This year will mark the fourth year in a row that the State Health Plan, administered by the Public Employee Benefit Authority, known as PEBA, has requested an additional $112 million to offset healthcare provider cost increases and to simply maintain existing insurance benefits.

That’s almost a half-a-billion dollars in four years. That’s not fiscally sustainable.

If the General Assembly chooses to continue appropriating these funds, I recommend they come with a new cost containment requirement. PEBA should be required to identify and propose cost savings measures for the State Health Plan in order to slow cost increases to a manageable level.

We know that future economic prosperity requires us to have abundant and affordable energy. We know that we will need more. The questions are: how much and how will it be produced and transmitted?

Our electric generation, distribution, and transmission capacity and capabilities must be able to handle enhanced future economic development, anticipated technological advances, and population growth.

We must vigorously explore the feasibility of technological advances related to energy production. Limitations and obstacles on the State's ability to receive and utilize natural gas must be removed. We must prepare now for a future driven by nuclear power generation on scales both large and small. And we must identify any modifications or additions to existing laws, regulations, policies, or procedures that may be necessary to meet these needs.

Two years ago, we created the PowerSC working group. They began leading the effort to coordinate the state's energy stakeholders.

Next came the SC Nexus for Advanced Resilient Energy consortium developed by our Department of Commerce. This is a collaboration with our research universities, technical colleges, state agencies, the Savannah River National Laboratory, economic development non-profits, and private businesses.

Then we won the U.S. Department of Commerce's Economic Development Administration's coveted designation as one of 12 Regional Technology and Innovation Hubs in the country, qualifying for federal research grant funding valued between $40-$70 million annually. Our focus: power.

Last week Santee Cooper began the process of gauging the feasibility of and the interest in restarting the construction of two abandoned nuclear reactors at the V.C. Summer Nuclear Station.

I believe that restarting these two reactors will not only help fuel our state's future power needs, but will also usher in a nuclear power renaissance across the country, one that will spur nationwide investment and construction of new nuclear power generation. This will provide America with ample, clean, resilient energy for the future and deter challenges to our national security.

Last year, the General Assembly was unable to reach consensus on legislation that would have addressed many of our future energy needs. We need this legislation. We are running out of time. I ask that you send this legislation to my desk so that I may sign it into law.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 29, 2025

Again, our state's roads, bridges, highways, and interstates are the arteries of our prosperity. They need continued investment. The Department of Transportation has made tremendous progress in repairing and improving our transportation system. They have delivered a valuable return on our investments – with the strong help of the executive and legislative branches.

For instance, in 2017, there were just $2.7 billion in road construction projects underway across the State. Today, we have $6.5 billion in projects happening in all 46 counties, with more to be done.

Our bridges are aging. The Department of Transportation reports that around 2,400 of the state's 8,400 bridges are at the point of replacement or major repair. Without continued acceleration of investment, that number will swell to 3,900 in ten years.

To that end, I am recommending an additional $100 million be appropriated to the Department of Transportation to continue accelerating bridge construction across the State.

Before sunrise on Friday, September 27, 2024, Hurricane Helene struck South Carolina.

It is the deadliest storm to ever hit our State with 49 confirmed deaths, surpassing Hurricane Hugo, which had 35 confirmed deaths.

The damage from Helene was devastating. At least 6,300 homes were damaged. It spawned 21 tornadoes. Our agribusiness industry suffered at least $621 million in damages, 912 roads and bridges were closed, and 10 bridges must be rebuilt. All due to Helene.

At its peak, nearly 1.36 million customers were without electricity. More than Florida and Georgia combined. Trees and utility lines were snarled together, blocking roads and bridges, creating dangerous and deadly entanglements, making it impossible to quickly clear roads, repair damage to property, and get the power back on.

But we responded magnificently. Joining us here tonight are a few of the men and women who worked day and night – some for weeks – at dangerous heights – and around deadly high voltage electricity – to get the power back on. Linemen from Duke Energy, Dominion Energy, and Santee Cooper. And from the local electric cooperatives, Aiken, Broad River, Blue Ridge, Coastal, Fairfield, Laurens, Little River, Mid-Carolina, Newberry, and York. I ask that you please stand and be recognized.

Team South Carolina moved quickly to provide access to disaster relief and assistance from the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

We held seven "County Day" events, providing over 3,700 residents in 17 counties with a daylong "one-stop shop" location to apply for federal and state financial assistance, receive critical information and services, and donated goods. Volunteers distributed over 3,500 cases of bottled water, over 3,300 boxes of food, 900 bags of charcoal, 758 grills, 616 cases of diapers, and 300 tarps.

In addition, three daylong Farm and Forest Recovery Resource Days were held for hundreds of farmers, foresters, and agribusiness owners impacted by Helene, providing them with access to federal and state financial relief and resources.

Over $5 million in Helene relief contributions were made to the One SC Fund at Central Carolina Community Foundation, the most that has ever been donated to the fund for a single storm, since it was created in 2015.

For some perspective on the damage from Helene consider this:

To date, South Carolinians have submitted over 441,000 applications for individual financial assistance to FEMA for Hurricane Helene damage. Compare that with the combined number of 164,000 applications submitted for the Flood of 2015, Hurricane Matthew in 2016, and Hurricane Florence in 2018.

So far, only $150 million in community disaster recovery block grants from the Department of Housing and Urban Development have been awarded to South Carolina from the $110 billion relief package approved by Congress in December. We know that there will be additional federal funds designated for our State, but we don't know if it will be enough.

And while we got FEMA to reimburse 100% of South Carolina's clean-up costs for 120 days, significant state funds will be necessary to pay for costs above and beyond federal assistance.

For example, the Department of Transportation needs an additional $50 million in this year's state budget to cover costs related to debris removal and repairs to roads and bridges – costs that were not reimbursed by the federal government.

The Office of Resilience needs an additional $40 million to replenish the two Disaster Relief and Resilience Reserve funds. Both the grant fund and revolving loan fund were utilized to provide immediate relief and resources on the ground to people impacted by Helene.

I am also recommending that $150 million be appropriated to create the South Carolina Public Assistance program to be administered by the South Carolina Emergency Management Division.

This state grant program will mirror the federal program at FEMA. It will allow local governments, public utilities, nonprofits, and charitable aid organizations to apply for state disaster recovery funds – funds that were either denied by the federal government or did not meet federal FEMA thresholds for damage reimbursement.

Educating our children is the most important thing we do. Our future prosperity requires that we continue the remarkable progress we have made in raising teacher pay.

Eight years ago, the minimum starting salary of a teacher in South Carolina was $30,113; and the average teacher salary was below the Southeastern average. I proposed that we begin raising the minimum starting teacher salary as much as possible each year, with the goal of raising it to at least $50,000 by 2026.

Today, the minimum starting salary in South Carolina is $47,000, and the average teacher salary now exceeds the Southeastern average. This represents an increase of 56.1% in eight years.

South Carolina's minimum starting teacher salary is now higher than both Georgia and North Carolina. But will that keep and attract the best and brightest teachers?

That's why I ask you to raise our minimum starting teacher salary to $50,000 this year, not next year. In this race for the future, we must be the fastest.

With us tonight is Jessica Owens, a kindergarten teacher at Rocky Creek Elementary School in Lexington County School District One.

Ms. Owens began her career in education as a classroom assistant to a wonderful kindergarten teacher who encouraged her to pursue education as a career. In 2021, she returned to Columbia College where she completed her degree in Early Childhood Education and began her career as a teacher.

Over the past several years, Ms. Owens has witnessed the impact of our state's commitment in raising the minimum starting salary for teachers.

She told me, "By having competitive pay, school districts can attract more candidates to the field, ensuring that schools are staffed with the best possible teachers, which ultimately benefits the students."

Ms. Owens joins us tonight along with her classroom assistant Britany Edrada. Please stand and be recognized.

Since the statewide expansion of the full-day four-year-old kindergarten program in School Year 2021-2022, enrollment in the program in public schools, private childcare centers, and private schools has increased significantly.

Today, over 18,000 students are enrolled in the program. The Office of First Steps anticipates a 7% increase in the number of children from low-income households that will enroll in the program in the next school year.

I am proposing that we continue making additional investments in our successful 4K programs. The data has shown that a child from a low-income household enrolled in a state-funded, full-day 4K program, is more likely to possess the skills to learn than their peers who do not participate.

This week is National School Choice Week.

I ask that the General Assembly send to my desk, as soon as possible, a new Education Scholarship Trust Fund Bill, one that addresses last year's State Supreme Court decision.

Parents, not school attendance lines, should determine the education that best suits their child's unique needs.

In anticipation of success, I am proposing $30 million be appropriated to the trust fund. These funds will allow low-income parents to continue choosing the type of education environment and instruction that best suits their child's unique needs.

In addition, I ask that the General Assembly consider allowing education lottery tickets to be purchased using debit cards. Only three states require cash-only purchases: South Carolina, Tennessee, and Wyoming. Many businesses no longer accept cash – and many people don't carry it.

Education lottery proceeds are down $31.9 million and expected to continue dropping. The Lottery Commission estimates debit card purchases – not credit cards – would generate an additional $52 million that could be used for the Education Scholarship Trust Fund or for LIFE, HOPE, and Palmetto Fellow college scholarships.

Placing an armed, certified full-time school resource officer in each of our state's 1,284 public schools has been one of my top priorities.

At my request, the General Assembly began funding an SRO grant program administered by the Department of Public Safety. It provides school districts with funds to hire full-time SROs for schools without one.

The program has been enormously successful. In 2018, only 406 schools had an SRO. In 2024, it grew to 1,106. Today, there are only 177 schools without an SRO.

I ask the General Assembly: Let's finish this job. Fully fund this grant program, so that every public school student in South Carolina will have an officer on campus providing safety for students and teachers and comfort for the parents.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 29, 2025

Our future prosperity requires that our colleges, universities, and technical colleges be accessible and affordable for all; that our institutions of higher education produce a trained and skilled workforce – one that allows us to win jobs and investment in the future.

This is the sixth consecutive year that I call for a freeze in college tuition for in-state students in exchange for a metric based appropriation to our public colleges and universities.

For the fourth straight year, I seek $80 million so that every South Carolinian who qualifies for federal need-based financial aid – as measured by Pell Grants – has sufficient state financial assistance to attend any in-state public college, university, or technical college. Students at private, independent, and historically black institutions will receive an additional $20 million for tuition grants and assistance.

I request $95 million in lottery funds for Workforce Industry Needs Scholarships through the South Carolina Technical College System. In the last five years, this very successful program has paid the full tuition and fees for over 40,000 South Carolinians at our technical colleges – where they earned post-secondary or industry credentials in high-demand careers like manufacturing, nursing, computer science, information technology, transportation, logistics, or construction.

Because of our state's high demand for workforce skills, training, and knowledge, I renew my call for the General Assembly to fund and authorize a systemic review of our state's 33 public institutions of higher education. This review will be conducted by the Department of Employment and Workforce. The goal: to make sure we are preparing to meet our state's future workforce needs in two respects: 1) sustainability, accessibility, and affordability and 2) the alignment of our programs, certificates, and degrees with the jobs, skills, and innovations likely coming our way.

Our future prosperity requires that we keep our communities safe. This means “funding the police” and giving them the tools they need.

Last year, I told you that law enforcement needed help. They needed a stronger law to keep illegal guns out of the hands of criminals and juveniles, which would help “close the revolving door.”

You acted and, on March 7, 2024, I signed into law graduated criminal penalties for illegal gun possession. I am pleased to report that in less than a year, according to SLED, there has been an 86% increase in the number of arrests made using the new law: 2,412 arrests up from 1,295. A few years ago, we tasked our Department of Administration with conducting a comprehensive analysis of state law enforcement pay to ensure that salaries were competitive to attract and retain top-tier talent.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 29, 2025

It worked. As a result, South Carolina's law enforcement officers have received substantial pay raises – some as high as 52% in the last three years. I propose that we continue investing in our safety by providing an additional $14.5 million for pay raises and the hiring of new law enforcement officers.

I am also again proposing a $2,000 state income tax credit for every active-duty law enforcement officer, firefighter, first responder, and emergency medical technician employed by a public entity. This represents $43.3 million in tax relief for those who put their lives on the line each day to protect our lives and property.

In addition, my Executive Budget recommends providing the Department of Corrections with a total of $43.2 million in new appropriations to expand cell phone and contraband interdiction, hire new corrections officers, increase medical and mental health services, and pay for deferred maintenance at our 21 prisons.

Animal fighting, especially dog fighting, is one of the cruelest criminal activities in our society. Law officers estimate that most of the people participating in this barbaric activity have long criminal records. My Executive Budget seeks additional funding to SLED to end this unforgivable savagery.

South Carolina's future prosperity requires us to enhance our efforts to respect and protect our land, our history, our culture, and our environment. I do not think that it's a coincidence that previous years of economic growth have followed our efforts to conserve, preserve, and display our unique gifts of nature's abundance.

So we should ask: What will South Carolina look like in 100 years? Which begs the question: What do we want it to look like? In recent years, we have provided funds, time, and attention for identifying significant properties for preservation and conservation and for flood mitigation. We now have a veritable army of people, public, and private organizations dedicated to these endeavors, including the Conservation Land Bank, the Department of Natural Resources, the Office of Resilience, the Forestry Commission, the Department of Parks, Recreation and Tourism, the Nature Conservancy, the Open Space Institute, the Darla Moore Foundation, the Audubon Society, and Francis Marion University.

In 2024, this collaborative effort has permanently protected 96 thousand acres of environmentally or culturally significant properties, investing and leveraging $143.5M in state, federal, and private conservation funds.

A few notable successes:

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 29, 2025

Snow's Island is the largest conservation project in Florence County history. Its 7,600 acres and more than 60 miles of river frontage at the confluence of the Lynches and Great Pee Dee rivers will forever safeguard the legendary headquarters of Revolutionary War General Francis Marion from which he and his militia launched numerous raids on the British and Loyalist troops.

Waties Island, the only remaining pristine barrier island on the South Carolina coast without protection from future development, has 1,100 acres at the confluence of Little River and the Atlantic Ocean. Its inlet, salt marshes, and estuaries make it a vital natural buffer against ocean waves and storm surge for our rapidly growing Grand Strand region.

Tyger Oaks, called the "Central Park of Spartanburg," has approximately 942 acres located just outside Spartanburg. Its 1.2 miles of riverfront connects to land already protected, creating a nearly 1,200-acre Upstate conservation corridor.

Saluda Bluffs has 1,000 acres located in the bullseye of decades of conservation work where visitors have a birds' eye view of more than 10,000 acres of protected surrounding properties in the Upstate. Table Rock State Park, Caesars Head State Park, and Jones Gap State Park are located close by.

Once again, my Executive Budget recommends that significant funds – $15.5 million – be appropriated to continue these important and significant preservation and conservation efforts.

Finally, next year, we will celebrate the Sestercentennial – the 250th anniversary of the American Revolutionary War.

South Carolinians have a unique opportunity to celebrate the decisive role we played in the fight for American Independence. There were more than 200 battles and skirmishes fought in South Carolina, more than any other colony. Many scholars say the war was won here. So did General Cornwallis, with the defeat of Great Britain's Southern campaign.

Our state's history and culture are unsurpassed in the creation of this Nation. It is well-documented in books and by the hundreds of historical markers, monuments, buildings, and homes preserved and dedicated to telling our state's story. The names of our towns, streets, institutions, rivers, and families carry that history forward to this day.

We must protect and preserve our history and heritage. It is why we are who we are and why we are here. It is why we stay here and why others come here. It informs our strengths, purpose, and duty.

The next hundred years? We've answered that question. For years we've invested billions of dollars in time and talent in education to prepare our children to build their lives and economy. And we've invested billions in our lands and waters to protect our health, expand our economy, preserve life in all its forms for its beauty and wonder, our education and joy, and the fulfillment of our duty to nourish the Lord's Garden.

The only difference is that today we have more opportunity than ever before, and our competition is fiercer and faster than ever before. But we know exactly where we are going, and we are perfectly positioned to succeed.

Let us continue to embrace civility and comity through our thoughts, words, and deeds – and urge our people, especially our young ones, to be proud of their State.

And let us set our State on a course that will provide the opportunity for prosperity, success, and happiness for generations of South Carolinians.

The best is yet to come. May God continue to bless America, and our great State of South Carolina.

The purpose of the Joint Assembly having been accomplished, the PRESIDENT declared it adjourned, whereupon the Senate returned to its Chamber and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

Motion Adopted

On motion of Senator MASSEY, the Senate agreed to stand adjourned.

MOTION ADOPTED

On motion of Senator SUTTON, with unanimous consent, the Senate stood adjourned out of respect to the memory of Master Sergeant Michael James O'Brian, Jr. of Jacksonville, Florida. Michael graduated from Ed White High School before beginning a career in the military. He served in the United States Air Force for over thirty-two years as a loadmaster on a C-17 Globemaster III. Michael served in the Air Force, Air National Guard and Air Force Reserve. He enjoyed Nascar, baseball, football and playing the drums. Michael was a loving husband, devoted father and doting grandfather who will be dearly missed.

ADJOURNMENT

At 8:11 P.M., on motion of Senator MASSEY, the Senate adjourned to meet tomorrow at 11:00 A.M.

~~Indicates Matter Stricken~~

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 11:00 A.M., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Exodus 13:20

While the desert stretched before the people: "By day the Lord went ahead of them in a pillar of cloud to guide them and by night in a pillar of fire . . ."

Let us pray: O most loving God, in deep humility do we offer You our heartfelt thanksgiving for leading us even today in the ways You would have us go. For it is Your Word as we find it in scripture itself that suffices; we need not see actual columns of cloud nor fire today. But we do ask, Lord, that You grant to each of these leaders -- to all of us -- the gift of understanding how we are to follow Your way, doing so in complete confidence and faith. After all, only in such a manner can the members of this Body honor You as they make decisions and take actions which are not only pleasing to You, but which we pray will ultimately lead to sound, beneficial results for all South Carolinians. And of course, Lord, we hold in our prayers everyone touched by last night's air disaster near Washington, D.C. All this we pray in Your loving name, dear Lord. Amen.

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 12:00 Noon, the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Jeremiah 10:12

Jeremiah writes that: “. . . God made the earth by his power; he founded the world by his wisdom, and stretched out the heavens by his understanding.”

Please join me as we pray: Holy and Almighty God, there is a measure of debate being voiced currently about power here in South Carolina -- power, that is, of the sort that might allow our thriving State to meet future demands by homeowners and industries, power that will be sufficient to “fuel the future.” That is why, O Lord, we humbly ask You today to lead these Senators and many others as together they research, debate, and ultimately guide our State forward in meaningful and responsible ways. Give wisdom to each individual involved in this issue so that he or she might understand how to best prepare South Carolina’s energy resources for all that the coming decades will likely demand. In Your loving name we so pray, dear Lord. Amen.

REGULATIONS, SO AS TO TOLL THE PERIOD OF LEGISLATIVE REVIEW FROM THE SECOND FRIDAY IN MAY THROUGH THE SECOND MONDAY IN JANUARY; AND TO ADD A PROVISION REVISING THE PERIOD OF LEGISLATIVE REVIEW FOR REGULATIONS FILED ON JANUARY 14, 2025, TO ONE HUNDRED THIRTEEN DAYS.

The Senate proceeded to the consideration of the Bill.

Senator CAMPSSEN proposed the following amendment (SR-164.KM0001S), which was adopted:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, by striking SECTION 1 and inserting:

SECTION X. Section 1-23-115(A) of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

(A) Upon written request by two members of the General Assembly, made before submission of a promulgated regulation to the General Assembly for legislative review, a regulation that has a substantial economic impact must have an assessment report prepared pursuant to this section and in accordance with the procedures contained in this article. In addition to any other method as may be provided by the General Assembly, the legislative committee to which the promulgated regulation has been referred, by majority vote, may send a written notification to the promulgating agency informing the agency that the committee cannot approve the promulgated regulation unless an assessment report is prepared and provided to the committee. The written notification tolls the running of the ~~one hundred twenty day~~one hundred day legislative review period, and the period does not begin to run again until an assessment report prepared in accordance with this article is submitted to the committee. Upon receipt of the assessment report, additional days must be added to the days remaining in the ~~one hundred twenty day~~one hundred day review period, if less than twenty days, to equal twenty days. A copy of the assessment report must be provided to each member of the committee.

SECTION X. Section 1-23-120(C) and (D) of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

(C) Upon receipt of the regulation, the President and Speaker shall refer the regulation for review to the standing committees of the Senate and House which are most concerned with the function of the promulgating agency. A copy of the regulation or a synopsis of the regulation must be given to each member of the committee, and Legislative Council shall notify all members of the General Assembly when regulations are submitted for review either through electronic means or by addition of this information to the website maintained by the Legislative Services Agency, or both. The committees to which regulations are referred have one hundred ~~twenty~~ days from the date regulations are submitted to the General Assembly to consider and take action on these regulations. However, if a regulation is referred to a committee and no action occurs in that committee on the regulation within sixty calendar days of receipt of the regulation, the regulation must be placed on the agenda of the full committee beginning with the next scheduled full committee meeting.

(D) If a joint resolution to approve a regulation is not enacted within one hundred ~~twenty~~ days after the regulation is submitted to the General Assembly or if a joint resolution to disapprove a regulation has not been introduced by a standing committee to which the regulation was referred for review, the regulation is effective upon publication in the State Register. Upon introduction of the first joint resolution disapproving a regulation by a standing committee to which the regulation was referred for review, the ~~one hundred twenty day~~one hundred-day legislative review period for automatic approval is tolled. A regulation may not be filed under the emergency provisions of Section 1-23-130 if a joint resolution to disapprove the regulation has been introduced by a standing committee to which the regulation was referred. Upon a negative vote by either the Senate or House of Representatives on the resolution disapproving the regulation and the notification in writing of the negative vote to the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the President of the Senate by the Clerk of the house in which the negative vote occurred, the remainder of the period begins to run. If the remainder of the period is less than ninety days, additional days must be added to the remainder to equal ninety days. The introduction of a joint resolution by the committee of either house does not prevent the introduction of a joint resolution by the committee of the other house to either approve or disapprove the regulations concerned. A joint resolution approving or disapproving a regulation must include:

- (1) the synopsis of the regulation as required by subsection (B)(4);
- (2) the summary of the final assessment report prepared by the office pursuant to Section 1-23-115 or, as required by subsection (B)(5), the statement or explanation that an assessment report is not required or is exempt.

SECTION X. Section 1-23-120(E) of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

(E) The ~~one hundred twenty day~~one hundred-day legislative review period ~~of review~~ begins on the date the regulation is filed with the

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 2025

President and Speaker. ~~Sine die adjournment of the General Assembly tolls the running of the period of review, and the remainder of the period begins to run upon the next convening of the General Assembly excluding special sessions called by the Governor.~~ The legislative review period is tolled from the second Friday in May through the second Monday the following January.

SECTION X. Section 1-23-120(F) of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

(F) Any member of the General Assembly may introduce a joint resolution approving or disapproving a regulation thirty days following the date the regulations concerned are referred to a standing committee for review and no committee joint resolution approving or disapproving the regulations has been introduced and the regulations concerned have not been withdrawn by the promulgating agency pursuant to Section 1-23-125, but the introduction does not toll the ~~one hundred twenty-day~~ one hundred-day legislative review period ~~of for automatic approval.~~

SECTION X. Section 1-23-125(C) of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

(C) The notification tolls the ~~one hundred twenty-day~~ one hundred-day legislative review period for automatic approval, and when an agency withdraws regulations from the General Assembly prior to the time a committee resolution to approve or disapprove the regulation has been introduced, the remainder of the period begins to run only on the date the regulations are resubmitted to the General Assembly. Upon resubmission of the regulations, additional days must be added to the days remaining in the legislative review period for automatic approval, if less than twenty days, to equal twenty days, and a copy of the amended regulation must be given to each member of the committee. If an agency decides to take no action pursuant to subsection (B)(3), it shall notify the committee in writing and the remainder of the period begins to run only upon this notification.

SECTION 2. ~~Notwithstanding another provision of Chapter 23, Title 1, for regulations filed with the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives on January 14, 2025, the period of legislative review for the regulations is one hundred thirteen days.~~ The provisions of Chapter 23, Title 1, as amended by this act, are applicable to regulations filed with the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives on and after January 14, 2025.

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 11:45 A.M., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Isaiah 12:5

Isaiah the prophet reminds us that we should: "Sing praises to the Lord, for He has done gloriously; let this be known in all the earth."

Pray with me: How good it is to sing Your praises boldly, dear Lord. And it is right that we do so here in South Carolina, for You, O God, have truly granted us boundless gifts and blessings. Among some of the greatest of those blessings are certainly the children and the youth of our State, those to whom this Senate commits its very best efforts toward preparing them for the world that will be theirs. Thus, the clear importance of this task underlines the need for our State to celebrate having the absolute best teachers, administrators and programs imaginable. Indeed, Lord, may these Senators and their aides unfailingly continue doing all they can to enhance educational opportunities for everyone. In Your loving name we pray, dear Lord. Amen.

The PRESIDENT called for Petitions, Memorials, Presentments of Grand Juries and such like papers.

Motion Adopted

The Senate assembled at 11:00 A.M., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Psalm 147:1

The Psalmist tells us: "How good it is to sing praises to our God, how pleasant and fitting to praise Him!"

Join me as we bow in prayer: Holy God, nature reminds us this week how blessed indeed we are here in South Carolina. It is difficult to remember that it is still wintertime with bright sunshine and warm temperatures outdoors, suggesting it might well be spring. Yet our blessings in this State are far greater than simple mildness outdoors. After all, we are surrounded by resources which are spectacular and grand year-round: our rivers and lakes, our woodlands, mountains, our coastal stretches -- how lovely they are. Yet even moreso our greatest treasures deserving praise are all of our citizens. So, dear Lord, whatever it may be they need to tackle, never fail to keep these Senators keenly aware of the gifts You have granted us all -- blessings beyond compare. We pray thankfully in Your loving name, O Lord. Amen.

The PRESIDENT called for Petitions, Memorials, Presentments of Grand Juries and such like papers.

The Senate assembled at 12:00 Noon, the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Exodus 3:2

We read in Exodus that: "There the angel of the Lord appeared to him in flames of fire from within a bush. Moses saw that though the bush was on fire it did not burn up."

Join me as we bow in prayer: It is truly a marvelous account of a marvelous moment for Moses, O God of Grace -- for Moses to be standing before a blazing bush which is not destroyed. Rather, it is an occasion of inspiration for him, a time when he is prepared by You, Lord, for leadership. And here today, without a bush burning in front of us, we fervently praise You, O God, and we urge You to inspire each of these Senators as they labor diligently to guide our State. Encourage them and their staff members to embrace fresh insights and new approaches to the challenges of our day. And may each one of these leaders always feel Your presence as they use their gifts with unfailing determination. In Your loving name we pray, O Lord. Amen.

Remarks by Senator SABB

Thank you, Mr. PRESIDENT and members. Members of the Senate, I rise to discuss an issue that is very hot and heavy in our country and in our State. The issue is associated with DEI, and what it means to address the issue. And so quite frankly, I just thought that it would be a good idea for us to have a candid conversation in the Senate on that. And so, I thought it fitting this morning that the Chairman of Medical Affairs,

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 2025

Senator VERDIN, had us give immediate consideration to acknowledging the fact that we have some people in our State with disabilities. People who should have, and we ought to do everything we can to afford them to have, the opportunity to live a prosperous meaningful life in our State.

And so, what I want to talk about for the couple of minutes that I've been given is just this whole notion of a fair shot. Everyone having an opportunity to enjoy life, liberty and all the other guarantees that our constitution gives. And so, as we create a policy along the lines of making sure that there is no discrimination in our State -- that's what I glean from some of my friends and neighbors who have talked about the issue. We think that the idea of diversity, equity and inclusion is discriminatory, and that it gives an unfair advantage to the folks that it's designed to help. And so, we want to root out discrimination. We want to make sure that everybody in our State has a fair shot. I think that's fair enough. I think it's absolutely fair enough if we all fully commit to ridding the State of discrimination, unfair treatment and all of those kinds of things.

So, my point and my challenge are for us not to stop there. Let us investigate. Let us be diligent about making sure that everybody has a chance. When we think about education and those who don't have what others have -- come on y'all. Let's commit ourselves to making sure that everybody gets a fair shot -- making sure that everybody has access to a quality education, hearing, health care -- let's commit ourselves to give everybody a fair shot.

And so, all I'm saying is this -- as we have this meaningful conversation on this issue, and to the extent that our efforts are genuine, and making sure that everyone has a chance and nobody's mistreated. I think that's an important principle for us all to adopt. All I'm suggesting is this -- let's not view that issue in a vacuum. Let's be real about what's happening in our State and what's happening in our country. And then let us just focus and commit to doing everything we can to make sure that the playing fields are level and that our folks with disabilities get a fair shot -- get an opportunity to work. And let's look at the effects of the policies. And make sure when we look at our institutions that they are reflective of who we are. So, I don't look at the conversation as being an unhealthy one. I look at it as being a base live opportunity for us to focus. And so, all I'm saying is as we discuss the issue, let us discuss it with South Carolinians in such a way that they understand we're not picking on anybody. We're not trying to hurt anybody. We're here to serve the greater good. And that as a Body, esteemed members of South Carolina

Senate, we are prepared to lead on that issue. We're prepared to lead and make sure that every opportunity we get to stamp out discrimination -- we're going to step forward and do it. Every opportunity we get to make sure that everybody has a fair shot and a fair chance -- we're going to do it because it's the right thing to do. So, I embrace the notion to the extent that it gives us an opportunity to every once in a while to judge. And when we have a communion, a part of our covenant says let a man examine himself, so then let him eat and drink. All I'm suggesting is let us examine ourselves.

Thank you, sir. I'm winding down. So let us examine ourselves as we focus on the issue. Let us not be single in our thought processes. Let us look at the whole thing holistically. I think it presents us an opportunity and I look forward to having the conversation. Thank you, Mr. PRESIDENT.

(Statewide Session)

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 1:00 P.M., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

I Kings 10:1

We read in First Kings that: “When the Queen of Sheba heard about the fame of Solomon and his relation to the name of the Lord, she came to test him with hard questions.”

Let us pray: What clearly are “hard questions,” O loving Lord, are surely nothing new for these Senators. Quite routinely the matters they are required to address here in the Senate of South Carolina are surely not simple nor a proverbial “breeze” to settle or work out. Rather, they are more often than not issues that potentially have far-reaching impact, matters that on first blush might seem overwhelming, problems that appear insurmountable. Therefore, hear us today, dear God. Grant these leaders the wisdom of Solomon. Enable each one of these servants to know Your will for our people. And allow them to make decisions that bring positive results for the citizens of our State. In our Savior’s loving name do we pray. Amen.

The PRESIDENT called for Petitions, Memorials, Presentments of Grand Juries and such like papers.

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 11:00 A.M., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

John 15:17

Our Savior himself declared: “ ‘This is my command: Love each other.’ ”

Bow in prayer with me, please: Tomorrow, of course, O God, is a day when “love” in our society is center stage, a time when restaurants and merchants make much of the whole theme, a period rightly celebrated by many. Yet sadly, dear Lord, the commercial and the quickly passing aspects of Valentine’s Day decry the fact that attitudes of loving and caring are not anywhere near as basic and fundamental as we all wish them to be. The widely celebrated theme of “I love you” gets lost in the frantic demands of modern life. That’s why today we pray, Lord, that these Senators and their hardworking aides never cease to be leaders who genuinely love and care for the people they are called to serve here in South Carolina. And may it ever be so. In Your loving name we pray, dear Lord. Amen.

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 12:00 Noon, the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Numbers 7:24-26

The Lord instructed Moses to offer this blessing to the people: “The Lord bless you and keep you; the Lord make his face to shine upon you, and be gracious to you; the Lord lift up his countenance upon you and give you peace.”

Good friends, bow in prayer with me, please: Yesterday was Presidents’ Day, dear Lord, and it seems appropriate to recall that it was said of George Washington that he “was a devoted man of prayer, deeply committed to the Lord.” Surely it is clear, O God, that leaders through the ages, from Old Testament times to today, have always found hope and strength as they turn to You, as they trust in You. So we ask, Lord, that You continue to embrace these members of the South Carolina Senate with Your unfailing guidance and care. May they also always experience the richness of Your love and blessing as they in turn lead and guide the people of our State. All this we pray in Your precious name, dear Lord. Amen.

The PRESIDENT called for Petitions, Memorials, Presentments of Grand Juries and such like papers.

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 1:00 P.M., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Psalm 133:1

The Psalmist reminds us: "How good it is when kindred live together in unity."

Let us pray: O Holy God, we are bombarded by tragic news whenever we hear or read about what is going on across our country, as well as here in South Carolina. Tragic shootings, easy access to weapons, accidents on the roads, house fires -- the headlines and the stories break our hearts. And we are reminded over and over that we are not at all living as the people You want us to be. So, we pray, Lord, that You will inspire these Senators and their aides to continue doing all they can to help us become the people You want us to be: citizens who genuinely care for one another. Guide these leaders to do everything possible to promote a safer Nation and State. May our children, may all of us experience loving unity, O Lord -- to Your glory. Plus, Oh Lord, we hold in our thoughts and prayers Senator PEELER and his family in the death last evening of the Senator's mother, Sally Bratton Peeler. In Your blessed name we pray. Amen.

The PRESIDENT called for Petitions, Memorials, Presentments of Grand Juries and such like papers.

In Proverbs we are reminded that: "When pride comes, then comes disgrace, but with humility comes wisdom."

Please join me as we pray: O wondrous God, I believe all of us are aware how difficult it is for any man or woman to avoid the pitfalls of pride. And You certainly make it clear, Lord, that embracing pridefulness is not at all Your desire for us, that it is a devastating trap. That is why we turn to You today, O God, calling on You to bestow on us Your guidance and strength so that we can turn from being proud and instead focus upon humility and its partner, wisdom. And especially may those who serve You here in this Senate ever be known as leaders who are indeed humble and wise, and may their pattern of leadership inspire other office holders to conduct themselves in a similar fashion -- to the benefit of all South Carolinians. Hear this humble prayer, dear Lord. Amen.

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 12:00 Noon, the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Psalm 23:1a, 2b

We read that the Psalmist declares: "The Lord is my shepherd. . . he leads me beside still waters. . ."

Let us pray, my friends: Most Holy and ever-blessed God, these days how often do we long for waters that are quiet and tranquil and peaceful -- like those the Psalmist describes. Instead, around the world and surely here in South Carolina, we now and then find ourselves seemingly adrift in a small boat being tossed about by wild ocean waves. So we pray today, Lord, that especially here in the Senate of South Carolina, You will grant our leaders the peace and courage needed as they deal with the challenges of our day. Indeed, may these Senators and their aides be guided and blessed by Your gracious Spirit as they diligently work together to benefit all of our people. In Your loving name we pray, O Lord. Amen.

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 1:00 P.M., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

I Samuel 17:4 and 32

Recall that in the David and Goliath story: "A champion named Goliath, who was from Gath, came out of the Philistine camp. He was over nine feet tall." And ultimately we read, "David said to Saul, 'Let no one lose heart on account of this Philistine; your servant will go and fight him.' "

Let us bow together in prayer: Holy God, just as You gave courage to David when he went out to confront the giant, so do we ask You to grant to each of these Senators the inner strength, fortitude and wisdom as they serve South Carolina. Bless them as You alone can, bestowing on each of these leaders the diligence and righteousness necessary as they strive to carry out the many, many duties required of them. And in addition, O Lord, likewise be with our women and men in uniform wherever they might serve around the globe. May each one of them also be emboldened -- and kept safe -- by Your holy Presence. We pray all of this in Your most precious name, dear Lord. Amen.

The PRESIDENT called for Petitions, Memorials, Presentments of Grand Juries and such like papers.

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 11:00 A.M., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Genesis 11:4

We read in Genesis: “Then they said, ‘Come, let us build ourselves a city, and a tower with its top in the heavens, and let us make a name for ourselves. . . ’ ”

Bow with me as we pray, please: It is never easy, O Lord, for any of us to keep our priorities where they really need to be. And among these Senators, with the ultimate goal of building an ever stronger and stronger South Carolina, the work done by these leaders is certainly not about anyone “making a name” for himself or herself. Rather, every plan or proposal they make, or end result they seek always is -- or should be -- solely about what will most benefit the needs of every woman, man and child here in this State, those who are counting on these leaders to do what is just and right. So, we pray, dear God, that by Your grace each Senator will always hold to such a noble perspective. And may we all be blessed as they do just that. In Your holy name we pray, O Lord. Amen.

Remarks by Senator WALKER

Thank you, Mr. PRESIDENT and members of the Senate, soon this Body will take up two consequential pieces of legislation, S. 184 and S. 244 commonly known to all of us as liability and tort reform respectively. Now, I am not going to speak on the Bill at this moment and I don't want to get ahead of the Majority Leader, but I do want to take a moment to share with you all how I would like to see this conversation unfold over the next couple of weeks.

Like many of you, I have been inundated with emails, as well as telephone calls from people on both sides of this issue. I think we all can agree that passions are running rather high on both sides of this issue. Almost to the point where some folks would have you believe that this has to be a zero-sum game.

If you support the Bill, then you are anti-plaintiff or don't support injury victims. If you are somehow anti-business -- I believe those two things don't have to be mutually exclusive -- you can be both pro-business and at the same time, be a very staunch proponent of injury victims.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 2025

Before I came to the Senate, my background was that I served on Richland County Council and when I campaigned, I was supported by the business community. I also pledged to citizens I would govern in a way that not only facilitated a pro-business climate but also promoted policies and tried to implement policies that protected the quality of life as well as to protect our citizens.

Going forward I would hope that is the sort of the attitude that informs how we approach the discussion. Again, this does not have to be a zero-sum game. The first time I addressed this Body was during my introductory remarks. I said to you all then, that regardless of party affiliation, I would work with anybody who shared the goals of growing our economy, making sure that we promote public safety, as well as protecting families and protecting individual liberties and rights.

All I would ask of this Body is to allow cooler heads to prevail as we take up this consequential legislation and make sure that whatever we do in the end that we check the respective boxes of growing our economy, making sure that we protect individual liberties, that we protect the rights of injury victims and also that whatever we do advances the common good. Thank you, Mr. PRESIDENT.

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 12:00 Noon, the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Joel 2:28

We read in Joel that the Lord declares: "I will pour out my Spirit on all people. Your sons and daughters will prophesy, your old men will dream dreams, your young men will see visions."

Bow with me, please: O most blessed Lord. how marvelous indeed are the dreamers, those women and men who envision realistic change, those who strive to find new and ever-better ways to bless the people they are called to serve, those who labor faithfully to make hope real. We praise You for the dreamers in this Senate, Lord -- those Senators and staff members who wisely guide South Carolina while it grows in ever meaningful and exciting ways. Moreover, Lord, we think of the burdens that inevitably fall on the shoulders of these leaders. So we pray that, by Your grace, You will continue to grant each dreamer the gifts they need to keep moving our State and all of our citizens forward. In Your glorious name we pray, dear Lord. Amen.

Remarks by Senator LEBER

Thank you, Mr. PRESIDENT. The oath to the Constitution is important. We have all taken this oath numerous times and we all take it very, very seriously. We have many veterans here. We have many who have taken the oath throughout their lives; throughout young adulthood; all the way into later years. My fellow Senator from Charleston, Senator SUTTON, he's been in the military and he's been in combat. Do you know, Mr. PRESIDENT, that he flew for thirty-two hours straight evicting refugees from Afghanistan on a C-17? I tell my kids that Senator SUTTON is a hero and I mean it. Senator GOLDFINCH has been deployed often throughout the world. He probably has plenty of stories, and I haven't heard all of them, but I'm anxious to hear them. I know there are many veterans here.

The oath to the Constitution -- poll workers take that oath -- all the way up to the President of the United States and everyone in between and it shouldn't be a political thing. It shouldn't be a moment of contention; it's what unites us in America. It spells out the rules, and it spells out the law for us. When you are willing to take that oath, you are basically putting your hand up and saying, "I will play by the rules, and I will follow the laws." Not only will I uphold the laws, but I will also fight for them. I'll do everything I can to fight for equal rights. Equal protection under the law cannot be corrupt, and that is true throughout the world.

Nations that do not have a constitution nor do they respect their constitution have corruption. They have wars. I found it out personally in 1996 as a young U.S. Paratrooper I was deployed to Bosnia for that conflict. They did not honor their constitution. That is a contract for you, and for us with the people. There was nothing but hardship in nations that do not have a constitution and a strict rule of law that they follow. Regardless of what party, that is simply the standard that we set and say this is where we draw the line.

This is what we support, and Mr. PRESIDENT, I sadly must report that it is not being honored in Charleston County right now. There are boards and there are commissions in Charleston County that refuse to swear an oath for the Constitution. I don't know what is going on with that. I do not know what their personal story is. I could say I am angry about it but I am mostly sad about it. I think that is the bare minimum that you must do when you are appointed or elected to an office -- is to let the citizens of that area of your jurisdiction, the region, and the folks you are going to serve to let them know you support the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of South Carolina.

On our library board right now, eight of eleven members will not swear an oath to the Constitution because they refuse. I asked the Attorney General to make sure I was clear within the bounds of the law, understanding the situation clearly, so I asked him to give me an opinion. I waited a couple of weeks for the opinion to come and when it came, it was exactly as I expected. He stated it was clear in the law that anybody appointed and/or any elected official must swear an oath to the Constitution, but Mr. PRESIDENT, it is worse than that. Not only will they not swear an oath to the Constitution, but they have also made up their own pledge. They have made up their own oath. What could go wrong there? I thought for a second and I wanted to find some comedy in this. Elon Musk said he found some people two hundred, three hundred years old still receiving Social Security. I wish that wasn't the case, Mr. PRESIDENT. They have been given four or five different opportunities to swear an oath to the Constitution and they still refuse. Rob, the chairman of the library board, says this opinion of the Attorney General doesn't have my name on it so I don't have to swear an oath. I don't know -- I have received many letters from the Attorney General with my name on them, but I swore an oath. This doesn't apply to us; this is just a piece of paper. I guess that's what he thinks of the Constitution, too; it's just a piece of paper, but our Founding Fathers made that piece of paper a key to our republic because they did not trust humans; they did not trust human nature. They knew that we needed to be bound by a document that spelled out what we believe in -- what we will follow -- and what we will fight for. That is not how it works, but if you won't swear an oath to the Constitution, you just cannot be in charge of the taxpayers' money. This board has a 45-million-dollar budget, so no one is going to come to your house and make you swear an oath to the Constitution, ever? You don't have to be on the library board either or whatever board. I've called around the State -- your county library board -- and they have sworn an oath to the Constitution of South Carolina and the United States. Those Senators from York County, congratulations, but I think the rest of us probably need to be checking with our boards and commissions to see if any of them have made up their own pledges. I hate to think that this, you know, the communist manifesto is what they pledge to, who knows, but the constitution is what binds us together as Americans as well as those who are elected.

It is our deep respect for the Constitution and our pledge to uphold it, before we go and act on behalf of the public; before we go and act for citizens; before we sign contracts with outsiders and use the citizens' money to satisfy those contracts; before we set a policy. We need to let the citizens know we have a standard, and that is the Constitution. I've written a letter, and I've worked closely with Senator GROOMS on this to make sure that I did not get over my head on a lot of this because it is a complicated issue at times. I have written a letter to my county council and I have asked them to remind all those members that I do not want them to have another chance to put their fingers behind their back and swear the oath. I am counting on county council to give me eight people who will raise their hand and show their respect to the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of South Carolina. It is not a partisan thing for me; it is very important to me. I have not met anybody with common sense who is against me on this -- who thinks I am wrong, no one. So, I am asking the Senate to back me up and support me on this issue. I encourage you to check on your boards and commissions throughout the State because we have got to have a standard and our Constitution is our record; it is our standard. It is where we start before we begin a day of governing. The Constitution is where we start. Thank you.

Remarks by Senator DEVINE

Thank you, Mr. PRESIDENT. Members of the Senate, today I rise to humbly honor and pay tribute to a true South Carolina treasure. A woman whose soulful voice and extraordinary talent have left an indelible mark on the music industry and this community. Angela Laverne Brown, more popularly known as Angie Stone, was born and raised here in Columbia,

TUESDAY, MARCH 4, 2025

S. C. Her journey is one of resilience, passion and undeniable brilliance. From her early days of singing at First Nazareth Baptist Church, which is just a couple blocks down the street here on Gervais Street, to becoming an internationally acclaimed singer, songwriter and actress. Her artistry has transcended generations and genres.

At sixteen-years old, she formed the groundbreaking rap trio “The Sequence”, the first all-female rap group which paved the way for female artists of hip hop for generations. In the late 1990s, she was signed to Arista Records by Clive Davis and released her debut solo album in 1999. Her signature sound, a fusion of R&B, soul and jazz has given us timeless classics like “No More Rain in the Clouds” and “Brother”. Songs that speak to the heart and uplift the soul and celebrate the richness of our culture. Her incredible contributions to music have earned her widespread recognition including three Grammy nominations, two Soul Train Lady of Soul Awards and the Soul Music Icon Award at the Black Music Honors Hall of Fame. Additionally, she received an NAACP Image Award nomination and has been recognized by various organizations for her artistic achievements and dedication to uplifting others through her music. She has been inducted into the C.A. Johnson Hall of Fame, here in Columbia, and in the Hall of Fame of the Columbia Housing Authority. Beyond the stage and the studio, Ms. Stone also used her platform to give back to the community, mentoring young artists and advocating for health awareness.

After being diagnosed with diabetes in 1999, she became a spokesperson for FACE Diabetes, Fearless African Americans Connected and Empowered program, which helps African Americans understand their risk for diabetes and how to control it. And although she had international acclaim, South Carolina was still home to her. It was not unusual to see her around town eating at a restaurant, in the beauty salon or shopping in our local stores. I remember the last time I saw Angie, she was right here in October at C.A. Johnson’s homecoming. She was graciously taking pictures with all the people who wanted to see her and cheering on her alma mater. She carried our city and our State with pride. Angie never forgot where she came from, and today I want to take a moment to ensure that South Carolina never forgets her. Angie was tragically killed Saturday morning in an automobile accident while leaving a performance in Mobile, Alabama, on her way to perform a halftime show for the CIAA in Baltimore. Thousands of tributes from people were posted from all over the world -- from celebrities to political icons to everyday people. A lot of people had no idea that Angie Stone was from right here in Columbia, S.C. She was bigger than life and contributed to so many things. Her contributions to the arts and culture are immeasurable and her impact will be felt for generations to come. So it is with great pride that I recognize and ask that the Senate recognize and celebrate her legacy in this Chamber today, and so Mr. PRESIDENT, I would ask unanimous consent that at the next appropriate time the Senate adjourn in the memory of Angie Brown better known as Angie Stone.

TUESDAY, MARCH 4, 2025

AND TO ALLOW AN ELECTRICAL UTILITY TO INCLUDE STORM RECOVERY COSTS FOR HURRICANE HELENE IN ITS COST OF CAPITAL FROM THE DATE OF THE STORM THROUGH THE ISSUANCE OF STORM RECOVERY BONDS; AND BY AMENDING SECTION 58-27-1110, RELATING TO THE PETITION FOR FINANCING ORDER AND REQUIREMENTS, SO AS TO ALLOW AN ELECTRICAL UTILITY TO DEFER THE REVIEW AND APPROVAL OF A FINANCING ORDER.

The Senate proceeded to the consideration of the Bill.

Amendment No. 1A

Senator RANKIN proposed the following amendment (SJ-157.BJ0004S), which was adopted:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, SECTION 1, by striking Section 58-27-1105(7)(f) and inserting:

(f) any costs incurred by (i) the commission or the Office of Regulatory Staff for any outside consultants, including counsel and advisors; and (ii) the qualified independent third party selected by the commission, to the extent retained in connection with the securitization of storm recovery costs.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 1, by striking Section 58-27-1105(12) and inserting:

(12) The term “qualified independent third party” means a person or entity with relevant expertise in accounting, finance, or utility regulation, sufficient to make the professional judgments necessary to certify compliance as required by Section 58-27-1110(C)(6)(a). The qualified independent third party shall be designated and retained by the commission to participate in the pre-bond issuance review process established by the commission pursuant to Section 58-27-1110(C)(2)(h). The role and responsibilities of the qualified independent third party are further detailed in Section 58-27-1110(C)(6). The qualified independent third party’s certification of compliance is intended to inform the commission’s decisions alongside other evidence in the proceeding.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 1, by striking Section 58-27-1105(17)(c) and (d) and inserting:

(c) with respect to storm recovery costs that the electrical utility expects to incur, any difference between costs expected to be incurred and actual, reasonable, and prudent costs incurred, including carrying costs and financing costs associated with any difference between costs expected to be incurred and actual, reasonable and prudent costs incurred, or any other rate-making adjustments appropriate to fairly and reasonably assign or allocate storm cost recovery to customers over time, shall be addressed in a future general rate proceeding, regardless of whether the electrical utility elects to seek review ~~an~~ and approval of principal costs prior to or after filing a petition for a financing order and issuing storm recovery bonds pursuant to Section 58-27-1110(B), as may be facilitated by other orders of the commission issued at the time or prior to such proceeding; provided, however, any review of financing costs shall be limited to reconciling any estimated financing costs with actual financing costs incurred and that the commission's adoption of a financing order and approval of the issuance of storm recovery bonds may not be revoked or otherwise modified. Any over-recovered costs, including carrying costs and financing costs, shall be ordered by the commission to be returned to the electrical utility's customers in the next possible proceeding, over a period established by the commission.

(d) due to the significant and unprecedented damage caused by the 2024 hurricane referred to as Hurricane Helene to public and private property in South Carolina, including widespread destruction of utility infrastructure and the extraordinary expenses incurred by electrical utilities to repair, restore, and rebuild that infrastructure, the electrical utility is authorized to include as storm recovery costs, for Hurricane Helene only, its cost of capital from the date of the storm through the issuance of storm recovery bonds. This cost of capital shall be determined by the actual interest rate paid by the utility to borrow funds necessary to cover the restoration and recovery efforts after Hurricane Helene through the issuance of storm recovery bonds, provided that the interest rate percentage does not exceed the utility's total weighted average cost of capital percentage as established in its most recent ~~base rate case~~ general rate proceeding, adjusted for income tax savings associated with the interest rate component. This subsection shall not be construed to limit, modify, or otherwise affect the electrical utility's ability to seek recovery of carrying costs in future securitizations under this article, except as specifically provided herein for Hurricane Helene.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 2, by striking Section 58-27-1110(B) and inserting:

(B) If the principal costs the electrical utility proposes to finance using storm recovery bonds were not already subject to review by the commission in a general rate proceeding, then the electrical utility must, at its discretion, either file a petition with the commission for review and approval of those costs no later than one hundred eighty days before filing a petition for a financing order pursuant to this section, or, alternatively, defer the review and approval of such costs to either a future base-general rate proceeding or a separate proceeding established by the commission at the request of the electrical utility in consultation with the Office of Regulatory Staff. If the electrical utility chooses to defer the review and approval of such costs, it shall file a report with the commission updating the reconciliation of estimated costs to actual costs incurred at least twice per calendar year until the costs are reconciled. If the electrical utility does not file a petition with the commission for review and approval of such costs within one calendar year following the issuance of the storm recovery bonds, the Office of Regulatory Staff may, at its discretion, file a petition with the commission to initiate a proceeding for review and approval of such costs. In either case, reconciliation of estimated costs to actual costs shall be subject to review pursuant to Section 58-27-1105(17)(c).

