reported by the commission to the State Ethics Commission. A violation of this section is a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, the violator must be fined not more than one thousand dollars or imprisoned not more than ninety days. Cases tried under this section may not be transferred from general sessions court pursuant to Section 22-3-545.

Section 2-19-80. (A) The commission shall make nominations to the General Assembly of candidates and their qualifications for election to the Supreme Court, court of appeals, circuit court, family court, and the administrative law judge division. It shall review the qualifications of all applicants for a judicial office and select therefrom and submit to the General Assembly the names and qualifications of ~~the three~~not more than six candidates whom it considers best qualified for the judicial office under consideration. If fewer than ~~three~~ six persons apply to fill a vacancy or if the commission concludes there are fewer than ~~three~~ six candidates qualified for a vacancy, it shall submit to the General Assembly only the names and qualifications of those who are considered to be qualified, with a written explanation for submitting fewer than ~~three~~ six names.

(B) The nominations of the commission for any judgeship are binding on the General Assembly, and it shall not elect a person not nominated by the commission. Nothing shall prevent the General Assembly from rejecting all persons nominated. In this event, the commission shall submit another group of names and qualifications for that position.

Further ~~nominations~~procedures in the manner required by this chapter must be made until the office is filled.

(C)(1) If the commission does not find the incumbent justice or judge qualified for the judicial office held and sought, his name shall not be submitted to the General Assembly for ~~re-election~~ reelection and upon expiration of his then current term of office, he shall cease serving in that judicial position.

(2) If the commission finds an incumbent judge not qualified for the office sought, or if an incumbent judge dies, withdraws, or becomes otherwise disqualified for the office sought between the time he makes application for the office and the date of the election ~~therefor~~, the election for the office may not be held at that scheduled time, and the commission shall proceed in accordance with the provisions of this chapter to make other nominations for the office as though a new vacancy without an incumbent exists in that office, including reopening the application process with all required notices. Nothing prevents the commission from including in its new nominations the names and qualifications of persons other than the incumbent judge it included in its previous nominations.

(D) The commission shall accompany its nominations to the General Assembly with reports ~~or recommendations~~ as to the qualifications of particular candidates and the particular reasons a candidate or candidates were not found qualified.

(E) A period of at least ~~two weeks~~ twenty-two days must elapse between the date of the commission's nominations to the General Assembly and the date the General Assembly conducts the election for these judgeships.

Section 2-19-90. The General Assembly shall meet in joint session for the election of judges. The date and time for the joint session shall be set by concurrent resolution upon the recommendation of the South Carolina Judicial Merit Selection Commission. The Chairman of the Judicial Merit Selection Commission shall announce the commission's nominees for each judicial race, and no further nominating or seconding speeches shall be allowed by members of the General Assembly. In order to be elected, a candidate must receive a majority of the vote of the members of the General Assembly voting in joint session.

Section 2-19-100. In order to be eligible for appointment by the Chief Justice to serve, any retired justice or judge of this State must have been reviewed by the South Carolina Judicial Merit Selection Commission under procedures it shall establish to review retired judges' qualifications for continued judicial service and be found by the commission to be qualified to serve in these situations within four years of the date of his appointment to serve, except that if a justice or judge retired before the expiration of his then current term, no further review of that justice or judge is required until that term would have expired.

Section 2-19-110. Upon a vacancy in the office of master-in-equity, candidates ~~therefor~~ shall submit an application to the South Carolina Judicial Merit Selection Commission. Upon completion of reports and recommendations, the commission shall submit such reports and recommendations on all qualified master-in-equity candidates to the appropriate county legislative delegations. The county legislative delegations ~~shall~~ may then submit the name of a candidate to the Governor for consideration for appointment. Nothing shall prevent the delegation from rejecting a candidate and directing the commission to reopen the process. ~~Nothing~~And, nothing shall prevent the Governor from rejecting the person nominated by the delegation. In this event, the delegation shall submit another name for consideration. No person found not qualified by the commission may be appointed to the office of master-in-equity. For purposes of this section, a vacancy is created in the office of the master-in-equity when any of the following occurs: a term expires, a new judicial position is created, or a judge no longer can serve due to resignation, retirement, disciplinary action, disability, or death. The ~~Judicial Merit Selection Commission~~commission may begin screening prior to the actual date of the vacancy in the case of an expiration of term, resignation, or retirement pursuant to written notice ~~thereof~~.