(1) Any petition for review and approval of the principal costs shall be accompanied by direct testimony, exhibits, and supporting workpapers supporting the petition, testimony, and exhibits. Such workpapers may be filed under seal to the extent necessary to protect confidential, proprietary, or sensitive information. The electrical utility shall provide functional exhibits and workpapers to the Office of Regulatory Staff and to the commission, subject to any appropriate confidentiality designations.

(2) If the electrical utility must file a petition for review and approval of the principal costs, the electrical utility shall not be required to provide additional notice prior to filing a petition for a financing order pursuant to this section; otherwise, the utility shall file a notice of its intent to file a petition for a financing order not less than thirty days prior to filing any such petition.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 2, by striking Section 58-27-1110(C)(6)(a) and (b) and inserting:

(a) Such issuance advice letter shall be in the form approved in a financing order and include the final terms of the storm recovery bond issuance, up-front financing costs and on-going financing costs. Such issuance advice letter shall include a certification from the electrical utility, the primary underwriter(s), and a qualified independent third-party designated by the commission, as a condition to closing, certifying whether the sale of storm recovery bonds complies with the requirements of this article and the financing order. The certifications of the electrical utility and qualified independent third-party shall certify whether the issuance of recovery bonds and the imposition and collection of a storm recovery charge will in fact provide quantifiable net benefits to customers on a present-value basis as compared to the costs that would have been incurred absent the issuance of storm recovery bonds. The certifications of the electrical utility, primary underwriter(s), and qualified independent third-party shall certify whether the structuring, marketing, and pricing of the storm recovery bonds will in fact result in the lowest storm recovery charges consistent with market conditions at the time the storm recovery bonds were priced and the terms set forth in the financing order. The qualified independent third-party designated by the commission shall review the issuance advice letter and deliver its independent certification to the commission along with any other information it believes the commission should consider as to the commission's decision in subitem ~~(b)~~(c) no later than one business day after the filing of the issuance advice letter by the electric utility which will contain the aforementioned certifications.

(b) Once the qualified independent third party is designated and retained by the commission, the qualified independent third party shall independently participate in the pre-bond issuance review process established by the commission pursuant to Section 58-27-1110(C)(2)(j). The qualified independent third party shall have the authority to request and receive all necessary documents, data, and information from the electrical utility to fulfill its responsibilities and ensure compliance with Section 58-27-1110(C)(6)(a). The qualified independent third party shall also have the ability to communicate directly with the parties to the proceeding as needed to carry out its duties. The qualified independent third party's communications with the commission shall be limited solely to docket filings or, if requested by the commission, participation in a post-pricing meeting involving the electrical utility, the qualified independent third party, and other parties. The structure and details of the docket filings and such a meeting, including the handling of any confidential information, shall be determined by the commission in accordance with applicable procedural rules and orders.

~~(b)~~(c) Unless otherwise provided in the financing order, by no later than noon on the fourth business day after the final terms of the storm recovery bonds are determined, the commission shall either accept the issuance advice letter or deliver an order to the electrical utility to prevent the issuance of the storm recovery bonds.

The Senate assembled at 11:45 A.M., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Psalm 51:1-2

The Psalmist tells us: "Have mercy on me, O God, according to your unfailing love; according to your great compassion blot out my transgressions. Wash away all my iniquity and cleanse me from my sin."

My friends, let us pray: O most loving Lord, we humbly confess here on this Ash Wednesday how sinful and weak we know that we are. Time and time again we find ourselves falling into life's many traps, doing those things we know not to do, but that we end up doing anyway, often over and over. How great indeed are all of the challenges that confront us as we strive to be the women and men You desire us to become. And so today especially we turn to You and ask for Your forgiveness, dear Lord. Embrace us afresh in Your loving arms and lead us forward that we all might truly be the women and men You expect us to be. And may this Senate itself as well as this State we love be better as a result. Hear our humble prayer, dear Lord. Amen.

The PRESIDENT called for Petitions, Memorials, Presentments of Grand Juries and such like papers.

LACOURSIERE, AND TO INVITE HIM TO ADDRESS THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY IN JOINT SESSION IN THE CHAMBER OF THE SOUTH CAROLINA HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AT 12:00 P.M. ON WEDNESDAY, MARCH 5, 2025; AND TO WELCOME THE CHIEF JUSTICE OF THE SOUTH CAROLINA SUPREME COURT, THE HONORABLE JOHN W. KITTREDGE, AND TO INVITE HIM TO ADDRESS THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY FOLLOWING THE ADDRESS OF THE HONORABLE JAMES A. LACOURSIERE.

The Honorable James A. LaCoursiere and members of his party were escorted to the rostrum by Senators CROMER, BENNETT, GOLDFINCH, SUTTON, ZELL and MASSEY and Representatives B. L. Cox, B. J. Cox, Davis, Gilliam and Hosey.

The PRESIDENT of the Senate introduced the Honorable James A. LaCoursiere, National Commander of The American Legion.

Commander LaCoursiere addressed the Joint Assembly.

Ladies, gentlemen, distinguished members of this great Body, it's truly an honor to speak to you today in this beautiful historic capitol.

Before I begin, please allow me a moment to introduce members of The American Legion Family who are with me today.

We have with us the Commander of the South Carolina American Legion, Bruce Donegan of Loris; National Executive Committeeman and Acting Adjutant for the Department of South Carolina, Jim Hawk of Irmo; Cecil Phillips, Alternate NEC from Rock Hill; The American Legion Auxiliary Department of South Carolina President Allyson Boone of Columbia S.C. and the Sons of The American Legion South Carolina Detachment Commander Ross Polson of Rock Hill.

Ladies and gentlemen, on January 20, my organization had the honor of hosting the salute to Heroes Ball in Washington as part of our nation's inaugural celebration. These special events have been held by The American Legion for every presidential inauguration since 1953.

During these salutes, we celebrate the heroes who make such occasions possible -- our nation's Medal of Honor recipients.

This year we were fortunate to have twenty-four living Medal of Honor recipients as our special guests. As most of you are probably aware, the Medal of Honor is our nation's highest military award. Just over three thousand five hundred heroes have been awarded the medal since President Lincoln authorized its creation in 1861. Only sixty-one are still living.

Those who have earned the award are not "winners." They didn't receive their medals by placing first in a contest or besting opponents in a competition. Medal of Honor recipients are recognized for unwavering devotion, extraordinary valor in combat and conspicuous gallantry.

Among the special guests at our Salute to Heroes ball this year was a son of South Carolina, U.S. Army Sergeant Major Thomas Payne.

He didn't write the revolutionary pamphlet "Common Sense," like the other Thomas Paine. And while his name is spelled P-A-Y-N-E, he certainly inflicted pain on the enemy. If you don't know the story of this Delta Force legend, allow me to go over a few highlights: Born in 1984, he grew up in Batesburg-Leesville, South Carolina. The son of a police officer, he understood service at an early age and enlisted after graduating from Lugoff-Elgin High School in 2002. He says his decision to be an Army Ranger was made when he saw video of the Towers falling on 9/11.

During his distinguished career, Sergeant Major Payne has been deployed seventeen times including tours in Iraq, Afghanistan and Africa. But it was his actions on October 22, 2015, that are permanently etched among the bravest in military history. As a sergeant first class at the time, Thomas Payne led an assault team that was clearing buildings in Iraq's Kirkuk Province. Intelligence revealed that these buildings were being used by ISIS to hold hostages.

Under fire from the beginning, Payne and his men fought their way to the first building, freeing thirty-eight hostages in the process. After hearing a call for help, he entered a second building. As the burning building began to crumble, he engaged enemy fighters before trading his rifle for bolt-cutters so he could rescue more hostages. Despite losing teammates, Sergeant First Class Payne made numerous trips in and out of the building until thirty-eight more hostages were freed.

As a result of the actions of Payne and his team, seventy-five hostages were rescued from the ISIS compound. In 2020, he received the Medal of Honor from President Trump for his actions. Fittingly, it was presented on September 11, the 19th anniversary of the attacks which inspired him to join.

With a brother in the Army and another in the Air Force, service runs deep in the veins of the Payne family. This is not surprising given the culture of the patriotic Palmetto State. Here are just a few examples of the selfless service that we find in communities throughout South Carolina: American Legion Family members at Dalzell-Shaw Post 175, have been collecting and transporting relief supplies to Hurricane Helene victims in Fines Creek, North Carolina. They do this not to help themselves but to assist their fellow Americans in another state.

We have seen an active “Buddy Check program” conducted by South Carolina’s Hezzie Griffis Post 30 in the immediate aftermath of the hurricane. They understand that even when there is no natural disaster, veterans are fifty percent more likely to commit suicide than those who never served in the military.

Buddy checks are our way of proactively engaging with veterans, not just to prevent suicide but to foster camaraderie and wellness.

I would also like to recognize American Legion Larry Jeffers Post 195 in Lugoff. Last May, Post 195 was named the Kershaw County Chamber of Commerce 2024 Nonprofit of the Year. This is a particular inspiration since the post was on the verge of foreclosure during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Also last year, American Legion Post 124 in Walhalla rededicated the village of Newry’s World War II Memorial. It was in conjunction with the 130th anniversary of Newry’s founding. These are just a few of the activities and accomplishments of local American Legion posts spread throughout this great region.

While I am here, I’d also like to extend my congratulations to Andrew Behrmann of Tega City. Andrew is a recent delegate of South Carolina American Legion Boys State and one of our 2024 Samsung Scholars. Andrew certainly earned his $10,000 scholarship for his achievements as a student athlete, Eagle Scout, conservationist and youth group leader.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 5, 2025

The scholarship, which is administered by The American Legion, is funded through the earnings derived from a five-million-dollar endowment from Samsung. The electronics corporation made the donation in 1996 to show appreciation for the sacrifices that our Korean War veterans made during its struggle against communist forces that started seventy-five years ago. There are only ten Samsung Scholars selected nationally each year, so Andrew truly represents the best of his class.

The hospitality that I have experienced here in South Carolina the last couple of days has been amazing. I can see why nearly 400,000 veterans call South Carolina home.

I visited the Camden battlefield and received briefings from military officials at Shaw Air Force Base and Fort Jackson.

Quality of life issues for our Armed Service are essential in today's All Volunteer Force. We are pleased to see that Joint Base Charleston has an Education Fair scheduled for March 18, an event that is intended to help military families achieve their next level of success.

This State has always been what we in the Legion call "Veteran Friendly." And you're getting even friendlier! Some of the many Bills being considered by this legislature deal with issues such as discounted fees at state parks for veterans and property tax relief for surviving spouses.

Now, you may notice that my cap says Connecticut. As National Commander of The American Legion, my focus is mostly on federal policies. In fact, last week I testified about veterans and military issues before Congress. But most veterans know the Legion as a community grassroots organization. It is what you do here in your State that provides the biggest impact.

It would be presumptuous of me to tell you which Bills to sponsor or which legislation to draft. You know your communities much better than I do. I just want you to be aware how much we appreciate all that you do for veterans, our military and their families.

Now, if you would allow me for one moment to call to this platform two members of this distinguished Body who have proven that they are not only great lawmakers, but they are advocates for those who have served. They have been designated by The American Legion Department of South Carolina as the Outstanding Members of the Legislature for 2025. They are true friends of veterans and The American Legion.

Senator SHANE MASSEY and Representative Bobby Cox_would you please join me?

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 5, 2025

Congratulations Senator SHANE MASSEY and Representative Bobby Cox. We appreciate all that you do on behalf of veterans.

Thank you so much, South Carolina Legislature. God Bless you and God Bless America.

Immediately following the Joint Assembly called for the address by James A. LaCoursiere, National Commander of The American Legion, the PRESIDENT announced that the Joint Assembly would proceed to the address by the Honorable John W. Kittredge, Chief Justice of the South Carolina Supreme Court.

Address by the Chief Justice of the South Carolina Supreme Court

The Honorable John W. Kittredge, Chief Justice of the South Carolina Supreme Court and members of his party were escorted to the rostrum by Senators RANKIN, MASSEY, DEVINE, ELLIOTT, ALLEN and GARRETT and Representatives W. Newton, Bannister, Martin, McCabe, Garvin and Spann-Wilder.

The PRESIDENT of the Senate introduced the Honorable John W. Kittredge, Chief Justice of the South Carolina Supreme Court.

Chief Justice John W. Kittredge addressed the Joint Assembly.

PRESIDENT ALEXANDER, Speaker Smith, Chairman PEELER, Speaker Pro Tempore Pope, and the Majority and Minority leaders of the Senate and House; In the House, Representatives Hiott and Rutherford; in the Senate, Senators MASSEY and HUTTO; and Senator HUTTO, please know we are thinking of you and looking forward to your return. To all members of the General Assembly, thank you for extending me the privilege of addressing this esteemed joint assembly. Please know I am grateful for this invitation. After serving for thirty-three years as a state judge at every level, I assumed the position of Chief Justice fairly recently, back in August. I stand before you as a steward of the Chief Justice position, mindful of the solemn and immense trust imposed in me. I pledge to you my commitment to do my best to be worthy of this position and to merit the confidence you have shown in me. I began this journey mindful and appreciative of the contributions of my predecessors, Chief Justices Toal, Pleicones and Beatty. I applaud them for their service. I will do my best to build on the solid foundation they have laid.

I recognize and applaud my exceptional colleagues on the Supreme Court, Justices Few, James, Hill and Verdin. Chief Judge Williams of the court of appeals is here, along with our outstanding appellate court judges, and welcome to the newest member of the court of appeals, Judge Kristi Curtis.

I recognize and extend my gratitude to Dan Shearouse, the Supreme Court's long serving clerk of court who came out of retirement to serve as the interim State Court Administrator. Similarly, I recognize Karama Herrington, who later this month will become our new State Court Administrator. Mr. Shearouse's service has been extraordinary, and I am confident Ms. Herrington is well prepared to assume this important role. Thank you, Dan, and welcome, Karama.

In our brief time together, there are so many important topics we could discuss. From judicial independence, to how does the judicial branch manage huge technology challenges, to how do we wisely assign our limited judicial resources to terms of court across our State, and the list goes on and on. Yet my time is limited, so I have chosen three topics to address briefly.

First, I want to give you and the citizens of South Carolina a glimpse into the role and volume of work in our trial courts and the number of cases that our court system handles. Second, because I note the Governor and the Legislature have a focus on magistrate reform, I want to commend you for those efforts and offer just a quick observation about one aspect concerning the need for uniformity in our magistrate court system. And lastly and perhaps most importantly, I want to share how all people and all branches of government face a common challenge. I will do so by describing the most difficult journey a man or woman has ever undertaken.

Now to our courts in South Carolina. Apart from the Supreme Court and the court of appeals, we have fifty-three circuit court judges, sixty-three family court judges, roughly twenty-three Masters-in-Equity, forty-six probate court judges, about three hundred magistrates, and over four hundred municipal court judges. That's a lot of judges. Have you ever thought about the true role and impact of the law on our fellow citizens? Yes, we intuitively understand that law -- particularly the rule of law -- serves as the bedrock foundation in our constitutional republic, in our civil society. What I want to share now, however, is more practical. What is the role and involvement of courts to the citizens we serve? We know over the past twenty-five years, the population in South Carolina has dramatically increased. Our State had a population of about four million in the year 2000. Today, a quarter of a century later, according to the most recent estimates from the Census Bureau, we are pushing five and a half million. How does that exploding growth affect the pressures on our justice system?

We currently do not have complete data about the number of cases and hearings conducted in the courtrooms across our State. We are working on gathering complete data so we can know the full story. Though our information is currently incomplete, what we do know is revealing in terms of the volume of work being done in our courts.

The chart on the screen is a new chart. It is not complete. It is a work in progress. Gregory Brooks in our IT department is creating this new report. If we are successful, the chart will eventually include information reflecting all the cases and hearings in the trial courts throughout the State. Gregory is off to an excellent start, and I thank him. When it is complete, the judicial branch, you, and the public will be able to access this site and obtain the most current data about the workloads in our courts. In this one interactive document that is being developed, we will have one go-to resource to see where we are on case filings and case dispositions. This is in line with the judicial branch's commitment to you and all of our fellow citizens to provide greater transparency and accountability. While we currently only have partial information, here's what we do know. Over the past few years, 5.8 million matters have been filed in the trial courts of SC. Thus, what we do know begins to give us a sense of the volume of work in our courts. Think for a moment -- not about the number of cases, but about the number of hearings that take place. A case in any court can result in many hearings. We will make this interactive resource available when it is complete. When the report goes live, we will keep updating the data as we establish a system for trial courts, clerks of court, and other stakeholders to provide us with complete information. We want to know how many cases are filed, and we want to know how many hearings take place in our courts. To give you a glimpse of what we are hoping to share with you and our fellow citizens, you will be able to look at a snapshot of a year by clicking on a year. You will access and see the information for the year you have selected. In 2024, for example, there were conservatively 1.5 million case filings. The number of court hearings, of course, would be much more than that. We will be able to drill down further into circuits and counties. We need to know the workloads in our courts. We are doing our best to gather all the information, so that we can truly know the volume and pressures in the trial courts of our State. With the relevant information, we can better and more wisely operate and manage the justice system for all South Carolinians. As I move to my next topic, I leave you with this: I and my colleagues on the Supreme Court could not be prouder of the work ethic of our trial court judges. In the trial courts across South Carolina, as you have seen, far more than a million matters are handled every year. I am going to return to this thought when I share my concluding remarks.

Permit me to offer a quick observation about our magistrate court system. If you look to the justices and judges elected here in the Legislature -- family and circuit court, court of appeals and Supreme Court -- the Legislature elects right at one-hundred-thirty judgeships. Double that figure and you are still short of the approximate 300 magistrates throughout our State. The majority of magistrates perform well in their judicial service. A citizen's view of our justice system is frequently formed through the citizen's experience in magistrate court. It serves as the people's court. The Governor and the Legislature have expressed a desire to improve the structure of the magistrate court system, including magistrate court standards, uniformity and professionalism. The Governor, to his great credit, is focused on enhanced magistrate standards and professionalism. In the legislative branch, I note several bills filed, directed to the issue of magistrates. For example, you are considering increasing magistrate court jurisdiction. Bills have been filed addressing the possible need for the vetting of magistrates in conjunction with a merit selection process for magistrates. You and the Governor are to be commended. The third branch of government -- the judicial branch -- supports your efforts, and it is my hope you will allow the judicial branch a seat at the table. I necessarily work closely with our magistrate court system and through my regular interaction with the magistrate courts, I know of some of the strengths and weaknesses in the system. I choose only one issue to mention.

One area where the issue of uniformity needs to be addressed is magistrates pay for full-time magistrates. There are full-time and part-time magistrates. I only mention full-time magistrates here. The statutory method of pay is complicated and cumbersome. We look to the counties to pay the county magistrates, and we do so largely through a formula based on a county's population. Larger counties have more magistrates; smaller counties have fewer magistrates. Again, it is a population-based formula and approach. The pay disparity among full-time magistrates is staggering. The highest paid magistrate earns just above $130,000, yet there are many full-time magistrates earning barely $50,000, one as low as $46,000. Think about that disparity. The higher salaries are found in the larger counties; the lowest salaries are found in our smaller counties. Yet when the caseloads of individual magistrates are examined, we learn that the lowest paid magistrates in the smaller counties can have a caseload equal to and sometimes greater than the magistrates serving in the larger counties. And we wonder why it is sometimes quite difficult to find qualified individuals willing to serve, especially in the less populated, rural areas. If there is a desire to move forward legislatively with magistrate reform with enhanced professionalism standards, the judicial branch would welcome the opportunity to have a voice in that effort.

I now move to my final point. I have conveyed to you the volume of work done by those who serve in our justice system. I do not, however, want to leave you with the impression that because of the overwhelming caseload pressures, that judges are merely assembly line workers, simply moving cases along without caring for the people who appear in our courts. Let me set this up by sharing something I heard years ago that resonated and has remained with me. Perhaps you are familiar with it, and especially the profound underlying message it carries. It begins with the following question: what is the most difficult -- the most important journey a man or woman has ever embarked on? It was not Hannibal's crossing of the Alps; nor was it the Lewis and Clark expedition; nor Lindberg's transatlantic flight; nor the Apollo moon mission; nor any other physical journey ever undertaken. The most difficult and important journey ever undertaken in the history of mankind is the twelve inches from the mind to the heart. The merging of the mind and the heart is what the law is all about. Yes, we must have accountability, but justice -- to be justice -- must be tempered with the heart, with understanding and mercy. Embedded in the DNA of the human spirit is a yearning for second chances. The law recognizes the role of redemption in the civil society. The merging of the mind with the heart is the essence of what the prophet Micah was capturing in the admonition to do justice and love mercy. I submit to you that when you are debating policy questions, and crafting legislation, you, too, are searching for the elusive intersection of accountability and compassion, the merging of the mind and heart.

In the court system, we at times confront horrific violent crime. In terms of dealing with violent crime, what is the relative relationship between the mind and the heart? Will judges impose a sentence for many years in prison for violent and repeat offenders? Absolutely and we do not apologize. In such a situation, accountability predominates and properly so. The laws you pass often mandate certain penalties and judges must honor those legislative directives. But there are many defendants -- people -- who come into the criminal justice system who are not violent offenders. In fact, the majority of people in the system fall into this latter category. It is here where a proper and wise understanding brings mercy and compassion into the equation.

As I close, I want to share just one example where the law has successfully navigated the difficult journey and merged the mind and the heart. It is with treatment courts, which are designed for and limited to nonviolent offenders. There are many different kinds of successful treatment courts -- mental health courts; veterans courts; in family court, we have safe babies court; and there are others. Every county in South Carolina has at least one of these different kinds of treatment courts. Because of time constraints, I will mention only one -- drug courts. Drug courts reflect both accountability and grace. A drug court program is intensive. The court meets with the participants regularly, at least once weekly. Professionals provide treatment and drug testing. The participant must have and keep a job, or perform community service, and the program will last typically for a year, sometimes longer.

There is not a person here or within the sound of my voice who has not been impacted by addiction, perhaps through a family member or close friend. All understand the debilitating scourge of addiction. What is also beyond dispute is the fact that drug courts work. I know you are familiar with recidivism rates for those who go through the normal criminal court process. The rate of repeat offenders is alarmingly high for those who are simply handled through our criminal justice system. Yet the recidivism rate for those who make it through a drug court program pales in comparison. The success rate is high. Drug courts work. Peoples' lives are saved. People are reunited with their communities; people are reunited with their families. Allow me to reiterate: judges impose harsh yet necessary prison sentences for violent offenders; we hold offenders accountable; and we strive to be sensitive to the plight of crime victims. But there is a significant portion of those who enter the court system who are not violent.

I once had a defendant plead guilty to possession of cocaine. In the standard questioning, I asked the defendant, "Sir, did you possess cocaine?" The defendant responded, "No sir, I didn't possess cocaine; it possessed me." I now share a very short video clip from the national group known as All Rise, a tremendous group that provides support services for drug courts nationwide. Peoples' lives are being saved in drug court. The lives of our fellow citizens in South Carolina are being saved in the drug court program.

I am pleased to report that drug courts and treatment courts in general are being increased, as new ones are being established across our State. Think of all those involved in our drug courts. Our circuit solicitors are leaders in this effort, and I thank and commend them. They are not merely prosecutors, but in those cases where a second chance is warranted, it is the solicitors who have stepped up to support treatment courts. Like the solicitors, the defense bar, especially the circuit public defenders, also deserve credit. Think of the clerks of court and so many others in our justice system whose support is necessary to operate drug courts. And yes, I want to thank the judges. Almost all judges do this extra service for no pay. Did that register? The judges volunteer without compensation, because they believe in helping people. They believe in second chances. Who are these judges? They are magistrates, municipal judges, probate court judges, family court judges and circuit court judges.

There is one judge whose story brings it home. He is a retired judge who has presided over drug court for many years. This judge had an adult son who struggled with addiction. Late last year, the judge's son died. Yet this judge, even after the tragic loss of his son, still in his grief, continues to preside in drug court, never giving up the mission to save someone's life. That's what compassion -- true justice -- looks like. That my friends is the elusive intersection of the mind and the heart.

Do South Carolina judges have a strong work ethic and understand the importance of addressing backlogs and moving cases? Absolutely, as established by the far more than one million matters that are handled each year in our state court system. But judges are so much more than assembly line workers dealing with an overwhelming volume of cases. I leave you with this: the judges across South Carolina are so much more. These judges, including the ones you vet and you elect, are dedicated public servants who care deeply about serving with compassion and understanding for all who appear before them in our court system. I am proud to serve alongside these public servants in our justice system, and as long as I am privileged to serve as the Chief Justice, we will never waver from the pursuit of justice -- the journey of the mind to the heart.

God bless you and God bless the State of South Carolina.

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 11:00 A.M., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Deuteronomy 31:6a

In Deuteronomy we are pointedly called to: “Be strong and bold, have no fear or dread . . .”

Please join your heart with mine as we pray: Holy God, there are sufficient reasons for us to find ourselves uneasy in this day and time, things which cause us often to tremble in our tracks. Reports of frequent earthquakes along our western coastline, threats of out-of-control wildfires here in our own State, economic challenges popping up afresh at every turn, political unsettledness around the globe -- no wonder we frequently are uneasy during the day and sleepless at night. So more than ever we give thanks, O Lord, for all of our leaders here in this Senate, for these women and men who draw upon their personal wisdom, moral strength and even courage as they guide us through this difficult period we are living in. Bless them all for their caring and thoughtful leadership. In Your strong name we pray, dear Lord. Amen.

Amendment No. 1A

Senators GOLDFINCH, KIMBRELL and GARRETT proposed the following amendment (SR-244.CEM0035S):

Amend the bill, as and if amended, SECTION 1.A., by striking Section 15-38-15(A)(1), (2), (3), (4), and (5) and inserting:

(1) The jury shall determine the percentage of fault of the claimant, plaintiff, of the defendant, and of any nonparty whose act or omission arose out of the same occurrence that is the subject of the underlying complaint and was a proximate cause of the claimant's alleged damages. In assessing the percentage of fault, the jury or the court shall consider the fault of all persons or entities whose alleged act or omission was a proximate cause of the alleged damage, regardless of whether the person or entity was named as a party, subject to the limitations contained in subsection (A)(1)(c) and (d). The percentage of fault of the parties to the action may total less than one hundred percent if the jury finds that fault contributing to the plaintiff's damages also came from a non-party, provided that the total percentage of fault assigned to parties and non-parties equals one hundred percent. The jury may not be informed of any immunity defense that is available to the nonparty. In assessing percentage of fault, the jury or the court shall consider the fault of all persons or entities whose alleged act or omission was a proximate cause of the alleged damage, regardless of whether the person or entity was or could have been named as a party. The percentage of fault of the parties to the action may total less than one hundred percent if the jury finds that fault contributing to the claimant's loss has also come from a nonparty or nonparties.

(a) Prior to a jury or court allocating any or all fault to a non-party, the defendant must affirmatively identify the non-party and plead the facts and cause of action allegedly giving rise to the fault of a non-party in its answer, subject to amendment once as a matter of right in accordance with the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure.

(i) Notice of a pleading filed in accordance with (a) shall be served on all parties and the non-party in the manner provided for in the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure.

(ii) Any interested party may, at any time after receiving notice of the addition of a non-party, make any motion that would be available to a party, including, but not limited to, Rules 12, 50, or 56 of the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure, to dismiss or otherwise remove the non-party from the verdict form. The court will apply the same standard to the dismissal or removal of a non-party as it would to a party.

(ii) Notwithstanding any applicable statute or limitation or repose, the plaintiff may, within sixty days of the proof of service required pursuant to subitem (i), assert any claim against the non-party arising out of the occurrence that is the subject matter of the original complaint.

(b) In order for a jury or court to allocate any or all fault to a non-party for the purpose of apportioning damages, a defendant must prove at trial by a preponderance of the evidence the fault of the non-party in causing the plaintiff's damages. If the court determines that the defendant has failed to meet the burden of proof for the fault of the non-party in causing the plaintiff's damages, the non-party shall not be allocated any fault for the purpose of apportioning damages.

THURSDAY, MARCH 6, 2025

(c) There shall be no allocation of fault to a non-party who is:
(i) immune from liability for the plaintiff's alleged damages;
(ii) not subject to the court's jurisdiction;
(iii) not subject to liability for the plaintiff's alleged damages because the claim is barred by a statute of limitations or statute of repose;
(iv) charged with or convicted of any crime in relation to the occurrence that is the subject of the underlying complaint;
(v) directly or indirectly owned, managed, or controlled by a defendant, including any non-party with which there is commonality in the executives, managers, or officer of a defendant and a non-party; or
(vi) who the defendant's liability is imputed or based upon the fault of the non-party.

(d) There shall be no allocation of fault to a non-party when the defendant's liability is based on:
(i) wilful, wanton, reckless, grossly negligent, intentional, or criminally chargeable conduct;
(ii) negligence and the non-party's liability is based on any basis other than negligence, including, but not limited, to intentional, wanton, or reckless misconduct, strict liability or liability pursuant to any cause action created by statute;
(iii) strict liability;
(iv) a toxic or environmental tort; or
(v) any cause of action created by statute.

(e) Prior to including a non-party who is engaged in a profession designated by Section 15-36-100(G), the party seeking to designate such a non-party must comply with the provisions and procedures in Section 15-36-100 if the fault sought to be attributed to such party arises from alleged professional negligence.

(2) If the percentage of fault of the ~~claimant~~-plaintiff is greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the act or omission that caused the ~~claimant's~~-plaintiff's damage, then the jury shall return a verdict for the defendant and no further jury deliberation is required.

(3) If the percentage of fault of the ~~claimant~~-plaintiff is not greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the act or omission that caused the ~~claimant's~~-plaintiff's damage, then the jury shall determine the total amount of damages the ~~claimant~~-plaintiff would be entitled to recover if comparative fault were disregarded. If the percentage of fault of any one defendant is greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the act or omission that caused the plaintiff's damage, then that defendant is jointly and severally liable for the total amount of the plaintiff's damages.

THURSDAY, MARCH 6, 2025

(4) ~~Upon~~ Except for defendants greater than fifty percent of the total fault, upon the completion of subitem (3), the court shall enter judgment for the ~~claimant~~ plaintiff against each defendant in an amount equal to the total amount of damages awarded in subitem (3) multiplied by the percentage of fault assigned to each respective defendant in subitem (1).

(5) ~~The court may determine that two or more persons are to be treated as a single party. Such treatment must be used where two or more persons acted in concert or where, by reason of agency, employment, or other legal relationship, a party is vicariously responsible for another party.~~ A defendant shall not be entitled to a setoff from any settlement received from any potential tortfeasor prior to the verdict.

The Senate assembled at 12:00 Noon, the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

I Chronicles 28:10

Speaking to his son, Solomon, David long ago said: "Take heed now, for the Lord has chosen you to build a house as the sanctuary; be strong and act."

Join your heart with mine as we pray, friends: O glorious and ever-blessed God, as You directed him to do, David urged Solomon to honor You, to serve You faithfully, to work on Your behalf for the benefit of Your people. In like manner, Lord, so do You urge the women and men serving You here in the Senate of South Carolina to do the same: to "be strong and to act." Indeed, to that end may these Senators and their aides boldly do just that; avoiding the pitfalls of doing little or nothing, and tackling the often heavyweight issues that need to be resolved. And may the end results of their wise and just actions always bring about blessings for our citizens and honor to You, O Lord. So, we pray in Your loving name. Amen.

~~Indicates Matter Stricken~~

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 1:00 P.M., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Isaiah 51:7

Isaiah the prophet tells us: "Listen to me, you who know righteousness, you people who have my teaching in your hearts; do not fear the reproach of others, and do not be dismayed when they revile you."

Let us pray: Truly, O loving Lord, we confess that now and then moments arise when being in the public eye brings a greater cost than many of these Senators likely bargained on. Service to the people of South Carolina is often like being under a magnifying glass. Words are sometimes taken out of context; critics of all stripes appear at every turn. No wonder that to some in this Senate, public service can seem to be a disheartening enterprise. So today, dear God, we fervently pray that You will grant each leader in this place the strength and determination to serve our people boldly and confidently, trusting that You will always be with them, granting them all the courage and resolve they might ever require. So, we pray in Your blessed name, O Lord. Amen.

The PRESIDENT called for Petitions, Memorials, Presentments of Grand Juries and such like papers.

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 11:00 A.M., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Romans 11:33a

In Paul's letter to the Romans we read: "Oh, the depth of the riches of the wisdom and knowledge of God!"

Good friends, let us pray: O Glorious Lord, it is so very clear that every single one of us needs to prize Your great gifts of wisdom and knowledge. Surely those qualities are always assets to be held dear by all who strive to serve You in the public sphere. Portraits of so many leaders who understood clearly what Paul was saying surround us here in this Chamber. And we fervently pray that our current Senators grasp the importance of possessing and making wise use of these gifts, as well. Indeed, may this also be true of every South Carolinian serving in any state government role, no matter at what level. For the people of this State we all love deserve nothing less than to have the very best sort of leadership imaginable. May it ever be so, dear Lord. So we humbly pray. Amen.

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 12:00 Noon, the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

II Thessalonians 3:13

As he concludes his second letter to the Thessalonians, Paul writes: "And as for you, brothers and sisters, never tire of doing what is right."

Bow with me as we pray, if you will: Blessed and glorious Lord, as we read today's scripture verse, we can't help but wonder if Paul wasn't also addressing each one of us. There is inevitably a temptation for everyone to take the "easy way" now and then, to allow the harder tasks to be handled "later on" by others. Yet that, as we know, is not -- and never should be -- the path that the Senate of South Carolina chooses to follow. Rather, this Body realizes how very much our citizens count on each Senator and every aide always to carry out their responsibilities with dedication and honor. So, Lord, grant to each of these servants the desire and determination to accomplish what is truly just and right for all. In Your wondrous name we pray, dear Lord. Amen.

Amendment No. 1A

Senators GOLDFINCH, KIMBRELL and GARRETT proposed the following amendment (SR-244.CEM0035S), which was carried over:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, SECTION 1.A., by striking Section 15-38-15(A)(1), (2), (3), (4), and (5) and inserting:

(1) The jury shall determine the percentage of fault of the claimant, plaintiff, of the defendant, and of any nonparty whose act or omission arose out of the same occurrence that is the subject of the underlying complaint and was a proximate cause of the claimant's

alleged damages. In assessing the percentage of fault, the jury or the court shall consider the fault of all persons or entities whose alleged act or omission was a proximate cause of the alleged damage, regardless of whether the person or entity was named as a party, subject to the limitations contained in subsection (A)(1)(c) and (d). The percentage of fault of the parties to the action may total less than one hundred percent if the jury finds that fault contributing to the plaintiff's damages also came from a non-party, provided that the total percentage of fault assigned to parties and non-parties equals one hundred percent. The jury may not be informed of any immunity defense that is available to the nonparty. In assessing percentage of fault, the jury or the court shall consider the fault of all persons or entities whose alleged act or omission was a proximate cause of the alleged damage, regardless of whether the person or entity was or could have been named as a party. The percentage of fault of the parties to the action may total less than one hundred percent if the jury finds that fault contributing to the claimant's loss has also come from a nonparty or nonparties.

(a) Prior to a jury or court allocating any or all fault to a non-party, the defendant must affirmatively identify the non-party and plead the facts and cause of action allegedly giving rise to the fault of a non-party in its answer, subject to amendment once as a matter of right in accordance with the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure.

(i) Notice of a pleading filed in accordance with (a) shall be served on all parties and the non-party in the manner provided for in the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure.

(ii) Any interested party may, at any time after receiving notice of the addition of a non-party, make any motion that would be available to a party, including, but not limited to, Rules 12, 50, or 56 of the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure, to dismiss or otherwise remove the non-party from the verdict form. The court will apply the same standard to the dismissal or removal of a non-party as it would to a party.

(ii) Notwithstanding any applicable statute or limitation or repose, the plaintiff may, within sixty days of the proof of service required pursuant to subitem (i), assert any claim against the non-party arising out of the occurrence that is the subject matter of the original complaint.

(b) In order for a jury or court to allocate any or all fault to a non-party for the purpose of apportioning damages, a defendant must prove at trial by a preponderance of the evidence the fault of the non-party in causing the plaintiff's damages. If the court determines that the defendant has failed to meet the burden of proof for the fault of the nonparty in causing the plaintiff's damages, the non-party shall not be allocated any fault for the purpose of apportioning damages.

(c) There shall be no allocation of fault to a non-party who is:

(i) immune from liability for the plaintiff's alleged damages;

(ii) not subject to the court's jurisdiction;

(iii) not subject to liability for the plaintiff's alleged damages because the claim is barred by a statute of limitations or statute of repose;

(iv) charged with or convicted of any crime in relation to the occurrence that is the subject of the underlying complaint;

(v) directly or indirectly owned, managed, or controlled by a defendant, including any non-party with which there is commonality in the executives, managers, or officer of a defendant and a non-party; or

(vi) who the defendant's liability is imputed or based upon the fault of the non-party.

(d) There shall be no allocation of fault to a non-party when the defendant's liability is based on:

(i) wilful, wanton, reckless, grossly negligent, intentional, or criminally chargeable conduct;

(ii) negligence and the non-party's liability is based on any basis other than negligence, including, but not limited, to intentional, wanton, or reckless misconduct, strict liability or liability pursuant to any cause action created by statute;

(iii) strict liability;

(iv) a toxic or environmental tort; or

(v) any cause of action created by statute.

(e) Prior to including a non-party who is engaged in a profession designated by Section 15-36-100(G), the party seeking to designate such a non-party must comply with the provisions and procedures in Section 15-36-100 if the fault sought to be attributed to such party arises from alleged professional negligence.

(2) If the percentage of fault of the ~~claimant~~-plaintiff is greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the act or omission that caused the ~~claimant's~~-plaintiff's damage, then the jury shall return a verdict for the defendant and no further jury deliberation is required.

(3) If the percentage of fault of the ~~claimant~~-plaintiff is not greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the act or omission that caused the ~~claimant's~~-plaintiff's damage, then the jury shall determine the total amount of damages the ~~claimant~~-plaintiff would be entitled to recover if comparative fault were disregarded. If the percentage of fault of any one defendant is greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the act or omission that caused the plaintiff's damage, then that defendant is jointly and severally liable for the total amount of the plaintiff's damages.

(4) ~~Upon~~ Except for defendants greater than fifty percent of the total fault, upon the completion of subitem (3), the court shall enter judgment for the ~~claimant~~ plaintiff against each defendant in an amount equal to the total amount of damages awarded in subitem (3) multiplied by the percentage of fault assigned to each respective defendant in subitem (1).

(5) ~~The court may determine that two or more persons are to be treated as a single party. Such treatment must be used where two or more persons acted in concert or where, by reason of agency, employment, or other legal relationship, a party is vicariously responsible for another party.~~ A defendant shall not be entitled to a setoff from any settlement received from any potential tortfeasor prior to the verdict.

Section 61-2-145. (A) In addition to all other requirements, a person licensed or permitted to sell alcoholic beverages for on-premises consumption, which remains open after five o'clock p.m. to sell alcoholic beverages for on-premises consumption, is required to maintain a liquor liability insurance policy or a general liability insurance policy with a liquor liability endorsement ~~for a total coverage~~ with an annual aggregate limit of at least one million dollars during the period of the biennial permit or license, unless the person licensed or permitted to sell alcoholic beverages qualifies under the terms of a liquor liability risk mitigation program pursuant to subsection (E). Failure to maintain this coverage during the period of the biennial permit or license constitutes grounds for suspension or revocation of the permit or license and is sufficient grounds for the department to seek an emergency revocation order as provided in Sections 12-60-1340 and 1-23-370(c). An insurance policy issued pursuant to this section must provide for minimum coverage of at least fifty percent of the total aggregate limit, per occurrence, given rise to the claim.

(B) The department shall add this requirement to all applications and renewals for biennial permits or licenses to sell alcoholic beverages for on-premises consumption, in which the permittees and licensees remain open and sell alcoholic beverages for on-premises consumption after five o'clock p.m. Each applicant or person renewing its license or permit, to whom this requirement applies, shall provide the department with documentation of a liquor liability insurance policy or a general liability insurance policy with a liquor liability endorsement in the required amounts.

(C) Each insurer writing liquor liability insurance policies or general liability insurance policies with a liquor liability endorsement to a person licensed or permitted to sell alcoholic beverages for on-premises consumption, in which the person so licensed or permitted remains open to sell alcoholic beverages for on-premises consumption after five o'clock p.m., must notify the department in a manner prescribed by department regulation of the lapse or termination of the liquor liability insurance policy or the general liability insurance policy with a liquor liability endorsement within thirty days of the lapse or termination.

(D) For the purposes of this section, the term "alcoholic beverages" means beer, wine, alcoholic liquors, and alcoholic liquor by the drink as defined in Chapter 4, Title 61, and Chapter 6, Title 61.

(E) A person licensed or permitted to sell alcoholic beverages for on-premises consumption, which remains open after five o'clock p.m. to sell alcoholic beverages for on-premises consumption, may qualify for liquor liability risk mitigation. A person qualifies if the person and the entity for which the person obtained the license or permit:

(1) stop serving alcohol by twelve o'clock a.m. A person meeting the requirements of this item may reduce the required annual aggregate limit by one hundred thousand dollars, and an additional one hundred thousand dollars for each hour earlier until six o'clock p.m.;

(2) complete an alcohol server training course pursuant to Title 61, Chapter 3;

(3) have less than forty percent of its total sales deriving from alcohol sales; or

(4) are a nonprofit organization which is exempt from taxation pursuant to Section 501(c) of Title 26 of United States Code, as amended, or the entity is engaging in a single event for which a Beer and Wine Special Event License or Liquor Special Event Permit is obtained.

TUESDAY, MARCH 18, 2025

(5) A person meeting the requirement of item (2) or (3) may reduce the required annual aggregate limit by one hundred thousand dollars each. An entity meeting the requirements of item (4) may reduce the annual aggregate limit by five hundred thousand dollars. A person complying with any combination of items (1)-(4) must receive the permitted reduction in the required annual aggregate limit for each item the entity complies with provided a person licensed or permitted to sell alcoholic beverages for on-premises consumption, which remains open after five o'clock p.m. to sell alcoholic beverages for on-premises consumption, must at all times maintain coverage with an annual aggregate limit of at least two hundred fifty thousand dollars during the period of the biennial permit or license.

(6) Insurers must establish liquor liability mitigation measures and offer premium discounts for compliance therewith that reduce the risk to the general public associated with the service of on-premises consumption of alcohol.

(F) For purposes of this section, the calculation of total sales shall include sales of alcohol sold for on-premises consumption and all food and nonalcoholic beverages sold on the premises where the alcohol is sold, including food and nonalcoholic beverages sold by third-party vendors.

SECTION 4. Title 61 of the S.C. Code is amended by adding:

TUESDAY, MARCH 18, 2025

(D) The department, in collaboration with DAODAS and the division, may suspend or revoke the authorization of a provider that the department determines has violated the provisions of this chapter. Section 61-3-130. (A) The provider of a program that is authorized by the department must pay a fee, in an amount to be determined by the department, not to exceed five hundred dollars per year, renewable each year. (C) On or before the second Tuesday of each year, the department, with the assistance of the division, must make a report of all income and expenditures made from the Responsible Alcohol Server Training Fund as of December thirty-first of the previous year. A copy of the report shall be given to the Governor, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the President of the Senate; posted on the websites of the department and the division; and recorded in the journals of each body of the General Assembly at the beginning of each legislative year.

Section 61-3-140. (A)(1) The department must issue an alcohol server certificate to each applicant who completes an approved program or a recertification program and who provides other information as may be required by the department in an application form that is available on the department's website. A person must apply for an alcohol server certificate within six months of completing a program. The department, if circumstances warrant the issuance of a temporary alcohol server certificate, may issue a temporary alcohol server certificate that is valid for a period of no more than thirty calendar days.

(2) The department, in collaboration with DAODAS and the division, may issue an alcohol server certificate to an individual from outside of the State who applies for an alcohol server certificate if the individual has an alcohol server certificate from a nationally recognized or comparable, state-recognized alcohol server certification program that the department, DAODAS, and the division find meets or exceeds the programs offered in this State.

Amendment No. 3A

Senator GOLDFINCH proposed the following amendment (SR-244.KM0034S), which was carried over:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, by striking all after the enacting words and inserting:

SECTION 1.A. Section 15-38-15 of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

Section 15-38-15. (A) In an action to recover damages in tort: ~~resulting from personal injury, wrongful death, or damage to property or to recover damages for economic loss or for noneconomic loss such as mental distress, loss of enjoyment, pain, suffering, loss of reputation, or loss of companionship resulting from tortious conduct, if indivisible damages are determined to be proximately caused by more than one defendant, joint and several liability does not apply to any defendant whose conduct is determined to be less than fifty percent of the total fault for the indivisible damages as compared with the total of: (i) the fault of all the defendants; and (ii) the fault (comparative negligence), if any, of plaintiff. A defendant whose conduct is determined to be less than fifty percent of the total fault shall only be liable for that percentage of the indivisible damages determined by the jury or trier of fact.~~

(1) The jury-trier of fact shall determine the percentage of fault of the claimant/plaintiff, of the defendant or defendants, and of any nonparty whose tortious act or omission was proven to be a proximate cause of the claimant's/plaintiff's alleged damages. For purposes of apportioning fault on the verdict form, a "nonparty" means an individual or entity who has previously settled a claim arising out of the same tortious act or occurrence with the plaintiff, or if more than one plaintiff, who has previously settled with any plaintiff in the same civil action. The jury may not be informed of any immunity defense that is available to the nonparty. In assessing percentage of fault, the jury or the court shall

~~consider the fault of all persons or entities whose alleged act or omission was a proximate cause of the alleged damage, regardless of whether the person or entity was or could have been named as a party. The percentage of fault of the parties to the action may total less than one hundred percent if the jury finds that fault contributing to the claimant's loss has also come from a nonparty or nonparties.~~

~~_____ (2) If the percentage of fault of the claimant is greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the act or omission that caused the claimant's damage, then the jury shall return a verdict for the defendant and no further jury deliberation is required. A settling party shall be placed on the verdict form if there is any evidence sufficient to survive a South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure Rule 50 Directed Verdict Motion that the settling party was proximate cause, in whole or in part, of the plaintiff's damages.~~

~~_____ (3) If the percentage of fault of the plaintiff is greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the act or omission that caused the plaintiff's damages, then the jury shall return a verdict for the defendant and no further jury deliberation is required.~~

~~_____ (3)(4) If the plaintiff's percentage of fault of the claimant is not greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the tortious act or omission that caused the claimant's damage plaintiff's damages, then the jury shall determine the total amount of damages that the claimant plaintiff would be entitled to recover if comparative fault were disregarded.~~

~~_____ (4)(5) Upon the completion of subitem (3)(4), the court shall enter judgment for the claimant plaintiff against each defendant in an amount equal to the total amount of damages awarded in subitem (3)(4) multiplied by the percentage of fault assigned to each respective defendant in subitem (1).~~

~~_____ (5) The court may determine that two or more persons are to be treated as a single party. Such treatment must be used where two or more persons acted in concert or where, by reason of agency, employment, or other legal relationship, a party is vicariously responsible for another party.~~

~~(B) Apportionment of percentages of fault among defendants is to be determined as specified in subsection (C).~~

~~_____ (1) specify the amount of damages;~~

~~_____ (2) determine the percentage of fault, if any, of plaintiff and the amount of recoverable damages under applicable rules concerning "comparative negligence"; and~~

TUESDAY, MARCH 18, 2025

~~—(3) upon a motion by at least one defendant, where there is a verdict under items (1) and (2) above for damages against two or more defendants for the same indivisible injury, death, or damage to property, specify in a separate verdict under the procedures described at subitem (b) below the percentage of liability that proximately caused the indivisible injury, death, damage to property, or economic loss from tortious conduct, as determined by item (1) above, that is attributable to each defendant whose actions are a proximate cause of the indivisible injury, death, or damage to property. In determining the percentage attributable to each defendant, any fault of the plaintiff, as determined by item (2) above, will be included so that the total of the percentages of fault attributed to the plaintiff and to the defendants must be one hundred percent. In calculating the percentage of fault attributable to each defendant, inclusion of any percentage of fault of the plaintiff (as determined in item (2) above) shall not reduce the amount of plaintiff's recoverable damages (as determined under item (2) above).~~

~~—(a) For this purpose, the court may determine that two or more persons are to be treated as a single party. Such treatment must be used where two or more defendants acted in concert or where, by reason of agency, employment, or other legal relationship, a defendant is vicariously responsible for the conduct of another defendant.~~

~~—(b) After the initial verdict awarding damages is entered and before the special verdict on percentages of liability is rendered, the parties shall be allowed oral argument, with the length of such argument subject to the discretion of the trial judge, on the determination of the percentage attributable to each defendant. However, no additional evidence shall be allowed.~~

~~—(D) A defendant shall retain the right to assert that another potential tortfeasor, whether or not a party, contributed to the alleged injury or damages and/or may be liable for any or all of the damages alleged by any other party.~~

~~—(E) Notwithstanding the application of this section, setoff from any settlement received from any potential tortfeasor prior to the verdict shall be applied in proportion to each defendant's percentage of liability as determined pursuant to subsection (C).~~

~~—(F) This section does not apply to a defendant whose conduct is determined to be wilful, wanton, reckless, grossly negligent, or intentional or conduct involving the use, sale, or possession of alcohol or the illegal or illicit use, sale, or possession of drugs.~~

(B) Within one hundred eighty days of commencement of an action or by leave of court for good cause shown, a defendant may move to add as a party any person or entity to the verdict form who may be liable to the plaintiff, if the defendant has a reasonable basis to believe that the person's or entity's act or omission was a proximate cause of the plaintiff's alleged damages, which must be set forth in its motion. Nothing in this section is intended to modify or alter any other statutory prerequisite a party must meet to add another party to the lawsuit, including but not limited to the provisions of Section 15-36-100. A defendant who moves to add another person or entity is subject to the following:

(1) notice of the pleading filed in accordance with subsection (B) must be served on the added party and all existing parties;

(2) any party, including the one added, may make any motion at the appropriate time, including, but not limited to, a motion pursuant to Rules 12, 50, and 56 of the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure to dismiss or otherwise remove the added party from the verdict form. The court shall apply the same standard to the dismissal or removal of an added party, as it would to any party;

(3) the plaintiff may, within sixty days of proof of service required pursuant to subitem (1), amend the plaintiff's pleading to assert any claim against the added party arising out of the occurrence that is the subject matter of the pending litigation. The claim asserted in the amended pleading will be deemed to have arisen out of the original occurrence and the amendment relates back to the order granting the motion to add a party to the verdict form; and

(4) in order for the trier of fact to allocate any or all fault to an added party for the purpose of apportioning damages, the defendant bears the burden of proof that the added party's conduct was a proximate cause of the plaintiff's injuries unless the plaintiff's pleading is amended to assert a direct claim against the added party.