Section 2-19-120. ~~(A) The Chairman of the Judicial Merit Selection Commission, upon the advice of the commission, shall select members to serve on Citizens Committees on Judicial Qualifications for each geographic district set by the commission. These committees shall, under the rules adopted by the commission, advise the commission concerning judicial candidates. The committees shall report their findings to the commission in such form as prescribed by the commission.~~

~~(B) The members appointed to the Citizens Committees on Judicial Qualifications shall be compensated with an emolument of one hundred dollars per round of screening.~~

(F) The credit provided in this section is nonrefundable, but an unused credit may be carried forward for ten years. ~~An unused credit may be carried forward fifteen years if the criteria set forth in subsection (D)(2) are met.~~ In addition, a taxpayer may assign its rights to the unused credit to a succeeding taxpayer if the taxpayer transfers all or substantially all of the assets of the taxpayer or all or substantially all of the assets of a trade, business, or operating division of a taxpayer to the succeeding taxpayer, and the succeeding taxpayer maintains the ~~corporate~~ headquarters facility ~~of the taxpayer~~. No credit may be claimed for a taxable year during which the taxpayer or succeeding taxpayer fails to meet the qualifying employment requirements provided in this section and the carry-forward period is not extended for any year in which the credit may not be claimed for failure to meet the employment requirements. The credit may be claimed for a taxable year in the unextended carry-forward period if the taxpayer or succeeding taxpayer requalifies for the credit by meeting the employment requirements during that taxable year.

(G) If a fee-in-lieu arrangement under Section 4-29-67 is entered into with respect to all or part of property involving a ~~corporate~~ headquarters, and the ~~corporation~~ taxpayer claiming the credit provided under this section is treated as the owner of the property for federal income tax purposes, then the ~~corporation~~ taxpayer must be treated as the owner of the property for purposes of the credit provided by this section.

(H) To the extent that this credit applies to the cost of certain property, the basis of the property for South Carolina income tax purposes must be reduced by the amount of the credit claimed with respect to the property. This basis reduction does not reduce the basis or limit or disallow any depreciation allowable under the law of this State for other than income tax purposes, even if the depreciation is based upon or otherwise relates to income tax depreciation including, without limitation, basis or depreciation which is allowable under this title for property tax purposes. If the ~~corporation~~ taxpayer fails to meet the staffing requirements of subsection ~~(E)~~(B)(2), the ~~corporation~~ taxpayer may increase the basis of the property by the amount of the original basis reduction with regard to that property in the year in which the credit is recaptured.

(I) The amount of a credit allowed under this section must be reduced by the amount of any past-due debt owed this State by the taxpayer.

For purposes of this section, " region" or "regional" means a geographic area comprised of either:

(i) at least five states, including this State; or

(ii) two or more states, including this State, if the entire business operations of the ~~corporation~~ taxpayer or business unit of the taxpayer are performed within fewer than five states~~; provided, however, that with respect to taxpayers which are subject to tax under Chapter 11 of Title 12, the requirement that "the entire business operations of the corporation are performed within fewer than five states", is replaced with "if all branches of the taxpayer, as defined below, are physically located in fewer than five states". For taxpayers which are subject to tax under Chapter 11 of Title 12, such taxpayer must have two or more branches, as that term is defined in Section 34-25-10(8), in each state within its region~~.

For purposes of determining the amount of job development credit that may be claimed for a job filled by a remote employee, the physical location of the project must be used and not the physical location where the remote employee provides services.

Section 12-10-45. A tire manufacturer that has over one billion dollars in capital investment in this State~~,~~ and employs over five thousand workers in this State may, after certification by the council, designate up to two census tracts, but not to exceed four hundred acres per site, in any area of the State as an enterprise zone provided that a capital investment of at least one hundred million dollars be made over a five-year period at each site. The tire manufacturer's capital investment must be based upon the gross cost of assets in South Carolina as shown on the manufacturer's property tax and fee-in-lieu of property tax filings. The council will certify the manufacturer if it determines that the available incentives are appropriate for the new project, the total benefits of the new project exceed the costs to the public, and the qualifying business otherwise fulfills the requirements of this chapter.