(C) The following are excluded from being added as a party to the verdict form:

(1) a person or entity not subject to civil liability or payment of damages in a civil action due to worker's compensation statutes or U.S. Bankruptcy Code;

(2) a person or entity where the plaintiff's damages arise in whole or in part from assault, battery, sexual assault, sexual abuse, sexual misconduct, financial fraud, theft, or intoxication related to the occurrence that is the subject of an underlying dram shop complaint;

(3) a person whose fault is imputed to the defendant or whose fault is based upon the fault of the nonparty for which a defendant is vicariously liable;

TUESDAY, MARCH 18, 2025

(4) a person involved in a case where the causes of action involve strict liability;

(5) causes of action involving PFAS, asbestos, or environmental torts. In such cases liability shall be determined in accordance with other applicable statutory law and common law principles governing such torts; or

(6) causes of action involving personal injury toxic torts where the liability standard for causation is not a “but for” test. In such cases, liability shall be determined in accordance with other applicable statutory law and common law principles, governing such toxic torts.

(D) A defendant shall not be entitled to a setoff for monies paid by a settling party if the settling party is on the verdict form. A defendant can elect the setoff from the settling party in lieu of placing that person or entity on the verdict form.

(E) Nothing in this section shall be construed as eliminating the empty chair defense, which is the defendant’s right to assert that another potential tortfeasor, whether or not a party, contributed to the alleged injury or damages or may be liable for any or all of the damages alleged by the plaintiff.

(F) This section does not apply to an action commenced as of March, 13, 2025 by the State, a State agency, a municipality, a county, a local government, a regional public authority, a special purpose district, a public utility, or any other governmental entity or political subdivision, including, but not limited to, claims seeking recovery of public funds, remediation costs, or other damages arising from acts or omissions of third parties that result in harm to public health, safety, infrastructure, or the environment. In such actions, liability shall be determined in accordance with other applicable statutory law and common law principles governing such torts.

(G) This section does not apply to a defendant who is determined to be intoxicated at the time of the conduct or whose conduct is determined to be willful, wanton, reckless, grossly negligent, or intentional or conduct involving the illegal or illicit use, sale, or possession of drugs.

B. Section 15-38-20 of the S.C. Code is repealed.

C. Section 15-38-30 of the S.C. Code is repealed.

D. Section 15-38-40 of the S.C. Code is repealed.

~~— (1) the individual was visibly intoxicated at the time the alcohol was sold by the licensee; or~~

~~— (2) at the time the alcohol was sold, the licensee knew or should have known that the individual would become intoxicated based on factors that would be obvious to a reasonable person including, but not limited to, the licensee's knowledge of the number of alcoholic beverages served to the individual while on the licensee's premises.~~

(C) (1) A licensee that knowingly sells, serves, or furnishes alcohol to an individual under the age of twenty-one years old is civilly liable to that individual for damages arising out of the sale of alcohol to that individual if the sale of the alcohol was a proximate cause of bodily injury, death, or property damage to the individual and if A person other than the intoxicated individual, who has suffered bodily injury, death, or property damage caused by the acts or omissions of the intoxicated individual possesses a civil cause of action against a licensee if the person shows, by the preponderance of the evidence that the licensee:

(E)(1) The limitations for noneconomic damages rendered against any ~~health care~~ healthcare provider or ~~health care~~ healthcare institution do not apply if the jury or court determines that the defendant ~~was grossly negligent, wilful, wanton, or reckless, and such conduct was the proximate cause of the claimant's noneconomic damages, or if the defendant has engaged in fraud or misrepresentation related to the claim,~~

~~or if the defendant altered or destroyed medical records with the purpose of avoiding a claim or liability to the claimant;~~

~~_____ (1)(a) had an intent to harm and did in fact harm the claimant was grossly negligent, wilful, wanton, or reckless;~~

~~_____ (2)(b) has pled guilty to or been convicted of a felony arising out of the same act or course of conduct complained of by the plaintiff and that the act or course of conduct is a proximate cause of the plaintiff's damages; or~~

~~_____ (3)(c) acted or failed to act while under the influence of alcohol, or drugs that are not otherwise lawfully prescribed and administered in accordance with a valid prescription, or any intentionally consumed glue, aerosol, or other toxic vapor to the degree that his judgment was materially and appreciably impaired; or~~

~~_____ (d) was subjected to disciplinary proceedings before the Department of Labor, Licensing and Regulation that resulted in suspension or revocation of the defendant's professional license as a result of the act or course of conduct complained of by the plaintiff and that act or course of conduct is a proximate cause of the plaintiff's damages.~~

~~_____ (2) If the limitations for noneconomic damages are found to be inapplicable pursuant to the jury or court finding that the defendant's conduct fell within one of the exceptions herein, then the maximum limit of civil liability for the defendant, regardless of the number of claims or causes of action, shall not exceed ten times the current limitation on noneconomic damages, as adjusted pursuant to (F).~~

SECTION 14. Section 33-56-180 of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

Section 33-56-180. (A) A person sustaining an injury or dying by reason of the tortious act of commission or omission of an employee of a charitable organization, when the employee is acting within the scope of his employment, may recover in an action brought against the charitable organization only the actual damages he sustains in an amount not exceeding the limitations on liability imposed in the South Carolina Tort Claims Act in Chapter 78 of Title 15. An action against the charitable organization pursuant to this section constitutes a complete bar to any recovery by the claimant, by reason of the same subject matter, against the employee of the charitable organization whose act or omission gave rise to the claim unless it is alleged and proved by clear and convincing evidence: ~~in the action that the employee acted in a reckless, wilful, or grossly negligent manner, and the employee must be joined properly as a party defendant.~~

~~_____ (1) was grossly negligent, wilful, wanton, or reckless;~~

TUESDAY, MARCH 18, 2025

(2) has pled guilty to or been convicted of a felony arising out of the same act or course of conduct complained of by the plaintiff and that the act or course of conduct is a proximate cause of the plaintiff's damages;

(3) acted or failed to act while under the influence of alcohol or drugs to the degree that his judgement was materially or appreciably impaired; or

(4) was subjected to disciplinary proceedings before the Department of Labor, Licensing and Regulation that resulted in the suspension or revocation of the Defendant's professional license in any state as a result of a similar act or similar course of conduct complained of by the plaintiff and the act or course of conduct is a proximate cause of the plaintiff's damages.

(B) A judgment against an employee of a charitable organization may not be returned unless a specific finding is made that the ~~employee acted in a reckless, wilful, or grossly negligent manner~~ employee's conduct falls within one or more of the four categories set forth in subsection (A). Any judgment entered individually against each individual employee of the charitable organization shall not exceed the limitations on liability imposed in the South Carolina Tort Claims Act in Chapter 78 of Title 15, and may be entered for actual damages only. In actions where an employee is found to be individually liable, the maximum civil liability, regardless of the number of claims or causes of action, for the charitable organization and each employee, shall not exceed the limitation applicable to one occurrence, as defined by Section 15-78-30(g) for each employee. If the charitable organization for which the employee was acting cannot be determined at the time the action is instituted, the plaintiff may name as a party defendant the employee, and the entity for which the employee was acting must be added or substituted as party defendant when it reasonably can be determined.

~~(B)~~(C) If the actual damages from the injury or death giving rise to the action arose from the use or operation of a motor vehicle and exceed two hundred fifty thousand dollars, this section does not prevent the injured person from recovering benefits pursuant to Section 38-77-160 but in an amount not to exceed the limits of the uninsured or underinsured coverage.

SECTION 15. Chapter 59, Title 38 of the S.C. Code is amended by adding:

Section 38-59-23. (A) An action for bad faith involving a liability, underinsured motorists, or an uninsured motorists insurance claim, including any such action brought under the common law, is not actionable if:

TUESDAY, MARCH 18, 2025

(1) in response to a demand for the policy limits made by the claimant prior to suit being filed on the underlying tort claim, the insurer tenders the policy limits within ninety days after receiving actual notice of a claim that is accompanied by sufficient evidence to support liability and the amount of the claim; or

(2) in response to a demand for the policy limits made by the claimant after suit has been filed on the underlying tort claim, the insurer tenders the policy limits by the later of:

(a) ten months after the suit was filed, or

(b) thirty days after receiving actual notice of the demand for the policy limits.

(B) If suit is filed on the underlying tort claim less than ninety days after the insurer receives a demand for policy limits, the time period for review and payment provided in (A)(2) applies rather than the time limit provided in (A)(1).

(C)(1) In any bad faith action against an insurer, whether such action is brought under this section or is based on the common law remedy for bad faith, mere negligence or a verdict in excess of the policy limits on the underlying tort claim, by itself, is insufficient to constitute bad faith.

(2) In any action for bad faith against an insurer, the trier of fact may consider whether the insured, claimant, or representative of the insured or claimant did not act in good faith, in which case the trier of fact may reasonably reduce the amount of damages awarded against the insurer.

(D) The insured, claimant, and representative of the insured or claimant have a duty to act in good faith in furnishing information regarding the claim, in making demands of the insurer, in setting deadlines, and in attempting to settle the claim. This duty does not create a separate cause of action but may only be considered for the purpose of reasonably reducing the amount of damages awarded against the insurer as provided in subsection (C)(2).

(E) If two or more third party claimants have competing claims arising out of a single occurrence, which in total may exceed the available policy limits of one or more of the insured parties who may be liable to the third-party claimants, then an insurer is not liable beyond the available policy limits for failure to pay all or any portion of the available policy limits to one or more of the third-party claimants if the insurer issues a global offer for its policy limits within ninety days after receiving notice of the competing claims accompanied by sufficient evidence to support liability and the amount of the claims. If the claims of the competing third-party claimants are found to be in excess of the insurer's policy limits, then the third-party claimants are entitled to a prorated share of the policy limits as determined by the trier of fact.

SECTION 16. Section 15-3-640 of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

Section 15-3-640. (A) No actions to recover damages based upon or arising out of the defective or unsafe condition of an improvement to real property may be brought more than ~~eight-ten~~ years after substantial completion of the improvement. For purposes of this section, an action based upon or arising out of the defective or unsafe condition of an improvement to real property includes:

(1) an action to recover damages for breach of a contract to construct or repair an improvement to real property;

(2) an action to recover damages for the negligent construction or repair of an improvement to real property;

(3) an action to recover damages for personal injury, death, or damage to property;

(4) an action to recover damages for economic or monetary loss;

(6) an action for contribution or indemnification for damages sustained on account of an action described in this section;

(8) an action brought against any current or prior owner of the real property or improvement, or against any other person having a current or prior interest in the real property or improvement;

(9) an action against owners or manufacturers of components, or against any person furnishing materials, or against any person who develops real property, or who performs or furnishes the design, plans, specifications, surveying, planning, supervision, testing, or observation of construction, or construction of an improvement to real property, or a repair to an improvement to real property.

(B) This section describes an outside limitation of ~~eight-ten~~ years after the substantial completion of the improvement, within which normal statutes of limitations continue to run.

(C) A building permit for the construction of an improvement to real property must contain in bold type notice to the owner or possessor of the property of his rights under this section to contract for a guarantee of the structure being free from defective or unsafe conditions beyond ~~eight~~ ten years after substantial completion of the improvement. The Department of Consumer Affairs shall publish in conspicuous places the right of an owner or possessor to contract for extended liability under this section. Nothing in this section prohibits a person from entering into a contractual agreement prior to the substantial completion of the improvement which extends any guarantee of a structure or component being free from defective or unsafe conditions beyond ~~eight-ten~~ years after substantial completion of the improvement or component.

(D) For any improvement to real property, a certificate of occupancy issued by a county or municipality, in the case of new construction or completion of a final inspection by the responsible building official in the case of improvements to existing improvements, shall constitute proof of substantial completion of the improvement under the provisions of Section 15-3-630, unless the contractor and owner, by written agreement, establish a different date of substantial completion.

SECTION 17. Section 61-4-580(B) of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

~~(B) a violation of any provision of this section is a ground for the revocation or suspension of the holder's permit.~~ In addition to civil liability by law, including as provided in Section 15-3-710, a permittee or licensee that violates any provision of this section

(1) for a first offense, shall be fined two thousand five hundred dollars by the department;

(2) for a second offense within a two year of the first offense, shall have its alcohol license or permit suspended for up to fourteen days as determined by the department; and

SECTION 18. Section 15-3-670 of the S.C. Code is repealed.

SECTION 19. The repeal or amendment by this act of any law, whether temporary or permanent or civil or criminal, does not affect pending actions, rights, duties, or liabilities founded thereon, or alter, discharge, release or extinguish any penalty, forfeiture, or liability incurred under the repealed or amended law, unless the repealed or amended provision shall so expressly provide. After the effective date of this act, all laws repealed or amended by this act must be taken and treated as remaining in full force and effect for the purpose of sustaining any pending or vested right, civil action, special proceeding, criminal prosecution, or appeal existing as of the effective date of this act, and for the enforcement of rights, duties, penalties, forfeitures, and liabilities as they stood under the repealed or amended laws.

SECTION 20. If any section, subsection, paragraph, subparagraph, sentence, clause, phrase, or word of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional or invalid, such holding shall not affect the constitutionality or validity of the remaining portions of this act, the

Amendment No. 4

Senators GOLDFINCH and GARRETT proposed the following amendment (SR-244.KM0020S), which was carried over:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, SECTION 1.A., by striking Section 15-38-15(A)(1), (2), (3), (4), and (5) and inserting:

(1) The jury shall determine the percentage of fault of the claimant, plaintiff, of the defendant, and of any nonparty whose act or omission arose out of the same occurrence that is the subject of the underlying complaint and was a proximate cause of the claimant's alleged damages. In assessing the percentage of fault, the jury or the court shall consider the fault of all persons or entities whose alleged act or omission was a proximate cause of the alleged damage, regardless of whether the person or entity was named as a party, subject to the limitations contained in subsection (A)(1)(c) and (d). The percentage of fault of the parties to the action may total less than one hundred percent if the jury finds that fault contributing to the plaintiff's damages also came from a non-party, provided that the total percentage of fault assigned to parties and non-parties equals one hundred percent. The jury may not be informed of any immunity defense that is available to the nonparty. In assessing percentage of fault, the jury or the court shall consider the fault of all persons or entities whose alleged act or omission was a proximate cause of the alleged damage, regardless of whether the person or entity was or could have been named as a party. The percentage of fault of the parties to the action may total less than one hundred percent if the jury finds that fault contributing to the claimant's loss has also come from a nonparty or nonparties.

(a) Prior to a jury or court allocating any or all fault to a non-party, the defendant must affirmatively identify the non-party and plead the facts and cause of action allegedly giving rise to the fault of a non-party in its answer, subject to amendment once as a matter of right in accordance with the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure.

(i) Notice of a pleading filed in accordance with (a) shall be served on all parties and the non-party in the manner provided for in the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure.

(ii) Any interested party may, at any time after receiving notice of the addition of a non-party, make any motion that would be available to a party, including, but not limited to, Rules 12, 50, or 56 of the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure, to dismiss or otherwise remove the non-party from the verdict form. The court will apply the same standard to the dismissal or removal of a non-party as it would to a party.

(ii) Notwithstanding any applicable statute or limitation or repose, the plaintiff may, within sixty days of the proof of service required pursuant to subitem (i), assert any claim against the non-party arising out of the occurrence that is the subject matter of the original complaint.

(b) In order for a jury or court to allocate any or all fault to a non-party for the purpose of apportioning damages, a defendant must prove at trial by a preponderance of the evidence the fault of the non-party in causing the plaintiff's damages. If the court determines that the defendant has failed to meet the burden of proof for the fault of the non-party in causing the plaintiff's damages, the non-party shall not be allocated any fault for the purpose of apportioning damages.

TUESDAY, MARCH 18, 2025

(c) There shall be no allocation of fault to a non-party who is:
(i) immune from liability for the plaintiff's alleged damages;
(ii) not subject to the court's jurisdiction;
(iii) not subject to liability for the plaintiff's alleged damages because the claim is barred by a statute of limitations or statute of repose;
(iv) charged with or convicted of any crime in relation to the occurrence that is the subject of the underlying complaint;
(v) directly or indirectly owned, managed, or controlled by a defendant, including any non-party with which there is commonality in the executives, managers, or officer of a defendant and a non-party; or (vi) who the defendant's liability is imputed or based upon the fault of the non-party.

(d) There shall be no allocation of fault to a non-party when the defendant's liability is based on:
(i) wilful, wanton, reckless, grossly negligent, intentional, or criminally chargeable conduct;
(ii) negligence and the non-party's liability is based on any basis other than negligence, including, but not limited, to intentional, wanton, or reckless misconduct, strict liability or liability pursuant to any cause action created by statute;
(iii) strict liability;
(iv) a toxic or environmental tort; or
(v) any cause of action created by statute.

(e) Prior to including a non-party who is engaged in a profession designated by Section 15-36-100(G), the party seeking to designate such a non-party must comply with the provisions and procedures in Section 15-36-100 if the fault sought to be attributed to such party arises from alleged professional negligence.

(2) If the percentage of fault of the ~~claimant~~-plaintiff is greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the act or omission that caused the ~~claimant's~~-plaintiff's damage, then the jury shall return a verdict for the defendant and no further jury deliberation is required.

(3) If the percentage of fault of the ~~claimant~~-plaintiff is not greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the act or omission that caused the ~~claimant's~~-plaintiff's damage, then the jury shall determine the total amount of damages the ~~claimant~~-plaintiff would be entitled to recover if comparative fault were disregarded. If the percentage of fault of any one defendant is greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the act or omission that caused the plaintiff's damage, then that defendant is jointly and severally liable for the total amount of the

TUESDAY, MARCH 18, 2025

(4) ~~Upon~~ Except for defendants greater than fifty percent of the total fault, upon the completion of subitem (3), the court shall enter judgment for the ~~claimant~~ plaintiff against each defendant in an amount equal to the total amount of damages awarded in subitem (3) multiplied by the percentage of fault assigned to each respective defendant in subitem (1).

(5) ~~The court may determine that two or more persons are to be treated as a single party. Such treatment must be used where two or more persons acted in concert or where, by reason of agency, employment, or other legal relationship, a party is vicariously responsible for another party.~~ A defendant shall not be entitled to a setoff from any settlement received from any potential tortfeasor prior to the verdict.

~~_____ (1)(a) had an intent to harm and did in fact harm the claimant acted in a wilful, wanton, or reckless manner;~~

~~_____ (2)(b) has pled guilty to or been convicted of a felony arising out of the same act or course of conduct complained of by the plaintiff and that the act or course of conduct is a proximate cause of the plaintiff's damages; or~~

~~_____ (3)(c) acted or failed to act while under the influence of alcohol, or drugs that are not otherwise lawfully prescribed and administered in accordance with a valid prescription, or any intentionally consumed glue, aerosol, or other toxic vapor to the degree that his judgment was materially and appreciably impaired~~

_____ (2) If the limitations for noneconomic damages are found to be inapplicable pursuant to the jury or court finding that the defendant's conduct fell within one of the exceptions herein, then the maximum limit of civil liability for the defendant, regardless of the number of claims or causes of action, shall not exceed ten times the current limitation on noneconomic damages, as adjusted pursuant to (F).

Amend the bill further by striking SECTION 13 and inserting:

Section 38-59-23. (A) An action for bad faith involving a liability, underinsured motorists, or an uninsured motorists insurance claim, including any such action brought under the common law, is not actionable if:

~~_____ (1),~~ in response to a demand for the policy limits made by the claimant prior to suit being filed on the underlying tort claim, the insurer tenders the policy limits within ~~ninety~~ thirty days after receiving actual notice of a claim that is accompanied by sufficient evidence to support liability and the amount of the claim; ~~or.~~

~~— (2) in response to a demand for the policy limits made by the claimant after suit has been filed on the underlying tort claim, the insurer tenders the policy limits by the later of:~~

~~— (a) ten months after the suit was filed, or~~

~~— (b) thirty days after receiving actual notice of the demand for the policy limits.~~

~~— (B) If suit is filed on the underlying tort claim less than ninety days after the insurer receives a demand for policy limits, the time period for review and payment provided in (A)(2) applies rather than the time limit provided in (A)(1).~~

~~(C)(B)(1)~~ In any bad faith action against an insurer, whether such action is brought under this section or is based on the common law remedy for bad faith, mere negligence or a verdict in excess of the policy limits on the underlying tort claim, by itself, is insufficient to constitute bad faith.

(2) In any action for bad faith against an insurer, the trier of fact may consider whether the insured, claimant, or representative of the insured or claimant did not act in good faith, in which case the trier of fact may reasonably reduce the amount of damages awarded against the insurer.

~~(D)(C)~~ The insured, claimant, and representative of the insured or claimant have a duty to act in good faith in furnishing information regarding the claim, in making demands of the insurer, in setting deadlines, and in attempting to settle the claim. This duty does not create a separate cause of action but may only be considered for the purpose of reasonably reducing the amount of damages awarded against the insurer as provided in subsection (C)(2).

~~(E)(D)~~ If two or more third party claimants have competing claims arising out of a single occurrence, which in total may exceed the available policy limits of one or more of the insured parties who may be liable to the third-party claimants, then an insurer is not liable beyond the available policy limits for failure to pay all or any portion of the available policy limits to one or more of the third-party claimants if the insurer issues a global offer for its policy limits within ~~ninety~~thirty days after receiving notice of the competing claims accompanied by sufficient evidence to support liability and the amount of the claims. If the claims of the competing third-party claimants are found to be in excess of the insurer's policy limits, then the third-party claimants are entitled to a prorated share of the policy limits as determined by the trier of fact.

Amendment No. 8

Senator MASSEY proposed the following amendment (SR-244.CEM0044S):

Amend the bill, as and if amended, by striking SECTION 1.A, Section 15-38-15 and inserting:

SECTION 1.A. Section 15-38-15 of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

Section 15-38-15. (A) In an action to recover damages in tort: ~~resulting from personal injury, wrongful death, or damage to property or to recover damages for economic loss or for noneconomic loss such as mental distress, loss of enjoyment, pain, suffering, loss of reputation, or loss of companionship resulting from tortious conduct, that is (i) brought against one defendant, or two defendants who may be treated as a single party, or two or more defendants, and (ii) tried to a jury, the court shall instruct the jury to determine its verdict in the following manner, unless all of the parties agree otherwise: if indivisible damages are determined to be proximately caused by more than one defendant, joint and several liability does not apply to any defendant whose conduct is determined to be less than fifty percent of the total fault for the indivisible damages as~~ compared with the total of: (i) the fault of all the defendants; and (ii) the fault (comparative negligence), if any, of plaintiff. A defendant whose conduct is determined to be less than fifty percent of the total fault shall only be liable for that percentage of the indivisible damages determined by the jury or trier of fact.

(1) The ~~jury~~ trier of fact shall determine the percentage of fault of the ~~claimant~~ plaintiff, of the defendant or defendants, and of any nonparty whose tortious act or omission occurrence was proven to be a proximate cause of the ~~claimant's~~ plaintiff's alleged damages. For purposes of apportioning fault on the verdict form, a "nonparty" means an individual or entity who has previously settled a claim arising out of the same tortious act or occurrence with the plaintiff, or if more than one plaintiff, who has previously settled with any plaintiff in the same civil action. The jury may not be informed of any immunity defense that is available to the nonparty. In assessing percentage of fault, the jury or the court shall consider the fault of all persons or entities whose alleged act or omission was a proximate cause of the alleged damage, regardless of whether the person or entity was or could have been named as a party. The percentage of fault of the parties to the action may total less than one hundred percent if the jury finds that fault contributing to the claimant's loss has also come from a nonparty or nonparties.

(2) If the percentage of fault of the claimant is greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the act or omission that caused the claimant's damage, then the jury shall return a verdict for the defendant and no further jury deliberation is required. A settling party shall be placed on the verdict form if there is any evidence sufficient to survive a South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure Rule 50 Directed Verdict Motion that the settling party was proximate cause, in whole or in part, of the plaintiff's damages.

(3) If the percentage of fault of the plaintiff is greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the tortious act or omission that caused the plaintiff's damages, then the jury shall return a verdict for the defendant and no further jury deliberation is required.

(3)(4) If the plaintiff's percentage of fault of the claimant is not greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the tortious act or omission that caused the claimant's damage plaintiff's damages, then the jury shall determine the total amount of damages that the claimant plaintiff would be entitled to recover if comparative fault were disregarded.

(4)(5) Upon the completion of subitem (3)(4), the court shall enter judgment for the claimant plaintiff against each defendant in an amount equal to the total amount of damages awarded in subitem (3)(4) multiplied by the percentage of fault assigned to each respective defendant in subitem (1).

~~— (5) The court may determine that two or more persons are to be treated as a single party. Such treatment must be used where two or more persons acted in concert or where, by reason of agency, employment, or other legal relationship, a party is vicariously responsible for another party.~~

~~(B) Apportionment of percentages of fault among defendants is to be determined as specified in subsection (C).~~

~~— (C) (B) The jury, or the court if there is no jury, shall: If there is no jury, then the court shall specify the amount of damages and determine the percentages of fault as prescribed in subsection (A).~~

~~— (1) specify the amount of damages;~~

~~— (2) determine the percentage of fault, if any, of plaintiff and the amount of recoverable damages under applicable rules concerning “comparative negligence”; and~~

~~— (3) upon a motion by at least one defendant, where there is a verdict under items (1) and (2) above for damages against two or more defendants for the same indivisible injury, death, or damage to property, specify in a separate verdict under the procedures described at subitem (b) below the percentage of liability that proximately caused the indivisible injury, death, damage to property, or economic loss from tortious conduct, as determined by item (1) above, that is attributable to each defendant whose actions are a proximate cause of the indivisible injury, death, or damage to property. In determining the percentage attributable to each defendant, any fault of the plaintiff, as determined by item (2) above, will be included so that the total of the percentages of fault attributed to the plaintiff and to the defendants must be one hundred percent. In calculating the percentage of fault attributable to each defendant, inclusion of any percentage of fault of the plaintiff (as determined in item (2) above) shall not reduce the amount of plaintiff's recoverable damages (as determined under item (2) above).~~

~~— (a) For this purpose, the court may determine that two or more persons are to be treated as a single party. Such treatment must be used where two or more defendants acted in concert or where, by reason of agency, employment, or other legal relationship, a defendant is vicariously responsible for the conduct of another defendant.~~

~~— (b) After the initial verdict awarding damages is entered and before the special verdict on percentages of liability is rendered, the parties shall be allowed oral argument, with the length of such argument~~

TUESDAY, MARCH 18, 2025

~~subject to the discretion of the trial judge, on the determination of the percentage attributable to each defendant. However, no additional evidence shall be allowed.~~

~~—(D) A defendant shall retain the right to assert that another potential tortfeasor, whether or not a party, contributed to the alleged injury or damages and/or may be liable for any or all of the damages alleged by any other party.~~

~~—(E) Notwithstanding the application of this section, setoff from any settlement received from any potential tortfeasor prior to the verdict shall be applied in proportion to each defendant's percentage of liability as determined pursuant to subsection (C).~~

~~—(F) This section does not apply to a defendant whose conduct is determined to be wilful, wanton, reckless, grossly negligent, or intentional or conduct involving the use, sale, or possession of alcohol or the illegal or illicit use, sale, or possession of drugs.~~

(B) Within one hundred eighty days of commencement of an action, or by leave of court for good cause shown, a defendant may move to add to the verdict form any person or entity, not otherwise excluded by subsection (C), who may be, or may have been, liable to the plaintiff if the defendant has a reasonable basis to believe that the person's or entity's act or omission was a proximate cause of the plaintiff's alleged damages, which must be set forth in its motion. If the defendant will assert the person or entity committed an act of professional negligence, the provisions of Section 15-36-100 apply, and the affidavit required pursuant to Section 15-36-100(B) must be filed with the motion.

(1) Any party may make any motion at the appropriate time, including, but not limited to, a motion pursuant to Rules 12, 50, and 56 of the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure to dismiss or otherwise remove the added person or entity from the verdict form. The court shall apply the same standard to the dismissal or removal of an added person or entity, as it would to any party.

(2) In order for the trier of fact to allocate any or all fault to an added person or entity, the defendant bears the burden of proof that the added person's or entity's conduct was a proximate cause of the plaintiff's damages unless the plaintiff's pleading is amended to assert a direct claim against the added person or entity pursuant to subitem (3).

(3) The plaintiff may, within sixty days of the court granting a motion pursuant to this section, amend the plaintiff's pleading to assert any claim against the added person or entity arising out of the occurrence that is the subject matter of the pending litigation. This provision applies notwithstanding any statute of limitations as long as the plaintiff would have satisfied the applicable statute of limitations against the added person or entity if the plaintiff had named the added person or entity as a defendant when the suit was commenced.

(a) A person or entity added as a party pursuant to this subitem shall be identified as a defendant in the caption of the action.

(b) An amended pleading pursuant to this provision must comply with Rule 4 of the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure and be served on the added party within sixty days of filing the amended pleading.

(c) A party added pursuant to this provision has the same rights to defend or plead as a defendant under the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure.

(C) The following are excluded from being added to the verdict form pursuant to subsection (B):

(1) a person or entity not subject to civil liability or payment of damages in a civil action due to worker's compensation statutes or U.S. Bankruptcy Code;

(2) a person or entity where the plaintiff's damages arise in whole or in part from assault, battery, sexual assault, sexual abuse, sexual misconduct, financial fraud, or theft;

(3) a person whose fault is imputed to the defendant or whose fault is based upon the fault of the nonparty for which a defendant is vicariously liable;

(4) a person involved in a case where the causes of action involve strict liability;

(5) causes of action involving PFAS, asbestos, or environmental torts.

(D) A defendant shall not be entitled to a setoff for monies paid by a nonparty added to the verdict form pursuant to subsection (A) or a person or entity added to the verdict form pursuant to subsection (B). A defendant can elect the setoff from the added nonparty or added person or entity in lieu of placing that nonparty, person, or entity on the verdict form.

(E) Nothing in this section shall be construed as eliminating the empty chair defense, which is the defendant's right to assert that another potential tortfeasor, whether or not a party, contributed to the alleged injury or damages or may be liable for any or all of the damages alleged by the plaintiff.

Amend the bill further by striking Section 1.B, 1.C, and 1.D and inserting:

SECTION X. Section 15-38-20 of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

TUESDAY, MARCH 18, 2025

Section 15-38-20. (A) Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, where two or more persons become jointly or severally liable in tort for the same injury to person or property or for the same wrongful death, there is a right of contribution among them even though judgment has not been recovered against all or any of them.

(B) The right of contribution exists only in favor of a tortfeasor who has paid more than his pro rata share of the common liability, and his total recovery is limited to the amount paid by him in excess of his pro rata share. No tortfeasor is compelled to make contribution beyond his own pro rata share of the entire liability.

(C) There is no right of contribution in favor of any tortfeasor who has intentionally caused or contributed to the injury or wrongful death.

(D) A tortfeasor who enters into a settlement with a claimant is not entitled to recover contribution from another tortfeasor whose liability for the injury or wrongful death is not extinguished by the settlement nor in respect to any amount paid in a settlement which is in excess of what was reasonable.

(E) A liability insurer, who by payment has discharged in full or in part the liability of a tortfeasor and has thereby discharged in full its obligation as insurer, is subrogated to the tortfeasor's right of contribution to the extent of the amount it has paid in excess of the tortfeasor's pro rata share of the common liability. This provision does not limit or impair any right of subrogation arising from any other relationship.

(F) This chapter does not impair any right of indemnity under existing law. Where one tortfeasor is entitled to indemnity from another, the right of the indemnity obligee is for indemnity and not contribution, and the indemnity obligor is not entitled to contribution from the obligee for any portion of his indemnity obligation.

(G) This chapter does not apply to breaches of trust or of other fiduciary obligation.

(H) The provisions in this section apply only to causes of action where the nonparty tortfeasor was not added to the verdict form pursuant to Section 15-38-15(A)(1) or (C).

SECTION X. Section 15-38-30 of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

Section 15-38-30. In determining the pro rata shares of tortfeasors in the entire liability (1) their relative degrees of fault shall not be considered; (2) if equity requires, the collective liability of some as a group shall constitute a single share; and (3) principles of equity applicable to contribution generally shall apply. This section applies only to causes of action where the nonparty tortfeasor was not added to the verdict form pursuant to Section 15-38-15(A)(1) or (C).

SECTION X. Section 15-38-40 of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

Section 15-38-40. (A) Whether or not judgment has been entered in an action against two or more tortfeasors for the same injury or wrongful death, contribution may be enforced by separate action.

(B) Where a judgment has been entered in an action against two or more tortfeasors for the same injury or wrongful death, contribution may be enforced in that action by judgment in favor of one against other judgment defendants by motion upon notice to all parties to the action. Provided, however, contribution may not be enforced in the action until the issue of liability and resulting damages against the defendant or defendants named in the action is determined. Once the issue of liability has been resolved, subject to Section 15-38-20(B), a defendant has the right to seek contribution against any judgment defendant and other persons who were not made parties to the action.

(C) If there is a judgment for the injury or wrongful death against the tortfeasor seeking contribution, any separate action by him to enforce contribution must be commenced within one year after the judgment has become final by lapse of time for appeal or after appellate review.

(D) If there is no judgment for the injury or wrongful death against the tortfeasor seeking contribution, his right of contribution is barred unless he has either (1) discharged by payment the common liability within the statute of limitations period applicable to claimant's right of action against him and has commenced his action for contribution within one year after payment, or (2) agreed while action is pending against him to discharge the common liability and has within one year after the agreement paid the liability and commenced his action for contribution.

(E) The recovery of a judgment for an injury or wrongful death against one tortfeasor does not of itself discharge the other tortfeasors from liability for the injury or wrongful death unless the judgment is satisfied. The satisfaction of the judgment does not impair any right of contribution.

(F) The judgment of the court in determining the liability of the several defendants to the claimant for an injury or wrongful death shall be binding as among such defendants in determining their right to contribution.

(G) The provisions in this section apply only to causes of action where the nonparty tortfeasor was not added to the verdict form pursuant to Section 15-38-15(A)(1) or (C).

~~Indicates Matter Stricken~~

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 1:00 P.M., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Micah 7:8

Micah, the prophet, tells us: "Do not gloat over me, my enemy! Though I have fallen, I will rise. Though I sit in darkness, the Lord will be my light."

Let us pray, my friends: Holy God, may it be that we all can learn from the prophet Micah. Even with vast problems before him -- a city and nation destroyed, citizens in exile -- nonetheless, Micah never lost faith. His heart, by Your grace, O Lord, remained hopeful. And that is why, dear God, we fervently pray that such will be true for these women and men serving You here in the Senate of South Carolina. Problems facing the people of our State today are also great, as are those issues that confront so many of our sisters and brothers around the globe. So, Lord, fill the heart of each Senator and staff member in this place with Your true light, leading them to respond justly to the demands of our day. In Your loving name do we pray, dear Lord. Amen.

Remarks by Senator MATTHEWS

I would request, Mr. PRESIDENT, that Senator SABB join me at the podium. My esteemed colleagues, you all know I have been coming forward to share some of what I have learned during this Women's History Month. I have sat over on the other -- I say other with a deeper tone, side of the room for this session. In so doing I have been looking up at a picture of a woman. I will be the first one to tell you, I did not totally appreciate who that woman was or the impact she had on women's history and on this Senate. I would ask that you join me in looking at the picture of the first female to run for the Senate and to win.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 19, 2025

I want to just say a little about her, then I will explain why I have asked Senator SABB to join me. As more and more women enter the political arena, it seems fitting to tell the story of South Carolina's first female senator, who was born in little Williamsburg County. I did not know that, no one told us that. She represented Jasper County in the South Carolina Senate, I did not know, Senator DAVIS, did you know, the first woman represented a county we represent, Jasper County? Although she represented Jasper County, every Williamsburg County citizen should be proud of Mary Gordon Ellis as Senator Ellis. Back when she was elected did you know they wouldn't call her Senator? They called her Mary G. The men refused to allow her that title.

She was one of ten children born to Alexander McKnight Gordon and Mary Lee Gambrell Gordon. McKnight is a big name in that area. Mary Gordon was always interested in public service. The Gordons moved to Kingstree when she was a young girl. The story goes on to say one day when she was thirteen years old, she slipped away from the family farm and her father found her later that afternoon, I love this the most, curled up on one of the back benches in the courthouse of Williamsburg County listening intently to the arguments on a case that was being tried. She was one of seven in the 1909 graduating class of Kingstree Graded and High School. After teaching a year in Sutton, she decided to further her education, guess where, Senator CLIMER? Mary Gordon Ellis graduated from Winthrop College. She graduated there by catching a train and going there two hours a day. She graduated with a bachelor's degree in 1913. She accepted a position of teaching as a teaching principal at a small school in Jasper County. Much to the surprise of many in Kingstree, she quietly married Junius Gather Elliot at her home in Kingstree. Mary continued to teach after her marriage even after her three children, two daughters and one son were born. This was not unusual in that era, but she had the backing of her husband and felt the children of Jasper needed someone with her drive to provide better education. The first position she ran for was Superintendent of Education. This was in 1924. Most of you, I know you know your history. Pursuant to the 19th Amendment women didn't get a chance to vote until when? 1920. She came along to implement improvements to the school system and closed many of the one-room schoolhouses, consolidating them into larger schools. Senator HEMBREE, I know you like this. She insisted that teachers continue their own education so that they could keep up with the new trends in teaching, much to the dismay of many of the teachers who felt they had adequately equipped themselves -- equipped children without extra courses forced upon them.

Thank you, Senator Ellis. She encouraged building a teacherage, I have never heard of that, so teachers she recruited would have a place to live and risked the ire of taxpayers when she insisted students at a distance be bused to school.

That was the beginning, and it quickly became apparent Mary Gordon Ellis believed everyone should have access to a good education, no matter the color of their skin. When the Rosenwald grant money became available to build schools for African American children, she worked tirelessly to raise matching funds so that Jasper could become part of the project. She hired Mary Alice Miller to oversee the black schools and insisted those that dealt with her call her Mrs. Miller. A thing unheard of at the time. She also insisted that African American schools have new textbooks and not depend on the hand-me-downs from the white schools that were often tattered and missing papers. She made it clear that black children had just as much right to be bused to school as white children. Busing any children to school but especially busing African Americans to schools angered many white taxpayers. At their expense, Superintendent of Education was changed from elected to an appointed position. When Mary Ellis did not resign her position, she was fired. Mary Ellis was a fighter. She decided this was unacceptable. Within minutes of being fired, guess what she did? She ran for the State Senate. She ran for the State Senate in 1928. With the margin of 150 votes and a run-off, she won. She won that election by beating the man who fired her as superintendent. I love this woman. The campaign was hard-fought. She found herself fighting many battles once she reached the Senate. For her part, she was more interested in working on issues directly related to Jasper County residents and on education. Her fellow Senators eventually settled on calling her Mary G. because they didn't want to call her Senator Ellis. She continued to fight.

Soon after getting to the Senate -- and I told you she had three children -- she was also a bookkeeper for her husband's turpentine farm in Jasper County and a bookkeeper for her family's farm in Williamsburg County. She had three children, and she came to the Senate and fought hard. She ended up getting cancer and continued to serve and travel -- taking the train from Columbia to Florence. That was the only place that would give her radiation treatment for her uterine cancer. After she left the Senate, she would go there for treatment. All the while she was running the State Senate and pursuing economic issues for Jasper County, she was battling this life-threatening disease and helping run her family's businesses. As she continued to deteriorate, her children went to school and she still made sure they had tutors. Her next election came up in 1932. She was pondering whether she should run. Purty, the guy who she had beaten, who was once in the House and the Senate, Purty ran against her. She dropped out of the race because they told her the radiation treatment was not working. Her thirteen-year-old son -- I thought this was great -- Jake, accompanied her to Kingstree. Her daughters Beth and Mickey in high school in Savannah stayed with relatives while her husband continued to run the family farm and turpentine business. They visited as much as possible during her final months. In April of 1970 Ellen Foxworth related a story about young Jake. He arrived at the door of a teacher who was tutoring him one afternoon and asked for extra help in studying for an exam he was to take that evening. He said to his teacher, "Momma is dying, she just has to know that I passed this exam before she dies." On September 9, 1934, Mary Gordon Ellis's battle ended. She is buried in the Gordon Family plot at the cemetery in Kingstree. Involved until the end, she cast her absentee ballot for the 1934 Election on that day before her death.

Ladies and gentlemen, I didn't know that much about her, but she is my new hero. I'm going to take it as a special mission of us Senators, because I looked at her picture and I didn't know the history. The plot that she has is simply a block plot. You know those cement plots. That is all to represent her life. I just think we need to do more for someone who was a pioneer only four years after women even had the chance to vote. Thank you, very much.

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 11:00 A.M., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Deuteronomy 16:15

We read in Deuteronomy: “. . . for the Lord your God will bless you in all your produce and in all your undertakings, and you shall surely celebrate.”

Join me as we pray: O God of majesty and glory, as we think today about the many throughout our forty-six counties who labor actively to provide foods that we enjoy, we give you richest praise. For our farmers and dairymen, the owners of orchards, our commercial fishermen -- plus every organization which also provides support for these groups -- we offer our gratitude. And we pray, Lord, that You guide this Senate as it continues to do all that it can to strengthen even moreso each one of these truly important industries and all who labor in them. With thanks to all of these workers, what great blessings do we enjoy here in South Carolina. In Your loving name do we pray, O Lord. Amen.

The PRESIDENT called for Petitions, Memorials, Presentments of Grand Juries and such like papers.

The Senate assembled at 12:00 Noon, the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Habbakuk 3:19

Hear the prophet Habakkuk as he tells us: "God, the Lord, is my strength; he makes my feet like the feet of a deer, and makes me tread upon the heights."

Good friends, bow with me, please: Loving Lord, today we hear how Habbakuk poetically reminds us of the power we can all draw upon when we allow ourselves to trust in the blessings You grant us. Therefore, O God, we ask You today by Your grace to give the women and men here in the Senate of South Carolina a bold new perspective upon the work which is still before them. And may their renewed faith in You, O Blessed Lord, bring to each Senator fresh and meaningful visions of ways to move our State clearly forward, and not to remain bogged down by viewpoints which perhaps lead nowhere. Bestow on these leaders insights that truly will best benefit all of our citizens. In Your wondrous name we humbly pray, dear Lord. Amen.

~~Indicates Matter Stricken~~
Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 1:00 P.M., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Psalm 71:14

We hear the Psalmist proclaim: "But I will hope continually, and will praise you more and more."

Let us pray: Holy God, everyone of us truly desires to praise You -- and to honor You. And here during this Lenten season we find ourselves doing so as the beauty of springtime once again enfolds us all, even as this Body continues tackling issues of significant importance. To that end, Lord, may all of our Senators and their aides truly embrace the power of hope, and may that very hope lead them to resolving matters which can indeed enrich the life of every woman, man and child here in this State we all love. And we pray for all who are fighting the dangerous wildfires in some of our northern counties; how difficult and challenging their tasks are. In Your loving name we pray, O Lord. Amen.

Remarks by Senator MARTIN

Thank you, Mr. PRESIDENT. Members of the Senate, I am not going to let my student from Colleton, Senator MATTHEWS, outdo me on Women's History Month. As we get closer to the races at Darlington Raceway, I want to speak about a pioneer in NASCAR, Ms. Louise Smith. Louise Smith was born in Georgia and moved to Greenville County at four years old. Smith regularly outran the local police throughout Greenville County in the late thirties and forties. She may or may not have had something in the back of her trunk -- we haven't determined that yet.

This brought her to the attention of NASCAR founder, Bill France, Sr. He invited her to race at the new Greenville Pickens Speedway in 1946. She drove a modified 1939 Ford Coupe and placed third in what was both her first race and the first race she ever attended. One year later she entered her husband's new Ford Coupe in a NASCAR race on Daytona Beach. She rolled her car five times in a mid-race accident, but she finished thirteenth after fans on the beach rolled her car back up right. Between 1946 and 1956, Senator GOLDFINCH, she boasted thirty-eight victories and became a beloved figure in the male dominated world of motor sports. Headlining at races in the United States and Canada, "The other drivers didn't like me when I raced because I was a woman, but they liked me even less when I beat them," she is quoted as saying.

In 1999, she became the first woman inducted into the International Motor Sports Hall of Fame in Talladega, a fitting tribute to her pioneering career. At eight-two years old she said, "that honor means all the world to me. Back in my day, I was the first to do a lot of things back then; women were not supposed to do all those things. Now this is certainly an honor." Louise Smith lived not only as a pioneer for women but a pioneer for all of NASCAR racing. She is remembered as "The first lady of racing" and was on the NASCAR circuit from 1945 to 1956. She quit racing in 1956 but stayed close to the track working with Darlington Raceway's Pageant before she resigned as grand patron in November 1989 after serving more than a decade. She was also the inspiration for the character Louise Nash in the Cars movie franchise. She paved the way for women racers whose names might be a little more popular, like Janet Guthrie or my friend Danica Patrick. We should all be proud of one of our South Carolinians, South Carolina's own, Louise Smith. Thank you, Mr. PRESIDENT.

Expression of Personal Interest

Senator GROOMS rose for an Expression of Personal Interest.

Remarks by Senator SABB

Thank you, Mr. PRESIDENT and members. I will not oppose the amendment put forth by Senator MASSEY. I do believe that it gives us a basis to move forward.

And so, what I'd like to do Mr. PRESIDENT, if it's okay, is take a couple of moments to just acknowledge something. I stated last week that one of the things I regretted most was our inability to predict what was going to happen on the next day and we had a member who, in spite of the health challenges that he had, based upon his commitment to the people of South Carolina, and the people of his district -- he came, day after day after day. And so, I agonize over the fact that he came, and we really didn't do anything that we needed him for. I actually tried to dissuade him once or twice. But I think he had to be true to himself and so Mr. PRESIDENT, Senator MASSEY recognized him earlier. We all gave him a standing ovation; I got some texts about how great it was to see him here and smiling. And I want to share one more thing, and then I'll have a unanimous consent request, and then I'll take my seat.

So, when I received a phone call from Senator HUTTO, telling me he would not be here for a period of time, and what he expected of me in his absence -- obviously, I had some hesitations because of the admiration that I have for the manner in which he goes about his senatorial duties and leading our caucus. But one of the things he asked me to consider was occupying his desk, and that was not an easy thing for me to embrace. And so, I got counselled from some members of this Body, because one of the things that I've grown to admire about this Senate is a lot of its traditions. Traditions not for the sake of just having a tradition, but ones that are grounded in some fundamental principles that many of us try to live by. Mr. PRESIDENT, I'm thankful to every member of this Body for not opposing that unanimous consent request because of my thinking that, in light of my conversation with Senator HUTTO, and some of what I was experiencing, I concluded that it was something I felt compelled to do for reasons I won't necessarily disclose. But it was an honor for me to occupy desk number twenty-five. That's a part of my senatorial history, having sat where Senator HUTTO has earned the right to sit. And so, my sitting was not earned. And please, I want everybody to know that's exactly how I felt. And so, Mr. PRESIDENT, I would like to make a unanimous consent request. My request would be that I be allowed to return to desk number thirty-seven, and that Senator HUTTO be allowed to reoccupy desk number twenty-five.

Motion Adopted

Senator SABB asked unanimous consent to make a motion that Senator HUTTO occupy seat number 25, and that Senator SABB occupy seat number 37.

There was no objection.

THE SENATE PROCEEDED TO THE INTERRUPTED DEBATE.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

AMENDED, READ THE SECOND TIME

S. 244 -- Senators Massey, Alexander, Rice, Turner, Climer, Williams, Bennett, Cromer, Grooms, Blackmon and Chaplin: A BILL TO AMEND CERTAIN PROVISIONS IN TITLES 15, 38, AND 61 ALL RELATED TO CIVIL CLAIMS, TORT LAW, AND INSURANCE COVERAGE. (Abbreviated title)

The Senate proceeded to a consideration of the Bill, the question being the second reading of the Bill.

Amendment No. 8

Senator MASSEY proposed the following amendment (SR-244.CEM0044S), which was withdrawn:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, by striking SECTION 1.A, Section 15-38-15 and inserting:

SECTION 1.A. Section 15-38-15 of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

Section 15-38-15. (A) In an action to recover damages in tort: ~~resulting from personal injury, wrongful death, or damage to property or to recover damages for economic loss or for noneconomic loss such as mental distress, loss of enjoyment, pain, suffering, loss of reputation, or loss of companionship resulting from tortious conduct, that is (i) brought against one defendant, or two defendants who may be treated as a single party, or two or more defendants, and (ii) tried to a jury, the court shall instruct the jury to determine its verdict in the following manner, unless all of the parties agree otherwise: if indivisible damages are determined to be proximately caused by more than one defendant, joint and several liability does not apply to any defendant whose conduct is determined to be less than fifty percent of the total fault for the indivisible damages as compared with the total of: (i) the fault of all the defendants; and (ii) the fault (comparative negligence), if any, of plaintiff. A defendant whose conduct is determined to be less than fifty percent of the total fault shall only be liable for that percentage of the indivisible damages determined by the jury or trier of fact.~~

(1) ~~The jury trier of fact shall determine the percentage of fault of the claimant plaintiff, of the defendant or defendants, and of any nonparty whose tortious act or omission occurrence was proven to be a proximate cause of the claimant's plaintiff's alleged damages. For purposes of apportioning fault on the verdict form, a "nonparty" means an individual or entity who has previously settled a claim arising out of the same tortious act or occurrence with the plaintiff, or if more than one plaintiff, who has previously settled with any plaintiff in the same civil action. The jury may not be informed of any immunity defense that is~~ available to the nonparty. In assessing percentage of fault, the jury or the court shall consider the fault of all persons or entities whose alleged act or omission was a proximate cause of the alleged damage, regardless of whether the person or entity was or could have been named as a party. The percentage of fault of the parties to the action may total less than one hundred percent if the jury finds that fault contributing to the claimant's loss has also come from a nonparty or nonparties.

(2) If the percentage of fault of the claimant is greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the act or omission that caused the claimant's damage, then the jury shall return a verdict for the defendant and no further jury deliberation is required. A settling party shall be placed on the verdict form if there is any evidence sufficient to survive a South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure Rule 50 Directed Verdict Motion that the settling party was proximate cause, in whole or in part, of the plaintiff's damages.

(3) If the percentage of fault of the plaintiff is greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the tortious act or omission that caused the plaintiff's damages, then the jury shall return a verdict for the defendant and no further jury deliberation is required.

(3)(4) If the plaintiff's percentage of fault of the claimant is not greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the tortious act or omission that caused the claimant's damage plaintiff's damages, then the jury shall determine the total amount of damages that the claimant plaintiff would be entitled to recover if comparative fault were disregarded.

(4)(5) Upon the completion of subitem (3)(4), the court shall enter judgment for the claimant plaintiff against each defendant in an amount equal to the total amount of damages awarded in subitem (3)(4) multiplied by the percentage of fault assigned to each respective defendant in subitem (1).

(5) The court may determine that two or more persons are to be treated as a single party. Such treatment must be used where two or more persons acted in concert or where, by reason of agency, employment, or other legal relationship, a party is vicariously responsible for another party.

(B) Apportionment of percentages of fault among defendants is to be determined as specified in subsection (C).

(C) (B) The jury, or the court if there is no jury, shall: If there is no jury, then the court shall specify the amount of damages and determine the percentages of fault as prescribed in subsection (A).