Section 12-10-50. (A) To qualify for the benefits provided in this chapter, a business must be located within this State and must:

Section 12-10-60. ~~(A)~~ The council may enter into a revitalization agreement with each qualifying business with respect to the project. The terms and provisions of each revitalization agreement must be determined by negotiations between the council and the qualifying business. The decision to enter into a revitalization agreement with a qualifying business is solely within the discretion of the council based on the appropriateness of the negotiated incentives to the project and the determination that approval of the project is in the best interests of the State. The revitalization agreement must set a date by which the qualifying business shall have ~~completed the project~~ met the required investment and employment levels. ~~Within three months of the completion date~~After meeting the thresholds, the qualifying business shall document the actual costs of the project in a manner acceptable to the council. A business is allowed to count jobs filled by remote employees towards the minimum employment levels. While remote employees count towards a business's minimum employment levels, a business may claim job development credits on a remote employee only to the extent the remote employee was subject to withholdings pursuant to Chapter 8. A business which pays withholdings on a remote employee in South Carolina and some other state can only claim job development credits to the extent of the South Carolina withholdings.

~~(B) If a qualifying business that entered into a revitalization agreement before January 1, 1997, receives council approval to amend its revitalization agreement to increase its minimum job requirement, the law in effect on the date of the amendment determines the amount of job development credit a qualifying business may claim pursuant to Section 12-10-80 for additional jobs created after the date of the amendment. This subsection does not apply to a business whose application for job development fees or credits pursuant to Section 12-10-81 has been approved by council before the effective date of this act.~~

Section 12-10-80. (A) A business that qualifies pursuant to Section 12-10-50(A) and has certified to the council that the business has met the minimum job requirement and minimum capital investment provided for in the revitalization agreement may claim job development credits as determined by this section.

(1) A business may claim job development credits against its withholding on its quarterly state withholding tax return for the amount of job development credits allowable pursuant to this section.

(2) A business that is current with respect to its withholding tax and other tax due and owing the State and that has maintained its minimum employment and investment levels identified in the revitalization agreement may claim the credit on a quarterly basis beginning with the first quarter after the council's certification to the department that the minimum employment and capital investment levels were met for the entire quarter. If a qualifying business is not current as to all taxes due and owing to the State as of the date of the return on which the credit would be claimed, without regard to extensions, the business may claim the credit only in an amount reduced by the amount of taxes due and owing to the State as of the date of the return on which the credit is claimed.

(3) A qualifying business may claim its initial job development credit only after the council has certified to the department that the qualifying business has met the required minimum employment and capital investment levels.

(4) To be eligible to apply to the council to claim a job development credit, a qualifying business shall create at least ten new, full-time jobs, as defined in Section 12-6-3360(M), at the project described in the revitalization agreement within five years of the effective date of the agreement.

(5) A qualifying business is eligible to claim a job development credit pursuant to the revitalization agreement for not more than fifteen years.

(6) A ~~company's~~ qualifying business's job development credits shall be suspended during any quarter in which the ~~company~~ qualifying business fails to maintain one hundred percent of the minimum job requirement set forth in the ~~company's~~ qualifying business's revitalization agreement. A company only may claim credits on jobs, including a range of jobs approved by the council, as set forth in the company's final revitalization agreement.

(7) Credits may be claimed beginning the quarter subsequent to the council's approval of the ~~company's~~ qualifying business's documentation that the minimum jobs and capital investment requirements have been met.

(8) To the extent any return of an overpayment of withholding that results from claiming job development credits is not used as permitted by subsection (C) or by Section 12-10-95, it must be treated as misappropriated employee withholding.

(9) Job development credits may not be claimed for purposes of this section with regard to an employee whose job was created in this State before the taxable year of the qualifying business in which it enters into a preliminary revitalization agreement.