(1) specify the amount of damages;

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

~~—(2) determine the percentage of fault, if any, of plaintiff and the amount of recoverable damages under applicable rules concerning “comparative negligence”; and~~

~~—(3) upon a motion by at least one defendant, where there is a verdict under items (1) and (2) above for damages against two or more defendants for the same indivisible injury, death, or damage to property, specify in a separate verdict under the procedures described at subitem (b) below the percentage of liability that proximately caused the indivisible injury, death, damage to property, or economic loss from tortious conduct, as determined by item (1) above, that is attributable to each defendant whose actions are a proximate cause of the indivisible injury, death, or damage to property. In determining the percentage attributable to each defendant, any fault of the plaintiff, as determined by item (2) above, will be included so that the total of the percentages of fault attributed to the plaintiff and to the defendants must be one hundred percent. In calculating the percentage of fault attributable to each defendant, inclusion of any percentage of fault of the plaintiff (as determined in item (2) above) shall not reduce the amount of plaintiff's recoverable damages (as determined under item (2) above).~~

~~—(a) For this purpose, the court may determine that two or more persons are to be treated as a single party. Such treatment must be used where two or more defendants acted in concert or where, by reason of agency, employment, or other legal relationship, a defendant is vicariously responsible for the conduct of another defendant.~~

~~—(b) After the initial verdict awarding damages is entered and before the special verdict on percentages of liability is rendered, the parties shall be allowed oral argument, with the length of such argument subject to the discretion of the trial judge, on the determination of the percentage attributable to each defendant. However, no additional evidence shall be allowed.~~

~~—(D) A defendant shall retain the right to assert that another potential tortfeasor, whether or not a party, contributed to the alleged injury or damages and/or may be liable for any or all of the damages alleged by any other party.~~

~~—(E) Notwithstanding the application of this section, setoff from any settlement received from any potential tortfeasor prior to the verdict shall be applied in proportion to each defendant's percentage of liability as determined pursuant to subsection (C).~~

~~—(F) This section does not apply to a defendant whose conduct is determined to be wilful, wanton, reckless, grossly negligent, or~~

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

~~intentional or conduct involving the use, sale, or possession of alcohol or the illegal or illicit use, sale, or possession of drugs.~~

(B) Within one hundred eighty days of commencement of an action, or by leave of court for good cause shown, a defendant may move to add to the verdict form any person or entity, not otherwise excluded by subsection (C), who may be, or may have been, liable to the plaintiff if the defendant has a reasonable basis to believe that the person's or entity's act or omission was a proximate cause of the plaintiff's alleged damages, which must be set forth in its motion. If the defendant will assert the person or entity committed an act of professional negligence, the provisions of Section 15-36-100 apply, and the affidavit required pursuant to Section 15-36-100(B) must be filed with the motion.

(1) Any party may make any motion at the appropriate time including, but not limited to, a motion pursuant to Rules 12, 50, and 56 of the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure to dismiss or otherwise remove the added person or entity from the verdict form. The court shall apply the same standard to the dismissal or removal of an added person or entity, as it would to any party.

(2) In order for the trier of fact to allocate any or all fault to an added person or entity, the defendant bears the burden of proof that the added person's or entity's conduct was a proximate cause of the plaintiff's damages unless the plaintiff's pleading is amended to assert a direct claim against the added person or entity pursuant to subitem (3).

(3) The plaintiff may, within sixty days of the court granting a motion pursuant to this section, amend the plaintiff's pleading to assert any claim against the added person or entity arising out of the occurrence that is the subject matter of the pending litigation. This provision applies notwithstanding any statute of limitations as long as the plaintiff would have satisfied the applicable statute of limitations against the added person or entity if the plaintiff had named the added person or entity as a defendant when the suit was commenced.

(a) A person or entity added as a party pursuant to this subitem shall be identified as a defendant in the caption of the action.

(b) An amended pleading pursuant to this provision must comply with Rule 4 of the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure and be served on the added party within sixty days of filing the amended pleading.

(c) A party added pursuant to this provision has the same rights to defend or plead as a defendant under the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure.

(C) The following are excluded from being added to the verdict form pursuant to subsection (B):

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

(1) a person or entity not subject to civil liability or payment of damages in a civil action due to worker's compensation statutes or U.S. Bankruptcy Code;

(2) a person or entity where the plaintiff's damages arise in whole or in part from assault, battery, sexual assault, sexual abuse, sexual misconduct, financial fraud, or theft;

(3) a person whose fault is imputed to the defendant or whose fault is based upon the fault of the nonparty for which a defendant is vicariously liable;

(4) a person involved in a case where the causes of action involve strict liability;

(5) causes of action involving PFAS, asbestos, or environmental torts.

(D) A defendant shall not be entitled to a setoff for monies paid by a nonparty added to the verdict form pursuant to subsection (A) or a person or entity added to the verdict form pursuant to subsection (B). A defendant can elect the setoff from the added nonparty or added person or entity in lieu of placing that nonparty, person, or entity on the verdict form.

(E) Nothing in this section shall be construed as eliminating the empty chair defense, which is the defendant's right to assert that another potential tortfeasor, whether or not a party, contributed to the alleged injury or damages or may be liable for any or all of the damages alleged by the plaintiff.

Amend the bill further by striking Section 1.B, 1.C, and 1.D and inserting:

SECTION X. Section 15-38-20 of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

Section 15-38-20. (A) Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, where two or more persons become jointly or severally liable in tort for the same injury to person or property or for the same wrongful death, there is a right of contribution among them even though judgment has not been recovered against all or any of them.

(B) The right of contribution exists only in favor of a tortfeasor who has paid more than his pro rata share of the common liability, and his total recovery is limited to the amount paid by him in excess of his pro rata share. No tortfeasor is compelled to make contribution beyond his own pro rata share of the entire liability.

(C) There is no right of contribution in favor of any tortfeasor who has intentionally caused or contributed to the injury or wrongful death.

(D) A tortfeasor who enters into a settlement with a claimant is not entitled to recover contribution from another tortfeasor whose liability for the injury or wrongful death is not extinguished by the settlement nor in respect to any amount paid in a settlement which is in excess of what was reasonable.

(E) A liability insurer, who by payment has discharged in full or in part the liability of a tortfeasor and has thereby discharged in full its obligation as insurer, is subrogated to the tortfeasor's right of contribution to the extent of the amount it has paid in excess of the tortfeasor's pro rata share of the common liability. This provision does not limit or impair any right of subrogation arising from any other relationship.

(F) This chapter does not impair any right of indemnity under existing law. Where one tortfeasor is entitled to indemnity from another, the right of the indemnity obligee is for indemnity and not contribution, and the indemnity obligor is not entitled to contribution from the obligee for any portion of his indemnity obligation.

(G) This chapter does not apply to breaches of trust or of other fiduciary obligation.

(H) The provisions in this section apply only to causes of action where the nonparty tortfeasor was not added to the verdict form pursuant to Section 15-38-15(A)(1) or (C).

SECTION X. Section 15-38-30 of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

Section 15-38-30. In determining the pro rata shares of tortfeasors in the entire liability (1) their relative degrees of fault shall not be considered; (2) if equity requires, the collective liability of some as a group shall constitute a single share; and (3) principles of equity applicable to contribution generally shall apply. This section applies only to causes of action where the nonparty tortfeasor was not added to the verdict form pursuant to Section 15-38-15(A)(1) or (C).

SECTION X. Section 15-38-40 of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

Section 15-38-40. (A) Whether or not judgment has been entered in an action against two or more tortfeasors for the same injury or wrongful death, contribution may be enforced by separate action.

(B) Where a judgment has been entered in an action against two or more tortfeasors for the same injury or wrongful death, contribution may be enforced in that action by judgment in favor of one against other judgment defendants by motion upon notice to all parties to the action. Provided, however, contribution may not be enforced in the action until the issue of liability and resulting damages against the defendant or defendants named in the action is determined. Once the issue of liability has been resolved, subject to Section 15-38-20(B), a defendant has the right to seek contribution against any judgment defendant and other persons who were not made parties to the action.

(C) If there is a judgment for the injury or wrongful death against the tortfeasor seeking contribution, any separate action by him to enforce contribution must be commenced within one year after the judgment has become final by lapse of time for appeal or after appellate review.

(D) If there is no judgment for the injury or wrongful death against the tortfeasor seeking contribution, his right of contribution is barred unless he has either (1) discharged by payment the common liability within the statute of limitations period applicable to claimant's right of action against him and has commenced his action for contribution within one year after payment, or (2) agreed while action is pending against him to discharge the common liability and has within one year after the agreement paid the liability and commenced his action for contribution.

(E) The recovery of a judgment for an injury or wrongful death against one tortfeasor does not of itself discharge the other tortfeasors from liability for the injury or wrongful death unless the judgment is satisfied. The satisfaction of the judgment does not impair any right of contribution.

(F) The judgment of the court in determining the liability of the several defendants to the claimant for an injury or wrongful death shall be binding as among such defendants in determining their right to contribution.

(G) The provisions in this section apply only to causes of action where the nonparty tortfeasor was not added to the verdict form pursuant to Section 15-38-15(A)(1) or (C).

Senator MASSEY asked unanimous consent to proceed to Amendment No. 8A.

There was no objection.

Amendment No. 8A

Senator MASSEY proposed the following amendment (SR-244.CEM0067S), which was adopted:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, SECTION 1.A., by striking Section 15-38-15(A) and inserting:

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

(A) ~~In an action to recover damages in tort: resulting from personal injury, wrongful death, or damage to property or to recover damages for economic loss or for noneconomic loss such as mental distress, loss of enjoyment, pain, suffering, loss of reputation, or loss of companionship resulting from tortious conduct, if indivisible damages are determined to be proximately caused by more than one defendant, joint and several liability does not apply to any defendant whose conduct is determined to be less than fifty percent of the total fault for the indivisible damages as compared with the total of: (i) the fault of all the defendants; and (ii) the fault (comparative negligence), if any, of plaintiff. A defendant whose conduct is determined to be less than fifty percent of the total fault shall only be liable for that percentage of the indivisible damages determined by the jury or trier of fact.~~

(1) The trier of fact shall determine the percentage of fault of the plaintiff, of the defendant or defendants, and of any nonparty whose tortious act or occurrence was proven to be a proximate cause of the plaintiff's alleged damages. For purposes of apportioning fault on the verdict form, a "nonparty" means an individual or entity who has previously settled a claim arising out of the same tortious act or occurrence with the plaintiff, or if more than one plaintiff, who has previously settled with any plaintiff in the same civil action.

(2) A settling party shall be placed on the verdict form if there is any evidence sufficient to survive a South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure Rule 50 Directed Verdict Motion that the settling party was proximate cause, in whole or in part, of the plaintiff's damages.

(3) If the percentage of fault of the plaintiff is greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the tortious act or omission that caused the plaintiff's damages. Then the trier of fact shall return a verdict for the defendant and no further deliberation is required.

(4) If the plaintiff's percentage of fault is not greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the tortious act or omission that caused the plaintiff's damages, then the trier of fact shall determine the total amount of damages that the plaintiff would be entitled to recover if comparative fault were disregarded.

(5) Upon the completion of subitem (4), the court shall enter judgment for the plaintiff against each defendant in an amount equal to the total amount of damages awarded in subitem (4) multiplied by the percentage of fault assigned to each respective defendant in subitem (1).

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

Amend the bill further, SECTION 1.A., by striking Section 15-38-15(B) and inserting:

~~(C)~~-(B) Within one hundred eighty days of commencement of an action, or by leave of court for good cause shown, a defendant may move to add to the verdict form any person or entity, not otherwise excluded by subsection (C), who may be, or may have been, liable to the plaintiff if the defendant has a reasonable basis to believe that the person's or entity's act or omission was a proximate cause of the plaintiff's alleged damages, which must be set forth in its motion. If the defendant will assert the person or entity committed an act of professional negligence, the provisions of Section 15-36-100 apply, and the affidavit required pursuant to Section 15-36-100(B) must be filed with the motion.

(1) Any party may make any motion at the appropriate time, including, but not limited to, a motion pursuant to Rules 12, 50, and 56 of the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure to dismiss or otherwise remove the added person or entity from the verdict form. The court shall apply the same standard to the dismissal or removal of an added person or entity, as it would to any party.

(2) In order for the trier of fact to allocate any or all fault to an added person or entity, the defendant bears the burden of proof that the added person's or entity's conduct was a proximate cause of the plaintiff's damages unless the plaintiff's pleading is amended to assert a direct claim against the added person or entity pursuant to subitem (3).

(3) The plaintiff may, within sixty days of the court granting a motion pursuant to this section, amend the plaintiff's pleading to assert any claim against the added person or entity arising out of the occurrence that is the subject matter of the pending litigation. This provision applies notwithstanding any statute of limitations as long as the plaintiff would have satisfied the applicable statute of limitations against the added person or entity if the plaintiff had named the added person or entity as a defendant when the suit was commenced.

(a) A person or entity added as a party pursuant to this subitem shall be identified as a defendant in the caption of the action.

(b) An amended pleading pursuant to this provision must comply with Rule 4 of the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure and be served on the added party within sixty days of filing the amended pleading.

(c) A party added pursuant to this provision has the same rights to defend or plead as a defendant under the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure.

(C) The following are excluded from being added to the verdict form pursuant to subsection (B):

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

(1) a person or entity not subject to civil liability or payment of damages in a civil action due to worker's compensation statutes or U.S. Bankruptcy Code;

(2) a person or entity where the plaintiff's damages arise in whole or in part from assault, battery, sexual assault, sexual abuse, sexual misconduct, financial fraud, or theft;

(3) a person whose fault is imputed to the defendant or whose fault is based upon the fault of the nonparty for which a defendant is vicariously liable;

(4) a person involved in a case where the causes of action involve strict liability;

(D) A defendant shall not be entitled to a setoff for monies paid by a nonparty added to the verdict form pursuant to subsection (A) or a person or entity added to the verdict form pursuant to subsection (B). A defendant can elect the setoff from the added nonparty or added person or entity in lieu of placing that nonparty, person, or entity on the verdict form.

(E) Nothing in this section shall be construed as eliminating the empty chair defense, which is the defendant's right to assert that another potential tortfeasor, whether or not a party, contributed to the alleged injury or damages or may be liable for any or all of the damages alleged by the plaintiff.

The jury, or the court if there is no jury, shall:

— (1) specify the amount of damages;

— (2) determine the percentage of fault, if any, of plaintiff and the amount of recoverable damages under applicable rules concerning "comparative negligence"; and

— (3) upon a motion by at least one defendant, where there is a verdict under items (1) and (2) above for damages against two or more defendants for the same indivisible injury, death, or damage to property, specify in a separate verdict under the procedures described at subitem (b) below the percentage of liability that proximately caused the indivisible injury, death, damage to property, or economic loss from tortious conduct, as determined by item (1) above, that is attributable to each defendant whose actions are a proximate cause of the indivisible injury, death, or damage to property. In determining the percentage attributable to each defendant, any fault of the plaintiff, as determined by item (2) above, will be included so that the total of the percentages of fault attributed to the plaintiff and to the defendants must be one hundred percent. In calculating the percentage of fault attributable to each defendant, inclusion of any percentage of fault of the plaintiff (as determined in item (2) above) shall not reduce the amount of plaintiff's recoverable damages (as determined under item (2) above).

~~—(a) For this purpose, the court may determine that two or more persons are to be treated as a single party. Such treatment must be used where two or more defendants acted in concert or where, by reason of agency, employment, or other legal relationship, a defendant is vicariously responsible for the conduct of another defendant.~~

~~—(b) After the initial verdict awarding damages is entered and before the special verdict on percentages of liability is rendered, the parties shall be allowed oral argument, with the length of such argument subject to the discretion of the trial judge, on the determination of the percentage attributable to each defendant. However, no additional evidence shall be allowed.~~

~~—(D) A defendant shall retain the right to assert that another potential tortfeasor, whether or not a party, contributed to the alleged injury or damages and/or may be liable for any or all of the damages alleged by any other party.~~

~~—(E) Notwithstanding the application of this section, setoff from any settlement received from any potential tortfeasor prior to the verdict shall be applied in proportion to each defendant's percentage of liability as determined pursuant to subsection (C).~~

~~—(F) This section does not apply to a defendant whose conduct is determined to be wilful, wanton, reckless, grossly negligent, or intentional or conduct involving the use, sale, or possession of alcohol or the illegal or illicit use, sale, or possession of drugs.~~

~~—Amend~~ the bill further, by striking SECTIONS 1.B, 1.C, and 1.D and inserting:

SECTION X. Section 15-38-20 of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

Section 15-38-20. (A) Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, where two or more persons become jointly or severally liable in tort for the same injury to person or property or for the same wrongful death, there is a right of contribution among them even though judgment has not been recovered against all or any of them.

(B) The right of contribution exists only in favor of a tortfeasor who has paid more than his pro rata share of the common liability, and his total recovery is limited to the amount paid by him in excess of his pro rata share. No tortfeasor is compelled to make contribution beyond his own pro rata share of the entire liability.

(C) There is no right of contribution in favor of any tortfeasor who has intentionally caused or contributed to the injury or wrongful death.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

(D) A tortfeasor who enters into a settlement with a claimant is not entitled to recover contribution from another tortfeasor whose liability for the injury or wrongful death is not extinguished by the settlement nor in respect to any amount paid in a settlement which is in excess of what was reasonable.

(E) A liability insurer, who by payment has discharged in full or in part the liability of a tortfeasor and has thereby discharged in full its obligation as insurer, is subrogated to the tortfeasor's right of contribution to the extent of the amount it has paid in excess of the tortfeasor's pro rata share of the common liability. This provision does not limit or impair any right of subrogation arising from any other relationship.

(F) This chapter does not impair any right of indemnity under existing law. Where one tortfeasor is entitled to indemnity from another, the right of the indemnity obligee is for indemnity and not contribution, and the indemnity obligor is not entitled to contribution from the obligee for any portion of his indemnity obligation.

(G) This chapter does not apply to breaches of trust or of other fiduciary obligation.

(H) The provisions in this section apply only to causes of action where the nonparty tortfeasor was not added to the verdict form pursuant to Section 15-38-15(A)(1) or (C).

SECTION X. Section 15-38-30 of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

Section 15-38-30. In determining the pro rata shares of tortfeasors in the entire liability (1) their relative degrees of fault shall not be considered; (2) if equity requires, the collective liability of some as a group shall constitute a single share; and (3) principles of equity applicable to contribution generally shall apply. This section applies only to causes of action where the nonparty tortfeasor was not added to the verdict form pursuant to Section 15-38-15(A)(1) or (C).

SECTION X. Section 15-38-40 of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

Section 15-38-40. (A) Whether or not judgment has been entered in an action against two or more tortfeasors for the same injury or wrongful death, contribution may be enforced by separate action.

(B) Where a judgment has been entered in an action against two or more tortfeasors for the same injury or wrongful death, contribution may be enforced in that action by judgment in favor of one against other judgment defendants by motion upon notice to all parties to the action. Provided, however, contribution may not be enforced in the action until the issue of liability and resulting damages against the defendant or defendants named in the action is determined. Once the issue of liability has been resolved, subject to Section 15-38-20(B), a defendant has the right to seek contribution against any judgment defendant and other persons who were not made parties to the action.

(C) If there is a judgment for the injury or wrongful death against the tortfeasor seeking contribution, any separate action by him to enforce contribution must be commenced within one year after the judgment has become final by lapse of time for appeal or after appellate review.

(D) If there is no judgment for the injury or wrongful death against the tortfeasor seeking contribution, his right of contribution is barred unless he has either (1) discharged by payment the common liability within the statute of limitations period applicable to claimant's right of action against him and has commenced his action for contribution within one year after payment, or (2) agreed while action is pending against him to discharge the common liability and has within one year after the agreement paid the liability and commenced his action for contribution.

(E) The recovery of a judgment for an injury or wrongful death against one tortfeasor does not of itself discharge the other tortfeasors from liability for the injury or wrongful death unless the judgment is satisfied. The satisfaction of the judgment does not impair any right of contribution.

(F) The judgment of the court in determining the liability of the several defendants to the claimant for an injury or wrongful death shall be binding as among such defendants in determining their right to contribution.

(G) The provisions in this section apply only to causes of action where the nonparty tortfeasor was not added to the verdict form pursuant to Section 15-38-15(A)(1) or (C).

Amendment No. 1A

Senators GOLDFINCH, KIMBRELL and GARRETT proposed the following amendment (SR-244.CEM0035S), which was withdrawn:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, SECTION 1.A., by striking Section 15-38-15(A)(1), (2), (3), (4), and (5) and inserting:

(1) The jury shall determine the percentage of fault of the claimant, plaintiff, of the defendant, and of any nonparty whose act or omission arose out of the same occurrence that is the subject of the underlying complaint and was a proximate cause of the claimant's alleged damages. In assessing the percentage of fault, the jury or the court shall consider the fault of all persons or entities whose alleged act or omission was a proximate cause of the alleged damage, regardless of whether the person or entity was named as a party, subject to the limitations contained in subsection (A)(1)(c) and (d). The percentage of fault of the parties to the action may total less than one hundred percent if the jury finds that fault contributing to the plaintiff's damages also came from a non-party, provided that the total percentage of fault assigned to parties and non-parties equals one hundred percent. The jury may not be informed of any immunity defense that is available to the nonparty. In assessing percentage of fault, the jury or the court shall consider the fault of all persons or entities whose alleged act or omission was a proximate cause of the alleged damage, regardless of whether the person or entity was or could have been named as a party. The percentage of fault of the parties to the action may total less than one hundred percent if the jury finds that fault contributing to the claimant's loss has also come from a nonparty or nonparties.

(a) Prior to a jury or court allocating any or all fault to a non-party, the defendant must affirmatively identify the non-party and plead the facts and cause of action allegedly giving rise to the fault of a non-party in its answer, subject to amendment once as a matter of right in accordance with the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure.

(i) Notice of a pleading filed in accordance with (a) shall be served on all parties and the non-party in the manner provided for in the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

(ii) Any interested party may, at any time after receiving notice of the addition of a non-party, make any motion that would be available to a party, including, but not limited to, Rules 12, 50, or 56 of the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure, to dismiss or otherwise remove the non-party from the verdict form. The court will apply the same standard to the dismissal or removal of a non-party as it would to a party.

(ii) Notwithstanding any applicable statute or limitation or repose, the plaintiff may, within sixty days of the proof of service required pursuant to subitem (i), assert any claim against the non-party arising out of the occurrence that is the subject matter of the original complaint.

(b) In order for a jury or court to allocate any or all fault to a non-party for the purpose of apportioning damages, a defendant must prove at trial by a preponderance of the evidence the fault of the non-party in causing the plaintiff's damages. If the court determines that the defendant has failed to meet the burden of proof for the fault of the non-party in causing the plaintiff's damages, the non-party shall not be allocated any fault for the purpose of apportioning damages.

(c) There shall be no allocation of fault to a non-party who is:

(i) immune from liability for the plaintiff's alleged damages;

(ii) not subject to the court's jurisdiction;

(iii) not subject to liability for the plaintiff's alleged damages because the claim is barred by a statute of limitations or statute of repose;

(iv) charged with or convicted of any crime in relation to the occurrence that is the subject of the underlying complaint;

(v) directly or indirectly owned, managed, or controlled by a defendant, including any non-party with which there is commonality in the executives, managers, or officer of a defendant and a non-party; or

(vi) who the defendant's liability is imputed or based upon the fault of the non-party.

(d) There shall be no allocation of fault to a non-party when the defendant's liability is based on:

(i) wilful, wanton, reckless, grossly negligent, intentional, or criminally chargeable conduct;

(ii) negligence and the non-party's liability is based on any basis other than negligence, including, but not limited, to intentional, wanton, or reckless misconduct, strict liability or liability pursuant to any cause of action created by statute;

(iii) strict liability;

(iv) a toxic or environmental tort; or

(v) any cause of action created by statute.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

(e) Prior to including a non-party who is engaged in a profession designated by Section 15-36-100(G), the party seeking to designate such a non-party must comply with the provisions and procedures in Section 15-36-100 if the fault sought to be attributed to such party arises from alleged professional negligence.

(2) If the percentage of fault of the ~~claimant~~ plaintiff is greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the act or omission that caused the ~~claimant's~~ plaintiff's damage, then the jury shall return a verdict for the defendant and no further jury deliberation is required.

(3) If the percentage of fault of the ~~claimant~~ plaintiff is not greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the act or omission that caused the ~~claimant's~~ plaintiff's damage, then the jury shall determine the total amount of damages the ~~claimant~~ plaintiff would be entitled to recover if comparative fault were disregarded. Senator JOHNSON asked unanimous consent to proceed to Amendment No. 15.

There was no objection.

Amendment No. 15

Senator JOHNSON proposed the following amendment (SJ-244.MB0023S), which was adopted:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, by striking Section 15-38-15(A)(5) and inserting:

(5) Upon the completion of subitem (4), the court shall enter judgment for the plaintiff against each defendant in an amount equal to the total amount of damages awarded in subitem (4) multiplied by the percentage of fault assigned to each respective defendant in subitem (1) using the following criteria:

(a) each defendant is severally liable for the total amount of the plaintiff's noneconomic damages, as defined in Section 15-32-210, and any punitive or exemplary damages; and

(b) if the percentage of fault of any one defendant is greater than fifty percent of the total fault involved in the act or omission that cause the plaintiff's damages, then the defendant is jointly and severally liable to the total amount of plaintiff's economic damages.

(6) If the percentage of fault of any defendant that is charged under Section 56-5-2930, 56-5-2933, or 56-5-2945 is greater than fifty percent of the total fault in the tortious act or omission that caused the plaintiff's damages, then the total amount of damages for which the licensee is liable shall not be more than fifty percent of the plaintiff's total damages. Licensee shall have the same meaning as in Section 15-3-710(A)(2).

(7) For purposes of this section, the terms economic damages and noneconomic damages have the same meaning as defined in Section 15-32-210.

~~(5)(4) a person involved in a case where the causes of action involve strict liability; or~~

I. Introduction

There have been two hundred fifty-one duly elected Constitutional Officers in the State of South Carolina since its formation as a state in 1776. Since the ratification of the second state Constitution, all of those officers have taken a statutory oath, presented below in full.

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I am duly qualified, according to the Constitution of this State, to exercise the duties of the office to which I have been elected (or appointed), and that I will to the best of my ability, discharge the duties thereof, and preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of this State and of the United States. So Help me God."—Const., Art. III, Sec. 26

"That oath of office means more to me than you will ever know."—State Treasurer Curtis Loftis¹

The members of the Constitutional Budget Subcommittee of the South Carolina Senate Finance Committee, like all of our colleagues in the

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

General Assembly, have also taken that same oath. Part of our duty as members of the General Assembly is a continuing and ongoing obligation to periodically review agencies and their responsiveness to the needs of the state's citizens.² Since February of 2023, the Subcommittee, vested with the power and authority to do so by the Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee,³ has been engaged in an investigatory inquiry involving several agencies, constitutional officers, and others who had executive level financial authority and duties in our state. Two of those financial executives have resigned, skilled and seasoned employees have left our state financial agencies, a federal securities investigation has been opened, and national forensic accounting experts from a worldwide firm have been engaged, all in the efforts toward resolution of a multibillion-dollar discrepancy in our state's financial records. To be sure, much work remains in correcting missteps, but today, the Subcommittee has reached the conclusion of its investigation. The purpose of this report is twofold: to inform members of the South Carolina Senate of the facts gathered by the members of the Senate Finance Constitutional Subcommittee during this final phase of our investigation into the $1.8 Billion discrepancy in the balances of the State's Treasury and other related matters, and to make recommendations to the General Assembly and the Governor.

The Subcommittee took seriously the duty to uncover and report the truth about the fund and other highly unusual activities uncovered in the State Treasurer's Office. Over the course of the last 13 months, when confronted with questions about his actions, the State Treasurer has attacked the members of the Subcommittee and the entirety of the Senate itself. He has smeared Senate staff by casting aspersions on accurate and diligent research and reporting. He has called this investigation bad governance. None of this invective deterred our work. We have found that State Treasurer Curtis Loftis has broken his oath of office in which he committed to discharge the duties of his office, and by doing so has violated the trust of the people – both those who voted for him and those who did not.

II. Executive Summary

² Exhibit 1 - S.C. Code Section 2-2-5(2).

³ Ibid - S.C. Code Section 2-2-30(D).

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

The Subcommittee's investigation, informed by the work of AlixPartners and others, found an unexplained and unresolved $1.8 billion in funds under exclusive control of the State Treasurer's Office. Seven years ago, during a conversion process from one state accounting system to another, a treasury fund was created that eventually grew to the $1.8 billion sum. Financial entry after entry was made with the expectation that subsequent conversion steps would move those entries into their proper accounts in the new system, effectively clearing the fund back to zero. In fact, a complete review of the process by experts revealed that the $1.8 billion error actually was part of a portion of $31 billion of plugged financial transactions indicating a failed Treasury conversion from the Statewide Accounting and Reporting System (STARS) to the South Carolina Enterprise Information System (SCEIS).

Incorrect entries remain on the books today because the State Treasurer failed to maintain the integrity of the State's banking and investment records. Any suggestion that the State Treasurer did not know about the unresolved differences is implausible, based upon the level of involvement in the conversion process by the State Treasurer's Office. The State Treasurer failed to take any corrective action even when others saw the issue and flagged the imbalance to him, and he never recognized the significance of the problem.

Since being confronted and asked to explain the unresolved errors, the State Treasurer has consistently misunderstood and misrepresented what the $1.8 billion represents - up to the publication of this report. He repeatedly testified that $1.8 billion was real money that was invested and earned interest, and never amended or appended those statements when offered the opportunity to do so. Incongruously, he also testified that he had no idea a $1.8 billion balance existed in his books and when presented with the experts' forensic accounting report, he posted on social media that he knew all along there was no real money. He contends that his books are correct and that he is fully exonerated by the forensic accounting report.

Treasurer Loftis has not given the Subcommittee clear answers about the origins and character of the unresolved differences. He has made conflicting and inaccurate statements about the nature and implications of the unresolved differences; and has not been forthcoming with information that State law requires him to provide.

III. Summary of the Recommendations of the Subcommittee to the General Assembly and the Governor

First and of paramount importance is the continued coherence of state legislative and executive actions with the ongoing Securities and Exchange Commission Investigation. Members of the Subcommittee commit here to full cooperation if requested and most strongly encourage any and all involved parties to do the same.

Second, the Subcommittee recommends a full and complete correction to our state's financial records, both to the historical errors that led to the $1.8 billion fund and to the current unbalanced accounts that exist today. Without a full accounting and resolution of where the thousands of entries in that fund originated and correctly belong, we cannot be secure in our knowledge that our state's financial reporting is completely accurate.

Third, the Subcommittee agrees with the findings and recommendations in the AlixPartners report and urges swift implementation of all of the suggested changes by the impacted agencies, including the State Treasurer's Office. Chairman Peeler and others introduced legislation to compel progress to that end by the engagement of an independent compliance consultant, and we were pleased to see S. 253 signed into law by the Governor on March 7, 2025.

Fourth, the Subcommittee recommends comprehensive study and review of the State Treasurer's Office by the other relevant state investigatory bodies: the Inspector General, Legislative Audit Council, and the Oversight Committees of the Senate and the House of Representatives. By copy of this report to same, referrals to those entities shall be deemed made. Full considerations of possible fraud, waste, abuse, mismanagement, misconduct, violations of state or federal law, wrongdoing, inefficient use of resources, and other breaches are beyond the scope of this investigation, but it is imperative that they are accomplished.

Fifth, the Subcommittee recognizes that structural changes to the financial executive officers and offices of our state are needed, and such reforms must be made through legislation and, in some cases, with the consent of our voters where constitutional changes are warranted. In brief, the Subcommittee recommends that the State Treasurer, the Comptroller General, and the State Auditor be state offices that are filled by gubernatorial appointment with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Finally, most significantly, and with great solemnity, the Subcommittee recommends that the current State Treasurer be removed from office pursuant to Article XV, Section 3 of the South Carolina Constitution for willful neglect of multiple statutory duties assigned to him and for other good causes as will be detailed in this report. The Subcommittee declines to ignore an almost decade long problem in the State Treasurer's Office perpetuated by the failure of Treasurer Loftis to carry out his statutory duties. We tender our final report here not only to provide clarity and conclusion to this multi-year investigation, but also to illuminate the facts that have led us to this severe recommendation.

IV. Summary of 2023-2024 Work of the Senate Finance Committee Constitutional Subcommittee

Prior to the exposition of the recent work and findings regarding the $1.8 Billion in unresolved discrepancies in Fund 30350993, we provide here a summation of the work performed during last year's legislative session. For comprehensive information, please refer to Interim Report of Findings and Recommendations on the $1.8 Billion Discrepancy in Treasury Balances and Certain Other Matters released and published on the Legislature's website on April 16, 2024.⁴

In a letter dated October 31, 2023,⁵ Comptroller General Gaines formally requested that Treasurer Loftis investigate a cash balance recorded in SCEIS Fund 30350993 to facilitate the proper classification or reclassification of the amounts to their appropriate funds and general ledger accounts. Upon receiving a copy of Comptroller General Gaines's request, staff of the Senate Finance Committee conducted an independent review of the fund and determined that it reflected a balance of approximately $1.8 billion.

⁵ Exhibit 2 – Letter from Comptroller General Gaines to Treasurer Loftis Oct. 31, 2023.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

Treasurer Loftis responded to this request on November 30, 2023,⁶ directing the Office of the Comptroller General (CGO) to provide any findings or concerns related to Fund 30350993. However, his response neither acknowledged nor affirmed the request made by Comptroller General Gaines.

On December 12, 2023⁷, Comptroller General Gaines responded, outlining his understanding of the historical use of Fund 30350993 and the role of the Office of the State Treasurer (STO) in managing it. He noted that the fund had initially been used to reconcile accounting discrepancies but was later repurposed as a repository for unreported funds amid system transitions. Comptroller General Gaines further stated that, based on the ZIMRQ300—an investment report produced by the Treasurer’s Office—he understood the fund to be part of the Treasury’s pooled investments. However, he acknowledged that he could not independently verify this information, as the CGO does not have access to investment data. Additionally, he advised that Treasurer Loftis should inform the General Assembly of the fund’s balance, purpose, and treatment, given its status as a Treasury fund.

In response, Treasurer Loftis replied on December 14, 2023⁸, inquiring about the recipients of Comptroller General Gaines’s letter.

On December 15, 2023, the STO extended an invitation to Senate Finance Committee staff under the premise of presenting a comprehensive overview of the full cash reconciliation process. Staff understood the meeting to be instructional in nature. In attendance were three members of the Senate Finance staff, Treasurer Loftis, and four members of his leadership team, one of whom participated via teleconference. Contrary to expectations, no reconciliation process was presented during the meeting. Instead, Treasury staff delivered a PowerPoint presentation outlining meetings that took place around the time of the system conversion. Seeking clarity and a pathway toward resolution, Finance Committee staff inquired about Fund 30350993.

⁷ Exhibit 4 – Letter from Comptroller General Gaines to Treasurer Loftis Dec. 12, 2023.

⁸ Exhibit 5 - Letter from Treasurer Loftis to Comptroller General Gaines Dec. 14, 2023.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

Treasurer Loftis, however, dismissed the inquiry, asserting that the most prudent course of action would be to disregard the issue and attribute responsibility to former Comptroller General Richard Eckstrom.

Finance Committee staff continued to monitor the issue as the General Assembly convened eminently in January 2024.

On February 1, 2024⁹, the Subcommittee sent a letter inquiring about the origin and purpose of Fund 30350993 and whether the STO was in compliance with a provision in the Fiscal Year 2024 Appropriations Act that mandated a reconciliation of all cash and investment balances for the purposes of compiling the State's Annual Comprehensive Financial Report (ACFR). In his February 8, 2024¹⁰, response, Treasurer Loftis asserted that his office was in full compliance, despite contentions to the contrary by Comptroller General Gaines, and explained that SCEIS Fund 30350993 had been established in 2014 to manage cash transfers during the state's financial system conversion, maintaining that its $1.8 billion balance had always been accurately recorded in the General Ledger. The Subcommittee, however, deemed his reply vague and incomplete, particularly in light of previous communications from the Comptroller General that contradicted his assertions.

State Auditor George Kennedy subsequently testified on February 15, 2024,¹¹ that, as a clearing account used solely for cash transfers, SCEIS Fund 30350993 should have a zero balance. He stated that resolving the discrepancy would necessitate a journal entry, supported by historical data to establish fund ownership, and his written recommendations emphasized the need for management to identify agency claims within the General Fund to effect proper reclassification.

In later public statements, including a television interview on February 29, 2024,¹² Treasurer Loftis defended his handling of the fund by emphasizing its investment earnings¹³ and contending that the responsibility for resolving the discrepancy rested with either the General Assembly or the CGO.

On March 7, 2024,¹⁴ the Subcommittee wrote Treasurer Loftis again, formally requesting a detailed breakdown of the fund's ownership by agency. However, Treasurer Loftis's response on March 14, 2024¹⁵, was again unsatisfactory, and focused on shifting responsibility to the Comptroller General.

On March 25, 2024¹⁶, Treasurer Loftis wrote the Subcommittee asking for a meeting to present the Office's budget requests for Fiscal Year 2024-2025. The Subcommittee advised him that the hearing was scheduled for April 2, 2024, at which time he should also be prepared to answer questions related to Fund 30350993.

Prior to this hearing on March 28, 2024, Treasurer Loftis appeared on The Charlie James Show on 98.9 WORD radio in the Upstate. During the interview, he noted that he had not been afforded an opportunity to testify under oath regarding his understanding of the $1.8 billion discrepancy, attributing the issue to an uncertainty over fund ownership. He further asserted that determining the ownership of the funds is the responsibility of the CGO rather than that of the STO.

On April 2, 2024, his sworn testimony during the hearing was characterized by misdirection, reluctance to address critical issues, and unprofessional conduct—marked by interruptions, irrelevant answers, and an eventual premature departure from the hearing—which compounded concerns regarding the unresolved $1.8 billion discrepancy in SCEIS Fund 30350993.

The Subcommittee issued an interim report of preliminary findings surrounding the $1.8 billion exception with the following recommendations on April 16, 2024:

1. That the General Assembly enact legislation to ensure the complete independence of the State Auditor by severing his reporting relationship with the State Fiscal Accountability Authority. Although Section 11-7-45 of the South Carolina Code of Laws mandates the auditor's independence, the Subcommittee believed it necessary to take additional measures to preserve the integrity of the audit process.
2. That the General Assembly appropriate funds for an independent forensic audit of SCEIS Fund 30350993, to be performed by an external firm under the direction of the Department of Administration, with the Office of State Treasurer required to provide full cooperation and unrestricted access to all pertinent records and information.
3. That any funds allocated for the forensic audit—as well as the engagement and oversight of the external auditor—be managed by the Department of Administration, with any expenditures made in support of the forensic audit governed by a plan jointly prepared by the STO and the Department of Administration, subject to prior review and comment by the Joint Bond Review Committee.
4. That the Subcommittee receive weekly progress reports regarding the task force established by Governor McMaster, so that its progress would be diligently monitored.
5. Finally, the Subcommittee recommended that the General Assembly advance legislation proposing a constitutional amendment, to be submitted to the voters, that would authorize the Governor to appoint the State Treasurer.

All other findings, conclusions, and recommendations of the interim report, none of which have been subsequently refuted in fact or in substance, are herein incorporated by reference.

V. Governor Henry McMaster's Working Group Efforts

Working groups, comprising key participants from STO, CGO, Department of Administration (DOA), Office of the State Auditor (OSA), Office of the Governor, and the Attorney General's Office convened on a weekly basis to facilitate the preparation for the forensic accounting review. These meetings were conducted to enhance understanding of the objectives and scope of responsibilities of each respective office. In accordance with Director Adams's directive, each agency was instructed to compile and submit any related data to Fund 30350993 for inclusion in a centralized data lake, thereby ensuring that the forensic accounting firm had access to information, and could commence its work without unnecessary delay.

VI. Engagement of AlixPartners

In order to fully excavate its findings regarding the unexplained balance, the recommendations in the Subcommittee's 2024 Interim Report included that funding should be appropriated for an independent forensic accounting review to investigate the $1.8 billion balance in SCEIS Fund 30350993. The Subcommittee designated DOA to guide the review and take responsibility for engaging an appropriate firm. The Subcommittee further directed the STO to cooperate with the forensic accountants and provide full access to all records and information in its possession. This recommendation was fully funded in the budget and effectuated by Proviso 93.19¹⁷ in the General Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 2024-25 which delineated the parameters of the forensic accounting project. In part, the Proviso described the scope of review to:

“include, but not be limited to, all cash and investments held in the State Treasury and the reconciliation and balancing of all such cash and investments with any unreconciled fund managed by the relevant state agencies within the South Carolina Enterprise Information System (SCEIS) to the Statewide Accounting and Reporting System (STARS) and, to the extent possible as determined by the engaged accounting firm, to such external statements and records of financial institutions, investment firms, trustees, or any other third-party holding cash and investments on behalf of the State. In addition to the foregoing, the review must include findings and recommendations for any corrective entries and actions necessary, along with recommendations for procedures and controls to be implemented in the future.”

¹⁷ Exhibit 13 – Proviso 98.19 of the Fiscal Year 2025 Appropriations Act.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

The DOA used a competitive procurement process to engage a forensic accounting firm to complete the project. A request for proposal (RFP) was posted on June 24, 2024, and responses from ten firms were received. Following reviews of the proposals and interviews of the prospective firms, a notice of award to AlixPartners LLP was published on July 17, 2024, and AlixPartners began work on July 18, 2024. This large consulting firm is comprised of highly experienced forensic accounting and data analytics teams and has on staff the largest team of former Securities and Exchange Commission enforcement accountants.¹⁸

Of particular note as the Subcommittee reviews the precipitating events of our findings and recommendations presented today, the STO was also provided $1.2 million in funding in the same budget via Proviso 117.186¹⁹. That funding could be drawn down upon development of an implementation plan for the monies in coordination with DOA and, once approved by the Joint Bond Review Committee (JBRC), could be utilized to comply with the forensic accounting review as needed. The state budget containing these resources was ratified by the General Assembly on June 26, 2024. On January 6, 2025,²⁰ the STO submitted a two-paragraph letter to JBRC requesting $450,000 for software for financial reporting, audit, and risk and for licensing costs and training on the security software, which was not a request made in compliance with the parameters of the proviso. JBRC staff requested additional information for the Committee to use in approval but eventually STO simply asked that the item be removed from the agenda.²¹ Later, Treasurer Loftis would cite this $1.2 million funding as having been appropriated to the office when questioned about the use of a crisis communications consultant during the pendency of the accounting review.²² By way of clarification, the funds were not appropriated, nor

VII. Summary of 2025 Work of the Senate Finance Committee Constitutional Subcommittee

The following section provides a chronological account of the recent efforts undertaken by the Constitutional Subcommittee of the Senate Finance Committee in its investigation into the $1.8 billion in unresolved discrepancies within Fund 30350993. This section summarizes the events, detailing particular instances of paramount import or those that have yielded information to forthcoming Subcommittee findings that are detailed in this report, and annotates in the form of footnotes any associated evidentiary exhibits or points of clarification.

January 2025 – AlixPartners Report Released and Presented Before the Full Finance Committee

AlixPartners completed their forensic accounting review as delineated in their contract in late December, submitted their final report to the Governor, General Assembly, and to the Working Group, and subsequently posted the report to DOA’s website.²³ AlixPartners was successful in clarifying some of the thorniest issues that had challenged the research and resolution of the discrepancy by tracing the conversion from the STARS system to the SCEIS system, ultimately concluding that $1.6 billion of the fund was the result of incorrect entries. The remaining amount was identified in part as agency funds that had already been spent but not cleared from the fund, and other unidentifiable and unclaimed monies.

AlixPartners stated that as early as 2016, both the CGO and the STO were aware of issues with the fund as it related to financial reporting, and that by 2017, both knew that there was a remaining balance in the fund, at which time the STO began attempting to clear the balance.²⁴ However, the report states that ultimately “no effort was made at that time to determine to whom the resulting liability was owed.”²⁵ AlixPartners details attempts to achieve a zero balance, which would have represented an accurate and successful conversion, but notes that “the STO’s conversion did not go as intended and Fund 30350993 ultimately accumulated (and still reflects) the $1.8 Billion cash balance.”²⁶

AlixPartners made twenty-five recommendations,²⁷ the first of which has already been approved and funded for implementation: the hiring of an independent consultant to assess and oversee compliance with recommendations included in its report.

AlixPartners also noted the need for independence of the OSA, citing an inherent conflict within the state’s current structure, under which the State Auditor reports to the Comptroller General and State Treasurer. They also observe that the current annual audit process under which the State Auditor co-signs with an external audit firm is uncommon and recommend both ensuring that the current process is operating as intended and considering changes as needed.

Importantly, AlixPartners notes the lack of cooperation and communication between the CGO and the STO and makes four recommendations specifically to address that dysfunctional relationship.

AlixPartners made further recommendations to improve the functionality and capability of the CGO so that it can better carry out the accounting responsibilities of that office, including requisite resources needed to accomplish that goal.

AlixPartners made a number of recommendations about the compilation of the state’s future ACFRs, as well as recommendations on how corrections should be made to prior ACFRs.

Finally, AlixPartners suggests better utilization of SCEIS, the state’s current accounting system, to maintain workflow protocols and ensure that both the Treasurer and Comptroller General are using the same methods for configuring entries and tracking cash, so that another error of this sort will not occur again.

Conspicuously, many of these recommendations do not require legislation but do require serious and sincere conversations between our state's banker and our state's accountant to ensure that South Carolinians can trust that their money is safeguarded, invested, and properly accounted for.

Following the release of the report, Chairman Peeler asked AlixPartners present their findings in person to the Full Senate Finance Committee on January 21, 2025.

January 29, 2025 – Constitutional Subcommittee Hearing of the House Ways and Means Committee

On January 29, 2025, the Constitutional Subcommittee of the House Ways & Means Committee heard presentations from the OSA, the CGO, and the STO. Unexpectedly, an important issue surfaced during Treasurer Loftis's testimony.

At that appearance, Treasurer Loftis stated among other things that "we" are displaying a level of bad governance that has never been shown before.²⁸ He further stated that no state has ever in the time of an SEC investigation disclosed it, put it on the front page of the paper, and made allegation after allegation after allegation. Then, he stated that we are the only state in the Union who can't go out for credit, not because of the entry, but because of bad governance. He stated we now have hospitals being built with one-year money, not because of the entry, but because of the resulting display of "bad governance."²⁹ He stated he had to go to the bank this year and borrow $487 million in one-year money so that dormitories and hospitals can be built, one year at a time with no interest rate protection, and not because of the entry, but because of what's happened in the Senate to put out this narrative.³⁰

On February 18, 2025, the Constitutional Subcommittee of the Senate Finance Committee heard from DOA, STO, and CGO at the request of Subcommittee Chairman Grooms. With the exception of the STO, all agencies requested by the Subcommittee to appear at this meeting responded promptly, confirming their availability at the time designated. Initially, leadership from the STO informed staff that Treasurer Loftis would attend the hearing. However, they later indicated that he would be unavailable due to a “long-planned trip” and that six members of his staff would appear in his stead.³¹ Shortly before the Subcommittee hearing, staff became aware through a social media post that the Treasurer’s trip involved traveling the Appalachian Trail in a recreational vehicle.

The Director of the DOA provided sworn testimony before the Subcommittee and was asked whether she concurred with the recommendations and findings of the AlixPartners review, as well as the contents of its report. She responded promptly and unequivocally in the affirmative.³² Subcommittee members further inquired about the RFP process used to engage AlixPartners, the firm’s findings regarding the $1.8 billion in unresolved discrepancies within Fund 30350993, and implementation of recommendations. Notably, Chairman Grooms posed a question to the Director regarding her expectations for staff accountability, asking whether she would anticipate an employee bringing a matter of similar magnitude to her attention should a hypothetical problem of equivalent caliber arise under her oversight. The Director affirmed that, provided the employee fully understood the significance, implications, and ramifications of the issue, she would expect them to escalate it to her attention.³³

Subsequently, the Chief of Staff for the STO, and one of the Deputy State Treasurers, testified under oath in place of Treasurer Loftis. In contrast to the unequivocal responses provided by Director of the DOA, and later by Acting State Auditor Sue Moss and Comptroller General Gaines, the STO Chief of Staff was unable to provide a definitive and direct statement as to whether the STO agreed with the findings and recommendations of the AlixPartners Review and Report.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

When asked by Chairman Grooms whether she agreed with the findings of the AlixPartners Report, the STO Chief of Staff stated that the STO “accepts the report.”³⁴

When pressed to clarify the distinction between agreeing with the report and merely accepting it, she responded that the office was “definitely committed to implementing the recommendations.”³⁵ In an effort to obtain a more conclusive response, Chairman Grooms reiterated the question. The STO Chief of Staff then stated that the office “believed there could be some clarification”³⁶ regarding the individuals responsible for converting the appropriations that resulted in the balance in Fund 30350993.

The STO Chief of Staff asserted that the CGO was responsible for erroneously converting funds assigned to ACFR business areas, an action that the AlixPartners Report found to have contributed to $1.6 billion of the $1.8 billion balance in Fund 30350993.³⁷ When questioned about the source of this information, she stated that it was clarified by AlixPartners.³⁸ However, when asked why this specific information was not documented in the written report by AlixPartners themselves, she was unable to provide a definitive explanation, instead indicating that it had been conveyed to her by AlixPartners during a Microsoft Teams meeting.³⁹ Subcommittee members further inquired whether minutes of this meeting existed or if the meeting had been recorded. The STO Chief of Staff stated that no such documentation or recording was readily available.⁴⁰

Following the Subcommittee hearing, Subcommittee staff contacted AlixPartners to verify the accuracy of the STO Chief of Staff’s testimony and to confirm whether the clarification she referenced had been substantiated. In response, AlixPartners provided a written statement, which read:

"While we informed the State Treasurer's Office (STO) during the February 7th call that the Comptroller General's Office (CGO) was involved in certain entries that transferred the $1.6 billion to Fund 30350993, the CGO was not solely responsible. In fact, the usernames attributed to these entries in SCEIS (a system to which both the STO and CGO have access) are not directly associated with any CGO employee. The explanation we provided on February 7th is consistent with our report."⁴¹

This response indicates that while the CGO played a role in the transfer, it was not exclusively responsible, nor was there evidence to support that any employee of the CGO processed the transfers.

The STO Chief of Staff repeatedly testified that there were no audit findings related to the conversion entries or errors specific to Fund 30350993.⁴² However, these statements are demonstrably misleading. As will be evidenced in the subsequent sections of this report, the status of the Cash & Investments conversion was identified as a material weakness⁴³ in the Fiscal Year 2016 Independent Auditors' Report on Internal Control,⁴⁴ and as a significant deficiency in the Fiscal Year 2017 Independent Auditors' Report on Internal Control.⁴⁵ These findings directly contradict the Chief of Staff's assertions and underscore the gravity of the issues associated with Fund 30350993.

⁴³ Each fiscal year, the State Auditor in conjunction with an independent auditing firm audits the ACFR (also known previously as CAFR) and communicates any deficiencies in internal controls in the Reports. A deficiency is classified as either a "material weakness" or a "significant deficiency," with the former being more severe.

The STO Chief of Staff and the Deputy State Treasurer repeatedly asserted that AlixPartners had confirmed the cash and investments of the Treasury were in balance with the banks.⁴⁶ However, this assertion is, at best, delusory. AlixPartners explicitly stated that the unidentified exceptions from the conversion, which are held in Fund 30350993, must be accounted for in order to reconcile the balances with the banks. This issue will be further examined and substantiated in the “Findings” section of this report.

One of the most notable aspects of this Subcommittee hearing was the discussion regarding the STO’s engagement of an Upstate-based public relations firm that specializes in Crisis Communication.⁴⁷ The nature and substance of Treasurer Loftis’s public statements—both on social media and in the press—regarding the $1.8 billion in unresolved discrepancies within Fund 30350993 prompted Subcommittee staff to investigate whether the STO had retained external public relations services.

During the hearing, the STO Chief of Staff was presented with a collection of invoices from the public relations firm,⁴⁸ totaling $51,221.50 with $47,782.50 dedicated specifically towards “Crisis Communications.” When questioned about the purpose of contracting this firm and whether public funds were used for payment, the Chief of Staff characterized the matter as a “very important issue”⁴⁹ and stated that “it would not be unusual to seek guidance on communication concerning cash position and various other matters.”⁵⁰ When further pressed on whether the firm had provided her with preparation or coaching for the Subcommittee hearing, she responded affirmatively.⁵¹

After the Subcommittee concluded with the testimony and questioning of the two STO staff members, Comptroller General Brian Gaines presented briefly and clarified that the CGO had no role in the erroneous conversion of the ACFR business areas and made no conversion entries.⁵² This testimony is borne out and sustained by written records, making the Comptroller General's role in the conversion abundantly clear. Due to the extensive length of the STO Chief of Staff's testimony, and the volume of questions the members had for her, Comptroller General Gaines was invited to return at a later date to complete his testimony.

The Subcommittee also wishes to formally note that the documentation of STO's meeting with AlixPartners has not been provided to the Subcommittee as of the publication of this report.

February 20, 2025 – Constitutional Subcommittee Hearing of the Senate Finance Committee

On February 20, 2025, the Constitutional Subcommittee held another hearing to continue the testimony of Comptroller General Brian Gaines and hear from Acting State Auditor Sue Moss. Initially, the Subcommittee was led to believe that Treasurer Loftis would be present for this meeting, as he had publicly stated to members of the news media that he intended to attend. However, the Subcommittee was later informed that he remained out of town and would not return until the weekend.

Chairman Grooms first inquired whether Acting Auditor Moss concurred with the findings and recommendations outlined in the AlixPartners Report. Acting Auditor Moss unequivocally affirmed her agreement.⁵³

When questioned regarding the OSA's involvement in the AlixPartners review, she stated that the Office had participated in two meetings with AlixPartners.⁵⁴ Additionally, she informed the Subcommittee that the current state contract with CliftonLarsonAllen would conclude following the issuance of this year's Annual Comprehensive Financial Report (ACFR), marking the end of the firm's twenty-year tenure as the state's independent external auditor.⁵⁵

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

Acting Auditor Moss further recommended revising the selection process for hiring future State Auditors, proposing that appointments be made by the Governor, the Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and the Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.⁵⁶

Thereafter, Comptroller General Gaines resumed his testimony under oath before the Subcommittee. Before continuing his testimony from the previous hearing, Chairman Grooms inquired whether he concurred with the findings and recommendations of the AlixPartners Report. Comptroller General Gaines also responded unequivocally in the affirmative, expressing full agreement with all findings and recommendations.⁵⁷

Comptroller General Gaines then provided the Subcommittee with educational information regarding the definition of key terms and concepts pertaining to the State's Finances, including particularly the terms "fund," "types of funds," "business area," and "ACFR business area" before responding to specific assertions made in the prior hearing by staff of the STO.⁵⁸

Comptroller General Gaines refuted claims by the STO under oath that the CGO was responsible for the erroneous entries identified in the AlixPartners Report. Instead, he asserted that the STO's conversion team mistakenly included ACFR Business Areas in the state's banking and investment conversion process. He further testified that this misclassification artificially inflated the balance in Fund 30350993, which prevented the expected reconciliation of the Conversion Account. He stated that the proposed resolution of this error, as validated by AlixPartners, involves reversing these conversion entries, which would reduce the balance in Fund 30350993 by $1.6 billion.⁵⁹

Comptroller General Gaines subsequently provided clarification on Treasury staff's assertion that their belief that the balance was fungible and tangible was based in reliance on his letters.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

Comptroller General Gaines testified that he believed that the $1.8 billion in Fund 30350993 was part of the General Fund balance, a position shared by the State Auditor and CliftonLarsonAllen. However, further investigation revealed that this balance was linked to negative cash entries in ACFR Business Areas, a fact that was not understood at the time of initial correspondence. Comptroller General Gaines emphasized that the STO, as the state's banking authority, should have independently verified whether the funds were actual cash rather than relying on his Office for this determination.⁶⁰⁶¹

Regarding the STO Chief of Staff's prior testimony that Fund 30350993 was under the direction of the CGO, Comptroller General Gaines clarified that Fund 30350993 is a Treasury Fund under the exclusive control of the Treasury, and that no other agency has the authority to transact within a Treasury Fund.⁶² Notwithstanding, while the CGO indeed has the system access to make adjustments for reporting purposes, it does not engage in making transactions affecting an agency's official books, so that integrity of agency records and separation of duties are maintained.⁶³

⁶⁰ Exhibit 27, 00:28:05.

⁶¹ In his letter to Treasurer Loftis dated October 31, 2023, Comptroller General Gaines directed the State Treasurer to among other things "Prior to the end of Fiscal Year 2024, complete research of cash balances in Triple Zero Agencies [ACFR business areas] and Fund 30350993 that arose due to conversion; and after completing that research, then classify (or reclassify) those amounts of money to the appropriate Fund(s) and general ledger accounts – all in accordance with Notes 9 and 10 of the STO Signature Page for the [STO's] Fiscal Year 2023 ACFR Closing Package." Thereafter, by letter dated December 12, 2023, to Treasurer Loftis, Comptroller General Gaines observed that "the State Treasurer's Office is the only State entity that may move the amounts in Fund 30350993 to the appropriate SCEIS Funds and make its purpose known to the General Assembly. Unless you have reason to disagree, the appropriate SCEIS Funds to which these amounts should be moved are part of the General Fund balance. Regardless, consistent with your obligations within the State Fiscal Accountability Authority please make the General Assembly aware of Fund 30350993 and its appropriate treatment."

⁶³ Ibid, 00:12:55.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

Comptroller General Gaines expressed concern over the STO's assertion that "we tie to the bank and not by fund," calling this approach misleading. He emphasized that, like a commercial bank, the Treasury must track individual depositor - or funds - separately to ensure accurate financial reporting and allocation of investment interest.⁶⁴

The sworn testimony of Comptroller General Gaines emphasizes that the erroneous conversion entries were the result of the STO's misclassification of ACFR Business Areas as cash transactions. Additionally, Comptroller General Gaines raised concerns over the STO's approach to cash accounting and its assertions regarding Fund 30350993. Comptroller General Gaines maintains that the STO, as the state's banking authority, bears responsibility for ensuring accurate cash reporting and reconciliation.

Document Received from the STO on February 27, 2025

On the morning of February 27, 2025, Subcommittee staff and members of the legislature were sent a 54-page document entitled Overview of Issues Surrounding SCEIS Fund 30350993 and Other Allegations, with an issuance date marked February 26, 2025. While the Subcommittee had genuine hopes that the document would be explanatory and promote a productive subcommittee hearing, the document is riddled with a myriad of inaccuracies and false statements too numerous to warrant refuting them point-by-point within this report; however, the Subcommittee will discuss points from the document that it finds most egregious. Notably during the meeting, Treasurer Loftis exhibited hesitancy to attest to the accuracy of the document as part of his sworn testimony.

Among the many unfounded declarations contained within this document, the notion that Subcommittee members and staff provided information that was not factual and suppressed documents is among the most patent. The document ineptly asserts that Senator Goldfinch lied during the April 2, 2024,⁶⁵ hearing in which he referenced the inclusion of Federal funds reflected within Fund 30350993, which indisputably includes in General Ledger 1010339900 UC TRUST – FEDERAL an unresolved difference of $533,584,001.21.⁶⁶ At the time of the Treasurer's testimony on April 2, 2024, Treasurer Loftis had asserted that the funds were tangible and invested.⁶⁷ If that was the case, the unresolved difference in the UC Trust would have been subject to earnings, which potentially would be rebatable to the federal government in accordance with the Cash Management Improvement Act.⁶⁸ Accordingly, Senator Goldfinch properly questioned Treasurer Loftis as to the treatment of the interest of those funds given that Treasurer Loftis himself testified that they were pooled, invested, and had earned $225 million in investment interest. The State Auditor's letter to Chairman Grooms dated February 24, 2024, further reinforces this concern, as follows: "Accounting for cash assigned to these funds is managed at an agency level. In addition to requirements that cash be used for a specific purpose, there are usually reporting requirements imposed by State or Federal governments or by other granting entities regarding the status of unspent funds."⁶⁹

In addition, the document inexpertly accuses Senator McElveen of compelling the STO to post sensitive financial information to the world wide web, and further accused staff of splicing a video clip utilized in the February 20, 2025 hearing excluding this directive.⁷⁰ Verily, it was Treasurer Loftis's document that excluded the dialogue indicating that Senator McElveen was not directing the Treasurer to post information that would leave the State vulnerable to cyber-attacks.^{71&72}

The document also repeatedly attempted to make the argument that there is no indication that the records of the STO are inaccurate.⁷³ The Subcommittee rejects this argument. The very fact that a fund containing $1.8 billion in conversion entry errors is required to balance the state's banking records back to the bank, refutes the notion that STO's bank and investment records are accurate.

Accordingly, the existence of $31B of plugged transactions among the bank general ledger accounts strongly disputes this assertion, and the Alix Partners report so states at p. 49 as follows:

“As of 2022, the $1.8 Billion balance is composed of: (1) balances recorded related to 11 bank accounts (with a total balance of $31.0 billion); and (2) the ‘splitter’ balance in Fund 30350993 (with a balance of negative $29.1 billion). We have confirmed that, in each instance, SCEIS cannot be reconciled to the bank statements for those 11 banks without including the cash in Fund 30350993.”⁷⁴

The $31 billion referenced in the AlixPartners Report is the direct result of the failed conversion, which will be discussed subsequently.

The Subcommittee equally rejects the insistence that the STO has no culpability in the inception, formation, and evolution of the $1.8 billion in treasury fund 30350993. As will be covered later in the “Findings” section of this report, Fund 30350993 was established as a clearing fund and is squarely, exclusively utilized by the STO. The Subcommittee concludes the document's assertion results from either an improper reading of the AlixPartners report, or yet another attempt to misdirect and shift blame.

The AlixPartners report does not state that the CGO incorrectly recorded the balances to Fund 30350993 during Phase 2 of the bank conversion; the report states that “$1.6 billion ... is attributed to balances in certain ACFR-Only business areas that were incorrectly recorded to Fund 30350993 during Phase 2 of the bank conversion.”⁷⁵ The Subcommittee sought clarification from AlixPartners regarding this question following the testimony of the STO Chief of Staff: “While we informed the STO in the February 7th call that the CGO was involved in certain entries that transferred the $1.6 billion to fund 30350993, the CGO was not solely responsible. In fact, the usernames attributed to these entries in SCEIS (to which both the STO and CGO have access) are not directly associated with any CGO employee.”⁷⁶ To be sure, but for two transactions made by staff of the CGO in 2023 testing for resolution of the conversion error (in which the test was not successful), and over 7,600 entries made by consultants assisting with the conversion, 23,342 entries to Fund 30350993 were made solely by staff of the STO.⁷⁷ The STO has proffered no evidence or proof otherwise.

Finally, the Subcommittee denies entirely the pervasive theme through the document as well as Treasurer Loftis's overarching narrative that the investigation and its associated conduct is dangerous to the State's interests. The Subcommittee's position has historically been to exercise oversight publicly, as ignoring the situation or failing to investigate altogether could further harm the State in light of the SEC investigation. Once again, this strikes the Subcommittee as another attempt at obfuscation by the Treasurer.

The document has no salutary purpose to the unresolved issues at hand; neither recommendations on how best to rectify errors, nor resolution of still unsolved conflicts, were presented therein. In the relatively few instances that undistorted facts were presented within the Treasurer's document, they did not present new knowledge or instructive perspective on any events heretofore not known. Instead, the document appears to be yet another attempt at deflection, misdirecting the public away from previous findings and determinations, including those reinforced by AlixPartners included in their January 2025 report.

Reinforcing the seemingly casual relationship of the author(s) with accuracy, the Cover Disclaimer states: "The release of this document and its exhibits shall not constitute or in any way imply a waiver of any legal privilege or confidentiality regarding any materials or communications referenced herein. This document recounts and interprets events as they are presently understood based on the information available at the time of release. WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

Initially scheduled for February 25, 2025, the Subcommittee accommodated the STO's request for additional time for preparation and rescheduled the Treasurer's appearance for February 27th. At the meeting, Subcommittee members also revisited with Treasurer Loftis their conclusions regarding the $1.8 billion in unresolved differences in its review of the AlixPartners report.

Treasurer Loftis testified that he accepted the findings of the AlixPartners report and emphasized his resolve to implement its recommendations, stating that he was "committed to being part of the solution."⁷⁹ Nonetheless, he consistently evaded any acknowledgment of responsibility or culpability for the actions that resulted in the $1.8 billion in unresolved discrepancies in Fund 30350993. In response to inquiries from Chairman Grooms and Senator Goldfinch regarding whether he had engaged in any wrongdoing, he responded evasively by challenging them to define the concepts of right and wrong.⁸⁰

Subsequently, Senator Goldfinch inquired whether Treasurer Loftis could affirm that the document he had submitted to the Subcommittee earlier that morning was true and accurate. In response, Treasurer Loftis appeared uncertain, stating that he had never previously sworn to the accuracy of a document.⁸¹ When pressed further, he ultimately affirmed under oath that, to the best of his knowledge, the document was true and accurate, though he acknowledged that he had not personally reviewed its contents.⁸²

Throughout the duration of the Subcommittee hearing, Treasurer Loftis offered contradictory testimony regarding the classification of Fund 30350993, despite the findings of the AlixPartners report, and appeared to lack the requisite command over subject matter that the Subcommittee would deem minimally sufficient. He contended that he had always maintained that the fund in question could not contain actual monetary assets, attributing any apparent misunderstanding of his narrative to the

Subcommittee's conflation of the terms "fund" and "account."⁸³ Moreover, under oath, he asserted that his belief in the tangible and fungible nature of Fund 30350993 was solely based in reliance on affirmations by Comptroller General Gaines and former State Auditor Kennedy, a position that directly contradicted his earlier testimony.⁸⁴

During his sworn testimony, Treasurer Loftis provided inconsistent and contradictory definitions of Fund 30350993, at times offering mutually exclusive or factually incorrect descriptions. On one occasion, he asserted that the $1.8 billion existed yet paradoxically claimed that it "didn't exist there."⁸⁵ The AlixPartners report conclusively demonstrated that $1.6 billion of the $1.8 billion cannot logically represent actual funds. Moreover, when attempting to justify his April 2024 statement that the $1.8 billion had generated $225 million in interest, he maintained that Fund 30350993 "was represented in that."⁸⁶ When questioned about his assertion that he bore no responsibility for Fund 30350993 despite its classification as a Treasury fund, he explained that "it sits in the Treasury because there are some abandoned,⁸⁷ like the Capital Reserve Fund, the Contingency Reserve Fund," and "Well, it's a fund attached to our office, but we don't have budgetary authority over it. So, it's like any other fund."⁸⁸ In reality, Fund 30350993 neither possesses designated budgetary assignments nor holds actual cash; it is not abandoned, as it is routinely used to force balance back to the bank statements. Nor is it comparable to the Capital Reserve and Contingency Reserve Funds, as it does not contain actual cash.

Similarly, before responding to most of the Subcommittee's inquiries, Treasurer Loftis felt compelled to consult with his legal counsel or Chief of Staff, at times reading aloud prepared statements. Phrases such as "I'm trying to figure out how to say this" were frequently interjected throughout his testimony,⁸⁹ further reinforcing the Subcommittee's impression that he either lacks a comprehensive command of the subject matter or is insufficiently engaged in the core functions of his office. It is noteworthy that complete understanding and transparency should not require extensive deliberation prior to articulation. The Subcommittee noted that Treasurer Loftis appeared to rely on his counsel to cultivate control of his temperament, prompting counsel to pass notes, including one that said simply, in large print: “Calm!”

Subcommittee members also revisited the actions threatened on April 2, 2024, regarding the posting of sensitive financial information of the state, this time directly with the Treasurer himself.

Treasurer Loftis testified under oath that he never intended to publish sensitive financial information electronically, going so far as to categorize the Subcommittee’s line of questioning surrounding this matter as “sophomoric.”⁹⁰ Notwithstanding, Treasurer Loftis’s adamancy and delivery during his April 2024 testimony certainly left an indication he was serious in his threats, leading the Subcommittee to believe that he either lied under oath, or intended to mislead the subcommittee or both. The record is clear on this topic.

Furthermore, Treasurer Loftis sent the Subcommittee a letter advising that he would publish the information electronically after notifying the DOA on April 4, 2024.⁹¹ However, when questioned about the letter during testimony, he suggested that the Subcommittee fabricated the letter and that it was never sent. Instead, he referred to a second letter that was sent that same day, stating that its contents clarified that there was no intention of publishing sensitive financial information and that the Subcommittee didn’t want that letter to be produced⁹² Despite testimony to the contrary by Treasurer Loftis and the STO Chief of Staff the week prior, Subcommittee Staff was never in receipt of that letter. Upon further research, it was determined that the second letter was sent twice: once to Chairman Grooms, and then again to the rest of the Subcommittee members one hour and fifty minutes after the letter indicating intent to publish sensitive information was sent, copying members of Treasury staff.⁹³ At the hour the second letter was sent, the Subcommittee was taking steps to seek advice from the DOA and other state officials to prevent Treasurer Loftis from irrevocably damaging the financial interests of the state through a deliberate act of protest, retaliation, and exceptionally poor judgment. In any case, the subject matter of the second letter detailed clarifications Treasurer Loftis wanted to provide the Subcommittee after reviewing his own testimony, and did not unambiguously indicate that posting sensitive information would be in permanent restraint.⁹⁴

In addition, the Subcommittee questioned the Treasurer about his House Subcommittee testimony on January 21, 2025, concerning his decision not to issue long-term debt, and particularly whether or not he had notified the SFAA and JBRC about the decision. The Treasurer testified that the STO attempted to notify SFAA by submitting an agenda item for the February 4, 2025, SFAA meeting, but members declined to have a discussion; rather his staff and disclosure counsel met with staff of the Governor's Office, the STO, and staff from the House and Seante to inform them of these issues.⁹⁵

Actions Following the February 27, 2025 Meeting Regarding Bond Disclosure

Following the Subcommittee meeting, on February 27, 2025, STO staff provided information for the meeting conducted with SFAA liaisons, and an item draft represented as having been discussed at liaison agenda review.⁹⁶ Thereafter, on February 28, 2025, STO staff clarified that the item draft represented as having been discussed at liaison agenda review was still an internal draft and had not been provided to SFAA, or SFAA members or liaisons.⁹⁷

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

By letter dated March 3, 2025,⁹⁸ the Treasurer informed the Senate Subcommittee among other things that he had requested there be an agenda item added to the February 2025 SFAA meeting to receive legal advice from the state's disclosure counsel; that the draft agenda included the item; and that against the request of his office, the item was not included on the final agenda. He further stated that the STO arranged the January 29, 2025 meeting whereby the SFAA liaisons and attorneys could discuss this matter with the state's disclosure counsel.

The letter also states that two short-term financings were undertaken last year, one of which was issued in May 2024, and the other of which cannot be determined since the Treasurer's letter did not include the details of that transaction.⁹⁹

S. 253, Joint Resolution on Audit Support is signed into law by the Governor.

In the immediate days after the issuance of the AlixPartners report, the Senate Finance Committee drafted legislation to compel action on the AlixPartners Report and on January 21, 2025, introduced S. 253.¹⁰⁰ This Joint Resolution directs funding to the DOA for the purpose of hiring an independent compliance consultant to assess and oversee compliance with recommendations in the AlixPartners forensic accounting report and with recommendations in other relevant studies completed in Fiscal Years 2023-2024 and 2024-2025. The Joint Resolution requires the STO, the CGO, and the OSA to immediately begin implementation of the report's recommendations that do not require statutory changes in coordination with and oversight of the DOA. The STO, the CGO, and the OSA are further required to provide monthly reports on the status of implementation to the Governor, the President of the Senate, the Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

The Subcommittee agrees with the Report's Recommendations and believes this is a significant step to ensure compliance via the engagement of an independent compliance monitor to guide the work. It is also the belief and hope of the Subcommittee members that this step demonstrates a commitment to setting our state's financial records right.

Letter Provided to Subcommittee on March 10, 2025

Treasurer Loftis submitted formal written clarification regarding his sworn testimony from over a week prior, as well as matters related to SCEIS Fund 30350993.¹⁰¹ He asserted that any inconsistencies between his testimony and the STO document, submitted to the Subcommittee on February 27, 2025, should be reconciled in favor of the document itself, which he characterized as evidence-based and reflective of the STO's full comprehension of the issue.

Treasurer Loftis reaffirmed the testimony provided by both himself and his Chief of Staff before the Subcommittee regarding the responsibility for the erroneous conversion and recording of ACFR business areas into SCEIS Fund 30350993. He reiterated that his statements concerning the fungibility of the $1.8 billion balance within the fund were made in good faith, based on information conveyed to him by other officials. Furthermore, he expressed concern that his explanations were not duly considered by certain members of the Subcommittee, characterizing their reception as having fallen on "deaf ears."

While the Subcommittee acknowledges and appreciates the correspondence submitted by Treasurer Loftis, the contents therein fail to substantiate any material deviation from the Subcommittee's existing understanding of the matter—an understanding firmly grounded in documentary evidence and verifiable facts.

The letter concluded with responses to inquiries posed by Senators during the February 18 and February 27 hearings, addressing a range of topics, including Treasurer Loftis's participation in work group meetings,¹⁰² AlixPartners meetings,¹⁰³ allocations for the salaries of STO staff,^{104&105} and matters pertaining to the utilization of the SCEIS Oversight Committee.¹⁰⁶ Additionally, the correspondence included a compilation of letters, notably the second clarifying letter issued by the State Treasurer less than two hours after his initial communication, in which he alluded to the potential disclosure of sensitive financial information. The Subcommittee has previously addressed this matter within the body of this report.

Letter Provided to Subcommittee on March 11, 2025

The Subcommittee received correspondence from the STO Chief of Staff serving as a follow-up to her testimony delivered on February 18, 2025.¹⁰⁷ In her letter, the Chief of Staff emphasized that in any instance where her testimony may have diverged from the STO's official report submitted on February 27, 2025, the Subcommittee should defer to the contents of that document as the authoritative account.

Furthermore, she provided clarification regarding statements she made about the responsibility for the erroneous conversion of the ACFR business areas within SCEIS. She confirmed that AlixPartners orally conveyed to her during a meeting on February 7, 2025, that the CGO bore sole responsibility for this misclassification. Additionally, the STO Chief of Staff specified that the language she referenced during her testimony was sourced directly from page 10 of the AlixPartners Report.

The Subcommittee acknowledges and appreciates the correspondence submitted by the STO Chief of Staff. However, the information provided does not present any substantive divergence from the Subcommittee's established understanding of the matter, which remains firmly anchored in documented evidence and independently verifiable facts.

In response to prior testimony and documentation provided by the STO regarding issues surrounding bond issuance and its critiques of the AlixPartners Report, the Constitutional Subcommittee convened an additional hearing to provide the State Fiscal Accountability Authority (SFAA) and representatives from AlixPartners an opportunity to present their responses and address the concerns raised.

The Subcommittee requested information from SFAA's Executive Director about the agency's involvement in the state's bond issuance process. As discussed elsewhere in this report, Treasurer Loftis made a public statement in his House Ways and Means budget presentation that he was currently unable to issue general obligation bonds.¹⁰⁸ Just a few weeks prior to this public declaration, the STO had alerted SFAA that he wanted to add an executive session item to the February 4, 2025, meeting agenda: Update by Disclosure Counsel. The SFAA Director noted that while it is not uncommon for SFAA members to request additions to the agenda, this particular request was not accompanied by details of information typically provided to the Authority in support of agenda items.^{109&110} This vagueness made it difficult for SFAA member liaisons to determine its appropriateness for addition and further, to determine the advisability of an executive session discussion. The STO explained that they were waiting for the AlixPartners report to be issued on January 15, 2025, to provide additional information.¹¹¹ Ultimately, on January 29, 2025, the five SFAA liaisons and their counsels met with the state's disclosure counsel. Thereafter a majority decided against including the item on the agenda.¹¹² The Subcommittee noted in further discussion the ostensible concern about the use of executive session outside of permitted purposes given the timing of the request,¹¹³ and the fact that the preceding public conversation had been about the impact of the SEC investigation on the state's ability to issue general obligation bonds, Treasurer Loftis's decision to issue bond anticipation notes, and whether required disclosures and notifications were made.

Next to appear before the Subcommittee were a Managing Director and a Director of Investigations, of AlixPartners, who provided testimony in response to the statements made by the STO Chief of Staff, on February 18, 2025, as well as the testimony delivered by Treasurer Loftis on February 27, 2025, and the document submitted to the Subcommittee by Treasurer Loftis on the morning of February 27, 2025.

Chairman Grooms commenced the discussion by requesting the representatives from AlixPartners to affirm whether the STO Chief of Staff and Treasurer Loftis accurately characterized the erroneous ACFR Business area conversion entries as solely the fault and responsibility of the CGO, and whether AlixPartners had explicitly confirmed that assertion.¹¹⁴

The Director clarified that the that the CGO properly makes non-cash accounting adjustments within ACFR business areas in preparation of the ACFR, which in and of themselves were not an issue.¹¹⁵ The issue arose as a consequence of transferring these non-cash accounting balances as cash to Treasury Fund 30350993 during the conversion of the legacy STARS system to SCEIS. AlixPartners found that $1.6 billion of the $1.8 billion was an unintended consequence of these transfers.¹¹⁶ AlixPartners further clarified that the transfers were not directly attributable to any employee of the CGO; rather, four users were associated with the transfer entries, two of which were STO employees, one of which was an employee of SCEIS assigned to the STO to assist with the conversion, and one of which was a system-assisted batch entry.¹¹⁷ The Director further clarified that although the entries were made by STO employees, they found evidence of CGO team members having at least an awareness of these entries and involved in some of the decision-making.¹¹⁸

To the question of whether or not they had informed the STO Chief of Staff during a Microsoft Teams meeting on February 7, 2025, that the CGO bore sole responsibility for the inaccurate conversion of ACFR business funds, the AlixPartners representatives unequivocally denied making such a statement.¹¹⁹

Chairman Grooms, upon reviewing the information presented, inquired of the representatives from AlixPartners whether the STO would have been capable of identifying an error of such magnitude. The representatives acknowledged the complexity of the question, stating that it would be difficult to assert with certainty whether the STO could have detected such an error.¹²⁰ However, they emphasized that Fund 30350993 was exclusively a treasury-managed fund, directly associated with the STO.¹²¹

At that point, Chairman Grooms sought clarification on whether employees of the CGO had made entries into the fund, ultimately contributing to the $1.6 billion in erroneous postings from various ACFR business areas. In response, the AlixPartners representative affirmed that the conversion entries had been made by the STO or others on its behalf, a finding that aligned with the subcommittee's investigative research.¹²²

The Director further underscored that these financial entries had been recorded with the consultation and involvement of the CGO, with the expectation that the fund would reconcile to a zero balance upon the conclusion of the conversion process.¹²³ He concluded that individuals in key positions within both offices were aware that a significant issue existed. However, despite this recognition, there was no clear understanding of the nature of the error, nor was there an ability to identify which specific entries had been erroneous.¹²⁴

Senator Goldfinch inquired whether any concerns had been raised regarding the conversion of cash and investments around 2017.¹²⁵ The representatives from AlixPartners stated that, at that time, auditors informed the STO that they could not approve that year's ACFR until cash and investments were fully reconciled.¹²⁶ They further indicated that this led to the decision to record the unconverted amounts—ultimately contributing to the $1.8 billion discrepancy in Fund 30350993—as a liability, allowing the ACFR to be finalized.¹²⁷

On question of Treasurer Loftis's assertion that the State Treasurer has reconciled balances in SCEIS to the bank, and that all cash and investments have been properly managed and accounted for, AlixPartners responded in substance that while portions of this statement were outside the scope of its engagement, they would take exception to the statement that cash was properly managed and accounted for, observing that had cash been properly accounted for, "we would not be here."¹²⁸ The Director stated that the AlixPartners Report found that the failure to investigate or understand the $1.8 billion represented a shortcoming in accounting for the Treasury funds.¹²⁹ The AlixPartners Report recommends that Treasurer Loftis should report at the account and fund level; and that lack of granularity was a part of the problem.¹³⁰

Senator Sabb then questioned whether the General Assembly should have been notified of these issues.¹³¹ AlixPartners explained that their review suggested those involved in the conversion process believed they were resolving the problem and may not have fully understood the nature of the error.¹³² Senator Sabb, citing Treasurer Loftis's recent evolving narrative over the funds fungibility, asserted that the General Assembly should have been informed of the outcome of the conversion. The Director acknowledged the concern but stated he could not definitively testify to the reasoning or understanding of the employees managing the conversion at that time.

Subsequently, Senator Matthews revisited a topic previously discussed during AlixPartners' January 2025 presentation regarding Treasurer Loftis's participation in their meetings. The Director stated that Treasurer Loftis attended three of the eight meetings but could not recall that Treasurer Loftis had a speaking role.¹³³ Senator Matthews then questioned whether AlixPartners could assess Treasurer Loftis's level of involvement in his office's operations. The Director indicated that while Treasurer Loftis appeared to have a general understanding, his level of familiarity with SCEIS remained uncertain.¹³⁴ She further inquired whether Treasurer Loftis had acknowledged any responsibility for the issue. The Director confirmed that, during the final report discussion, Treasurer Loftis expressed a sense of shared responsibility for the $1.8 billion,¹³⁵ directly contradicting his testimony on February 27, 2025, the sworn document he submitted to the Subcommittee that morning, and the testimony of his Chief of Staff on February 18, 2025. Senator Matthews closed this particular line of questioning by seeking clarification on the extent to which Comptroller General Gaines participated in the meetings relative to that of Treasurer Loftis, to which the AlixPartners observed that Comptroller General Gaines was an active participant.

Later in the hearing, Senator Rice inquired whether any documentation existed to confirm that Treasurer Loftis was aware of the error and the corresponding entries made.¹³⁶ In response, the Director stated that no such documentation had been identified but emphasized that "the conversion process was really owned by the Treasurer's Office," with the Treasurer exercising oversight.¹³⁷ This statement stands in contrast to Treasurer Loftis's and his staff's repeated assertions that responsibility for the conversion rested with the CGO.¹³⁸ AlixPartners' response aligns with staff research, the findings of which will be further detailed in the subsequent section of this report.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

Thereafter, Senator Matthews questioned AlixPartners regarding a specific statement from the document submitted by the STO to the subcommittee on February 27, 2025. The statement asserted that the AlixPartners Report confirmed: “There is no mystery bank account with $1.8 billion, there is no missing or misspent money, and all cash and investments have been properly managed and accounted for by the State Treasurer’s Office.”¹³⁹ The Director refuted this characterization, stating that it was inaccurate for two reasons: first, AlixPartners was not tasked with assessing the management of STO funds;¹⁴⁰ and second, a balance remained in a fund that should have a balance of zero.¹⁴¹ Given this, the Director testified that it was evident not all Treasury funds had been properly accounted for and managed by the STO.¹⁴²

Throughout the hearing, Subcommittee members asked a number of questions to promote clarity and understanding, referencing testimony from the Chief of Staff, the Deputy State Treasurer and Treasurer Loftis himself, who all asserted that all cash and investments were correctly accounted for and reconciled to the bank. In response, AlixPartners representatives consistently emphasized that, while they were not tasked with evaluating fund management, they concluded that Treasury funds were not fully accounted for.

One representative elaborated, noting that the Treasury reconciles by accounts rather than by funds. This led to further questioning, during which AlixPartners confirmed that had the Treasury been fully reconciling cash and investments at the fund level, the discrepancies likely would have been identified much earlier with greater transparency.¹⁴³

During the meeting, the representatives of AlixPartners were asked which single misstatement, whether in testimony provided by the STO or in the documents sent on February 27, 2025, they would correct if given the opportunity.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

The Managing Director cited the testimony of both the STO Chief of Staff and Treasurer Loftis, which asserted that only one of AlixPartners' recommendations pertained to the Treasury, while twenty-five were directed at the Comptroller General. The Managing Director emphasized that in this context, "quality" should not be overshadowed by "quantity," noting that had the STO been able to properly reconcile by fund, as outlined in AlixPartners' second recommendation, the $1.8 billion in unresolved discrepancies likely would not have been remained unresolved for seven years.¹⁴⁴ The Director referenced Treasurer Loftis's testimony in which he claimed that his agency had passed the forensic accounting review "with flying colors." He countered this assertion, stating that AlixPartners believed the Treasury should have accounted for cash differently and conducted a more thorough investigation at the time to ascertain what exactly the issue was.¹⁴⁵ Consequently, he asserted that it was inaccurate to suggest the Treasury had passed its review "with flying colors."¹⁴⁶

Senator Grooms stated his appreciation for AlixPartners clarification, and indicated a key component of the report will be based on AlixPartners's findings. He asked the representatives from AlixPartners if there was anything else they believed the subcommittee ought to know.

The Managing Director stated there is one point of clarification with regard to the Treasurer's Document dated February 26, 2025, on page 22, where there is a statement that the CGO refused to allow AlixPartners to review its cross-walk, referencing the AlixPartners Report.¹⁴⁷ That reference related to the CGO adjustments column, and she wanted to clarify that AlixPartners had access to the crosswalks for 2022 and 2023, reflecting adjustments AlixPartners had difficulty understanding in those years. AlixPartners asked whether or not they should review later years, and the CGO indicated that it would not be any different. It is not as if it was not made available by the CGO – AlixPartners had it, but because the result would not have been different, AlixPartners declined to review that piece.¹⁴⁸

The Director stated that on page 19 of the same STO Document, there is a block quote that says the AlixPartners Report states that the CGO's entry was incorrect, there is a troubling observation regarding the Comptroller General's credibility, and a statement made by the STO that this might have been an attempt by the CGO to deceive AlixPartners.¹⁴⁹ The Director stated that the document to which this reference is made was found by AlixPartners on its own and was not provided by the CGO, and AlixPartners does not believe it was intended to deceive them in any way.¹⁵⁰ AlixPartners noted on its report that it raised certain questions, which they looked at and evaluated considering other contemporaneous documents at the time. The document referenced concerned the $324 million entry processed in 2018.¹⁵¹ The document was authored by a CGO employee, and found in the CGO's shared folders.¹⁵² In a follow-up question, the Director confirmed that AlixPartners did not believe that the CGO was trying to deceive them.¹⁵³

Senator Goldfinch asked if the Treasurer's document was an effort to obfuscate or shift blame.¹⁵⁴ The Director responded that he did not know that AlixPartners had a view like that, but observed that certainly there are factual inaccuracies that AlixPartners wanted to ensure had been corrected.¹⁵⁵ On further question by Senator Goldfinch, the Director confirmed that the two corrections he made were among others that were not factually accurate.¹⁵⁶ Senator Goldfinch again asked whether or not the Treasurer's document attempted to shift blame to the Comptroller General, to which the Director responded that it would appear that way.¹⁵⁷

The Subcommittee offers its highest commendation to AlixPartners for their invaluable work. Without their efforts, the $1.8 billion discrepancy might have remained unresolved indefinitely, as obtaining accurate information from the STO and fostering cooperation between them and the CGO proved exceedingly difficult.

Regrettably, the necessity of hearing testimony from AlixPartners again arose due to the confusing and opaque information provided by the STO. As Treasurer Loftis himself acknowledged in his testimony on February 27, 2025, $3 million was expended to uncover the truth—an expenditure that, as this Subcommittee has demonstrated, was necessitated primarily by either his lack of transparency or his disengagement from the operations of his own office. Moreover, even after the release of the report, when given the opportunity to cooperate with the Subcommittee, amend his prior conduct, and demonstrate transparency, Treasurer Loftis instead pursued further obfuscation and deflection of his responsibility.

Letters Received from Treasurer Loftis on March 14, 2025

On March 14, 2025, the Constitutional Subcommittee received two additional letters from the STO. The first, which was provided as a carbon copy, requested President Thomas Alexander and Finance Chairman Harvey Peeler to intervene in what was described as an improper and biased investigation by the Senate Finance Constitutional Subcommittee.¹⁵⁸ The letter goes on at some length in an attempt to demonstrate that the Subcommittee has overstepped its authority, disregarded proper procedures, and made false accusations about Treasurer Loftis, including that he had misappropriated state funds.¹⁵⁹ In brief, the Subcommittee urges his further review of the S.C. Code, particularly Section 2-2-40(B), and Section 2-2-70, as well as the documents presented as exhibits with this report for a better understanding of the authority and process guidelines for the investigation, as well as evidence precipitating findings. As to the misappropriation of funds, the Subcommittee concedes that the largely inscrutable state of the STO budget precludes full awareness of the use of funds under his control. Treasurer Loftis took issue with the level of transparency of the process despite the numerous public hearings held in open-door session, and despite the inherent contradiction in a publicly elected state officer's objection to public questioning about the work of his public office. He urged the Senate to review the Subcommittee's actions and prevent “further damage.”¹⁶⁰ Of note, the letter does not refute any written factual findings the Subcommittee has made thus far.

The second letter was a response to testimony provided by the AlixPartners representatives on March 11, 2025.¹⁶¹ Treasurer Loftis disputed aspects of their report, again arguing that the CGO played a direct role in directing erroneous accounting entries¹⁶² and that a March 2024 CGO memo falsely attributes a $324 million transfer request to his office, an assertion that until now had not been heard by the Subcommittee, and one whose import remains a mystery Treasurer Loftis maintained that his disagreements with AlixPartners are interpretive rather than factual and reiterates the Treasury’s commitment to transparency in resolving the issue.

It is the belief of the Subcommittee that these letters constitute a last-minute effort by Treasurer Loftis to deflect accountability as the weight of evidence becomes insurmountable. The Subcommittee has, throughout the investigation, remained committed to its objective review of the facts and in this final phase will not be diverted by the need to systematically address each unfounded claim. However, the forthcoming findings will clearly demonstrate the lack of credibility in these assertions.

VIII. Findings Based on Subcommittee Investigation & Hearings

The following section provides a summary of Subcommittee findings regarding the $1.8 billion in unresolved discrepancies in Fund 30350993 in light of the AlixPartners Review and Report, as well as information gleaned by the Subcommittee through hearings and further investigation. Associated exhibits and points of clarification are annotated in the form of footnotes.

¹⁶¹ Exhibit 44 – Letter from Treasurer Loftis to Senator Grooms, Mar. 12, 2025.

¹⁶² Neither the Subcommittee nor AlixPartners dispute this fact. While the CGO did provide guidance to the STO on resolving the $1.8 billion, they were not responsible for the erroneous conversion of ACFR business areas. Evidence from AlixPartners and the Subcommittee's research confirms that it was the STO that mistakenly converted the $1.6 billion from ACFR business areas.

Treasurer Loftis's Evolving Narrative of the 1.8B

Prior to exposition of the most recent findings by the Subcommittee, it is important to consider Treasurer Loftis's evolving narrative of the $1.8 billion in unresolved discrepancies in Fund 30350993.

From the inception of this investigation until the release of the AlixPartners report, Treasurer Loftis remained steadfast in asserting that the balance of Fund 30350993 represented real cash that had been pooled, invested, and yielded $225M in earnings. In exchanges with Senator Mike Fanning, Senator Thomas McElveen, and Senator Stephen Goldfinch during his April 2024 testimony, Treasurer Loftis adamantly and unequivocally maintained this posture.¹⁶³ Prior to his April 2024 testimony, Treasurer Loftis was featured in radio and television interviews affirming the same, his narrative only varying with respect to the amount earned in investments.¹⁶⁴ On January 17, 2025, one day after the AlixPartners report was released, Treasurer Loftis detailed in a video sent to members of the legislature and posted to his social media page that the AlixPartners report validated what he and his office "knew all along."¹⁶⁵

Bewildered, during the meeting at which Treasurer Loftis testified on February 27, 2025, the Subcommittee sought clarification on the stark shift in his narrative. Regrettably, no such clarity was forthcoming. Treasurer Loftis contended that the Subcommittee had conflated the terms "accounts" and "funds,"¹⁶⁶ asserting that the latter merely serves as an accounting representation of tangible cash. He maintained that his intention was only to convey that the fund in question, at a specific point in time, contained actual monetary assets. The Subcommittee cannot accept this elucidation as it fails to illustrate a cohesive, consistent, or otherwise comprehensible set of facts, and is entirely juxtaposed with his April 2024 testimony.

Chairman Grooms revisited this issue later in the subcommittee hearing, pressing Treasurer Loftis on whether he had believed the balance in Fund 30350993 was real when he testified in 2024. In response, Treasurer

Loftis affirmed that he had, basing his belief on information provided by "every source in state government."¹⁶⁷ Seeking to crystallize Treasurer Loftis's shifting narrative for the record, Chairman Grooms asked him to unequivocally confirm that the balance of Fund 30350993 represented actual cash. Initially, Treasurer Loftis affirmed this assertion but immediately wavered, stating: "I did believe [that it was real money], well, it represents real money. It's a fund that represents real money that shows up in the banks' accounts."¹⁶⁸ When further pressed to define and reinforce his testimony regarding the tangibility and fungibility of the $1.8 billion, Treasurer Loftis clarified that he was distinguishing between money held in a bank and money recorded within a fund.

Conversion Process of the State Treasury

Throughout this investigation the STO has not taken any level of responsibility for their portion of the conversion from STARS to SCEIS, testifying that the Comptroller General not only made the unilateral decision for the conversion, but also was in charge and responsible for its entirety. Evidence gleaned by the Subcommittee during investigation suggests otherwise.

Over time and with growing intensity recently following publication of the AlixPartners Report, Treasurer Loftis has repeated these erroneous statements: that the CGO was responsible for the conversion errors, that the STO has no responsibility nor interest in balances maintained at the fund level, and that the conversion itself originated as a statutory responsibility of the CGO. Each of these claims is false.

Conversion to SCEIS treasury management from the STO's legacy systems was not within the original statutory mandate for the state's adoption of SCEIS, nor has such a mandate been issued by the General Assembly at any point since. The original functions covered by the mandate were statewide accounting, human resources and payroll, and procurement. The recommendation to implement treasury and investment accounting formally emerged from the Treasurer's Transition Team Report published in February 2011,¹⁶⁹ stating that his transition team's Technology Subcommittee reviewed and made appropriate recommendations regarding the need to upgrade, acquire, and retire any stand-alone Information Technology systems in the STO to achieve economies, efficiencies, savings, and increased productivity.¹⁷⁰ Members ascertained the STO's progress in implementing SCEIS, the State's enterprise system, and considered the benefits and merits of the State implementing modules of the State's new enterprise information system beyond the accounting, HR, and payroll, and procurement modules initially being implemented statewide.¹⁷¹ In addition to SCEIS, other STO systems (approximately 14) include debt management, investment, and cash management. The sheer number of STO systems is difficult to manage and many of the systems have been in existence for a number of years and often do not integrate with SCEIS. The integration of these systems to SCIES should be examined.¹⁷²

On or about July 18, 2014, the STO published a project charter to replace the investment management system (NVEST).¹⁷³ Executive sponsors were reflected as Treasurer Loftis, his chief of staff, and one of his deputy State Treasurers. Six employees reflected in the document were STO employees; one employee was an employee of SCEIS, and two employees were employees of the State Office of Chief Information Officer. Project goals were to replace the Investment Management System (IMS); to reduce and eliminate manual and redundant processes; to automate the transmission of files to and from business partners; to improve availability of management reports; to provide a secure operating environment that protects the privacy and confidentiality of all banking and investment data; and to identify cost reductions and cost savings through the elimination of duplicate systems, functions, contracts, manual processes, printing of reports, etc.¹⁷⁴

On or about August 5, 2014, the STO published a project charter to transition general deposit bank accounts to SCEIS.¹⁷⁵ Executive sponsors were reflected as Treasurer Loftis, his Chief of Staff, and one of his deputy State Treasurers. With the exception of one employee of SCEIS, all of the remaining employees reflected on the document were employees of the STO. The project goals were to replace the bank reconciliation processes in FMS¹⁷⁶ with similar, more robust and automated functionality in SCEIS; to replace the ‘check funding’ process in FMS with the similar, automated functionality in SCEIS; to automate files exchanges and reconciliation processes with banks where transaction volume is of significant size; to improve access to and the availability of reports to manage banking activities; to provide a secure operating environment that protects the privacy and confidentiality of all banking data; and to identify cost reductions and cost savings through the elimination of duplicate systems, functions, manual processes, printing of reports, etc.¹⁷⁷

These documents confirm that the conversions of investments and banking to SCEIS were initiated and sponsored by the STO, and not the Comptroller General nor by statutory mandate, as Treasurer Loftis and his staff have asserted. No employees of the CGO or the OSA were listed in any role in these documents.

As has been previously determined, conversions pursuant to these projects ensued principally in the years 2015 and 2016. Extensive research reveals no participation, including preparation of entries, by the CGO or the OSA during the conversions. Rather, the engagement and participation of the CGO and OSA arose following conversion, principally in connection with corrective actions necessary for preparation of the ACFR following the failed conversion. This research confirms that the conversion was executed not by the CGO, nor by statutory mandate, but by the STO.

In addition to the foregoing, Proviso 98.2¹⁷⁸ included in the FY2024-25 Appropriations Act, as continued for many fiscal years in the past, provides that decisions relating to STARS and SCEIS which involve the State Treasurer’s Banking Operations and other functions of the STO shall require the approval of the State Treasurer.¹⁷⁹

As a result, all of Treasurer Loftis's continued assertions that anyone other than his Office selected, implemented or otherwise effected, provided oversight, or had any other responsibility, to or for the conversion and ongoing maintenance of the State's investment and banking systems and records, are refuted.

Failed Conversion of the State Treasury

Fund 30350993, along with the $31 billion in account variances¹⁸⁰ it encompasses, stands as clear evidence of a failed Treasury conversion. During the April 2024 subcommittee hearing, Treasurer Loftis strongly objected to the Subcommittee's Exhibit 10,¹⁸¹ which outlined a SCEIS-based report on Fund 30350993 with the inclusion of its associated variances. However, both the February 27, 2025, STO Document and Treasurer Loftis's testimony during the April 2024 hearing indicate that he interpreted the SCEIS based report as stating that Fund 30350993 held a balance of $31 billion—an assertion that does not align with the actual contents of the report.

The Subcommittee illustrated the extent of the transactions totaling $31B in fund 30350993 to force agreement between the SCEIS General Ledger and the bank statements that resulted from Treasurer Loftis's failed conversion. The AlixPartners report confirms and describes these differences on page 49, as follows:

“As of 2022, the $1.8 Billion balance is composed of: (1) balances recorded related to 11 bank accounts (with a total balance of $31.0 billion); and (2) the ‘splitter’ balance in Fund 30350993 (with a balance of negative $29.1 billion). We have confirmed that, in each instance, SCEIS cannot be reconciled to the bank statements for those 11 banks without including the cash in Fund 30350993.”¹⁸²

¹⁸¹ Exhibit 49 - Selected Accounts Variation Report Fund 30350993 (Referenced as Exhibit 7 in Interim Report).

¹⁸² Exhibit 19.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

Moreover, in his letter dated February 20, 2024, to Chairman Grooms, then-State Auditor George Kennedy made the following observations:

“Fund 30350993 was created primarily to record cash transfers between banks. That remains its primary purpose today. However, the fund was also used to convert bank and agency cash balances as the legacy STARS system was converted to SCEIS. At the close of fiscal year 2017, fund 30350993 carried a balance of approximately $1.5 billion, representing STARS to SCEIS conversion activity. That amount grew to approximately $1.8 billion in subsequent years as the conversion was completed. While the $1.8 billion cannot be assigned to a specific agency or fund, the State’s pool of cash does not reconcile to the SCEIS general ledger without its inclusion. Accounting for cash assigned to these funds is managed at an agency level. In addition to requirements that cash be used for a specific purpose, there are usually reporting requirements imposed by State or Federal governments or by other granting entities regarding the status of unspent funds. The accounts composing the $1.8 billion remain in fund 30350993 and that fund remains unbalanced. While this is unusual, its placement there serves to segregate the accounts composing the balance until an adjusting journal entry can be recorded in SCEIS to reclassify (reallocate) the balances. The journal entry should eliminate the balance of fund 30350993 and clearly establish underlying ownership of cash within the General Fund.”¹⁸³

Accordingly, both the AlixPartners report and the State Auditor’s letter confirm the findings of the Subcommittee that Fund 30350993 represents unresolved differences that arose in connection with the conversion.

As a result, all of the Treasurer’s continued assertions that his books are accurate and reconcile to the bank are refuted.

Balance of Fund 30350993 Ignored, Mischaracterized and Attributable to Office of the State Treasurer

The AlixPartners review determined that the $1.8B exception arose out of the conversion from the legacy accounting system, STARS, to SCEIS. While the state started the transition in 2007, the State Treasury conducted its bank conversion from 2015 to 2017. During this time, four cash accounts in STARS were replaced by specific general ledger ¹⁸³ Exhibit 31.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

accounts designed to reconcile individually to bank accounts held in the state's custody. The STO intended to bring this into effect in two phases; Phase One transferred legacy cash transactions in SCEIS linked to specific bank accounts, with any unreconciled differences recorded in Fund 30350993. Any remaining differences were resolved through an adjusting entry in Fund 30350993 with an offset in equal amount to the Conversion Account also within 30350993. Phase 2 intended to clear STARS cash transactions in SCEIS that were not successfully linked to a specific bank account against adjustments recorded to Fund 30350993. Per the AlixPartners Investigation, mistakes made in both phases of the conversion contributed to the remaining balance of $1.8B in Fund 30350993.¹⁸⁴

During the conversion, an unconverted agency contributed $234,465,654 to the balance, with a remaining de minimus unidentified balance.¹⁸⁵ While the investigation determined that this was the only portion of the $1.8B that ever represented real cash, it is not cash that can be appropriated and spent; it represents cash that has already been appropriated and expended, but the agency of ownership was lost during the conversion. The remaining $1.6B was never tangible cash at all, but rather ACFR business areas erroneously converted by the State Treasurer's Office and classified as cash that needed to be converted and reconciled appropriately.