(10) If a qualifying business claims job development credits pursuant to this section, it shall make its payroll books and records available for inspection by the council and the department at the times the council and the department request. Each qualifying business claiming job development credits pursuant to this section shall file with the council and the department the information and documentation requested by the council or department respecting employee withholding, the job development credit, and the use of any overpayment of withholding resulting from the claiming of a job development credit according to the revitalization agreement.

(11) Each qualifying business claiming in excess of ten thousand dollars in a calendar year must furnish to the council and to the department a report that itemizes the sources and uses of the funds. The report must be filed with the council and the department no later than June thirtieth following the calendar year in which the job development credits are claimed, except when a qualifying business obtains the written approval by the council for an extension of that date. Extensions may be granted only for good cause shown. The department shall impose a penalty pursuant to Section 12-54-210 for all reports filed after June thirtieth or the approved extension date, whichever is later. The department shall audit each qualifying business with claims in excess of ten thousand dollars in a calendar year at least once every three years to verify proper sources and uses of the funds.

(12) Each qualifying business claiming ten thousand dollars or less in any calendar year must furnish a report prepared by the company that itemizes the sources and uses of the funds. This report must be filed with the council and the department no later than June thirtieth following the calendar year in which the job development credits are claimed, except when a qualifying business obtains the written approval by the council for an extension of that date. Extensions may be granted only for good cause shown. The department shall impose a penalty pursuant to Section 12-54-210 for all reports filed after June thirtieth or the approved extension date, whichever is later.

(13) An employer may not claim an amount that results in an employee’s receiving a smaller amount of wages on either a weekly or on an annual basis than the employee would receive otherwise in the absence of this chapter.

(14)(a) For purposes of this chapter, a qualifying business may designate up to two related persons whose jobs and investments located at the project may be included to determine whether the qualifying business has met and maintained the minimum job requirement and minimum capital investment requirement. Qualified expenditures described in subsection (C) incurred by a related person may be treated as though such qualifying expenditures were incurred by the qualifying business for purposes of claiming the job development credit and each related person may claim the job development credit for the jobs created by such related person and include any qualifying expenditures of the qualifying business or another related person for purposes of claiming the job development credit as if created and made by the related person.

(b) A single-member limited-liability company that is not regarded as an entity separate from its owner and a qualified subchapter "S" subsidiary as defined in Section 1361(b)(3)(B) of the Internal Revenue Code that is not regarded as a separate entity from the "S" corporation that owns its stock, is treated as the qualifying business for all purposes under this chapter, including for purposes of claiming the job development credit against withholding but it counts as a related person for purposes of the limit described in subitem (a).

(B)(1) The maximum job development credit a qualifying business may claim for new employees is limited to the lesser of withholding tax paid to the State on a quarterly basis or the sum of the following amounts:

(a) two percent of the gross wages of each new employee who earns $8.74 or more an hour but less than $11.64 an hour;

(b) three percent of the gross wages of each new employee who earns $11.65 or more an hour but less than $14.55 an hour;

(c) four percent of the gross wages of each new employee who earns $14.56 or more an hour but less than $21.84 an hour; and

(d) five percent of the gross wages of each new employee who earns $21.85 or more an hour.

(2) The hourly gross wage figures in item (1) must be adjusted annually by an inflation factor determined by the Revenue and Fiscal Affairs Office.

(C) To claim a job development credit, the qualifying business must incur qualified expenditures at the project or for utility or transportation improvements that serve the project. To be qualified, the expenditures must be:

(1) incurred during the term of the revitalization agreement, including a preliminary revitalization agreement, or within sixty days before the council's receipt of an application for benefits pursuant to this section;

(2) authorized by the revitalization agreement; and

(3) used for any of the following purposes:

(a) training costs and facilities;

(b) acquiring and improving real property whether constructed or acquired by purchase, or in cases approved by the council, acquired by capital or operating lease with at least a five-year term or otherwise;

(c) improvements to both public and private utility systems including water, sewer, electricity, natural gas, and telecommunications;

(d) fixed transportation facilities including highway, rail, water, and air;

(e) construction or improvements of real property and fixtures constructed or improved primarily for the purpose of complying with local, state, or federal environmental laws or regulations;

(f) employee relocation expenses, but only for those employees to whom the company is paying gross wages at least two times the lower of the per capita income for either the state or the county in which the project is located;

(g) financing the costs of a purpose described in items (a) through (f);

(h) training for all relevant employees that enable a company to export or increase a company's ability to export its products, including training for logistics, regulatory, and administrative areas connected to the company's export process and other export process training that allows a qualified company to maintain or expand its business in this State;

(i) apprenticeship programs;

(j) quality improvement programs of the South Carolina Quality Forum.