To effect resolution of the fund, AlixPartners recommended that the entries comprising the $1.6B in erroneously converted ACFR business activity be reversed, while the $245M attributable to an unidentified agency and in unclaimed cash be recorded to the General Fund in the state's ACFR.

Despite Treasurer Loftis's repeated assertions to the contrary, he and his office bear a significantly higher share of responsibility for the errors that were the origin of the $1.8 billion conversion issue. Treasurer Loftis and his Chief of Staff have steadfastly maintained that the CGO bears sole responsibility for Treasury Fund 30350993 and the erroneous conversions associated therein; however, this claim is demonstrably false. While it is evident that both the CGO and STO collaborated in booking the remaining conversion and corrective entries,¹⁸⁶ it was ultimately the STO that made the determination to improperly classify financial transactions within ACFR business areas as cash to be converted, subsequently recording them in Fund 30350993.¹⁸⁷ The Subcommittee acknowledges that transitioning from a legacy accounting system to a new financial framework is an inherently complex undertaking, one that inevitably presents challenges requiring thorough evaluation and corrective measures. What the Subcommittee cannot sustain is the apodictic failure of the STO to recognize, acknowledge, and report the conversion error over its eight years of existence to the General Assembly.

¹⁸⁵ Ibid, pg. 44.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

In summation, the Subcommittee attributes the Treasury's inaccurate financial records to a failed conversion process. The Treasurer's books remain erroneous to this day, and his continued assertions to the contrary significantly diminish the likelihood of resolution and corrective action. As a result, billions of dollars in conversion discrepancies persist, underscoring the urgent need for accountability and remediation.

Regarding Treasurer Loftis's Awareness of Treasury Conversion Issues

The Subcommittee has found evidence supporting the implausibility that Treasurer Loftis did not know about the problems pervading the conversion of the Treasury or of the $1.8 billion in unresolved discrepancies itself.

In early 2017, the State Auditor in his Fiscal Year 2016 Independent Auditors' Report on Internal Control Over Financial Reporting and on Compliance and Other Matters reported as a material weakness to the State Fiscal Accountability Authority that cash and investments reported in SCEIS did not reconcile to the amount of cash and investment

¹⁸⁶ Exhibit 50 – Email 27.

balances reported by the STO.¹⁸⁸ In response, leadership of the STO stated that they looked forward "to finalizing the innovative internal control procedures over financial reporting,"¹⁸⁹ as well as an "even more successful reporting process next year as we further implement reconciliation procedures to ensure that Treasury data is accurately reflected within the Financial Accounting enterprise of SCEIS and inculcate recommendations in any and all practices and processes."¹⁹⁰

The next year, the State Auditor again reported that the reconciliation of cash and investments in SCEIS still had not been completed.¹⁹¹ The leadership of the STO responded that entries they expected to make in Fiscal Year 2018 would "simply be a ledger move between offsetting accounts and would have no effect on CAFR¹⁹² reporting."¹⁹³ The limited SCEIS conversion entries remaining to be performed will not impact cash, cash equivalents nor investment balances as noted in the CAFR. Any remaining entries will only enhance already improved transparency, timeliness, and accuracy of Treasury activities within the State Enterprise. These entries, expected to be complete in FY2018, will simply be a ledger move between offsetting accounts and will have no impact on CAFR reporting."¹⁹⁴ The letter closes with the assurance, "The State Treasurer's Office will continue to ensure that Treasury data is accurately reflected within the Financial Accounting enterprise of SCEIS."¹⁹⁵

Further evidence in possession by the Subcommittee includes electronic communications between leadership of the CGO and the STO regarding the establishment and treatment of Fund 30350993.

In a November 2016 e-mail, leadership of the CGO asked leadership at the STO about the status of the resolution of the cash and investments conversion for the ACFR.¹⁹⁶ The leadership of the STO responded that they were unaware of a resolution timeline, and iterated that the external auditors had only had positive comments. Leadership of the CGO insisted it was necessary to complete more work on cash and investments before the ACFR could be finalized.¹⁹⁷

In March 2018, staff involved with the conversion at the STO asked staff at the CGO to examine the balances of certain conversion funds.¹⁹⁸ The staff from the STO forwarded this e-mail to leadership of the STO, noting that the CGO was establishing a special general ledger account for the conversion entries yet to be cleared rather than writing them off as a prior period adjustment.^{199&200} Ultimately, these communications resulted in the transfer of unresolved conversion balances to General Ledger Account 2400600002 (Due to Other Funds – Equity in Pooled Cash), where unresolved entries from the conversion were consolidated and remain pending resolution in accordance with the recommendations included in the Alix Partners report.

Given the State and independent auditors' findings on the conversion of cash and investments in two consecutive years, the corresponding responses from leadership staff regarding its resolution, and the existence of multiple communications concerning the state of the conversion process—both for financial reporting purposes and for the establishment of the conversion fund—it is inconceivable that Treasurer Loftis was not, at the very least, aware that the conversion process was experiencing significant issues and required close oversight. Furthermore, it is incredulous that Treasurer Loftis would make neither the SFAA nor the General Assembly aware of the persistent conversion issues particularly after the STO avowed in its audit responses that SCEIS would reflect accurate data in 2018.²⁰¹

¹⁹⁸ Exhibit 50.

¹⁹⁹ Exhibit 50.

²⁰⁰ Prior period adjustments are modifications to made to prior reporting periods that have already been accounted for. They can be made for a variety of reasons, including errors, changes in accounting principles, changes in estimates, or to correct a prior error. In this case, a prior period adjustment was suggested by the STO to write down the balances of the General Fund by $1.8B. This option was not ultimately chosen, because the funds were expected to eventually clear the conversion fund.

IX. Recommendations

A. SEC Investigation Compliance: The Subcommittee is well aware of the Securities and Exchange Commission investigation, and while the nature of the investigation dictates appropriate discretion the Subcommittee believes the interests of the state are best served by its investigation into the origins of errors and then to take appropriate action to promote their resolution. For its part, the Subcommittee views the AlixPartners recommendations, including independent supervision and verification of their implementation, as integral actions to demonstrate and ensure appropriate self-regulation and self-correction. By extension, the Subcommittee has undertaken to issue this final report to provide the results of its investigative activities, and to provide assurance of the state's commitment to their resolution. Members of the Subcommittee hereby publicly commit to cooperate fully and speak truthfully, and encourages the same from any other interested parties. To the extent that this document is useful in any current or subsequent investigation, we hereby attest to its accuracy based on information and belief.

B. Correction and Maintenance of State's Records: The integrity of the State's financial records within the Treasury must be restored through corrective actions, including not only processing corrective entries and implementing other AlixPartners recommendations, but also implementing a comprehensive current and ongoing process of reconciliation by the STO of cash and investment fund balances performed at levels that ensure compliance with sound financial principles and accounting standards, and as otherwise prescribed by the Comptroller General in accordance with state law.²⁰²

While records and available sources indicate that the STO was capable of performing reconciliations of this caliber prior to the conversion to SCEIS,²⁰³ the STO has since demonstrated either an inability or an unwillingness to do so. Beyond the statutory obligation to provide such ²⁰² Exhibit 19 - AlixPartners Recommendation 4, pg. 37.

²⁰³ The Subcommittee's research indicates that the Treasurer's Office was capable of performing this type of reconciliation before fully transitioning to SCEIS. The last instance of generating a detailed report at this level occurred around FY2015.

reconciliations,²⁰⁴ the ability to fully reconcile funds is fundamental to ensuring the proper execution of the Treasurer's fiduciary duty to manage and invest the state's pooled cash. Without a complete reconciliation, it is impossible to accurately determine the extent of a particular fund's participation within the portfolio, or to allocate the fund's appropriate share of portfolio earnings.

Prior to the conversion to SCEIS, the STO produced a Cash Status Report (TSA404NR) which contains on its face a statement to the effect that "the primary sort of the report is by agency, fund, fund group, and fund detail. The report gives a detail line for each fund detail within fund group. The detail line contains fund detail code, fund detail title, beginning balance, cash receipts, net transfers, cash disbursements, ending balance, and overdraft date (if applicable)."²⁰⁵ In both his April 2024 testimony and his most recent sworn testimony on February 27, 2025, Treasurer Loftis asserted that investments are managed at the portfolio level rather than at the individual fund level. Accepting this sworn statement as an accurate representation of reality, individual funds are not assigned to specific portfolios in a manner that would allow their balances—and, crucially, their investment earnings—to be appropriately credited to the funds in which the cash is held. For the STO to properly account for investment earnings, it must possess a precise understanding of the cash contributions of each fund within the portfolio, categorized by agency and fund.

Therefore, the Subcommittee recommends that the State take appropriate steps to ensure the books of the Treasury are complete and corrected and that they are henceforth able to perform a full reconciliation of all cash and investments in conformance with Proviso 98.14 and AlixPartners Recommendation #4.

C. AlixPartners Recommendations: The Subcommittee recommends that all AlixPartners Recommendations be implemented and followed by all involved parties, and maintains that the success of the those recommendations hinges not only upon the ability of the STO to be active participants in their implementation, but also its willingness and capacity to accept responsibility, change internal processes, and act synergistically with other state agencies involved. The majority of the AlixPartners recommendations were directed toward the CGO, and the

²⁰⁴ Exhibit 52 - Proviso 98.14 of the Fiscal Year 2025 Appropriations Act

²⁰⁵ Exhibit 56.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

Subcommittee surmises that it was for that reason Treasurer Loftis asserted absolute exoneration, going so far as to tell the Subcommittee that the “wrong agency”²⁰⁶ was audited. The Subcommittee disagrees, and finds that the majority of the recommendations focus on integrity of the State’s ACFRs, and the principal role of the CGO in its preparation. While the primary responsibility for compiling the ACFRs rests with the CGO, the Subcommittee contends that the integrity of these reports is inherently influenced by the accuracy and completeness of the information provided by the STO.

D. Additional Study of the Agency: The Subcommittee recommends study and review of the STO by the other relevant state investigatory bodies: the Inspector General, Legislative Audit Council, and the Oversight Committees of the Senate and House. As a general proposition, all state agencies are subject to periodic oversight and analysis, and a cursory review of relevant reports reveals that STO has not recently been studied by these bodies. A number of issues materialized during the course of the Subcommittee’s investigation that are beyond the scope of this project but appear to be ripe and therefore under the jurisdiction of these other bodies.

The State Inspector General is charged with receiving complaints of fraud, waste, abuse, mismanagement, misconduct, violations of state or federal law, and wrongdoing in agencies.²⁰⁷ As described in this report, at a minimum, it appears the STO has wasted state resources by contracting with outside communication professionals to craft and disseminate a message that contradicts the findings of the forensic accounting firm, and the Subcommittee has reason to believe that the STO also funded other efforts to refute other factual findings around the $1.8 billion. This and other information received by the Subcommittee about the use of state funds at STO is not readily discoverable due to the nature of the STO’s funding mechanisms, which are not transparent.²⁰⁸

²⁰⁷ Exhibit 1, S. C. Code Section 1-6-10 et seq.

²⁰⁸ In brief, the State Treasurer’s Office beginning agency base budget for development of the FY2025-26 budget is approximately $2.6 million, and currently, the agency has authorization to spend over $10.3 million of ‘other’ funds. Additionally, by budget provisos, the Treasurer has been authorized to create and custody a number of special funds for other state entities, not all of which have reporting requirements.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

The Legislative Audit Council (LAC) is statutorily directed to examine agencies to determine their relative efficiency and efficacy in use of resources to include personnel, property, and space to derive results and benefits for South Carolinians as authorized.²⁰⁹ LAC also studies the effectiveness of organizations, programs, activities, or functions of agencies to consider the need for continuation, revision, or elimination. This report details some of the functionalities in the STO that failed to deliver accurate state financial records, and the Subcommittee requests that LAC audit STO to determine other causes of this fiscal disaster.

The Legislative Oversight Committees of the Senate and House also have statutory authority to periodically review state agencies to determine if agency laws and programs within the subject matter jurisdiction of a standing committee are being implemented and carried out in accordance with the intent of the General Assembly and whether they should be continued, curtailed, or eliminated. These Committees are also charged with considering the necessity or desirability of enacting new or additional legislation. Neither body's Oversight Committee has undertaken review of the STO in a number of years, and notwithstanding their regular review schedule, the Subcommittee requests an unscheduled oversight study and investigation of the STO pursuant to Section 2-2-40.

E. Structural Changes: The Subcommittee also recognizes that, dependent on the outcome of this matter, significant structural changes to the financial executive officers and offices of our state may be warranted, and many such reforms must be made through legislation, whether by statute or by constitutional referendum. One specific reform the Subcommittee again recommends is enactment of legislation to establish complete independence of the State Auditor and has concluded that supervision of the State Auditor by the SFAA does not protect the integrity of the audit process. The Subcommittee also generally supports appointment of the financial executive officers of the state by the Governor with Advice and Consent of the Senate and the establishment of professional competency and experience requirements in law. The Subcommittee will continue to study possible additional reforms to the STO, CGO, and the OSA to better delineate the responsibilities of each, facilitate cooperation, and increase accountability. It is critical that South Carolinians have competent leaders in all offices of state government, and that our agencies are led by the most highly qualified individuals who serve without regard to political partisanship or partiality to anyone other than the citizens of the state.

F. Removal of the Current State Treasurer

Among all the duly elected Constitutional Officers in the State of South Carolina since its formation as a state in 1776, no Constitutional official has ever been removed from office. This is a necessarily rare occurrence and one that must never be taken lightly. Following its multi-year, multi-faceted, expert-informed, and carefully documented investigation, the Subcommittee now recommends to the members of the General Assembly and the Governor that the current State Treasurer, Curtis Loftis, be removed from office for willful neglect of duty and other reasonable causes, pursuant to Article XV, Section 3 of the State Constitution.

Ironically, at the last meeting of the STO and Subcommittee to discuss these matters, Mr. Loftis stated, “There are policies and procedures, let's just say statutes on the books, that can stop all this from happening. But we haven't utilized them.”²¹⁰ He is partially correct; however, he was referring to the wrong statutes. Below are cited the statutes that were enacted to stop all this from happening, and findings of the Subcommittee with respect to Treasurer Loftis’s violations thereof.

1. The State Treasurer has willfully neglected his duties as are outlined in the sections of the S.C. Code listed below.

Section 11-5-100. Account in books for appropriations.

The Treasurer shall raise an account in the Treasury books in every instance for the several appropriations made by the General Assembly, so that the appropriations of money and application thereof conformably thereto may appear clearly and distinctly on the Treasury books.

Under this Section of the Code, the Treasurer is charged to maintain accurate reports. The Subcommittee finds that the existence of a $1.8 billion balance with no designated ownership violates this statute, as a lack of ownership is neither clear nor distinct.

²¹⁰ Exhibit 18, 00:34:51.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

Last year, Treasurer Loftis took great exception to the Subcommittee's observation about the existence of more than $30 billion of plugged financial transactions in Fund 30350993. Now, those differences are confirmed by the AlixPartners Report. The Report states that the $1.8 billion balance is composed of balances related to eleven bank accounts with a total balance of $31.0 billion; and the 'splitter' balance in Fund 30350993 with a balance of negative $29.1 billion. Further, AlixPartners confirmed that SCEIS cannot be reconciled to the bank statements for those eleven banks without including the cash in Fund 30350993.

Treasurer Loftis was and is aware of the flawed bookkeeping. During the conversion process from STARS to SCEIS over seven years ago, it became clear that because of the conversion process, the preparation of the state's ACFRs would be negatively impacted, and there were in fact conversations between the leadership of the agencies and external auditors about this issue.²¹¹ Further, staff was aware that a separate conversion fund was needed due to imbalances emerging during the process.²¹² The fund was ultimately flagged by the State Auditor both as a material weakness and as a significant deficiency, accounting terms that refer to a flaw in records that increase chances that financial reports will not be accurate.²¹³ The Subcommittee determined that the Treasurer did not take appropriate action to correct his books.

Put simply, Treasurer Loftis cannot successfully balance to the bank without the inclusion of unreconciled differences – imbalances in funds under his exclusive control. The financial records of the state are in shambles, and there can be no assurance that the bank balances are accurate, or worse, that no funds have been wasted, misused, or misappropriated. The fact that the Treasurer has permitted these exceptions to continue unresolved for almost a decade is a dereliction of his duty to account in his books for appropriations in accordance with the provisions of Section 11-5-110.

Section 11-5-120. Publication of quarterly statements.

The State Treasurer shall publish, quarterly, by electronic means and in a manner that allows for public review, a statement showing the amount of money on hand and in what financial institution it is deposited and the respective funds to which it belongs.

²¹¹ Exhibit 51.

²¹² Exhibit 50.

²¹³ Exhibits 24 & 25.

In this section, the Code speaks to the degree of specificity required in the Treasurer's reporting. Treasurer Loftis has asserted compliance with this law but on another occasion, stated that he is in fact not in compliance with the law. However, the Subcommittee determined that Treasurer Loftis has failed to meet the requirement to show "the respective funds to which [money on hand] belongs," notwithstanding his argument that the term "funds" in SCEIS were not contemplated by the statute. Given the present condition of his records following the conversion, he cannot demonstrate any accurate level of specificity of the funds within the records of the Treasury, even at the most fundamental level of state agency.

The Subcommittee recognized early on in its investigation that ownership of funds is integral to understanding the origins of the $1.8 billion balance.

AlixPartners reiterates the need for this specificity. In Recommendation 4, they stipulate that the Treasurer needs to perform a full reconciliation by agency by fund no less frequently than annually. Treasurer Loftis has repeatedly asserted that SCEIS balances to the bank, and that ownership is not a concern of the Treasurer. This argument fails since accounting for cash by agency and fund is essential in the accurate calculation of earnings due to each agency and fund participating in the investment portfolio.

Section 11-5-180. Monthly reports to Comptroller General of cash transactions.

The State Treasurer shall, at the end of every month, report to the Comptroller General an accurate statement of the cash transactions of the Treasury, of every description, stating therein every sum of money received or paid away in behalf of the State, particularizing the person and his office of whom received and to whom paid, as also on what account received and for what purpose paid.

He shall, at all times, when required by the Comptroller General, produce to him satisfactory statements of the cash in hand and furnish him promptly with the official information, duly certified, relative to any matter connected with the revenue and finance of the State.

Here, the Code establishes a system of checks and balances, and mutual accountability, between the State Treasurer and the Comptroller General. Pursuant to the above statute, the Comptroller General determines information that is satisfactory. The Subcommittee found that on multiple occasions the Comptroller General requested satisfactory information from the Treasurer, but that the Treasurer would not or could not provide the information. An outside audit performed by Mauldin & Jenkins in March of 2024 confirms this finding.

If the State Treasurer had been able to make an accurate statement of cash transactions to the Comptroller General at all times, we would not find the state with $1.8 billion in inaccuracies.²¹⁴ Despite the complexities of the conversion, Treasurer Loftis was nevertheless required to maintain compliance with this section of the Code. Any doubt as to the success of the conversion should have been detected during pre-conversion testing, and the conversion should not have proceeded until he and his staff had determined that the conversion would be successful.

Section 11-5-220. Report required after sale of bonds or notes.

The State Treasurer shall report to the Joint Bond Review Committee, the House Ways and Means Committee, and the Senate Finance Committee immediately after selling any General Obligation Bonds or Anticipation Notes. This report shall include the total amount of the issue, the interest rate charged (specified by year if the rate is not the same each year), the time contracted to pay the debt service, and the principal payment schedule.

This Section of the Code is a simple reporting requirement regarding notification to fiscal and legislative leadership about the sale of bonds, and its violation by Treasurer Loftis is part of a larger narrative that only recently emerged, following his unilateral decision almost a year ago to stop offering long-term debt of the state without notifying the Subcommittee, SFAA, the General Assembly or its standing financial committees. The Subcommittee finds that the Treasurer did not issue the report as described in 11-5-220 and cites other related violations later in this portion of the Subcommittee report.

Section 11-5-185. Treasurer's annual report to the General Assembly. In addition to other reports required by law to be made, by the State Treasurer, he shall also report annually to the General Assembly in the month of January on the following matters:

- (1) The amount of state revenue collected in the previous fiscal year.*
- (2) The amount of such revenue deposited in the state general fund.*
- (3) The location of general fund revenue in banks and other financial institutions including invested funds, as of the end of the previous fiscal year.*
- (4) The interest accrued from deposits and investments for the previous fiscal year and the use of such interest.*
- (5) The amount expended for debt service in the previous fiscal year.*
- (6) The current status of the general fund reserve including any expenditure or reimbursement thereof.*
- (7) Any other information relating to state revenue which the Treasurer deems pertinent and of value to the General Assembly, including such items as special state funds, the highway fund and other funds not specified herein, as may be deemed appropriate by the Treasurer.*

The General Assembly shall provide in the annual general appropriations act for the cost of preparing this report.

This Code section requires the State Treasurer to keep the General Assembly apprised of basic financial facts, but perhaps most importantly, other information deemed pertinent and of value to the General Assembly. The Subcommittee finds it indefensible that Treasurer Loftis did not consider a fund containing $1.8 billion in unidentified monies to be exactly the sort of information envisioned in this state law. Inexplicably, he never reported any information about it over the course of almost a decade, and when eventually questioned about the fund in hearings of this Subcommittee, he mischaracterized its essence, mischaracterized who made entries into the fund, and even in his written document released last month, asserts that the fund is not related to state revenue.

Despite confirmation by AlixPartners that the $1.8 billion fund is a treasury fund for which his office is responsible and under its exclusive control, the balance of which over time grew as a result of entries made exclusively by his office or others employed by or on its behalf, Treasurer Loftis adheres to his claim that the fund is the responsibility of the Office of Comptroller General. Nevertheless, the Subcommittee finds that the $1.8 billion is held in a special fund designated to and utilized by the Office of State Treasurer, and that the fund is tied specifically to State Treasury cash and investments, as documented by SCEIS records of the fund activity. Whether the $1.8 billion constitutes an asset or liability of the state, its impact on the financial condition of the state is substantial and should have been reported in accordance with the provision of this statute.

A second omission of reporting was Treasurer Loftis's failure to alert the General Assembly or any oversight entity about his decision to issue Bond Anticipation Notes rather than General Obligation Bonds. Further, there was no report made about the attendant financial circumstances that might have precipitated this decision. The Subcommittee learned this pertinent information not from a report by the Treasurer, but from what appeared to be spontaneous statements he made in a January 2025 House budget hearing. There, Treasurer Loftis stated that he had borrowed $487 million in one-year money so that dormitories and hospitals can be built, "one year at a time with no interest rate protection."²¹⁵ The Subcommittee subsequently learned that Treasurer Loftis had not issued general obligation bonds since learning of the SEC investigation, commenced over one year prior. The Subcommittee finds that the failure to report this information appropriately and timely is a violation of 11-5-185.

²¹⁵ Exhibit 20, 01:30:06.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

Significantly, Treasurer Loftis was questioned about his duty to report pertinent information to the General Assembly on a number of occasions, but two provide important context to the violation that has occurred. In 2023, he assured the Subcommittee that he would contact the General Assembly if anything was amiss in his books.²¹⁶ In 2024, he defiantly declared that reporting pertinent and valuable information is not his job.²¹⁷ Regrettably, had the STO simply reported these issues as charged by statute, the resolution and conclusion of this matter would not still be at some undetermined point in the future. By violating his duty to report, Treasurer Loftis has misled the public, the General Assembly and investors about the state of South Carolina's finances.

2. In addition to dereliction of statutory duties, there exists a reasonable cause for removal of the State Treasurer: a breach of fiduciary duty.

Although not specifically stipulated in statute, it is commonly understood that the State Treasurer has a fiduciary duty to the people of the State. Treasurer Loftis has acknowledged this duty publicly and under oath. One with fiduciary duty is generally understood to be acting in such a way that will benefit another financially. In corporate settings, elements of fiduciary duty are the duty of care and the duty of loyalty. Acting with care requires performing functions in good faith, with best interests in mind, and in a way that an ordinarily prudent person would reasonably be expected to act. The duty of loyalty requires a principal to place the interests of the whole before any personal interest. The Subcommittee finds that Treasurer Loftis has breached his fiduciary duty as evidenced by the below actions.

a. Treasurer Loftis made financial decisions that were not in the best interest of the state, independent of any oversight body's authority to encourage or discourage this decision and announced his actions in an inflammatory manner that put the state's financial security at risk. As described elsewhere in this report, in January of this year, the Treasurer publicly announced that he was unable to issue general obligation bonds, and that hospitals and dorms were being financed with short term bonds. These public discussions predated his office's alerting SFAA. The Subcommittee finds that the Treasurer did not provide timely notice of his concerns; he had already taken action to issue short-term indebtedness in 2024 despite his conclusion that they resulted in interest rate risk; and his efforts to notify SFAA and his conclusion that he had no responsibility to notify JBRC were neither timely nor sufficient to form an appreciation of his concerns.

²¹⁷ Clip 3.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

b. Treasurer Loftis is currently in violation of federal law requiring repayment of federal funds and interest earned thereon.²¹⁸ On March 18, 2025, the U.S. Treasury issued a Notice of Noncompliance related to Housing Assistance funds that were incorrectly directed to the State General Fund by the Treasurer.²¹⁹ For over five months, Treasurer Loftis has refused to move the monies to the appropriate housing program fund so that State Housing can rebate them plus accrued interest to the U.S. Treasury, asserting that he does not have the statutory authority to do so. This flies in the face of countless other instances that the state has returned unspent funds and interest to the federal government and demonstrates that the Treasurer is not custodizing funds with care. Furthermore, the Subcommittee is of the view that Treasurer Loftis should be expected to carry out the routine responsibilities of his role without the need for specific direction.

c. Treasurer Loftis has unnecessarily caused the expenditure of state resources in response to the Subcommittee investigation and the release of the AlixPartners report, acting without care or prudence. These expenditures include engagement of a crisis communication firm and securing an additional outside forensic accountant. The crisis communication firm had to prepare the Treasurer and his Chief of Staff to respond to the Subcommittee's questions, none of which were out of the scope of the Treasurer's responsibilities.²²⁰ At last check, the STO's budget already includes $233,899 for communications staff, yet the Treasurer spent an additional $43,958 this fiscal year alone on the firm. Additionally, the STO involved a second forensic accountant to review financial information that also is part of the Treasurer's responsibility, at least a portion of which is years old.²²¹ On a related note, the engagement by the Treasurer of a forensic accountant in the years immediately following the completion of the banking conversion would have been most effective in resolving or expediting the appropriate resolution of the discrepancy. This additional spending belies the Treasurer's stated preferred conservative approach to his duties.²²²

d. Treasurer Loftis threatened to release sensitive state financial information and then took active steps to do so. On April 4, 2024, Treasurer Loftis sent the Subcommittee a letter instructing that he would publish this information electronically after notifying the Department of Administration. In it, he stated, "with respect to the electronic publication for public review and quarterly statements referenced in 11-5-120, we will begin posting on the State Treasurer's website a detailed fund report. We alerted the Department of Administration so that the agency can take action to protect SCEIS and the State's other informational and financial systems from added security risks created by the publication of such detailed information." Members of the Subcommittee sought advice from state officials, engaged the Governor and the Director of SLED in an urgent attempt to prevent such a disclosure. Such reckless and cavalier behavior with the state taxpayer's money demonstrates neither care nor loyalty to the people of South Carolina.

Finally, the Subcommittee finds that Treasurer Loftis lacks the competence to carry out his statutory duty. Over the course of the Subcommittee's investigation, Treasurer Loftis demonstrated a fundamental inability to articulate the duties of the office, how he had effectively carried out those duties, and an unwillingness to learn from others how he might better serve the people of South Carolina. Some of the most significant gaps the Subcommittee observed were the following:

- a. Treasurer Loftis was unable to recognize a significant error in his records.
- b. Today, Treasurer Loftis still is unable to articulate what the $1.8 billion error is in his records and does not know how to correct that error.

Exhibit 55 – Emails between DOA & STO Re: STO Forensic Accountant

²²² Exhibit 18, 02:21:54.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2025

- c. Treasurer Loftis does not understand other granular financial matters that are fundamental to his office and its duties.
- d. Treasurer Loftis does not comprehend the responsibility of the General Assembly to ensure good governance by periodic review of state agencies, and by extension, his responsibility to cooperate and collaborate to make the STO better.

The Subcommittee includes this grave concern here for further consideration by the body on whether that incompetence rises to the Constitutional standard of reasonable cause for removal.

To effectuate this removal, concurrent with this Final Report, the Subcommittee has drafted and plans to introduce a Joint Resolution calling for the removal the State Treasurer. The due process afforded him is aptly described in our State Constitutional language:

SECTION 3. Removal of officers by Governor on address of General Assembly.

For any willful neglect of duty, or other reasonable cause , which shall not be sufficient ground of impeachment, the Governor shall remove any executive or judicial officer on the address of two thirds of each house of the General Assembly: Provided, that the cause or causes for which said removal may be required shall be stated at length in such address, and entered on the Journals of each house: And, provided, further, that the officer intended to be removed shall be notified of such cause or causes, and shall be admitted to a hearing in his own defense, or by his counsel, or by both, before any vote for such address; and in all cases the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays, and be entered on the Journal of each house respectively.

This Report should be construed as the statement of the causes for the removal. Should additional causes come to the attention of the Subcommittee members, we will further notify the Treasurer and propose an amendment to our Joint Resolution accordingly.

X. Conclusion

The goal of the Subcommittee's investigation was to ensure the security of the financial future of the state, but our state's financial future is insecure with the current treasurer in office. Permitting Treasurer Loftis to continue in his position will cause possibly irreparable harm to the State Treasurer's Office. The Subcommittee posits that likely any South Carolinian whose employee's actions caused an error of this magnitude and who subsequently refused to take responsibility and rectify the error would not continue to employ that person.

The Subcommittee also has serious concerns that one of the parties responsible for this debacle remains in office during the remainder of an SEC investigation. Treasurer Loftis has made clear in spoken word, in printed word, and in both commission and omission of actions that he has not, and does not, intend to carry out the statutory duties of his office.

The level of ineptitude which has imbued this Treasurer's time in office is not worthy of the citizens of our state, and his volatile temperament and angry demeanor degrade those who are charged to work with him to secure the financial standing of South Carolina. He has made perfectly clear that he cannot and will not collaborate on the directed actions suggested by multiple neutral experts who have reviewed this calamity through an apolitical lens. It is the strong recommendation of the Subcommittee that we do not consign the ongoing fiscal oversight – the banking and investment functions of our state - to continued incompetence. In sum: if the treasurer cannot keep track of the treasury, then he should not remain treasurer.

S. 244 -- Senators Massey, Alexander, Rice, Turner, Climer, Williams, Bennett, Cromer, Grooms, Blackmon and Chaplin: A BILL TO AMEND CERTAIN PROVISIONS IN TITLES 15, 38, AND 61 ALL RELATED TO CIVIL CLAIMS, TORT LAW, AND INSURANCE COVERAGE. (Abbreviated title)

The Senate proceeded to a consideration of the Bill, the question being the third reading of the Bill.

Motion Adopted

On motion of Senator JOHNSON, under Rule 26B, the Senate agreed to take up a further amendment on third reading.

Amendment No. 17

Senator JOHNSON proposed the following amendment (SR-244.KM0041S), which was adopted:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, SECTION 1, by striking Section 15-38-15(A)(1) and inserting:

(1) The trier of fact shall determine the percentage of fault of the plaintiff, of the defendant or defendants, and of any nonparty whose tortious act or omission occurrence was proven to be a proximate cause of the plaintiff's alleged damages. For purposes of apportioning fault on the verdict form, a "nonparty" means an individual or entity who has previously settled a claim arising out of the same tortious act or occurrence omission with the plaintiff, or if more than one plaintiff, who has previously settled with any plaintiff in the same civil action.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 1, by striking Section 15-38-15(A)(5)(a) and inserting:

THURSDAY, MARCH 27, 2025

(a) each defendant is severally liable for his share of the total amount of the plaintiff's noneconomic damages, as defined in Section 15-32-210, and any punitive or exemplary damages; and

Amend the bill further, SECTION 1, by striking Section 15-38-15(B) and inserting:

~~(C)-(B) The jury, or the court if there is no jury, shall:~~ Within one hundred eighty days of commencement of an action, or by leave of court for good cause shown, a defendant may move to add to the verdict form any person or entity, not otherwise excluded by subsection (C) or (F), who may be, or may have been, liable to the plaintiff if the defendant has a reasonable basis to believe that the person's or entity's act or omission was a proximate cause of the plaintiff's alleged damages, which must be set forth in its motion. If the defendant will assert the person or entity committed an act of professional negligence, the provisions of Section 15-36-100 apply, and the affidavit required pursuant to Section 15-36-100(B) must be filed with the motion.

(1) Any party may make any motion at the appropriate time, including, but not limited to, a motion pursuant to Rules 12, 50, and 56 of the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure to dismiss or otherwise remove the added person or entity from the verdict form. The court shall apply the same standard to the dismissal or removal of an added person or entity, as it would to any party.

(2) In order for the trier of fact to allocate any or all fault to an added person or entity, the defendant bears the burden of proof that the added person's or entity's conduct was a proximate cause of the plaintiff's damages unless the plaintiff's pleading is amended to assert a direct claim against the added person or entity pursuant to subitem (3).

(3) The plaintiff may, within sixty days of the court granting a motion pursuant to this section, amend the plaintiff's pleading to assert any claim against the added person or entity arising out of the occurrence that is the subject matter of the pending litigation. This provision applies notwithstanding any statute of limitations as long as the plaintiff would have satisfied the applicable statute of limitations against the added person or entity if the plaintiff had named the added person or entity as a defendant when the suit was commenced.

(a) A person or entity added as a party pursuant to this subitem shall be identified as a defendant in the caption of the action.

(b) An amended pleading pursuant to this provision must comply with Rule 4 of the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure and be served on the added party within sixty days of filing the amended pleading.

THURSDAY, MARCH 27, 2025

(c) A party added pursuant to this provision has the same rights to defend or plead as a defendant under the South Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure.

~~— (1) specify the amount of damages;~~

~~— (2) determine the percentage of fault, if any, of plaintiff and the amount of recoverable damages under applicable rules concerning “comparative negligence”; and~~

~~— (3) upon a motion by at least one defendant, where there is a verdict under items (1) and (2) above for damages against two or more defendants for the same indivisible injury, death, or damage to property, specify in a separate verdict under the procedures described at subitem (b) below the percentage of liability that proximately caused the indivisible injury, death, damage to property, or economic loss from tortious conduct, as determined by item (1) above, that is attributable to each defendant whose actions are a proximate cause of the indivisible injury, death, or damage to property. In determining the percentage attributable to each defendant, any fault of the plaintiff, as determined by item (2) above, will be included so that the total of the percentages of fault attributed to the plaintiff and to the defendants must be one hundred percent. In calculating the percentage of fault attributable to each defendant, inclusion of any percentage of fault of the plaintiff (as determined in item (2) above) shall not reduce the amount of plaintiff's recoverable damages (as determined under item (2) above).~~

~~— (a) For this purpose, the court may determine that two or more persons are to be treated as a single party. Such treatment must be used where two or more defendants acted in concert or where, by reason of agency, employment, or other legal relationship, a defendant is vicariously responsible for the conduct of another defendant.~~

~~— (b) After the initial verdict awarding damages is entered and before the special verdict on percentages of liability is rendered, the parties shall be allowed oral argument, with the length of such argument subject to the discretion of the trial judge, on the determination of the percentage attributable to each defendant. However, no additional evidence shall be allowed.~~

Amend the bill further, SECTION 1, by striking Section 15-38-15(C)(3) and (4) and inserting:

(3) a person whose fault is imputed to the defendant or whose fault is based upon the fault of the nonparty for which a defendant is vicariously liable; or

(4) a person involved in a case where the causes of action involve strict liability; or

THURSDAY, MARCH 27, 2025

Amend the bill further, SECTION 1, by striking Section 15-38-15(F)(1), (2), and (3) and inserting:

(F)(1) The following are excluded from being added to the verdict form pursuant to subsection (B) and from the modified joint and several liability contained in subitem (A)(5). This section does not apply:

(1)(a) to an action commenced by the State, a State agency, a municipality, a county, a local government, a regional public authority, a special purpose district, a public utility, or any other governmental entity or political subdivision, including, but not limited to, claims seeking recovery of public funds, remediation costs, or other damages arising from acts or omissions of third parties that result in harm to public health, safety, infrastructure, or the environment;

(2)(b) to a defendant whose conduct is determined to be intentional, including an act or omission that is intentional; or

(3)(c) where two or more defendants or nonparties knowingly pursue a common plan or design to commit a tortious act or actively take part in it. This subitem does not apply to any cause of action arising out Section 15-3-710.

(2) In an action to recover damages arising under any of the exempted items in this subsection, if indivisible damages are determined to be proximately caused by more than one defendant, joint and several liability does not apply to any defendant whose conduct is determined to be less than fifty percent of the total fault for the indivisible damages as compared with the total of the fault of all the defendants; and the fault (comparative negligence), if any, of plaintiff. A defendant whose conduct is determined to be less than fifty percent of the total fault shall only be liable for that percentage of the indivisible damages determined by the jury or trier of fact.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 2, by striking Section 15-38-20(H) and inserting:

(H) The provisions in this section apply only to causes of action where the nonparty tortfeasor was not added to the verdict form pursuant to Section 15-38-15(A)(1), ~~or (C)~~, or (F).

Amend the bill further, SECTION 3, by striking Section 15-38-30 and inserting:

Section 15-38-30. In determining the pro rata shares of tortfeasors in the entire liability (1) their relative degrees of fault shall not be considered; (2) if equity requires, the collective liability of some as a group shall constitute a single share; and (3) principles of equity applicable to contribution generally shall apply. This section applies only to causes of action where the nonparty tortfeasor was not added to the verdict form pursuant to Section 15-38-15(A)(1), ~~or (C)~~, or (F).

Amend the bill further, SECTION 4, by striking Section 15-38-40(G) and inserting:

(G) The provisions in this section apply only to causes of action where the nonparty tortfeasor was not added to the verdict form pursuant to Section 15-38-15(A)(1), ~~or (C)~~, or (F).

Amend the bill further, SECTION 5.A., by striking Section 15-3-710(F) and inserting:

(F) A licensee who affirmatively proves a forensic digital identification system approved by the South Carolina Law Enforcement Division was used to confirm the validity of the person's identification has not knowingly sold, served, or furnished alcohol to that person for the purposes of subsection ~~(F)~~(E).

Amend the bill further, SECTION 11, by striking Section 38-77-150(A) and inserting:

(A) No automobile insurance policy or contract may be issued or delivered unless it contains a provision by endorsement or otherwise, herein referred to as the uninsured motorist provision, undertaking to pay the insured all sums which he is legally entitled to recover as damages from the owner or operator of an uninsured motor vehicle, within limits which may be no less than the requirements of Section 38-77-140. The uninsured motorist provision is not required to include coverage for punitive or exemplary damages. The uninsured motorist provision also must provide for no less than ~~twenty-five~~fifty thousand dollars coverage for injury to or destruction of the property of the insured in any one accident but may provide an exclusion of the first two hundred dollars of the loss or damage. The director or his designee may prescribe the form to be used in providing uninsured motorist coverage and when prescribed and promulgated no other form may be used.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 12, Section 38-77-160, by striking the undesignated paragraph and inserting:

Automobile insurance carriers shall offer, at the option of the insured, uninsured motorist coverage up to the limits of the insured's liability coverage in addition to the mandatory coverage prescribed by Section 38-77-150. In the offer of uninsured motorist coverage, the automobile insurance carriers shall offer the insured the option to include coverage for punitive or exemplary damages. Such carriers shall also offer, at the option of the insured, underinsured motorist coverage up to the limits of the insured liability coverage to provide coverage in the event that compensatory damages are sustained in excess of the liability limits carried by an at-fault insured or underinsured motorist or in excess of any damages cap or limitation imposed by statute. The underinsured motorist coverage is not required to include coverage for punitive or exemplary damages. However, in the mandatory offer of underinsured motorists coverage, automobile insurance carriers shall offer the insured the option to include coverage for punitive or exemplary damages. but are not required to include coverage for punitive or exemplary damages. If, however, an insured or named insured is protected by uninsured or underinsured motorist coverage in excess of the basic limits, the policy shall provide that the insured or named insured is protected only to the extent of the coverage he has on the vehicle involved in the accident. If none of the insured's or named insured's vehicles is involved in the accident, coverage is available only to the extent of coverage on any one of the vehicles with the excess or underinsured coverage. Benefits paid pursuant to this section are not subject to subrogation and assignment.

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 12:00 Noon, the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Psalm 150:6

In Psalm 150 we read: "Let everything that breathes praise the Lord! Praise the Lord!"

Join me as we bow, if you will: O wondrous Lord, these days it almost feels as if the world around us is spinning madly out of control, and we find ourselves thinking, what truly is praiseworthy? Then, we pause, take a deep breath, and remember how very much there really is for which we need to give thanks. For this very Nation itself that we love, for the many caring and conscientious people who surround us -- and there are indeed so many. For each of these thoughtful and diligent Senators. And also for all of our Senate aides, as well as every other staff member, whatever his or her role, without whose efforts we would surely find ourselves adrift. So, Lord, in every regard, let us here in the Senate of South Carolina never fail to praise You. Your gifts to us truly are great, indeed. In Your loving name we pray, dear Lord. Amen.

Remarks by Senator ALEXANDER

Mr. PRESIDENT and members of the Senate, it's with a very heavy heart, a sad heart, that I come today to ask for a unanimous consent request. I ask that on the next available day the Senate stand in adjournment in the memory of Mary Elizabeth Mullikin of Camden. Mary Elizabeth is the oldest daughter of Tom and Virginia Ann Mullikin. Just a few weeks ago we confirmed Director Mullikin to head the Department of Natural Resources. Tom and Virginia Ann's oldest daughter, thirty-eight years of age, unexpectedly passed away this past Sunday.

I had known Mary Elizabeth since she was a very small child and watched her grow up. I saw her thrive -- achieve so much. Believe it or not, for you all that knew Mary Elizabeth and her stature, she was actually a black belt in karate. She graduated from USC, a graduate of the Darla Moore School of Business, and was an attorney and CPA. I am sure I am correct in saying that she aced all four parts of the CPA exam with flying colors. She actually worked in my office up here in the Senate for a period of time when she was in college and she worked with her family at the Mullikin Law Firm. Most recently she was with Blue Cross Blue Shield in Government Affairs as an attorney there with them. I had the pleasure just last Tuesday night, at the Legislative softball game, of having a wonderful conversation with Mary Elizabeth. She had just a wonderful spirit and a beautiful smile. She was someone that was beloved by legislators and staff because she worked with us and those in the government affairs business. She was just a wonderful person and a tremendous asset. Someone that I hold dear and is going to truly be missed. It just gives me a heavy heart to be here before this Body today and joined by other colleagues. So, Mr. PRESIDENT, I ask for a unanimous consent request. I would ask on the next available day that we stand adjourned in memory of Mary Elizabeth Mullikin and would also ask for unanimous consent that the role of the Senate be applied to that motion.

PRESIDENT PRESIDES

At 12:37 P.M., the PRESIDENT assumed the Chair.

Statement by Senator WALKER

Pursuant to Senate Rules adopted earlier this session, S. 32 was given second reading using an earlier second reading roll call vote. As such, I am recorded as voting in favor of this piece of legislation.

While I do agree that this Bill has merit, I feel that it needs to be amended. Currently, it is not fair and equitable in its treatment of all organizations that work for the betterment of women and families of South Carolina, specifically entities providing family planning services.

(1) the concerns of the using and consuming public with respect to public utility services, regardless of the class of customer;

(2) economic development and job attraction and retention in South Carolina; and

(3) preservation of the continued investment in and maintenance of utility facilities so as to provide reliable and high quality utility services.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 5, by striking Section 58-4-150(C)(8)(c) and inserting:

(c) recommendations to address any barriers identified in items (a) and (b) in a manner that is consistent with the public interest and which is not duly impactful to nonparticipating customers as it pertains to rate and system impacts, and which is not unduly impactful to entities providing public utility services; ~~and-~~

(9) an analysis of the potential for the South Carolina Public Service Authority and the state’s electric utilities to construct generation facilities utilizing domestic wood products from South Carolina as a primary or auxiliary fuel source.

~~(C)(D)~~ In preparing the plan the Office of Regulatory Staff may retain an outside expert to assist with compiling this report.

~~(D)(E)~~ In addition to the information required by this section, the plan must include recommendations for legislative, regulatory, or other public and private actions to best ensure a reliable and reasonably priced energy supply in South Carolina that supports the continued growth and success of this State. In forming these recommendations, the Office of Regulatory Staff must confer with the stakeholder group to ensure the recommendations would likely achieve the intended result for the electric grid, electric generation, and natural gas resources serving South Carolina customers.

~~(E)(F)~~ The plan must be submitted to the Public Utilities Review Committee for approval.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 7, by striking Section 58-33-195(D) and inserting:

(D) The General Assembly encourages the Public Service Authority and the state's electric utilities to complete evaluations for constructing generation facilities utilizing domestic wood products from South Carolina as a primary or auxiliary fuel source.

~~(D)(1)(E)(1)~~ In the event any of the projects described in subsections (A), (B), or (C) are approved, the Office of Regulatory Staff, using its authority provided in Title 58, must continuously monitor the project or projects. This includes, but is not limited to, a review of the construction in progress, such as meeting projected timelines and financial projections are met. The Office of Regulatory Staff must provide monthly updates, in writing, to the commission and to the members of the General Assembly. Each electrical utility and the Public Service Authority must cooperate to the fullest extent with the Office of Regulatory Staff.

(2) The commission may, on its own motion, schedule a hearing to address concerns raised by the Office of Regulatory Staff in its written monthly review to the commission.

(3) The commission shall consider the Office of Regulatory Staff's written monthly reviews in any future matters concerning any facility described in this section.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 8, by striking Section 58-31-205(A) and inserting:

(A) The Public Service Authority shall have the power to jointly own, as tenants-in-common or through a limited liability company, with ~~investor-owned electric utilities of electrical generation and transmission facilities~~ Dominion Energy South Carolina, Inc., one or more natural gas-fired generation facilities, and related transmission facilities, to be constructed on a site at or near Dominion Energy South Carolina, Inc.'s former Canadys coal-fired generation station in Colleton County, the power to plan, finance, acquire, own, operate, and maintain an interest in such plants and facilities necessary or incidental to the generation and transmission of electric power and the power to make plans and enter into such contracts as are necessary or convenient for the planning, financing, acquisition, construction, ownership, operation, and maintenance of such plants and facilities. However, the Public Service Authority shall own a percentage of such plants and facilities equal to the percentage of the money furnished or the value of property supplied by the Public Service Authority for the acquisition and construction of the plants and facilities. The Public Service Authority shall also own and control a like percentage of the electrical output thereof.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 9, by striking Section 13-7-820(5) and inserting:

(5) to engage stakeholders and develop a strategic plan to advance the development of nuclear generation, including advanced nuclear generation such as small modular reactors, molten salt reactors, fusion energy, and spent nuclear fuel recycling facilities and fusion energy to serve customers in this State in the most economical manner at the earliest reasonable time possible.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 11, by striking Section 58-37-70(C), (D), (E), (F), and (G) and inserting:

~~—(C) The commission may establish a small modular nuclear reactor pilot program, if such a program is endorsed by the Nuclear Advisory Council. A pilot program must include the following requirements:~~

~~—(1) any entity that holds a current license from the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission to construct or operate at least one existing nuclear electrical generating facility at the time of the application may apply to the commission for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to the Utility Facility Siting and Environmental Protection Act;~~

~~—(2) a certificate may be granted if obtaining a certification of public convenience and necessity would permit the applicant to apply for, use, or leverage at least thirty percent of the construction costs of the small modular nuclear reactor by utilizing any benefits or incentives available to lower the capital or operating costs including, but not limited to, governmental funds, tax credits, grants, and loan guarantees;~~

~~—(3) the costs and benefits of a small modular nuclear reactor are reasonable and prudent compared to the levelized costs of electricity generation from other resources, applying any governmental tax credits and incentives. Factors that must be considered in levelized costs include fuel factors, economic and environmental benefits, and costs associated with any relative externalities;~~

TUESDAY, APRIL 1, 2025

~~— (4) no more than three small modular nuclear reactors may receive a permit pursuant to this pilot program.~~

~~— (D) An application for this pilot program must include:~~

~~— (1) if the project's location:~~

~~— (a) is on or adjacent to an existing or former coal electrical generation site;~~

~~— (b) is on or adjacent to an existing nuclear facility;~~

~~— (c) enables coal plant retirement or emissions reduction in the electrical utility's or the South Carolina Public Service Authority's balancing area; or~~

~~— (d) supports diversity in energy production, reliability, and energy security;~~

~~— (2) if the project is subject to competitive procurement or solicitation for services and equipment;~~

~~— (3) a demonstration that the program's costs and benefits are reasonable and prudent and in the interest of South Carolina customers; and~~

~~— (4) any other information the commission may wish to include in the application.~~

~~Nothing in this subsection limits any factors that the commission may consider in its determination of an application.~~

~~— (E)(1) Reasonable and prudent costs incurred for a small modular nuclear reactor approved pursuant to this section shall be recoverable. In the event an electrical utility abandons a small modular nuclear reactor approved by the commission before its commercial operation, the electrical utility must provide a fulsome accounting to the commission of the circumstances of abandonment. Capital costs may only be recovered if the commission determines that the decision to abandon was reasonable, prudent, and in the public interest; however, these costs shall not include a rate of return. The commission may impose conditions it determines to be necessary to protect customers against unreasonable construction, development, or operational risk including, but not limited to, reporting, inspection, and the potential of requiring the utility to hire an independent third-party construction monitor to evaluate the prudence of the utility's actions and associated expense during the development of the project and construction of the reactor.~~

~~— (2) The commission must not allow any cost recovery related to a small modular nuclear reactor outside of a rate case.~~

~~(F)(1)(C)(1) In addition to the small modular nuclear facility pilot program, eElectrical utilities and the South Carolina Public Service Authority are encouraged to shall evaluate the potential for deploying~~ small modular nuclear facilities at suitable sites within this State. A “suitable site” may include sites of current nuclear facilities, sites where nuclear facilities have been proposed but not constructed, and brownfield sites, such as coal generation sites.

(2) Such an evaluation may include cost estimates of further studies related to a potential small modular nuclear facility to serve customers in South Carolina. This includes, but is not limited to, planning, licensing, and project development, the anticipated timeline of an early site permit, current possibilities or barriers to co-ownership of such facilities, and available federal benefits which may defray costs of these facilities.

(3) Electric utilities and the Public Service Authority must provide reports on such evaluations to the Public Utilities Review Committee, the Nuclear Advisory Council, and the Public Service Commission by December 31, 2027. When evaluating the potential of a nuclear facility, the applicant must provide notice and annual progress reports to the Public Utilities Review Committee, the Nuclear Advisory Council, and the commission. When available, the applicant must also provide cost estimates of the studies related to a potential nuclear facility to serve customers in South Carolina. This includes, but is not limited to, planning, licensing, and project development, the anticipated timeline of an early site permit, and current possibilities or barriers to co-ownership of such facilities, and available federal benefits which may defray costs of these facilities.

~~— (3) In the event the commission finds cost estimates provided by an electric utility pursuant to item (2) are reasonable and prudent, the costs may be recoverable through rates, even if an application for a certificate of environmental compatibility and public convenience and necessity have not been filed. However, these costs shall not include a rate of return.~~

~~— (G) Nothing in this section relieves an electrical utility or the South Carolina Public Service Authority of the burden of filing for a certificate pursuant to this article and obtaining appropriate approvals from the commission before commencing construction.~~

Amend the bill further, SECTION 12.A., by striking Section 58-37-110(B) and (C) and inserting:

(B) All ~~state~~ agencies are instructed to give expedited review of applications for energy infrastructure projects, to provide reasonable and constructive assistance to applicants to allow the applicants to comply with ~~state~~ any law and regulatory requirements as expeditiously as possible, and to be guided by the policy goals established in subsection (A).

(C) All ~~state~~ agencies are instructed to give due weight to the reduction in the environmental, aesthetic, and socioeconomic impacts that are incurred to support the safe, reliable, and economic provision of energy to the people of South Carolina when energy infrastructure projects can be located in existing energy corridors or on brownfield energy sites, and shall consider the relative reductions in such impacts compared to greenfield projects in evaluating projects in existing energy corridors or on brownfield energy sites.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 12.A., by striking Section 58-37-130 and inserting:

Section 58-37-130. The applicant or any person whose private rights are affected by an agency decision or action on an application for a permit for any energy infrastructure project may appeal that decision or action to the South Carolina Supreme Court. The Supreme Court shall hear these appeals as a direct appeal in accordance with ~~the~~ South Carolina Appellate Court ~~Rules~~ Rule 203. The Court shall provide for an expedited briefing and hearing of the appeal, in preference to all other nonemergency matters on its docket and decide such appeals on an expedited basis. Any agency decision or action that is subject to a contested case review before the administrative law court, pursuant to Section 1-23-600 et. seq., shall be appealable under this section upon issuance of an appealable order by the administrative law court.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 16, by striking Section 58-41-20(I) and (J) and inserting:

(I) The commission is authorized to employ, through contract or otherwise, third-party consultants and experts in carrying out its duties under this section including, but not limited to, evaluating avoided cost rates, methodologies, terms, calculations, and conditions under this section. The commission is exempt from complying with the State Procurement Code in the selection and hiring of a third-party consultant or expert authorized by this subsection. The commission shall engage, for each utility, a qualified independent third party to submit a report that includes the third party's independently derived conclusions as to that third party's opinion of each utility's calculation of avoided costs for purposes of proceedings conducted pursuant to this section. The qualified independent third party is subject to the same ex parte prohibitions contained in Chapter 3, Title 58 as all other parties. The qualified independent third party shall submit all requests for documents and information necessary to their analysis under the authority of the commission and the commission shall have full authority to compel response to the requests. The qualified independent third party's duty will be to the commission. Any conclusions based on the evidence in the record and included in the report are intended to be used by the commission along with all other evidence submitted during the proceeding to inform its ultimate decision setting the avoided costs for each electrical utility. The utilities may require confidentiality agreements with the independent third party that do not impede the third-party analysis. The utilities shall be responsive in providing all documents, information, and items necessary for the completion of the report. The independent third party shall also include in the report a statement assessing the level of cooperation received from the utility during the development of the report and whether there were any material information requests that were not adequately fulfilled by the electrical utility. Any party to this proceeding shall be able to review the report including the confidential portions of the report upon entering into an appropriate confidentiality agreement. The commission and the Office of Regulatory Staff may not hire the same third-party consultant or expert in the same proceeding or to address the same or similar issues in different proceedings.

(J) Each electrical utility's avoided cost filing must be reasonably transparent so that underlying assumptions, data, and results can be independently reviewed and verified by the parties and the commission. The commission may approve any confidentiality protections necessary to allow for independent review and verification of the avoided cost filing.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 20, by striking Section 58-37-40(B)(1)(j) and inserting:

~~(j) a report addressing updates to the utility's transmission plan under the utility's open access transmission tariff pursuant to the federal jurisdiction planning process. In this report, the utility shall describe if applicable planned transmission improvements may enable specific siting of new resources or provide expected and planned impacts to other resource interconnection constraints or operations of the systems. The utility shall also describe how it evaluated alternate transmission technologies when developing solutions for identified transmission needs for interconnecting resources.~~ a report addressing updates to the utility's transmission plan under the utility's open access transmission tariff pursuant to the federal jurisdictional planning process. interconnection constraints or other operations of the systems. The utility shall also describe how it evaluated alternate transmission technologies when developing solutions for identified transmission needs for interconnecting resources. The utility's transmission report must include how the utility evaluates transmission investments, including:

(i) a description of how the utility evaluated a range of transmission solutions, including non-wires alternatives, joint projects with neighboring and other regional utilities, other upgrades to existing facilities, and other best practices. Modeling may consider, as appropriate, grid-enhancing technologies and alternate transmission technologies such as static synchronous compensators, static Volt-Ampere Reactive (VAR) compensators, advanced power flow control devices, transmission switching, synchronous condensers, voltage source converters, advanced conductors, switchable reactors, and tower lifting in a manner consistent with common utility practice;

(ii) a description of how transmission factored into the utility's evaluation of the range of future scenarios included in the fifteen-year time period of the utility's resource plan, including significant continued economic growth and the retirement of the utility's coal generation;

(iii) a discussion of transmission considerations for facilities included in the utility's preferred resource plan for which there are particular sites specified;

The proposed agreement must contain at least one of the following requirements:

(a) co-location of electric generation or storage on the customer's property provides bulk system benefits for all customers and benefits for the host customer;

(b) co-location of renewable electric generation resources on the customer's property provides bulk system benefits for all customers and the renewable attributes associated with such generation can be allocated to the host customer;

(c) co-location of electric generation on the customer's property would result in permitting and siting efficiencies to enable electric generation to come online earlier than otherwise could occur; or

(d) co-location of electric generation resources on the customer's property could be utilized as resiliency resources to serve the electric grid in times of need.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 31, by striking Section 58-41-50(B)(2)(a), (b), (c), and (d) and inserting:

An agreement regarding co-location may also include potential co-ownership of the electric generation and associated facilities by the electrical utility and the customer. A customer participating in a co-location or co-ownership agreement shall not be considered an electrical utility.

SECTION X. Title 58 of the S.C. Code is amended by adding:

CHAPTER 42

Competitive Procurement

Section 58-42-10. (A) The General Assembly finds that it is in the public interest for the state's electrical utilities to competitively procure targeted volumes of renewable energy and co-located energy storage resources. The General Assembly further finds that it is in the public interest for the state's electrical utilities to competitively procure certain stand-alone storage additions to be located in South Carolina. These procurements shall be consistent with the electric utilities' 2023 integrated resource plans as approved by the commission or the subsequent annual integrated resource plan updates as approved by the commission. The resources procured pursuant to this section are intended to be placed in service on or before January 1, 2035. The volumes of each procurement may be increased or decreased as provided in this section. If an electrical utility proposes an amount of solar or storage in a future integrated resource plan filing that is lower than the amount contained in the electrical utility's 2023 integrated resource plan as approved by the commission, the electrical utility shall include and analyze at least one scenario consistent with the electrical utilities' 2023 preferred resource portfolio that includes volumes of solar and storage consistent with that contained in the 2023 integrated resource plans as approved by the commission.

(B) The electrical utilities shall procure the resources referred to in subsection (A) through at least a biennial competitive procurement process consistent with the requirements of Sections 58-42-20 and 58-42-30, and in accordance with this section. The target volume in each competitive procurement shall be consistent with the volume of resources needed to be procured at that time to achieve the resource in-service dates specified in the electrical utility's 2023 integrated resource plan as approved by the commission or a subsequent integrated resource plan annual update as approved by the commission.

(C) The amount of renewable energy or energy storage resources required to be procured by each electrical utility pursuant to this section shall be reduced by the alternating current ("AC") nameplate capacity of any facility of the same resource type for which such electrical utility enters into a power purchase agreement after the effective date of this section pursuant to the electrical utility's mandatory purchase obligation under Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act or pursuant to a prior competitive procurement which had not resulted in an executed power purchase agreement prior to the enactment date of this section, provided that the facility is placed in service in 2035 or earlier.

(D) The target resource volumes for each competitive procurement shall reflect any increases or decreases included in the electrical utility's most recently approved integrated resource plan or integrated resource plan update. The electric utility may, at its option, include the procurement of non-renewable generation resources as part of its procurement of renewable and storage resources pursuant to this section.

(E) The target resource volumes for competitive procurement shall take into account any changes in siting opportunities that may be affected by local permitting, zoning, or other regulatory or legal challenges.

(F) The target resource volumes for competitive procurement by the electrical utility shall be increased to account for replacing megawatts associated with:

(1) any inability by the electrical utility to reach target procurement volumes in prior procurement cycles;

(2) the inability of renewable energy or energy storage resources procured in any prior procurement cycles to be placed in service; and

(3) the expiration of any existing contracts for qualifying facilities pursuant to the Public Utility Regulatory Practices Act.

All target resource volumes referenced in this subsection shall be consistent with the needs identified in the most recently commission approved integrated resource plan or integrated resource plan update.

(G) Prior to making final awards in a competitive procurement, the electrical utility shall confirm that the resources selected are cost effective using methodologies and current inputs reflected in the applicable integrated resource plan or integrated resource plan update approved by the commission for that electrical utility.

(H) Notwithstanding the other subsections of this section, the results of competitive procurements within an electrical utility's balancing area outside of South Carolina that serve customers in the electrical utility's balancing area within South Carolina shall be approved or accepted by the commission as specified in Section 58-42-20(G).

(I) Notwithstanding Section 58-41-20(F)(2), electrical utilities shall continue to offer to qualifying small power production facilities power purchase agreements for the purchase of energy and capacity at avoided cost, with commercially reasonable terms and a duration of up to ten years, until the competitive procurement requirements of this section have been satisfied.

Section 58-42-20. (A) For purposes of this chapter:

(1) "Electrical utility" shall be defined as in Section 58-27-10, provided, however, that electrical utilities serving less than 100,000 customers shall be exempt from the provisions of this chapter unless otherwise provided.

(2) "Energy storage facility" means commercially available technology that can absorb energy and store it for later use including, but not limited to, electrochemical, thermal, and electromechanical technologies but not including pumped hydroelectric facilities.

(3) "Renewable energy facility" has the same meaning as defined in Section 58-39-120(E).

(4) "Renewable energy resource" has the same meaning as "renewable generation resource" as defined in Section 58-39-120(F).

(B) Unless an electrical utility makes an application pursuant to subsection (G), electrical utilities shall file for commission approval a program for the competitive procurement of renewable energy resources and such amount of associated co-located energy storage facilities as determined by the commission to meet needs for new generation and energy storage resources identified by the electrical utility's integrated resource plan or other planning process. A competitive procurement program may be used to procure any subset of energy, capacity, ancillary services, and environmental and renewable attributes. The commission may not grant approval of the program unless it finds that the electrical utility has satisfied all the requirements of this section and that the proposed program is in the best interests of the customers of the electrical utility. Co-located energy storage facilities, if included in the solicitation, must be associated equipment located at the same site as the renewable energy facility.

(C) Electrical utilities shall procure renewable energy resources and co-located energy storage facilities, or the output of such facilities, subject to the following requirements:

(1) Renewable energy and co-located energy storage resources, or their output, procured by electrical utilities shall be procured via a competitive solicitation process open to all market participants that meet minimum eligibility requirements.

(2) The electrical utility shall issue public notice of its intention to issue a competitive renewable energy and co-located energy storage solicitation, or both, at least ninety days prior to the commencement of each solicitation. This notice must include the proposed procurement volume, process, and timeline.

(3) The electrical utility shall provide a reasonable period of time for interested parties to review and comment on proposed requests for proposals, bid instructions, and bid evaluation criteria, and for commission approval, prior to finalization and issuance.

(4) Renewable energy facilities eligible to participate in a competitive procurement are those that use renewable energy resources.

(5) Energy storage facilities eligible to participate in a competitive procurement are those identified in Section 58-42-20(A)(2) installed and operated in conjunction with a renewable energy facility.

(6) The electrical utility shall be required to use an independent evaluator or independent administrator to oversee or manage the competitive procurement, as determined appropriate by the commission.

(7) The procurement of renewable energy facilities and co-located energy storage facilities and the output of such facilities shall result in a reasonable balance of electrical utility and independent third-party ownership of eligible facilities, as determined by the commission. The electrical utility and its affiliates may offer proposals into the competitive procurement provided that appropriate safeguards are in place to ensure that such proposals do not receive any advantage in the bid evaluation process.

(D) An electrical utility shall make publicly available at least forty-five days prior to each competitive solicitation:

TUESDAY, APRIL 1, 2025

(1) A commission-approved pro forma contract to inform prospective market participants of the procurement terms and conditions. The pro forma contract must: (i) include standardized and commercially reasonable requirements for contract performance security consistent with market standards; and (ii) define limits and compensation for resource dispatch and curtailment.

(2) A bid and portfolio evaluation methodology that: (i) ensures all bids are treated equitably, including price and nonprice evaluation criteria; and (ii) ensures electrical utility and independent third-party owned facilities are treated equitably with regards to resource dispatch and curtailments.

(3) Interconnection requirements including specification of how bids without existing interconnection studies must be treated for purposes of evaluation.

(E) After bids are submitted and evaluated, final winning bids will be selected based upon the published evaluation methodology.

(F) An electrical utility shall issue a public report summarizing the results of each competitive solicitation within sixty days of the award notifications. The report shall include, at minimum, a summary of the submitted bids and an anonymized list of the project awards, including their size, location, average award price and tenor, and award price range. Electrical utilities are permitted to recover costs incurred through such competitive procurement through rates established pursuant to Section 58-27-865 or Section 58-27-870.

(G) Notwithstanding the requirements of Section 58-42-10 and this section, the commission shall approve an electrical utility's competitive procurement of energy storage facilities or renewable energy resources and the output of energy storage facilities or renewable energy resources within an electrical utility's balancing area outside of South Carolina that serve customers within South Carolina if eligible energy storage facilities or renewable energy resources located within South Carolina were allowed to participate in the competitive procurement and if the commission determines that the results of such procurement are in the public interest and enable the economic, reliable, and safe operation of the electric grid. Electrical utilities shall be permitted to recover costs incurred through such competitive procurements through rates established pursuant to Section 58-27-865 or Section 58-27-870. However, if the commission determines that the results of the procurement are not in the public interest for South Carolina, then the costs and benefits associated with such procurement shall be allocated away from South Carolina customers.

TUESDAY, APRIL 1, 2025

(H) The commission is authorized to adopt rules or procedures for conducting a procurement authorized by this section.

Section 58-42-30. (A) Within six months from the date of the enactment of this chapter, the commission shall open a docket to establish a competitive procurement program for each electrical utility for energy storage facilities to be located in South Carolina. Solicitations shall be subject to the following limitations:

(1) For transmission-connected energy storage (excluding pumped hydro) the electrical utilities shall conduct a competitive procurement for such resources, including utility-self developed projects. Each electrical utility shall file the proposed details of its competitive procurement process no later than twelve months after the date of the enactment of this chapter.

(2) The target procurement volume for stand-alone storage acquisition may not exceed the portion of stand-alone storage in the most recent commission approved integrated resource plan or integrated resource plan annual update that is equal to the portion of the respective electrical utility's peak load attributable to South Carolina customers.

(3) Stand-alone energy storage facilities with a design capacity less than or equal to twenty megawatts and intended primarily to address local reliability improvements or local capacity constraints are not subject to the competitive procurement requirements of this section.

(4)(a) The procurement of stand-alone energy storage facilities shall result in a reasonable balance of the electrical utility and independent third-party ownership of eligible facilities, as determined by the commission.

(b) An electrical utility and its affiliates may offer proposals into the competitive procurement provided that appropriate safeguards are in place to ensure that such proposals do not receive any advantage in the bid evaluation process. Electrical utility costs associated with facilities owned by an independent third-party power producer shall be capitalized and included within the electrical utility's rate base for ratemaking purposes.

(B) Competitively procured stand-alone storage shall be subject to operational protocols, equipment specifications and inspections established by the electric utility and which are necessary to ensure the reliability of the electrical utility system. Information regarding competitively procured stand-alone storage must be provided to the Office of Regulatory Staff.

TUESDAY, APRIL 1, 2025

(C) Electrical utilities may recover costs incurred through such competitive procurement through rates established pursuant to Section 58-27-870.

SECTION X. Section 58-31-227(B) of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

(B) The Public Service Authority shall procure renewable energy resources subject to the following requirements:

(1) Renewable energy resources procured by the Public Service Authority shall be procured via a competitive solicitation process open to all independent market participants that meet minimum eligibility requirements.

(2) The Public Service Authority shall issue public notification of its intention to issue a competitive renewable solicitation at least ninety days prior to the release of each solicitation, including the proposed procurement volume, process, and timeline.

(3) Renewable energy facilities eligible to participate in a competitive procurement are those ~~that have a valid interconnection request on file~~ and that use renewable energy resources identified in Section 58-39-120(F) and may include battery storage devices ~~charged exclusively by renewable energy~~.

Matters related to the scope and sufficiency of an electrical utility's demand-side plans and activities shall be considered exclusively in proceedings conducted pursuant to Section 58-37-20. In reviewing an integrated resource plan, the commission shall focus its review on the decisions which the applicant must make in the near term based on the triennial integrated resource plan under consideration at the time and shall approve a plan if it finds that the plan appropriately balances the following factors:

TUESDAY, APRIL 1, 2025

(a) resource adequacy and capacity to serve anticipated peak electrical load, including the need for electric capacity and energy required to support economic development and industry retention in the electrical utility's or the Public Service Authority's service territory and to meet applicable planning reserve margins;

Amend the bill, as and if amended, by adding an appropriately numbered SECTION to read:

TUESDAY, APRIL 1, 2025

SECTION X. Chapter 27, Title 58 of the S.C. Code is amended by adding:

Article 24

Electric Rate Stabilization Act

Section 58-27-2700. A public utility providing retail electric service, in its discretion and at any time, may elect to have the terms of this article apply to its rates and charges for retail electric service, on a prospective basis, by filing a notice of the election with the commission and on the same day and by the same means serving a copy on the Office of Regulatory Staff. Upon receipt of notice of the election, the commission shall proceed to make the findings and establish the ongoing procedures required for adjustments in base rates to be made under this article. In carrying out the procedures established by this article with respect to such an election, the commission shall rely upon and utilize the approved rates, charges, revenues, expenses, capital structure, returns, and other matters established in the public utility's most recent general rate proceeding pursuant to Section 58-27-860; provided, however, that the most recent order must have been issued no more than five years prior to the initial election to come under the terms of this article and the utility must file an application for a general rate proceeding every five years after such election. A public utility may combine an election under this article with the filing of a rate proceeding pursuant to Section 58-27-860. The commission shall include the findings required by this article in its rate orders issued in the Section 58-27-860 proceedings, and the election shall remain in effect until the next general rate proceeding.

Section 58-27-2710. The election by a utility to have the terms of this article apply to its rates and charges for retail electric service once made shall remain in effect until the next general rate proceeding for the public utility under Section 58-27-860, at which time the public utility may then elect to continue the applicability of this article to its rates and charges or elect to opt out of the provisions of this article. The applicant may withdraw its request to come under the terms of this article at any time before the entry of a final order of the commission on the merits of the proceeding in which the election is made or on a petition for rehearing in the proceeding.

Section 58-27-2720. In issuing its order pursuant to Section 58-27-2710, and in addition to the other requirements of Section 58-27-2710, if a proceeding pursuant to that section is required, then:

(1) the commission shall specify a range for the utility's cost of equity that includes a band of fifty basis points (0.50 percentage points) below

and fifty basis points (0.50 percentage points) above the cost of equity on which rates have been set; and

(2) the commission separately shall state the amount of the utility's net plant in service, construction work in progress, accumulated deferred income taxes, inventory, working capital, and other rate base components. It also shall state the utility's depreciation expense, operating and maintenance expense, income taxes, taxes other than income taxes, other components of income for return, revenues, capital structure, cost of debt, overall cost of capital, and earned return on common equity. The figures stated shall be those which the commission has determined to be the appropriate basis on which rates were set in the applicable orders.

Section 58-27-2730. The utility shall file with the commission monitoring reports for each twelve-month period ending on March 31, June 30, September 30, and December 31 of each year, the filings to be made no later than the fifteenth day of the third month following the close of the period. The utility shall serve a copy of such reports on the Office of Regulatory Staff on the same day and by the same means as they are provided to the commission. These quarterly monitoring reports shall include:

(1) the utility's actual net plant in service, construction work in progress, accumulated deferred income taxes, inventory, working capital, and other rate base components. The report shall also show the utility's depreciation expense, operating and maintenance expense, income taxes, taxes other than income taxes, other components of income for return, revenues, capital structure, cost of debt, overall cost of capital, and earned return on common equity;

(2) all applicable accounting and pro forma adjustments historically permitted or required by the commission for the utility in question or for similarly situated utilities, authorized by general principles of utility accounting, or authorized by accounting letters or orders issued by the commission. This authorization may occur either in a general rate hearing or in any other type of filing or hearing that the commission considers appropriate. However, other parties shall be given sufficient opportunity to review and provide comments on any proposed accounting letter or order issued after the initial order allowing future base rate adjustments pursuant to this article;

(3) pro forma adjustments to annualize for the twelve-month period any rate adjustments imposed pursuant to this article or other events affecting only part of the period covered by the filing so that the

annualization is required to show the effects of those events on the utility's earnings going forward; and

(4) pro forma or other adjustments required to properly account for atypical, unusual, or nonrecurring events.

Section 58-27-2740. (A) In the monitoring report filed for the twelve-month period ending December thirty-first of each year, the utility shall provide additional schedules indicating the following revenue calculations:

(1) if the utility's earnings exceed the upper end of the range established in the order, then the utility shall calculate the reduction in revenue required to lower its return on equity to the midpoint of the range established in the order; or

(2) if the utility's earnings are below the lower range established in the order, then the utility shall calculate the additional revenue required to increase its return on equity to the midpoint of the range established in the order.

(B) The utility also shall provide a schedule that specifies changes in its tariff rates required to achieve any indicated change in revenue.

(C) The proposed rate changes, filed by the utility, shall conform as nearly as is practicable with the revenue allocation principles contained in the most recent rate order.

Section 58-27-2750. The Office of Regulatory Staff shall review the monitoring report filed pursuant to Section 58-27-2730 and Section 58-27-2740 to determine compliance with its terms, taking into account the findings of any audit conducted by the Office of Regulatory Staff concerning compliance with Section 58-27-2730 and Section 58-27-2740. The Office of Regulatory Staff shall propose those adjustments it determines to be required to bring the report into compliance with Section 58-27-2740. Based upon that report and the findings of any audit conducted by the Office of Regulatory Staff, the commission shall order the utility to make the adjustments to tariff rates necessary to achieve the revenue levels indicated in Section 58-27-2740.

Section 58-27-2760. The procedures contained in this section shall apply to monitoring reports related to the quarter ending December 31.

(1) The utility shall file the monitoring reports annually with the commission and Office of Regulatory Staff on or before March 15.

(2) In cases where the monitoring report indicates rate adjustments are required, or where it otherwise appears to the commission or the Office of Regulatory Staff that an adjustment in rates may be warranted under this article, the commission shall issue a Notice of Filing annually on or before March 31 and require interested persons to file a petition to intervene annually on or before May 15. The commission shall maintain a register of parties who have notified the commission in writing that they wish to be provided with any Notice of Filing related to specified utilities and the commission shall use reasonable efforts to provide such parties with Notices of Filing by such utilities, provided that the failure to do so shall not invalidate any subsequent proceedings. Intervenor shall have discovery rights related to the matters set forth in Section 58-27-2730.

(3) The Office of Regulatory Staff shall conduct an audit of the monitoring report to ascertain the reasonableness and prudence of all matters contained therein and specify any changes that the Office of Regulatory Staff determines to be necessary to correct errors in the report or to otherwise bring the report into compliance with this article. The Office of Regulatory Staff's audit report shall be verified and provided to the commission and to the utility and made available annually to all parties of record no later than June 1. Other parties of record shall also be allowed until June 1 of each year to file verified written comments and submit documentary evidence to the commission and the Office of Regulatory Staff in response to the utility's monitoring report.

(4) The utility shall be allowed until June 15 of each year to file verified written comments and submit documentary evidence to the commission and the Office of Regulatory Staff related to the utility's monitoring report and may request a non-evidentiary hearing before the commission concerning the utility's monitoring report.

(5) On or before July 15 of each year, the commission shall issue an initial order setting forth any changes required in the utility's request to adjust rates under this article (the "Initial Order"). In the absence of such an Initial Order, the electric rate adjustment contained in the utility's filing shall be considered granted as filed.

(6) Any electric rate adjustments authorized under the terms of this article shall take effect for all bills rendered on or after the first billing cycle of August of that year.

Section 58-27-2770. In calculating its revenue requirement under Section 58-27-2730, and apart from the recovery of a return on construction work in progress, an electric utility may not include in plant service its investments in any new electric generating facility of more than two hundred fifty megawatts, or the costs associated with operating such a facility, except through a general electric rate proceeding under Section 58-27-860 and Section 58-27-870 or through a contested case proceeding for the limited purpose of establishing the prudence of the facility under this section.

TUESDAY, APRIL 1, 2025

Section 58-27-2780. Within thirty days of the issuance of an Initial Order pursuant to Section 58-27-2760, or within thirty days of the failure by the commission to issue an order as required pursuant to Section 58-27-2760, any aggrieved party may petition the commission for review of the Initial Order or failure to issue an order and all interested parties of record shall have a right to be heard at an evidentiary hearing on the matter. The party shall serve a copy of such petition on the Office of Regulatory Staff and other parties of record on the same day and by the same means as it is provided to the commission.

Section 58-27-2790. (A) After conducting the hearing required by Section 58-27-2780, the commission shall issue a final order that:

(1) sets forth any changes that are required to the rates approved in the Initial Order issued under Section 58-27-2760(5);

(2) determines the amount of any overcollection or undercollection by the utility that resulted from collection of the rates authorized in the Initial Order as compared to the rates authorized in the final order issued under this section; and

(3) establishes a credit to refund the amount of any overcollection, or a surcharge to collect the amount of any undercollection that arose during the time that the rates approved in the Initial Order were collected, and requires the utility to apply the credit or surcharge until such time as the overcollection or undercollection is exhausted.

(B) The commission shall issue any final order required under this section by December thirty-first of the year in which the monitoring report was filed. The order shall make the corrected rates and the credit or surcharge, if any, effective as of the first billing cycle of May of that year.

(C) The provisions of Sections 58-27-2150 and 58-27-2310 concerning rehearing and appeal shall apply to the orders issued pursuant to this section.

Section 58-27-2800. The review of Initial Orders pursuant to Section 58-27-2780 and Section 58-27-2790 is limited to issues related to compliance with the terms of this article. Matters determined in orders issued pursuant to Section 58-27-2720 are not subject to review except in full rate proceedings pursuant to Section 58-27-2740. Any proceedings pursuant to this article are without prejudice to the right of the commission to issue, or any interested party to request issuance of, a rule to show cause why a full rate proceeding should not be initiated, nor does this article limit the right of a utility to file an application pursuant to Section 58-27-870 for an adjustment to its rates and charges, nor does it impose the restrictions on filings contained in Section 58-27-870(E).

TUESDAY, APRIL 1, 2025

Section 58-27-2810. ~~Indicates Matter Stricken~~

Indicates New Matter

The Senate assembled at 1:00 P.M., the hour to which it stood adjourned, and was called to order by the PRESIDENT.

A quorum being present, the proceedings were opened with a devotion by the Chaplain as follows:

Genesis 22:9

In Genesis we read: "When they reached the place God had told him about, Abraham built an altar there, and arranged the wood on it. He bound his son Isaac and laid him on the altar, on top of the wood."

Good friends, let us pray: Many times through the ages, O Lord God, You have tested Your people. And in all honesty, we surely reflect upon our own experiences of being tested over the years. Yet throughout all of the challenges which came to Abraham and that come to us, You have remained faithful, offering Your unflagging love and care. And all that it "costs" us to experience Your blessings is to serve You, and to do so with hearts of love. May these Senators and their staff members, dear Lord, be ever counted among those who hold fast to You. And through their steadfastness and dedication may they always honor You through their decisions and their choices. In Your name we pray, O Lord. Amen.

Amendment No. 12

Senator MARTIN proposed the following amendment (SR-3309.CEM0012S), which was adopted:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, SECTION 12.A., Section 58-37-120, by adding a subsection to read:

This notice must clearly state the need for the project, its preferred and any alternative locations or routes, a phone number or email that property owners may contact at the utility, and an appropriate contact at the Office of Regulatory Staff. No later than 30 days after filing an application, the utility must also hold a public meeting to solicit feedback from interested members of the affected community and on the date an application is filed, must provide notice of said meeting in a newspaper or other publication of general circulation in each county where the project may be located and in writing to all landowners whose property may be condemned.

Amendment No. 13

Senator DAVIS proposed the following amendment (LC-3309.HA0081S), which was carried over:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, SECTION 25, by striking Section 58-37-10(3) and inserting:

(3) "Cost-effective" means that the net present value of benefits of a program or portfolio exceeds the net present value of the costs of the program or portfolio. A program or portfolio is cost-effective ~~program or portfolio must pass~~ if it passes any two of the following tests:

(a) utility cost test;

(b) total resource cost test;

(c) participant cost test; or

(d) ratepayer impact measure test.

In evaluating the cost-effectiveness of a program or portfolio, a utility or program administrator must present the results of all four tests. The total resource cost test must include as part of customer benefits a reasonable estimate of all significant customer cost savings. In calculating cost-effectiveness, a utility must use a standard utility practice for determining the percentage of energy savings that would or would not have been achieved through customer adoption of an efficiency behavior or technology without any incentive allowed pursuant to this chapter to install and utilize the technology as part of the associated demand-side management program. The utility must designate the expected useful life of the measure and evaluate the costs and benefits of the measures over their useful lives in the program application based on industry accepted standards. Further, in calculating the cost-effectiveness, the commission must consider the efficiencies and scale of programs that are or may be available across a utility's balancing area, even if that balancing area extends outside of the State.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 26, by striking Section 58-37-20(B) and (C) and inserting:

(B) The commission ~~may~~ shall approve any program filed by a public utility if the program is found to be cost-effective. Furthermore, the commission may, in its discretion, approve demand-side management pilot programs and any program filed by a public utility that is not cost-effective, so long as the proposed demand-side management program is targeted to low-income customers, ~~provided that~~ and the public utility's portfolio of demand-side management programs is cost-effective as a whole.

(C) The South Carolina Public Service Commission ~~may~~ must adopt procedures that ~~encourage~~ require electrical utilities and public utilities

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

providing gas services subject to the jurisdiction of the commission to plan for and invest in all reasonable, prudent, and available energy efficiency and demand-side resources that are cost-effective energy efficient technologies and energy conservation programs in an amount to be determined by the commission that achieve net energy savings of at least 0.66 percent of total retail sales as of May 15, 2027, or a higher level as determined by the commission. Energy efficiency shall be considered a component of the requirement for a utility to make every reasonable effort to minimize fuel costs as outlined in Section 58-27-865(F) and the commission may grant a proportional disallowance based on evidence in record. If an electrical utility fails to meet the requirements of this section as determined by the commission, the commission is authorized to appoint a third-party administrator to carry out the residential and low-income energy efficiency duties pursuant to this section on behalf of the electrical utility if the commission determines that having such a third-party administrator is in the public interest and consistent with law. Upon notice and hearings that the commission may require, the commission may issue rules, regulations, or orders pursuant to this chapter to implement applicable programs and measures under this section. If adopted, these procedures must: provide incentives and cost recovery for energy suppliers and distributors who invest in energy supply and end-use technologies that are cost-effective, environmentally acceptable, and reduce energy consumption or system or local coincident peak demand; allow energy suppliers and distributors to recover costs and obtain a reasonable rate of return on their investment in qualified demand-side management programs sufficient to make these programs at least as financially attractive as construction of new generating facilities; require the Public Service Commission to establish rates and charges that ensure that the net income of an electrical or gas utility regulated by the commission after implementation of specific cost-effective energy conservation measures is at least as high as the net income would have been if the energy conservation measures had not been implemented. ~~For purposes of this section only, the term “demand side activity” means a program conducted by an electrical utility or public utility providing gas services for the reduction or more efficient use of energy requirements of the utility or its customers including, but not limited to, utility transmission and distribution system efficiency, customer conservation and efficiency, load management, cogeneration, and renewable energy technologies.~~

(c) If the commission approves an application made pursuant to this subsection, the commission, for all future requests related to the major utility facility, shall utilize South Carolina law in determining costs and benefits for the utility's South Carolina customers.

Amendment No. 7A

Senator DAVIS proposed the following amendment (LC-3309.HA0063S), which was adopted:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, by adding an appropriately numbered SECTION to read:

SECTION X. Chapter 27, Title 58 of the S.C. Code is amended by adding:

Article 24

Electric Rate Stabilization

Section 58-27-2700. A public utility providing retail electric service, in its discretion and at any time, may elect to have the terms of this article apply to its rates and charges for retail electric service, on a prospective basis, by filing a notice of the election with the commission and on the same day and by the same means serving a copy on the Office of Regulatory Staff. Upon receipt of notice of the election, the commission shall proceed to make the findings and establish the ongoing procedures required for adjustments in base rates to be made under this article. In carrying out the procedures established by this article with respect to such an election, the commission shall rely upon and utilize the approved rates, charges, revenues, expenses, capital structure, returns, and other matters established in the public utility's most recent general rate proceeding pursuant to Section 58-27-860; provided, however, that the most recent order must have been issued no more than five years prior to the initial election to come under the terms of this article and the utility must file an application for a general rate proceeding every five years after such election. A public utility may combine an election under this article with the filing of a rate proceeding pursuant to Section 58-27-860. The commission shall include the findings required by this article in its rate orders issued in the Section 58-27-860 proceedings, and the election shall remain in effect until the next general rate proceeding.

Section 58-27-2710. The election by a utility to have the terms of this article apply to its rates and charges for retail electric service once made shall remain in effect until the next general rate proceeding for the public utility under Section 58-27-860, at which time the public utility may then elect to continue the applicability of this article to its rates and charges or elect to opt out of the provisions of this article. The applicant may withdraw its request to come under the terms of this article at any time before the entry of a final order of the commission on the merits of the proceeding in which the election is made or on a petition for rehearing in the proceeding.

Section 58-27-2720. In issuing its order pursuant to Section 58-27-2710, and in addition to the other requirements of Section 58-27-2710, if a proceeding pursuant to that section is required, then:

(1) the commission shall specify a range for the utility's cost of equity that includes a band of fifty basis points (0.50 percentage points) below and fifty basis points (0.50 percentage points) above the cost of equity on which rates have been set; and

(2) the commission separately shall state the amount of the utility's net plant in service, construction work in progress, accumulated deferred income taxes, inventory, working capital, and other rate base components. It also shall state the utility's depreciation expense, operating and maintenance expense, income taxes, taxes other than income taxes, other components of income for return, revenues, capital structure, cost of debt, overall cost of capital, and earned return on common equity. The figures stated shall be those which the commission has determined to be the appropriate basis on which rates were set in the applicable orders.

Section 58-27-2730. The utility shall file with the commission monitoring reports for each twelve-month period ending on March 31, June 30, September 30, and December 31 of each year, the filings to be made no later than the fifteenth day of the third month following the close of the period. The utility shall serve a copy of such reports on the

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

Office of Regulatory Staff on the same day and by the same means as they are provided to the commission. These quarterly monitoring reports shall include:

(1) the utility's actual net plant in service, construction work in progress, accumulated deferred income taxes, inventory, working capital, and other rate base components. The report shall also show the utility's depreciation expense, operating and maintenance expense, income taxes, taxes other than income taxes, other components of income for return, revenues, capital structure, cost of debt, overall cost of capital, and earned return on common equity;

(2) all applicable accounting and pro forma adjustments historically permitted or required by the commission for the utility in question or for similarly situated utilities, authorized by general principles of utility accounting, or authorized by accounting letters or orders issued by the commission. This authorization may occur either in a general rate hearing or in any other type of filing or hearing that the commission considers appropriate. However, other parties shall be given sufficient opportunity to review and provide comments on any proposed accounting letter or order issued after the initial order allowing future base rate adjustments pursuant to this article;

(3) pro forma adjustments to annualize for the twelve-month period any rate adjustments imposed pursuant to this article or other events affecting only part of the period covered by the filing so that the annualization is required to show the effects of those events on the utility's earnings going forward; and

(4) pro forma or other adjustments required to properly account for atypical, unusual, or nonrecurring events.

Section 58-27-2740. (A) In the monitoring report filed for the twelve-month period ending December thirty-first of each year, the utility shall provide additional schedules indicating the following revenue calculations:

(1) if the utility's earnings exceed the upper end of the range established in the order, then the utility shall calculate the reduction in revenue required to lower its return on equity to the midpoint of the range established in the order; or

(2) if the utility's earnings are below the lower range established in the order, then the utility shall calculate the additional revenue required to increase its return on equity to the midpoint of the range established in the order.

(B) The utility also shall provide a schedule that specifies changes in its tariff rates required to achieve any indicated change in revenue.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

(C) The proposed rate changes, filed by the utility, shall conform as nearly as is practicable with the revenue allocation principles contained in the most recent rate order.

Section 58-27-2750. The Office of Regulatory Staff shall review the monitoring report filed pursuant to Section 58-27-2730 and Section 58-27-2740 to determine compliance with its terms, taking into account the findings of any audit conducted by the Office of Regulatory Staff concerning compliance with Section 58-27-2730 and Section 58-27-2740. The Office of Regulatory Staff shall propose those adjustments it determines to be required to bring the report into compliance with Section 58-27-2740. Based upon that report and the findings of any audit conducted by the Office of Regulatory Staff, the commission shall order the utility to make the adjustments to tariff rates necessary to achieve the revenue levels indicated in Section 58-27-2740.

Section 58-27-2760. The procedures contained in this section shall apply to monitoring reports related to the quarter ending December 31.

(1) The utility shall file the monitoring reports annually with the commission and Office of Regulatory Staff on or before March 15.

(2) In cases where the monitoring report indicates rate adjustments are required, or where it otherwise appears to the commission or the Office of Regulatory Staff that an adjustment in rates may be warranted under this article, the commission shall issue a Notice of Filing annually on or before March 31 and require interested persons to file a petition to intervene annually on or before May 15. The commission shall maintain a register of parties who have notified the commission in writing that they wish to be provided with any Notice of Filing related to specified utilities and the commission shall use reasonable efforts to provide such parties with Notices of Filing by such utilities, provided that the failure to do so shall not invalidate any subsequent proceedings. Intervenors shall have discovery rights related to the matters set forth in Section 58-27-2730.

(3) The Office of Regulatory Staff shall conduct an audit of the monitoring report to ascertain the reasonableness and prudence of all matters contained therein and specify any changes that the Office of Regulatory Staff determines to be necessary to correct errors in the report or to otherwise bring the report into compliance with this article. The Office of Regulatory Staff's audit report shall be verified and provided to the commission and to the utility and made available annually to all parties of record no later than June 1. Other parties of record shall also be allowed until June 1 of each year to file verified written comments and submit documentary evidence to the commission and the Office of Regulatory Staff in response to the utility's monitoring report.

(4) The utility shall be allowed until June 15 of each year to file verified written comments and submit documentary evidence to the commission and the Office of Regulatory Staff related to the utility's monitoring report and may request a non-evidentiary hearing before the commission concerning the utility's monitoring report.

(5) On or before July 15 of each year, the commission shall issue an initial order setting forth any changes required in the utility's request to adjust rates under this article (the "Initial Order"). In the absence of such an Initial Order, the electric rate adjustment contained in the utility's filing shall be considered granted as filed.

(6) Any electric rate adjustments authorized under the terms of this article shall take effect for all bills rendered on or after the first billing cycle of August of that year.

Section 58-27-2770. In calculating its revenue requirement under Section 58-27-2730, and apart from the recovery of a return on construction work in progress, an electric utility may not include in plant service its investments in any new electric generating facility of more than two hundred fifty megawatts, or the costs associated with operating such a facility, except through a general electric rate proceeding under Section 58-27-860 and Section 58-27-870 or through a contested case proceeding for the limited purpose of establishing the prudence of the facility under this section.

Section 58-27-2780. Within thirty days of the issuance of an Initial Order pursuant to Section 58-27-2760, or within thirty days of the failure by the commission to issue an order as required pursuant to Section 58-27-2760, any aggrieved party may petition the commission for review of the Initial Order or failure to issue an order and all interested parties of record shall have a right to be heard at an evidentiary hearing on the matter. The party shall serve a copy of such petition on the Office of Regulatory Staff and other parties of record on the same day and by the same means as it is provided to the commission.

Section 58-27-2790. (A) After conducting the hearing required by Section 58-27-2780, the commission shall issue a final order that:

(1) sets forth any changes that are required to the rates approved in the Initial Order issued under Section 58-27-2760(5);

(2) determines the amount of any overcollection or undercollection by the utility that resulted from collection of the rates authorized in the Initial Order as compared to the rates authorized in the final order issued under this section; and

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

(3) establishes a credit to refund the amount of any overcollection, or a surcharge to collect the amount of any undercollection that arose during the time that the rates approved in the Initial Order were collected, and requires the utility to apply the credit or surcharge until such time as the overcollection or undercollection is exhausted.

(B) The commission shall issue any final order required under this section by December 31 of the year in which the monitoring report was filed. The order shall make the corrected rates and the credit or surcharge, if any, effective as of the first billing cycle of May of that year.

(C) The provisions of Sections 58-27-2150 and 58-27-2310 concerning rehearing and appeal shall apply to the orders issued pursuant to this section.

Section 58-27-2800. The review of Initial Orders pursuant to Section 58-27-2780 and Section 58-27-2790 is limited to issues related to compliance with the terms of this article. Matters determined in orders issued pursuant to Section 58-27-2720 are not subject to review except in full rate proceedings pursuant to Section 58-27-2740. Any proceedings pursuant to this article are without prejudice to the right of the commission to issue, or any interested party to request issuance of, a rule to show cause why a full rate proceeding should not be initiated, nor does this article limit the right of a utility to file an application pursuant to Section 58-27-870 for an adjustment to its rates and charges, nor does it impose the restrictions on filings contained in Section 58-27-870(E).

Section 58-27-2810. (A) The Office of Regulatory Staff is authorized to create additional positions as the General Assembly may provide in the annual general appropriations act for the purpose of performing its duties under this article; however, no more than two positions for each electric utility regulated pursuant to this article may be authorized. All salaries, benefits, expenses, and charges incurred by the Office of Regulatory Staff for these positions must be borne by the electric utilities regulated pursuant to this article.

(B) On or before the first day of July in each year, the Department of Revenue must assess each electric utility regulated pursuant to this article an equal portion of these salaries, benefits, expenses, and charges on June 30 preceding that on which the assessment is made which is due and payable on or before July 15. The assessments must be charged against the electric utilities by the Department of Revenue and collected by the department in the manner provided by law for the collection of taxes from the electric utilities, including the enforcement and collection provisions of Article 1, Chapter 54 of Title 12 and paid, less the Department of Revenue actual incremental increase in the cost of administration into the state treasury as other taxes collected by the Department of Revenue for the State. These assessments are in addition to any amounts assessed pursuant to Section 58-4-60. These assessments must be deposited in a special fund with the State Treasurer's Office from which the salaries, benefits, expenses, and charges shall be paid.

(C) The Office of Regulatory Staff must annually certify to the Department of Revenue on or before May 1 the amounts to be assessed.

Amendment No. 13A

Senator DAVIS proposed the following amendment (LC-3309.HA0084S), which was adopted:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, SECTION 25, by striking Section 58-37-10(3) and inserting:

(3) "Cost-effective" means that the net present value of benefits of a program or portfolio exceeds the net present value of the costs of the

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

program or portfolio. A program or portfolio is cost-effective ~~program or portfolio must pass if it passes any two of the following tests:~~

(a) utility cost test;

(b) total resource cost test;

(c) participant cost test; or

(d) ratepayer impact measure test.

In evaluating the cost-effectiveness of a program or portfolio, a utility or program administrator must present the results of all four tests. The total resource cost test must include as part of customer benefits a reasonable estimate of all significant customer cost savings. In calculating cost-effectiveness, a utility must use a standard utility practice for determining the percentage of energy savings that would or would not have been achieved through customer adoption of an efficiency behavior or technology without any incentive allowed pursuant to this chapter to install and utilize the technology as part of the associated demand-side management program. The utility must designate the expected useful life of the measure and evaluate the costs and benefits of the measures over their useful lives in the program application based on industry accepted standards. Further, in calculating the cost-effectiveness, the commission must consider the efficiencies and scale of programs that are or may be available across a utility's balancing area, even if that balancing area extends outside of the State.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 26, by striking Section 58-37-20(B) and (C) and inserting:

(B) The commission ~~may~~ shall approve any program filed by a public utility if the program is found to be cost-effective. Furthermore, the commission may, in its discretion, approve demand-side management pilot programs and any program filed by a public utility that is not cost-effective, so long as the proposed demand-side management program is targeted to low-income customers, ~~provided that and the public utility's portfolio of demand-side management programs is cost-effective as a whole.~~

(C) The South Carolina Public Service Commission ~~may~~ must adopt procedures that ~~encourage~~ require electrical utilities and public utilities providing gas services subject to the jurisdiction of the commission to plan for and invest in all reasonable, prudent, and available energy efficiency and demand-side resources that are cost-effective energy efficient technologies and energy conservation programs ~~in an amount to be determined by the commission that achieve net energy savings of at least 0.66 percent of total retail sales as of May 15, 2027, or a higher level as determined by the commission.~~ Energy efficiency shall be considered a component of the requirement for a utility to make every reasonable effort to minimize fuel costs as outlined in Section 58-27-865(F) and the commission may grant a proportional disallowance based on evidence in record. If an electrical utility fails to meet the requirements of this section as determined by the commission, the commission is authorized to appoint a third-party administrator to carry out the residential and low-income energy efficiency duties pursuant to this section on behalf of the electrical utility if the commission determines that having such a third-party administrator is in the public interest and consistent with law. Such a program shall be funded through the existing energy efficiency rider mechanism, with those funds transferred to the third-party administrator. Upon notice and hearings that the commission may require, the commission may issue rules, regulations, or orders pursuant to this chapter to implement applicable programs and measures under this section. If adopted, these procedures must: provide incentives and cost recovery for energy suppliers and distributors who invest in energy supply and end-use technologies that are cost-effective, environmentally acceptable, and reduce energy consumption or system or local coincident peak demand; allow energy suppliers and distributors to recover costs and obtain a reasonable rate of return on their investment in qualified demand-side management programs sufficient to make these programs at least as financially attractive as construction of new generating facilities; require the Public Service Commission to establish rates and charges that ensure that the net income of an electrical or gas utility regulated by the commission after implementation of specific cost-effective energy conservation measures is at least as high as the net income would have been if the energy conservation measures had not been implemented. ~~For purposes of this section only, the term “demand-side activity” means a program conducted by an electrical utility or public utility providing gas services for the reduction or more efficient use of energy requirements of the utility or its customers including, but not limited to, utility transmission and distribution system efficiency, customer conservation and efficiency, load management, cogeneration, and renewable energy technologies.~~

SECTION X. Title 58 of the S.C. Code is amended by adding:

CHAPTER 42

Competitive Procurement

Section 58-42-10. (A) The General Assembly finds that it is in the public interest for the state's electrical utilities to competitively procure targeted volumes of renewable energy and co-located energy storage resources. The General Assembly further finds that it is in the public interest for the state's electrical utilities to competitively procure certain stand-alone storage additions to be located in South Carolina. These procurements shall be consistent with the electric utilities' 2023 integrated resource plans as approved by the commission or the subsequent annual integrated resource plan updates as approved by the commission. The resources procured pursuant to this section are intended to be placed in service on or before January 1, 2035. The volumes of each procurement may be increased or decreased as provided in this section. If an electrical utility proposes an amount of solar or storage in a future integrated resource plan filing that is lower than the amount contained in the electrical utility's 2023 integrated resource plan as approved by the commission, the electrical utility shall include and analyze at least one scenario consistent with the electrical utilities' 2023 preferred resource portfolio that includes volumes of solar and storage consistent with that contained in the 2023 integrated resource plans as approved by the commission.

(B) The electrical utilities shall procure the resources referred to in subsection (A) through at least a biennial competitive procurement process consistent with the requirements of Sections 58-42-20 and 58-42-30, and in accordance with this section. The target volume in each competitive procurement shall be consistent with the volume of resources needed to be procured at that time to achieve the resource in-service dates specified in the electrical utility's 2023 integrated resource plan as approved by the commission or a subsequent integrated resource plan annual update as approved by the commission.

(C) The amount of renewable energy or energy storage resources required to be procured by each electrical utility pursuant to this section shall be reduced by the alternating current ("AC") nameplate capacity of any facility of the same resource type for which such electrical utility enters into a power purchase agreement after the effective date of this section pursuant to the electrical utility's mandatory purchase obligation under Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act or pursuant to a prior competitive procurement which had not resulted in an executed power purchase agreement prior to the enactment date of this section, provided that the facility is placed in service in 2035 or earlier.

(D) The target resource volumes for each competitive procurement shall reflect any increases or decreases included in the electrical utility's most recently approved integrated resource plan or integrated resource plan update. The electric utility may, at its option, include the procurement of non-renewable generation resources as part of its procurement of renewable and storage resources pursuant to this section.

(E) The target resource volumes for competitive procurement shall take into account any changes in siting opportunities that may be affected by local permitting, zoning, or other regulatory or legal challenges.

(F) The target resource volumes for competitive procurement by the electrical utility shall be increased to account for replacing megawatts associated with:

(1) any inability by the electrical utility to reach target procurement volumes in prior procurement cycles;

(2) the inability of renewable energy or energy storage resources procured in any prior procurement cycles to be placed in service; and

(3) the expiration of any existing contracts for qualifying facilities pursuant to the Public Utility Regulatory Practices Act.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

All target resource volumes referenced in this subsection shall be consistent with the needs identified in the most recently commission approved integrated resource plan or integrated resource plan update.

(G) Prior to making final awards in a competitive procurement, the electrical utility shall confirm that the resources selected are cost effective using methodologies and current inputs reflected in the applicable integrated resource plan or integrated resource plan update approved by the commission for that electrical utility.

(H) Notwithstanding the other subsections of this section, the results of competitive procurements within an electrical utility's balancing area outside of South Carolina that serve customers in the electrical utility's balancing area within South Carolina shall be approved or accepted by the commission as specified in Section 58-42-20(G).

(I) Notwithstanding Section 58-41-20(F)(2), electrical utilities shall continue to offer to qualifying small power production facilities power purchase agreements for the purchase of energy and capacity at avoided cost, with commercially reasonable terms and a duration of up to ten years, until the competitive procurement requirements of this section have been satisfied.

Section 58-42-20. (A) For purposes of this chapter:

(1) "Electrical utility" shall be defined as in Section 58-27-10; provided, however, that electrical utilities serving less than 100,000 customers shall be exempt from the provisions of this chapter unless otherwise provided.

(2) "Energy storage facility" means commercially available technology that can absorb energy and store it for later use including, but not limited to, electrochemical, thermal, and electromechanical technologies but not including pumped hydroelectric facilities.

(3) "Renewable energy facility" has the same meaning as defined in Section 58-39-120(E).

(4) "Renewable energy resource" has the same meaning as "renewable generation resource" as defined in Section 58-39-120(F).

(B) Unless an electrical utility makes an application pursuant to subsection (G), electrical utilities shall file for commission approval a program for the competitive procurement of renewable energy resources and such amount of associated co-located energy storage facilities as determined by the commission to meet needs for new generation and energy storage resources identified by the electrical utility's integrated resource plan or other planning process. A competitive procurement program may be used to procure any subset of energy, capacity, ancillary services, and environmental and renewable attributes. The commission may not grant approval of the program unless it finds that the electrical utility has satisfied all the requirements of this section and that the proposed program is in the best interests of the customers of the electrical utility. Co-located energy storage facilities, if included in the solicitation, must be associated equipment located at the same site as the renewable energy facility.

(C) Electrical utilities shall procure renewable energy resources and co-located energy storage facilities, or the output of such facilities, subject to the following requirements:

(1) Renewable energy and co-located energy storage resources, or their output, procured by electrical utilities shall be procured via a competitive solicitation process open to all market participants that meet minimum eligibility requirements.

(2) The electrical utility shall issue public notice of its intention to issue a competitive renewable energy and co-located energy storage solicitation, or both, at least ninety days prior to the commencement of each solicitation. This notice must include the proposed procurement volume, process, and timeline.

(3) The electrical utility shall provide a reasonable period of time for interested parties to review and comment on proposed requests for proposals, bid instructions, and bid evaluation criteria, and for commission approval, prior to finalization and issuance.

(4) Renewable energy facilities eligible to participate in a competitive procurement are those that use renewable energy resources.

(5) Energy storage facilities eligible to participate in a competitive procurement are those identified in Section 58-42-20(A)(2) installed and operated in conjunction with a renewable energy facility.

(6) The electrical utility shall be required to use an independent evaluator or independent administrator to oversee or manage the competitive procurement, as determined appropriate by the commission.

(7) The procurement of renewable energy facilities and co-located energy storage facilities and the output of such facilities shall result in a reasonable balance of electrical utility and independent third-party ownership of eligible facilities, as determined by the commission. The electrical utility and its affiliates may offer proposals into the competitive procurement provided that appropriate safeguards are in place to ensure that such proposals do not receive any advantage in the bid evaluation process.

(D) An electrical utility shall make publicly available at least forty-five days prior to each competitive solicitation:

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

(1) A commission-approved pro forma contract to inform prospective market participants of the procurement terms and conditions. The pro forma contract must: (i) include standardized and commercially reasonable requirements for contract performance security consistent with market standards; and (ii) define limits and compensation for resource dispatch and curtailment.

(2) A bid and portfolio evaluation methodology that: (i) ensures all bids are treated equitably, including price and nonprice evaluation criteria; and (ii) ensures electrical utility and independent third-party owned facilities are treated equitably with regards to resource dispatch and curtailments.

(3) Interconnection requirements including specification of how bids without existing interconnection studies must be treated for purposes of evaluation.

(E) After bids are submitted and evaluated, final winning bids will be selected based upon the published evaluation methodology.

(F) An electrical utility shall issue a public report summarizing the results of each competitive solicitation within sixty days of the award notifications. The report shall include, at minimum, a summary of the submitted bids and an anonymized list of the project awards, including their size, location, average award price and tenor, and award price range. Electrical utilities are permitted to recover costs incurred through such competitive procurement through rates established pursuant to Section 58-27-865 or Section 58-27-870.

(G) Notwithstanding the requirements of Section 58-42-10 and this section, the commission shall approve an electrical utility's competitive procurement of energy storage facilities or renewable energy resources and the output of energy storage facilities or renewable energy resources within an electrical utility's balancing area outside of South Carolina that serve customers within South Carolina if eligible energy storage facilities or renewable energy resources located within South Carolina were allowed to participate in the competitive procurement and if the commission determines that the results of such procurement are in the public interest and enable the economic, reliable, and safe operation of the electric grid. Electrical utilities shall be permitted to recover costs incurred through such competitive procurements through rates established pursuant to Section 58-27-865 or Section 58-27-870. However, if the commission determines that the results of the procurement are not in the public interest for South Carolina, then the costs and benefits associated with such procurement shall be allocated away from South Carolina customers.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

(H) The commission is authorized to adopt rules or procedures for conducting a procurement authorized by this section.

Section 58-42-30. (A) Within six months from the date of the enactment of this chapter, the commission shall open a docket to establish a competitive procurement program for each electrical utility for energy storage facilities to be located in South Carolina. Solicitations shall be subject to the following limitations:

(1) For transmission-connected energy storage (excluding pumped hydro) the electrical utilities shall conduct a competitive procurement for such resources, including utility-self developed projects. Each electrical utility shall file the proposed details of its competitive procurement process no later than twelve months after the date of the enactment of this chapter.

(2) The target procurement volume for stand-alone storage acquisition may not exceed the portion of stand-alone storage in the most recent commission approved integrated resource plan or integrated resource plan annual update that is equal to the portion of the respective electrical utility's peak load attributable to South Carolina customers.

(3) Stand-alone energy storage facilities with a design capacity less than or equal to twenty megawatts and intended primarily to address local reliability improvements or local capacity constraints are not subject to the competitive procurement requirements of this section.

(4)(a) The procurement of stand-alone energy storage facilities shall result in a reasonable balance of the electrical utility and independent third-party ownership of eligible facilities, as determined by the commission.

(b) An electrical utility and its affiliates may offer proposals into the competitive procurement provided that appropriate safeguards are in place to ensure that such proposals do not receive any advantage in the bid evaluation process. Electrical utility costs associated with facilities owned by an independent third-party power producer shall be capitalized and included within the electrical utility's rate base for ratemaking purposes.

(B) Competitively procured stand-alone storage shall be subject to operational protocols, equipment specifications, and inspections established by the electric utility and which are necessary to ensure the reliability of the electrical utility system. Information regarding competitively procured stand-alone storage must be provided to the Office of Regulatory Staff.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

(C) Electrical utilities may recover costs incurred through such competitive procurement through rates established pursuant to Section 58-27-870.

Amendment No. 33

Senators CAMPSER, CHAPLIN, LEBER and STUBBS proposed the following amendment (SJ-3309.MB0011S), which was carried over and subsequently adopted:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, by adding appropriately numbered SECTIONS to read:

SECTION X.A. Chapter 29, Title 6 of the S.C. Code is amended by adding:

Section 6-29-1220. (A) For any county that has not adopted rural zoning or has not adopted ordinances establishing design and development standards for solar energy systems, and until such time as rural zoning or an ordinance for solar energy systems has been adopted, then the development and operation of solar energy systems that require a footprint of more than thirteen acres of land shall comply with the following design and development standards:

(1) Site plans shall be prepared by a licensed land surveyor, landscape architect, or engineer in the State of South Carolina. Plans must be sealed.

(2) Solar energy systems shall be set back fifty feet from adjoining property lines and road right of ways and two hundred feet from the nearest residence, church, or school. Setback distances are to the fence and are inclusive of the vegetation buffer.

(3) Solar structures shall not exceed fifteen feet in height. This provision shall not include the interconnection poles, substation equipment, or other devices necessary for the electricity to be delivered to the public utility station.

(4) Solar energy facilities shall be screened from adjacent public road rights of way, residences, churches, or schools with a vegetative buffer and fence or wall with the following specifications:

(a) a vegetative buffer shall be installed adjacent to the solar energy system farm;

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

(b) the vegetation shall be planted in two staggered rows at a spacing interval between eight feet and ten feet on center and reach at least six feet in height over a three-year growing season and not less than fifteen feet in height at maturity or two feet higher than the highest panel, whichever is greater; and

(c) the vegetation shall include low lying vegetation to fill gaps between taller vegetation.

(5) All lighting shall be shielded or directed in a downward position to prevent noxious glare. A light fixture is required at the ends of all turnarounds.

(6) Fencing shall be at least six feet in height to secure the perimeter. The fence shall be secure at all times.

(7) A warning sign concerning voltage must be placed at the main gate to include the address and name of the solar energy system operator and a twenty-four-hour phone number for the solar energy system in case of an emergency.

(8) Solar collectors shall be designed with anti-reflective coating to minimize glare. Textured glass is optional. Mirrors are prohibited.

(9) Submit and maintain an updated facility decommission plan consistent with the then current decommissioning requirements as required by the South Carolina Department of Environmental Services.

(B) Upon receipt of a completed solar energy system plan by a county subject to the provisions in (A), the county shall set a date for a public hearing and send, by first class mail, a notice of the application to all property owners within two thousand six hundred and forty feet of the proposed solar energy system. The notification shall include projected date of the public hearing to be held by the county. Public notification includes posting in the local newspaper and mail notice to residents postmarked at least thirty days prior to the public hearing.

(C) The Department of Environmental Services is charged with the enforcement of the provisions of this section. Upon the failure of the owner or operator that is given notice of violation of this section to remedy the violation within thirty days, the Department of Environmental Services may impose civil penalties and require remediation for violations of the provisions of this section. Penalties may be not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars for each day of noncompliance. Penalties may be waived by the department for good cause for noncompliance shown by the owner or operator.

B. This SECTION takes effect for projects approved by a county on or after January 1, 2026.

Senator CAMPSSEN explained the amendment.

On motion of Senator CAMPSSEN, the amendment was carried over.

Amendment No. 6A

Senator DAVIS proposed the following amendment (LC-3309.HA0062S), which was withdrawn:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, SECTION 24, by striking Section 58-4-160 and inserting:

~~Section 58-4-160. (A)(1) The Office of Regulatory Staff must conduct a study to evaluate the potential costs and benefits of the various administrator models for energy efficiency programs and other demand side management programs funded by, or potentially funded by, electrical utilities in this State. This study must be conducted on each electrical utility in this State. For purposes of this section, administrator models for energy efficiency programs shall include the following models: utility administrator, state or government agency administrator, an independent third party administrator, and a hybrid administrator.~~

~~—(2) For purposes of this section only, “electrical utility” means an investor owned electrical utility that serves more than 100,000 customers in this State.~~

~~—(B) This study must consider which administrator model would most meaningfully improve programs offered by the electrical utility.~~

~~—(C) The study must also evaluate which administrator model offers the best opportunities to increase cost and energy savings, improve the quality of services rendered, reduce ratepayer costs, or more effectively serve low income customers, within a program portfolio that is cost effective overall, as compared to similar program administration by individual electrical utilities, or to increase the cost effectiveness of energy efficiency program portfolios. This study must consider, but is not limited to, the following:~~

~~—(1) whether third party administration subject to a pay for performance contract and independent third party evaluation, measurement, and verification could reduce administrative costs, as compared to separate administration of energy efficiency programs by individual electrical utilities;~~

~~—(2) whether a system benefit charge or other funding or financing mechanism would more efficiently, effectively, and fairly fund energy~~

~~efficiency and other demand side management programs through an administrator;~~

~~— (3) which administrator model provides the best mechanism to increase ratepayer energy savings in the case of electrical utilities that have experienced lower historical performance in terms of annual and cumulative energy savings as a percentage of retail sales;~~

~~— (4) which administrator model provides the best mechanism to increase ratepayer energy savings in the case of electrical utilities that have experienced high historical performance in terms of annual and cumulative energy savings as a percentage of retail sales;~~

~~— (5) the legal and practical implications of implementing the various administrator models for an electrical utility with a multistate balancing authority area;~~

~~— (6) which administrator model could most enhance an electrical utility's delivery of nonenergy benefits, such as resiliency, reliability, health, economic development, industry retention, energy security, and pollution reduction; and~~

~~— (7) which administrator model could most effectively pursue nonratepayer funding including, but not limited to, federal, state, or local governmental support, as a means of either reducing reliance of ratepayer funds or increasing the scope, reach, or effectiveness of energy efficiency and demand side management programs.~~

~~— (D) This study must be conducted with public input from stakeholders through written comments and at least one public forum.~~

~~— (E) The Office of Regulatory Staff is authorized to retain the services of an expert or consultant with expertise and experience in the successful implementation of energy efficiency administrator programs. The Office of Regulatory Staff is exempt from the procurement code for the purposes of retaining services for this study.~~

~~— (F) The provisions of this section are subject to funding. However, the Office of Regulatory Staff must initiate the study within one year from receipt of necessary funding and complete its report within six months. Upon completion of this study, the Office of Regulatory Staff must provide its report to the General Assembly and the commission. This report may include a recommendation as to which administrator model should be established for each electrical utility, draft legislation, and requirements that should be established.~~

(A) For investor-owned utilities subject to the energy efficiency performance targets in Section 58-37-20(C):

(1) As part of the review conducted under Section 58-37-20(G), the commission shall review each electrical utility's energy efficiency

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

performance relative to the performance targets and requirements established in in Section 58-37-20(C) and 58-37-20(E). The commission is authorized to appoint a third party to serve as a third-party administrator to develop and implement the energy efficiency portfolio of behalf of investor-owned electrical utilities in South Carolina whose energy efficiency efforts fail to meet the performance target in Section 58-37-20(C) or the requirement to pursue all cost-effective energy efficiency under 58-37-20(E).

(2) Where the commission has authorized a third party to administer the energy efficiency programs for a public utility pursuant to Section 58-37-20(C) or 58-37-20(E), the commission shall open a proceeding to review and approve a transition plan and funding mechanism. Such proceeding shall include an opportunity for intervention, discovery, filed comments or testimony, and an evidentiary hearing. The commission must establish and the public utility shall collect a system benefit charge or similar funding mechanism to be imposed against end-use customers of each electrical utility. Such charge or mechanism shall replace any existing cost recovery mechanism used by a public utility to recover costs and incentives for energy efficiency programs, and it must be sufficient to cover the administrative and program costs necessary to design and implement the energy efficiency portfolio such that the portfolio meets the requirements of Sections 58-37-20(C) and Section 58-37-20(E). The utility and the third-party administrator must cooperatively develop a plan to transition implementation of a comprehensive program portfolio within one year while also ensuring customers have continuous access to energy efficiency program offerings during the transition period. The transition plan shall address how to coordinate energy efficiency program offerings with the design and implementation of an electrical utility's demand response programs.

(3) Any investor-owned utility with energy efficiency programs administered by a third party shall not be eligible for recovery of lost revenues or financial incentives under Section 58-37-20.

(B) For electrical cooperatives and the South Carolina Public Service Authority subject to the energy efficiency performance target in Section 58-37-20(I):

(1) No later than July 1, 2028, and every three years thereafter, the commission shall open a proceeding to review the annual evaluation, measurement, and verification reports filed by electrical cooperatives and the South Carolina Public Service Authority for the purpose of evaluating those utilities' energy efficiency performance relative to the performance targets and requirements established in Section 58-37-

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

20(I). The commission shall also determine whether to increase the energy efficiency savings target for the following three-year period.

(2) The commission is authorized to utilize a competitive process to solicit bids and appoint a third-party administrator to develop and implement a standardized energy efficiency portfolio on behalf of those utilities whose energy efficiency efforts have failed to meet the energy efficiency performance target in two of the prior three years. Electrical cooperatives with fewer than 5,000 members may voluntarily opt-in to participate in any such statewide program, once established.

(3) No later than six months after appointing a third-party administrator, the commission must conduct a proceeding to establish and approve:

(a) A system benefit charge or other funding or financing mechanism that participating utilities will be required to collect and impose against end-use customers. Any such charge or mechanism must be sufficient to cover the administrative and program costs necessary for the third-party administrator to design and implement an energy efficiency portfolio that meets the requirements of Section 58-4-160(B)(5). Except for shared administrative costs, the third-party administrator must ensure that funding recovered from a particular utility is used to deliver demand-side management programs to customers in that utility service territory.

(b) A plan to transition implementation of energy efficiency programs within one year while also ensuring customers have continuous access to energy efficiency program offerings during the transition period. Participating utilities and the third-party administrator must cooperatively develop and present this plan to the commission for approval.

(4) The commission shall hold a proceeding every three years, following the triennial proceeding in Section 58-4-160(B)(1), to evaluate the performance of the third-party administrator relative to any applicable energy efficiency performance targets, determine whether changes to the funding mechanism or amount are required, and establish a process to integrate participation by any utility failing to meet the applicable energy efficiency performance targets in the prior three-year period.

(5) The third-party administrator shall design and implement a demand-side management portfolio in order to cost-effectively meet or exceed applicable energy efficiency performance targets and in furtherance of the following goals:

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

(a) promoting and increasing the availability of energy efficiency programs for customers of all participating utilities;

(b) providing a standard portfolio of cost-effective energy efficiency programs that will ensure consistency in program availability for customers of participating utilities across the State;

(c) prioritizing programs that deliver persistent energy savings and meaningful long-term reductions in customer bills, particularly for low income households;

(d) providing training, education, and certification to promote a robust workforce of qualified energy efficiency contractors across the State.

The third-party administrator may seek out federal, state, or other funding sources available to improve or expand the availability of demand-side management programs or to reduce barriers to customer participation, to the extent allowed by law.

(6) The third-party administrator shall be fully independent from participating utilities and the design and implementation of programs under this section shall not be subject to utility oversight or direction. The third-party administrator must ensure that no employee or agent involved with the design or implementation of the portfolio has a conflict of interest due to a current or prior affiliation with any utility subject to the requirements of this subsection.

(C) Upon notice and hearings as the commission may require, the commission may issue rules, regulations, and orders pursuant to this chapter to implement applicable programs and measures under this section.

(D) The provisions of this section are subject to available funding.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 25, Section 58-37-10, by striking the undesignated paragraph and inserting:

In evaluating the cost-effectiveness of a program or portfolio, a utility or program administrator must present the results of all four tests. The total resource costs test must include, as part of customer benefits, a reasonable estimate of all significant customer cost savings that will likely result from the implementation of the program. In calculating cost-effectiveness, a utility must use a standard utility practice for determining the percentage of energy savings that would or would not have been achieved through customer adoption of an efficiency behavior or technology without any incentive allowed pursuant to this chapter to install and utilize the technology as part of the associated demand-side management program. The utility must designate the expected useful life of the measure and evaluate the costs and benefits of the measures over their useful lives in the program application based on industry accepted standards. Further, in calculating the cost-effectiveness, the commission must consider the efficiencies and scale of programs that are or may be available across a utility's balancing area, even if that balancing area extends outside of the state.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 25, by striking Section 58-37-10(4) and inserting:

~~—(4) “Demand-side management pilot program” means a demand-side management program that is of limited scope, cost, and duration and that is intended to determine whether a new or substantially revised program or technology would be cost-effective.~~

(4) "Percent of retail sales" or "percentage of retail sales," where used to describe energy savings levels in this chapter, means the proportion of annual net energy savings compared to total annual retail electric sales expressed as a percentage and consistent with data reported by the utility to the Energy Information Administration through Form 861.

Amend the bill further, SECTION 26, by striking Section 58-37-20(A), (B), (C), (D), (E), and (F) and inserting:

(A) The General Assembly declares that expanding utility investment in and customer access to cost-effective demand-side management programs will result in more efficient use of existing resources, promote lower energy costs, mitigate the increasing need for new generation and associated resources, and assist customers in managing their electricity usage to better control their electric bill, and is therefore in the public interest. Within its function of reviewing and regulating utility service, the Office of Regulatory Staff shall use its expertise to promote demand-side management program improvement, comprehensiveness, and customer access.

(B) The commission may approve any program filed by a public utility if the program is found to be cost-effective. Furthermore, the commission may, in its discretion, approve any program filed by a public utility that is not cost-effective, so long as the proposed demand-side management program is targeted to low-income customers, provided that the public utility's portfolio of demand-side management programs is cost-effective as a whole. The commission shall approve any program filed by a public utility if the evidence in the record supports a finding that the program is or is expected to be cost-effective, and may approve demand-side pilot programs that are of limited scope, cost, and duration to determine whether a new or substantially revised program or technology would be cost-effective. The commission may, in its discretion, approve any program filed by a public utility that is not cost-effective, so long as the proposed demand-side management program is targeted to low-income customers, provided that the public utility's portfolio of demand-side management programs is cost-effective as a whole. The commission may require the coordination of electric and gas utility programs to promote administrative efficiency, facilitate energy savings, and reduce complexity for home heating and air contractors, energy auditors, and other service providers, with a reasonable sharing of program costs among utilities. The commission shall prioritize energy savings measures that have a persistence greater than one year in order to count towards the performance targets. Demand-side management programs may be coordinated with distributed generation and other customer distributed energy resource programs, policies or tariffs.

~~(C)The South Carolina Public Service Commission may adopt procedures that encourage electrical utilities and public utilities providing gas services subject to the jurisdiction of the commission to invest in cost effective energy efficient technologies and energy conservation programs. If adopted, these procedures must: provide incentives and cost recovery for energy suppliers and distributors who invest in energy supply and end use technologies that are cost effective, environmentally acceptable, and reduce energy consumption or demand; allow energy suppliers and distributors to recover costs and obtain a reasonable rate of return on their investment in qualified demand side management programs sufficient to make these programs at least as financially attractive as construction of new generating facilities; require the Public Service Commission to establish rates and charges that ensure that the net income of an electrical or gas utility regulated by the commission after implementation of specific cost effective energy conservation measures is at least as high as the net income would have been if the energy conservation measures had not been implemented. For purposes of this section only, the term "demand side activity" means a program conducted by an electrical utility or public utility providing gas services for the reduction or more efficient use of energy requirements of the utility or its customers including, but not limited to, utility transmission and distribution system efficiency, customer conservation and efficiency, load management, cogeneration, and renewable energy technologies.~~

(1) By Dec. 31, 2027, each investor-owned electrical utility shall be required to achieve an energy efficiency performance target of 0.66 percent of retail sales. This performance target is a minimum and does not limit the obligation to pursue all cost-effective energy efficiency and demand-side resources in accordance with the requirements of Section

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

58-37-20(E). After a period of three years, the commission shall hold a proceeding to determine whether it is appropriate to increase or maintain this energy efficiency performance target.

(2) By July 1, 2026, the commission shall open a proceeding to determine whether it is also appropriate to establish a demand response performance target for each of the state's investor-owned electrical utilities.

(D) Failure to meet the energy efficiency performance targets as outlined in Section 58-37-20(C) qualifies as a failure of the utility to make every reasonable effort to minimize fuel costs as outlined in Section 58-27-865(F) and the commission shall grant a proportional disallowance based on evidence in record.

(E) The commission must adopt procedures that require electrical utilities and public utilities providing gas services subject to the jurisdiction of the commission to plan for and invest in all cost-effective, reasonable, prudent, and available energy efficiency and demand-side resources. If an electrical utility fails to meet the requirements of this section as determined by the commission, the commission is authorized to appoint a third-party administrator pursuant to the provisions of Section 58-4-160 to carry out the electrical utility's energy efficiency duties pursuant to this section on behalf of the electrical utility. Upon such notice and hearings that the commission may require, the commission may issue rules, regulations, or orders pursuant to this chapter to implement applicable programs and measures under this section. If adopted, these procedures must: provide incentives and cost recovery for energy suppliers and distributors who invest in energy supply and end-use technologies that are cost-effective, environmentally acceptable, and reduce energy consumption or system or local coincident peak demand; allow energy suppliers and distributors to recover costs and obtain a reasonable rate of return on their investment in qualified demand-side management programs sufficient to make these programs at least as financially attractive as construction of new generating facilities; require the commission to establish rates and charges that ensure that the net income of an electrical or gas utility regulated by the commission after implementation of specific cost-effective energy conservation measures is at least as high as the net income would have been if the energy conservation measures had not been implemented, except as provided in Section 58-4-160(C).

~~(D)~~(F) Each investor-owned electrical utility must submit an annual report to the commission describing the demand-side management programs implemented by the electrical utility in the previous year.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

provided the program has been operational for a reasonable period of time, as well as the results of such programs. The commission may require certain information including, but not limited to This annual report must include:

(1) net achieved savings levels from the utility's portfolio of programs in the prior year, reported as a percentage of the utility's annual sales;

(2) program expenditures, including incentive payments;

(3) peak demand and energy savings impacts and the techniques used to estimate those impacts;

(4) avoided costs and the techniques used to estimate those costs;

(5) estimated cost-effectiveness of the demand-side management programs;

(6) a description of economic benefits of the demand-side management programs;

(7) the number of customers eligible to opt-out of the electrical utility's demand-side management programs, the percentage of those customers that opted-out in the previous year, and the annual sales associated with those opt-out customers; and

(8) any other information required by the commission.

(E)(G) To ensure prudent investments by an electrical utility in energy efficiency and demand response, as compared to potential investments in generation, transmission, distribution, and other supply related utility equipment and resources, the commission must review each investor-owned electrical utility's portfolio of demand-side management programs on at least a triennial basis to align the review of that utility's integrated resource plan pursuant to Section 58-37-40. The commission is authorized to order modifications to an electrical utility's demand-side management portfolio, including program budgets, if the commission determines that doing so in the public interest.

(F)(H) The provisions of subsections (C), (D), and (E)(E), (F), and (G) do not apply to an electrical utility that serves less than 100,000 customers in this State.

(I) Beginning July 1, 2026, electrical cooperatives with more than 5,000 members and the South Carolina Public Service Authority shall be required to achieve an annual energy efficiency performance target of 0.50 percent of retail sales. Beginning July 1, 2027, these utilities must file with the commission on an annual basis an evaluation, measurement, and verification report from an independent third-party evaluator demonstrating compliance with this energy efficiency performance target or any subsequent target approved by the commission.

Senator MASSEY asked unanimous consent to withdraw Amendment No. 19A and substitute it with Amendment No. 19B.

Amendment No. 19B

Senators MASSEY, CAMPSER, PEELER, CORBIN and BLACKMON proposed the following amendment (LC-3309.HA0093S), which was adopted:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, by adding appropriately numbered SECTIONS to read:

SECTION X. Chapter 27, Title 58 of the S.C. Code is amended by adding:

Section 58-27-835. (A) For purposes of this section only:

(1) "Commercial data center" means a facility, campus of facilities, or array of interconnected facilities in this State used by an entity or other business enterprise to operate, manage, or maintain a computer, group of computers, or other organized assembly of hardware and software for the primary purpose of storing, retrieving, or transmitting data and that has a peak demand of one hundred megawatts or greater.

(2) "Electric service provider" means an electrical utility, consolidated political subdivisions, electric cooperatives, and the Public Service Authority.

(B) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, an electric service provider shall require additional terms and conditions of electric service including, without limitation, rates, charges, minimum billing requirements, and longer terms of contract, designed to ensure all costs associated with serving or preparing to serve commercial data centers are recovered solely, or at least substantially, from commercial data centers. These terms and conditions shall include, at a minimum:

(1) a contract term of at least fifteen years;

(2) minimum billing requirements;

(3) a requirement that the commercial data center, upon termination of its contract for electric service, pay any unrecovered costs incurred in serving or preparing to serve the commercial data center including, but not limited to, distribution, transmission, and generation costs associated with the provision of electric service to the commercial data center;

(4) collateral from the commercial data center to be paid to the electric service provider in the event the commercial data center terminates its contract prior to the contract expiration date. The electric service provider must maintain this collateral in a separate account. In the event the account earns any interest, that interest amount must be applied towards the commercial data center's outstanding costs, less any administrative fees the electric service provider may have incurred due to the account; and

(5) a requirement that the commercial data center, upon termination of its contract for electric service, pay any unrecovered costs incurred in serving or preparing to serve the commercial data center to the electric service provider. This must include, but not be limited to, distribution, transmission, and generation costs associated with the provision of electric service to the commercial data center.

(C) Any contract pursuant to this section must be approved by the Public Service Commission. Before the commission may approve a contract, it must determine that the contract meets the requirements of this section and that costs associated with increased fuel requirements, generation costs, and transmission costs that: (i) are substantially related to the provision of electric services to the commercial data center; and (ii) would not have been incurred but for the electric demand of such commercial data center, shall be recovered solely by the electric service provider from the commercial data center.

(D) The provisions of this section shall not apply to a commercial data center that is a customer of an electric service provider in this State as of May 15, 2025.

SECTION X.A. Section 12-36-2120(65) of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

(65)(a) computer equipment, as defined in subitem (c) of this item, used in connection with a technology intensive facility as defined in Section 12-6-3360(M)(14)(b), where:

(i) the taxpayer invests at least three hundred million dollars in real or personal property or both comprising or located at the facility over a five-year period;

(ii) the taxpayer creates at least one hundred new full-time jobs at the facility during that five-year period, and the average cash compensation of at least one hundred of the new full-time jobs is one hundred fifty percent of the per capita income of the State according to the most recently published data available at the time the facility's construction starts; ~~and~~

(iii) at least sixty percent of the three hundred million dollars minimum investment consists of computer equipment; and

(iv) the taxpayer enters into a fee in lieu agreement on or before May 15, 2025, and any subsequent renewal of that agreement;

(b) computer equipment, as defined in subitem (c) of this item, used in connection with a manufacturing facility, where:

(i) the taxpayer invests at least seven hundred fifty million dollars in real or personal property or both comprising or located at the facility over a seven-year period; and

(ii) the taxpayer creates at least three thousand eight hundred full-time new jobs at the facility during that seven-year period.

As used in this subitem, "taxpayer" includes a person who bears a relationship to the taxpayer as described in Section 267(b) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(c) For the purposes of this item, "computer equipment" means original or replacement servers, routers, switches, power units, network devices, hard drives, processors, memory modules, motherboards, racks, other computer hardware and components, cabling, cooling apparatus, and related or ancillary equipment, machinery, and components, the primary purpose of which is to store, retrieve, aggregate, search, organize, process, analyze, or transfer data or any combination of these, or to support related computer engineering or computer science research.

(d) These exemptions apply from the start of the investment in or construction of the technology intensive facility or the manufacturing facility. The taxpayer shall notify the Department of Revenue of its use of the exemption provided in this item on or before the first sales tax return filed with the department after the first such use. Upon receipt of the notification, the department shall issue an appropriate exemption certificate to the taxpayer to be used for qualifying purposes under this item. Within six months after the fifth anniversary of the taxpayer's first use of this exemption, the taxpayer shall notify the department in writing that it has or has not met the investment and job requirements of this item by the end of that five-year period. Once the department certifies that the taxpayer has met the investment and job requirements, all subsequent purchases of or investments in computer equipment, including to replace originally deployed computer equipment or to implement future expansions, likewise shall qualify for the exemption described above, regardless of when the taxpayer makes the investments.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

(e) The department may assess any tax due on property purchased tax free pursuant to this item but due the State if the taxpayer subsequently fails timely to meet the investment and job requirements of this item after being granted the exemption; for purposes of determining whether the taxpayer has timely satisfied the investment requirement, replacement computer equipment counts toward the investment requirement to the extent that the value of the replacement computer equipment exceeds the cost of the computer equipment so replaced, but, provided the taxpayer otherwise qualifies for the exemption, the full value of the replacement computer equipment is exempt from sales and use tax. The running of the periods of limitation within which the department may assess taxes provided pursuant to Section 12-54-85 is suspended during the time period beginning with the taxpayer's first use of this exemption and ending with the later of the fifth anniversary of first use or notice to the department that the taxpayer either has met or has not met the investment and job requirements of this item;

B. Section 12-36-2120(66) of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

(66) electricity used by a technology intensive facility as defined in Section 12-6-3360(M)(14)(b) and qualifying, on or before May 15, 2025, for the sales tax exemption provided pursuant to item (65) of this section, and the equipment and raw materials including, without limitation, fuel used by such qualifying facility to generate, transform, transmit, distribute, or manage electricity for use in such a facility. The running of the periods of limitation within which the department may assess taxes pursuant to Section 12-54-85 is suspended during the same time period it is suspended in item (65)(d) of this section;

C. Section 12-36-2120(79) of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

(79)(A)(1) original or replacement computers, computer equipment, and computer hardware and software purchases used within a datacenter; and

(2) electricity used by a datacenter and eligible business property to be located and used at the datacenter. This subsubitem does not apply to sales of electricity for any other purpose, and such sales are subject to the tax, including, but not limited to, electricity used in administrative offices, supervisory offices, parking lots, storage warehouses, maintenance shops, safety control, comfort air conditioning, elevators used in carrying personnel, cafeterias, canteens, first aid rooms, supply rooms, water coolers, drink boxes, unit heaters and waste house lights.

(B) As used in this section:

(2) “Computer equipment” means original or replacement servers, routers, switches, power units, network devices, hard drives, processors, memory modules, motherboards, racks, other computer hardware and components, cabling, cooling apparatus, and related or ancillary equipment, machinery, and components, the primary purpose of which is to store, retrieve, aggregate, search, organize, process, analyze, or transfer data or any combination of these, or to support related computer engineering or computer science research. This also includes equipment cooling systems for managing the performance of the datacenter property, including mechanical and electrical equipment, hardware for distributed and mainframe computers and servers, data storage devices, network connectivity equipment, and peripheral components and systems.

(3) “Computer software” means a set of coded instructions designed to cause a computer or automatic data processing equipment to perform a task.

(5) “Datacenter” means a new or existing facility at a single location in South Carolina:

(i) that provides infrastructure for hosting or data processing services and that has power and cooling systems that are created and maintained to be concurrently maintainable and to include redundant capacity components and multiple distribution paths serving the computer equipment at the facility. Although the facility must have multiple distribution paths serving the computer equipment, a single distribution path may serve the computer equipment at any one time;

(ii)(a) where a taxpayer invests at least fifty million dollars in real or personal property or both over a five-year period; or

(b) where one or more taxpayers invests a minimum aggregate capital investment of at least seventy-five million dollars in real or personal property or both over a five-year period;

(iii) where a taxpayer creates and maintains at least twenty-five full-time jobs at the facility with an average cash compensation level of one hundred fifty percent of the per capita income of the State or of the county in which the facility is located, whichever is lower, according to the most recently published data available at the time the facility is certified by the Department of Commerce;

(8) “Redundant capacity components” means components beyond those required to support the computer equipment.

(C)(1) To qualify for the exemption allowed by this item, a taxpayer, and the facility in the case of a seventy-five million dollar investment made by more than one taxpayer, shall, on or before May 15, 2025, notify the Department of Revenue and Department of Commerce, in writing, of its intention to claim the exemption. For purposes of meeting the requirements of subitems (B)(5)(ii) and (B)(5)(iii), capital investment and job creation begin accruing once the taxpayer notifies each department. Also, the five-year period begins upon notification.

(2) Once the taxpayer meets the requirements of subitem (B)(5), or at the end of the five-year period, the taxpayer shall notify the Department of Revenue, in writing, whether it has or has not met the requirements of subitem (B)(5). The taxpayer shall provide the proof the department determines necessary to determine that the requirements have been met.

(D)(1) Upon notifying each department of its intention to claim the exemption pursuant to subitem (C)(1), and upon certification by the Department of Commerce, the taxpayer may claim the exemption on eligible purchases at any time during the period provided in Section 12-54-85(F), including the time period prior to subitem (B)(5)(iv) being satisfied.

(2) For purposes of this section, the running of the periods of limitations for assessment of taxes provided in Section 12-54-85 is suspended for:

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

(i) the time period beginning with notice to each department pursuant to subitem (C)(1) and ending with notice to the Department of Revenue pursuant to subitem (C)(2); and

(ii) during the three-year job maintenance requirement pursuant to subitem (B)(5)(iv).

(E) Any subsequent purchase of or investment in computer equipment, computer hardware and software, and computers, including to replace originally deployed computer equipment or to implement future expansions, likewise shall qualify for the exemption provided in this subitem, regardless of when the taxpayer makes the investments.

(F)(1) If a taxpayer receives the exemption for purchases but fails to meet the requirements of subitem (B)(5) at the end of the five-year period, the department may assess any state or local sales or use tax due on items purchased.

(2) If a taxpayer meets the requirements of subitem (B)(5), but subsequently fails to maintain the number of full-time jobs with the required compensation level at the facility, as previously required pursuant to subitem (B)(5)(iii), the taxpayer is:

(i) not allowed the exemption for items described in subitem (A)(1) until the taxpayer meets the previous qualifying jobs requirements pursuant to subitem (B)(5)(iii); and

(ii) allowed the exemption for electricity pursuant to subitem (A)(2), but the exemption only applies to a percentage of the sale price, calculated by dividing the number of qualifying jobs by twenty-five.

(G) This subitem only applies to a datacenter that is certified by the Department of Commerce pursuant to subitem (D)(1) prior to ~~January 1, 2032~~ May 15, 2030. (13) "Renewable electric generation facility" means a facility generating electric power from solar photovoltaic resources, wind resources, hydroelectric resources, geothermal resources, tidal and wave energy resources, hydrogen fuel derived from renewable resources, combined heat and power derived from renewable resources, or biomass resources, or any combination thereof. Renewable electric generation facility also includes an electrical energy storage system, if the energy so stored is generated from one of the resources enumerated above.

(A) An eligible customer shall be permitted to purchase all or part of its electricity demand from a third-party electric supplier in accordance with the terms of this chapter and federal laws and regulations. An eligible customer shall also be permitted to obtain all or part of its electricity demand from customer-sited generation.

(B) In the event an eligible customer either chooses to obtain: (1) all or part of its electric demand from a third-party electric supplier; or (2) at least half of its electric demand as customer-sited generation, the eligible customer and the incumbent electric supplier must enter into a contract. This contract must provide, at a minimum:

(1) the amount of electricity the eligible customer will receive from the third-party electric supplier and detailed arrangements for its energy needs to be provided by the third-party electric supplier;

(2) if the eligible customer chooses to receive part of its electricity from the incumbent electric supplier, a firm electricity demand that the eligible customer will receive from the incumbent electric supplier and the term of the eligible customer’s commitment to purchase that amount from the incumbent electric supplier;

(3) conditions for which the incumbent electric supplier may curtail or suspend service to the eligible customer;

(4) rates and terms for transmission service provided by the incumbent electric supplier, including, but not limited to, necessary transmission and ancillary services; and

(C) In the event an eligible customer chooses to meet at least half of its peak electric demand through customer-supplied power, the eligible customer and the incumbent electric supplier must enter into a contract. This contract must provide, at a minimum:

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

(1) details regarding the electricity to be provided by the customer-supplied power, including the amount of electricity to be generated by the eligible customer;

(2) if the eligible customer chooses to receive part of its electricity from the incumbent electric supplier, a firm electricity demand that the eligible customer will receive from the incumbent electric supplier and the term of the eligible customer's commitment to purchase that amount from the incumbent electric supplier;

(3) conditions for which the incumbent electric supplier may curtail or suspend service to the eligible customer;

(4) rates, terms, and conditions for services provided by the incumbent electric supplier; and

(5) terms requiring the eligible customer to relieve the incumbent electric supplier from its obligation to provide electricity for the amount to be provided by the customer-supplied power, including the incumbent electric supplier's obligation to maintain reserves for the customer.

(D) In the event an eligible customer chooses to obtain all or part of its electric demand from a third-party electric supplier or customer-supplied power, the eligible customer shall be responsible for ensuring that portion of its energy needs are met. The incumbent electric supplier shall be relieved of its obligation to provide energy to the eligible customer in accordance with the terms of the contract described in subsection (B) or (C). However, the eligible customer and the incumbent electric supplier may agree to contractual terms in which the incumbent electric supplier may supply energy to the eligible customer if the third-party electric supplier or customer-supplied power is unable to meet the eligible customer's electricity demands.

Section 58-32-30. An eligible customer that utilizes a third-party electric supplier must provide arrangements for firm transmission from the third-party electric supplier in order to have its electricity delivered from the third-party electric supplier's sources to the incumbent electric supplier's transmission system. The incumbent electric supplier shall cooperate with the third-party electric supplier to provide reasonable terms of transmission service, consistent with industry standards, the Open Access Transmission Tariff, and applicable business practices.

Section 58-32-40. The incumbent electric supplier shall not be liable for any costs associated with the eligible customer's service of electricity from a third-party electric supplier, including transmission service from the third-party electric supplier. The incumbent electric supplier shall be responsible for transmission to the eligible customer for electricity on the incumbent electric supplier's transmission system.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 2025

Section 58-32-50. The incumbent electric supplier must place an eligible customer who chooses to obtain electricity from a third-party electric supplier on a separate circuit so that the incumbent electric supplier can curtail or shut down its electric supply to the eligible customer in accordance with the terms of the agreement. The eligible customer shall pay all costs associated with its circuit.

Section 58-32-60. In the event an eligible customer requires transmission upgrades, that eligible customer must pay the initial costs for the upgrade. A determination must be made, in accordance with federal laws and regulations, as to whether the transmission upgrade solely benefits the eligible customer or if the upgrade benefits others who the incumbent electric supplier serves. If the transmission upgrade benefits more customers than solely the eligible customer, in terms of electric service, the incumbent electric supplier and the eligible customer may agree for the incumbent electric supplier to reimburse the eligible customer for a period of not more than twenty years.

Section 58-32-70. In the event the incumbent electric supplier factored an eligible customer's energy demand into its planning for electric generation or transmission and that eligible customer leaves the incumbent electric supplier's territory, the eligible customer must continue to pay for capital construction costs until the amount the eligible customer would have been responsible for is paid in full or another customer assumes the amount. The commission must determine the eligible customer's financial obligation to the incumbent electric supplier in a manner ensures that there is no adverse effect or increase in residential or other commercial or industrial electric rates.

Section 58-32-80. The commission must review any proposed contract pursuant to this chapter to ensure it meets the requirements of state and federal laws, rules and regulations.

Motion Adopted

On motion of Senator MASSEY, under Rule 26B, the Senate agreed to take up a further amendment on third reading.

THURSDAY, APRIL 3, 2025

Amendment No. 38A

Senator MASSEY proposed the following amendment (LC-3309.HA0104S), which was adopted:

Amend the bill, as and if amended, by striking SECTION 45 and inserting:

SECTION 45.A. Section 12-36-2120(65) of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

(65)(a) computer equipment, as defined in subitem (c) of this item, used in connection with a technology intensive facility as defined in Section 12-6-3360(M)(14)(b), where:

(i) the taxpayer invests at least three hundred million dollars in real or personal property or both comprising or located at the facility over a five-year period;

(ii) the taxpayer creates at least one hundred new full-time jobs at the facility during that five-year period, and the average cash compensation of at least one hundred of the new full-time jobs is one hundred fifty percent of the per capita income of the State according to the most recently published data available at the time the facility's construction starts;~~and~~

(iii) at least sixty percent of the three hundred million dollars minimum investment consists of computer equipment; and

(iv) the taxpayer enters into a fee in lieu agreement on or before May 30, 2025, and any subsequent renewal of that agreement.

(b) computer equipment, as defined in subitem (c) of this item, used in connection with a manufacturing facility, where:

(i) the taxpayer invests at least seven hundred fifty million dollars in real or personal property or both comprising or located at the facility over a seven-year period; and

(ii) the taxpayer creates at least three thousand eight hundred full-time new jobs at the facility during that seven-year period.

As used in this subitem, "taxpayer" includes a person who bears a relationship to the taxpayer as described in Section 267(b) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(c) For the purposes of this item, "computer equipment" means original or replacement servers, routers, switches, power units, network devices, hard drives, processors, memory modules, motherboards, racks, other computer hardware and components, cabling, cooling apparatus, and related or ancillary equipment, machinery, and components, the primary purpose of which is to store, retrieve, aggregate, search, organize, process, analyze, or transfer data or any combination of these, or to support related computer engineering or computer science research.

THURSDAY, APRIL 3, 2025

(d) These exemptions apply from the start of the investment in or construction of the technology intensive facility or the manufacturing facility. The taxpayer shall notify the Department of Revenue of its use of the exemption provided in this item on or before the first sales tax return filed with the department after the first such use. Upon receipt of the notification, the department shall issue an appropriate exemption certificate to the taxpayer to be used for qualifying purposes under this item. Within six months after the fifth anniversary of the taxpayer's first use of this exemption, the taxpayer shall notify the department in writing that it has or has not met the investment and job requirements of this item by the end of that five-year period. Once the department certifies that the taxpayer has met the investment and job requirements, all subsequent purchases of or investments in computer equipment, including to replace originally deployed computer equipment or to implement future expansions, likewise shall qualify for the exemption described above, regardless of when the taxpayer makes the investments.

(e) The department may assess any tax due on property purchased tax free pursuant to this item but due the State if the taxpayer subsequently fails timely to meet the investment and job requirements of this item after being granted the exemption; for purposes of determining whether the taxpayer has timely satisfied the investment requirement, replacement computer equipment counts toward the investment requirement to the extent that the value of the replacement computer equipment exceeds the cost of the computer equipment so replaced, but, provided the taxpayer otherwise qualifies for the exemption, the full value of the replacement computer equipment is exempt from sales and use tax. The running of the periods of limitation within which the department may assess taxes provided pursuant to Section 12-54-85 is suspended during the time period beginning with the taxpayer's first use of this exemption and ending with the later of the fifth anniversary of first use or notice to the department that the taxpayer either has met or has not met the investment and job requirements of this item;

B. Section 12-36-2120(66) of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

(66) electricity used by a technology intensive facility as defined in Section 12-6-3360(M)(14)(b) and qualifying, on or before May 30, 2025, for the sales tax exemption provided pursuant to item (65) of this section, and the equipment and raw materials including, without limitation, fuel used by such qualifying facility to generate, transform, transmit, distribute, or manage electricity for use in such a facility. The running of the periods of limitation within which the department may assess taxes

THURSDAY, APRIL 3, 2025

pursuant to Section 12-54-85 is suspended during the same time period it is suspended in item (65)(d) of this section;

C. Section 12-36-2120(79) of the S.C. Code is amended to read:

(79)(A)(1) original or replacement computers, computer equipment, and computer hardware and software purchases used within a datacenter; and

(2) electricity used by a datacenter and eligible business property to be located and used at the datacenter. This subsubitem does not apply to sales of electricity for any other purpose, and such sales are subject to the tax, including, but not limited to, electricity used in administrative offices, supervisory offices, parking lots, storage warehouses, maintenance shops, safety control, comfort air conditioning, elevators used in carrying personnel, cafeterias, canteens, first aid rooms, supply rooms, water coolers, drink boxes, unit heaters and waste house lights.

(B) As used in this section:

(1) “Computer” means an electronic device that accepts information in digital or similar form and manipulates it for a result based on a sequence of instructions.

(2) “Computer equipment” means original or replacement servers, routers, switches, power units, network devices, hard drives, processors, memory modules, motherboards, racks, other computer hardware and components, cabling, cooling apparatus, and related or ancillary equipment, machinery, and components, the primary purpose of which is to store, retrieve, aggregate, search, organize, process, analyze, or transfer data or any combination of these, or to support related computer engineering or computer science research. This also includes equipment cooling systems for managing the performance of the datacenter property, including mechanical and electrical equipment, hardware for distributed and mainframe computers and servers, data storage devices, network connectivity equipment, and peripheral components and systems.

(3) “Computer software” means a set of coded instructions designed to cause a computer or automatic data processing equipment to perform a task.

(4) “Concurrently maintainable” means capable of having any capacity component or distribution element serviced or repaired on a planned basis without interrupting or impeding the performance of the computer equipment.

(5) “Datacenter” means a new or existing facility at a single location in South Carolina:

THURSDAY, APRIL 3, 2025

(i) that provides infrastructure for hosting or data processing services and that has power and cooling systems that are created and maintained to be concurrently maintainable and to include redundant capacity components and multiple distribution paths serving the computer equipment at the facility. Although the facility must have multiple distribution paths serving the computer equipment, a single distribution path may serve the computer equipment at any one time;

(ii)(a) where a taxpayer invests at least fifty million dollars in real or personal property or both over a five year period; or

(b) where one or more taxpayers invests a minimum aggregate capital investment of at least seventy-five million dollars in real or personal property or both over a five year period;

(iii) where a taxpayer creates and maintains at least twenty-five full-time jobs at the facility with an average cash compensation level of one hundred fifty percent of the per capita income of the State or of the county in which the facility is located, whichever is lower, according to the most recently published data available at the time the facility is certified by the Department of Commerce;

(iv) where the jobs created pursuant to subitem (B)(5)(iii) are maintained for three consecutive years after a facility with the minimum capital investment and number of jobs has been certified by the Department of Commerce; and

(v) which is certified by the Department of Commerce pursuant to subitem (D)(1) under such policies and procedures as promulgated by the Department of Commerce.

(6) “Eligible business property” means property used for the generation, transformation, transmission, distribution, or management of electricity, including exterior substations and other business personal property used for these purposes.

(7) “Multiple distribution paths” means a series of distribution paths configured to ensure that failure on one distribution path does not interrupt or impede other distribution paths.

(8) “Redundant capacity components” means components beyond those required to support the computer equipment.

(C)(1) To qualify for the exemption allowed by this item, a taxpayer, and the facility in the case of a seventy-five million dollar investment made by more than one taxpayer, shall, on or before May 30, 2025, notify the Department of Revenue and Department of Commerce, in writing, of its intention to claim the exemption. For purposes of meeting the requirements of subitems (B)(5)(ii) and (B)(5)(iii), capital investment and job creation begin accruing once the taxpayer notifies each department. Also, the five-year period begins upon notification.

(2) Once the taxpayer meets the requirements of subitem (B)(5), or at the end of the five-year period, the taxpayer shall notify the Department of Revenue, in writing, whether it has or has not met the requirements of subitem (B)(5). The taxpayer shall provide the proof the department determines necessary to determine that the requirements have been met.

(D)(1) Upon notifying each department of its intention to claim the exemption pursuant to subitem (C)(1), and upon certification by the Department of Commerce, the taxpayer may claim the exemption on eligible purchases at any time during the period provided in Section 12-54-85(F), including the time period prior to subitem (B)(5)(iv) being satisfied.

(2) For purposes of this section, the running of the periods of limitations for assessment of taxes provided in Section 12-54-85 is suspended for:

(i) the time period beginning with notice to each department pursuant to subitem (C)(1) and ending with notice to the Department of Revenue pursuant to subitem (C)(2); and

(ii) during the three year job maintenance requirement pursuant to subitem (B)(5)(iv).

(E) Any subsequent purchase of or investment in computer equipment, computer hardware and software, and computers, including to replace originally deployed computer equipment or to implement future expansions, likewise shall qualify for the exemption provided in this subitem, regardless of when the taxpayer makes the investments.

(F)(1) If a taxpayer receives the exemption for purchases but fails to meet the requirements of subitem (B)(5) at the end of the five-year period, the department may assess any state or local sales or use tax due on items purchased.

(2) If a taxpayer meets the requirements of subitem (B)(5), but subsequently fails to maintain the number of full-time jobs with the required compensation level at the facility, as previously required pursuant to subitem (B)(5)(iii), the taxpayer is:

(i) not allowed the exemption for items described in subitem (A)(1) until the taxpayer meets the previous qualifying jobs requirements pursuant to subitem (B)(5)(iii); and

THURSDAY, APRIL 3, 2025

(G) This subitem only applies to a datacenter that is certified by the Department of Commerce pursuant to subitem (D)(1) prior to ~~January 1, 2032~~ May 30, 2030. However, this item shall continue to apply to a taxpayer that is certified by ~~December 31, 2031~~ May 29, 2030, for an additional ten-year period.