(D)(1) The amount of job development credits a qualifying business may claim for its use for qualifying expenditures is limited according to the designation of the county as defined in Section 12-6-3360(B), as follows:

(a) one hundred percent of the maximum job development credits may be claimed by businesses located in counties designated as "Tier IV";

(b) eighty-five percent of the maximum job development credits may be claimed by businesses located in counties designated as "Tier III";

(c) seventy percent of the maximum job development credits may be claimed by businesses located in counties designated as "Tier II"; or

(d) fifty-five percent of the maximum job development credits

may be claimed by businesses located in counties designated as "Tier I".

(2) The amount that may be claimed as a job development credit by a qualifying business is limited by this subsection and by the revitalization agreement. The council may approve a waiver of ninety-five percent of the limits provided in item (1) for~~:~~

~~(a)~~ a significant business as defined in Section 12-10-30(18)~~; and~~

~~(b) a related person to a significant business if the related person is located at the project site of the significant business and qualifies for job development credits pursuant to this chapter.~~

~~For purposes of this item, a related person includes any entity or person that bears a relationship to a significant business as provided in Internal Revenue Code Section 267 and includes, without limitation, a limited liability company of which more than fifty percent of the capital interest or profits is owned directly or indirectly by a significant business or by a person or entity, or group of persons or entities which owns, more than fifty percent of the capital interest or profits in the significant business~~.

(3) The ~~county~~ designation of the county in which the project is located on the date the application for job development credit incentives is received in the ~~Office~~ office of the ~~Coordinating Council~~ council remains in effect for the entire period of the revitalization agreement~~, except as to additional jobs created pursuant to an amendment to a revitalization agreement entered into before June 1, 1997, as provided in Section 12-10-60. In that case the county designation on the date of the amendment remains in effect for the remaining period of the revitalization agreement as to any additional jobs created after the effective date of the amendment~~.

(E) The council shall certify to the department the maximum job development credit for each qualifying business. After receiving certification, the department shall remit an amount equal to the difference between the maximum job development credit and the job development credit actually claimed to the State Rural Infrastructure Fund as defined and provided in Section 12-10-85.

(F) Any job development credit of a qualifying business permanently lapses upon expiration or termination of the revitalization agreement. If an employee is terminated, the qualifying business immediately must cease to claim job development credits as to that employee.

(G) For purposes of the job development credit allowed by this section, an employee is a person whose job was created in this State.

(H) Job development credits may not be claimed by a governmental employer who employs persons at a closed or realigned military installation as defined in Section 12-10-88(E).

(I) A taxpayer who qualifies for the job development credit pursuant to the provisions of this section and who is located in a multicounty business or industrial park jointly established pursuant to Section 13 of Article VIII of the Constitution of this State is allowed a job development credit equal to the amount allowed pursuant to subsection (D) for the designation of the county which has the lowest development status of the counties containing the park if:

(1) the park is developed and established on the geographical boundary of adjacent counties; and

(2) the written agreement, pursuant to Section 4-1-170, requires revenue from the park to be allocated to each county on an equal basis.

(J) Where the qualifying business that creates new jobs under this section is a qualifying service-related facility as defined in Section 12-6-3360(M)(13), the determination of the number of jobs created for purposes of eligibility must be based on the total number of new jobs created within five years of the effective date of the revitalization agreement, without regard to monthly or other averaging.

(K) For purposes of this section, the job and per capita income thresholds contained in the definition of "qualifying service-related facility" as set forth in Section 12-6-3360(M)(13)(b) must be modified to read as set forth in the item below:

(1) a business, other than a business engaged in legal, accounting, banking, or investment services (including a business identified under NAICS Section 55) or retail sales, which has a net increase of at least:
